Dear Ms Henney:

I am writing in regard to the warning concerning OLESTRA in all Products, and have written numerous letters regarding this. I certainly Do know by experience that there should be a "large warning" on all Products containing this substance. I had a very unpleasant experience And was on medication for what it was doing to me before I remembered That there was such a precaution that I had read of some time past. On Ceasing use, my problem left. While I may be one of the ones unusually Sensitive, I do hope that you will see that this warning is prominently Displayed for those who are sensitive. It caused me much discomfort.

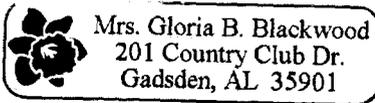

Had my Doctor asked me the question "are you eating olestra?" I would Have been spared medication and discomfort. Apparently " he had not Gotten the message either.

I, of course , will not eat a product containing this knowingly, but I Do have a concern for my fellow human being, and that is why I Write, and have been involved in writing my experience.

Most sincerely,

Gloria B. Blackwood
