Re: Docket #OOP-1211/CP1

Dear Commissioner Henney:

Even your own scientists have concluded that genetically engineered plants may very well increase levels of toxicants, create new toxicants, or alter nutrient levels in foods. Despite that, you still require NO MANDATORY SAFETY TESTING for genetically engineered foods prior to marketing. Currently there are at least 46 of these foods being sold in America; they have no labeling or pre-market safety testing.

We want these so-called foods to be tested and labeled so we know what we are buying. We consider it a must - and so should you!

Very truly yours,

J. W. Eitelgeorge, President
