Docket No. 00P-1211/CP1
FDA Dockets Management Branch (HFA-305)

Rockville, MD 20852

Please know of my deep concerns about genetically engineered foods. I don't feel GE foods have been studied enough to know what hazards they are creating for consumers and for the environment.

If you have eaten bananas recently, you may suspect, as I do, they may have been crossed with something. The skins are tough as leather, the ribs inside are like ropes and even the seeds are disgustingly dark and slick. How would I know what I might be eating when I peel one..maybe shucking a crab?

There are so many dangerous factors connected with this process that it is my request that if it cannot be stopped now for more testing, at least make mandatory labeling of all GE foods so that consumers can choose whether or not to purchase the product.

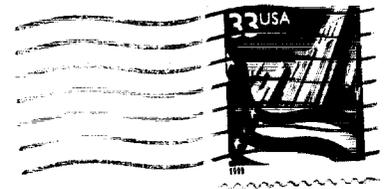

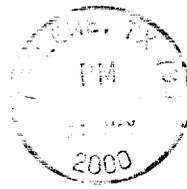

Please do something to protect us.
