RE: Antibiotic Use on Livestock

Dear Commissioner Henney:

I urge you and the FDA to ban the use of antibiotics on livestock and in livestock feed. Such practices can make bacteria resistant to antibiotics; the long-term consequences could be severe. The use of antibiotics and growth hormones has caused my wife to become a vegetarian. I do not wholly support a vegetarian diet from a nutrition point of view, but her case has severe merit from an overall health point of view.

Please do what is right, and let's start raising animals the natural way.

Thank You,

Don A. Wilks
