After speaking with you on the telephone, I know as of today your department of the Food & Drug Administration had not reached a decision on my "petition" (letter requesting an exemption).

After discussing this matter with you I have explained that we would be willing to put a sticker on Canadian food labels to bring them into compliance. As an example I have enclosed 2 labels of a Canadian product. One is in its original format; the second is brought into compliance. There is a sticker correcting the weight, showing it in the imperial system and in the metric system. The other sticker, on the label, is blank, removing any nutrition statements. By doing this, the product is legal under the Small Business Exemption. These corrections would have to be made in our store and can be inspected any time by a Food & Drug Administration inspector during their yearly visit.

Keep an open mind when reaching a decision. All I want is to be able to continue doing business legally and with your (FDA) approval.

Thank You,

Joanne Gervais
