Dear Janet Henney, M.D.,

I can't believe that some companies are trying to remove the warnings on packages from Olean. My husband and my son had a terrible reaction to the product. They both experienced severe abdominal cramps and diarrhea after consuming some WOW potato chips. We could find no other reason for the symptoms as I had eaten everything except the potato chips. We have never given my son the chips again, however my husband tried them again and had the same reaction. I believe people should be informed of the side affects these products carry. My families symptoms were severe and we will never buy this product again.

Sincerely,

Shari Milliano
