Dear Dr. Henney:

2391 '00 AUG 16 P2:14

I am writing to urge the FDA to ban animal uses of growth promoting antibiotics, which are also used in human medicine.

I am very concerned that feeding animals antibiotics will prove to be a human medical disaster as super bacteria develop which will no longer respond to antibiotics.

In Europe this use of antibiotics has already been banned, and meat producers were able to adapt. In any case the profits of a small segment of society should not put at risk the health of all members of society.

Thank you:

Sincerely yours:

Ellen Dollar
