Dear Valerie, Alex, and Sergey

Can you help me with the following re: the FDA ?

1. Confirmation that Del-Immune is Extrabiolat made by Elan, Ltd.
2. Confirmation that Extrabiolat does not contain live cells.
3. Confirmation the bacteria in Extrabiolat is L bacillus delbrueckii ssp bulgaricus.
4. Confirmation that Preparate was once named Matrix E during the original research. I have a great research paper showing the safety in humans.
5. Is there a study that shows long term human use of the Preparate/ Extrabiolat ? I need this desparately.

Valerie, this information is needed immediately so I can move toward getting FDA approval. Your help is greatly appreciated.

Many thanks...

Galina and John

TO DR KRAVETS.

Dear Vassilli and Ellen,

Thank you for the 4th of July email. Also thank you for the assistance with the request for clinical material.

I have asked some questions from the FDA but I am having trouble getting answers. Here is what I hope you can answer. Please send the answers in a separate e-mail. The importance is to have the FDA approve the Extrabiolat---Preparate-- so Dr Barry Beaty, Professor of Microbiology and Consultant to the US National Institutes of Health can include the material in his research grant. Dr Beaty told me that his grant will pay you and some others a monthly consulting fee and when needed trips to the USA for consulting and information etc. It will take time but I believe this is true and real.

Vassilli...thank you so very much...

Re: the Cytomins...I now am developing the knowledge of what is necessary to obtain FDA approval. It will be easier for me at this time. Let's pick an oral preparation that has safety information that is available in English. I am certain it can be approved here. After FDA approval it will be easier to locate an interested company.

FROM JR KRAVETS!

Dear John,

Unfortunately, I can't give you true answers on your questions about Extrabiolat because such answers can give only Valerie and I haven't got the contact with him.

If you have any questions about Citomins I ready to help.
Sincerely yours, Vassilli.
