Dear Commissioner Henney:

I would like to add my voice to that of others requesting that the FDA require long-term safety testing of genetically-engineered foods. And that producers of genetically-engineered foods already on the market be required to label them as genetically engineered.

It is disturbing to me that the FDA has not already done both. Who, if not the FDA, is to protect people from untested and/or controversial modifications in food?

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Patricia Montee
