Dear Secretary Shalala,

The Food and Drug Administration may shortly propose changes to the way hearing aids are sold that could impede access to hearing care services for millions of our nations seniors. This would be a mistake. As the AARP's new hearing aid guide reports: only about 20% of the nations 28 million hearing impaired, who could benefit from a hearing aid, actually use one.

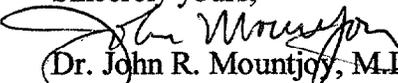

I am a Doctor of Otolaryngology. For over 30 years, I have provided hearing health care services to hundreds of our state's hearing impaired. Presently, all three members of the hearing health care delivery team (hearing aid specialist, audiologists and physicians) are recognized as qualified entry points into the hearing health care delivery system. The rule FDA is advocating could, by allowing the states to determine who is qualified to test hearing and fit hearing aids, impede access by eliminating one or more of these three entry points.

Allowing any one provider "gatekeeper" status, without unqualified medical data evidencing that such role is necessary for public health reasons, would severely undermine public health and safety, impede access to needed hearing health care services and increase costs to the hearing impaired.

Please write to the Secretary of Health and urge that this FDA proposed hearing aid rule be withdrawn.

I look forward to your response and would appreciate a copy of any letter you may send on my behalf.

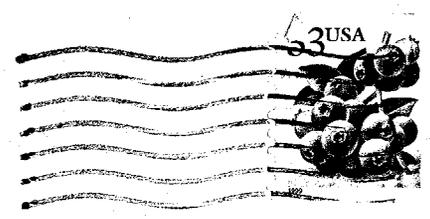

Sincerely yours,

Dr. John R. Mountjoy, M.D., Otolaryngology
