Starting a New Export Certificate for Cosmetics

After you log into the FDA Industry Systems page at https://www.access.fda.gov/oaa, navigate to “Export Certification and Tracking” and select “CFSAN Export Certification Application and Tracking System (CFSAN eCATS)”.

Figure 1:

After selecting CFSAN eCATS, click on “Certificate Application Process (CAP)”.

Figure 2:
Once you have selected "Certificate Application Process (CAP)"., you will navigate to the CAP main menu. To begin the application process, select "Enter New Application" from the list of options. Once you have submitted an application, you may choose to Modify an existing application (when applicable), Search for an application, or Print Application/Certificate from the main menu. See Figure 3.
After you select the “Enter New Application” option, and the system will display all applications that you have saved or submitted as shown in Figure 4. Applications that are saved but not submitted will be in “Draft” status until you submit them.

- If you wish to continue working on an application that has been saved, select the desired application radio button and click on “Complete Draft Application”.
- If you wish to copy an existing application, select the desired application radio button and click on “Clone Application”. Please refer to “Create an application based on the existing application” section under the Modify Application of this document for more details.
- If you wish to create a new application, click on “Enter New Application”.
The Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition (CFSAN) issues different Export Certificates based on product type. When preparing to submit a new application, you will first need to select the type of product for which you are requesting an Export Certificate, as shown in Figure 5.
It is important to select the correct certificate type for the product or products you are exporting. If you do not choose the correct type of certificate, your application will be rejected.

FDA can only issue cosmetic export certificates for products whose intended use is solely cosmetic. Products that are intended to cleanse the body or promote attractiveness are cosmetics, while products that are intended to affect the structure or function of the body, or to have a therapeutic effect such as treating or preventing disease, are drugs under U.S. law, even if they affect the appearance. Products marketed as "soap" may be cosmetics or drugs regulated by FDA, or they may be consumer products regulated by the Consumer Product Safety Commission, depending upon their composition and intended use.

Intended use may be established in a number of ways, including--

- Claims made on the product label, in collateral labeling, Internet information, or in other promotional materials such as advertising;
- Consumer perception; and
- Ingredients that have a well-known therapeutic use.

Many personal care products are actually drugs under U.S. law, such as products with claims of-

- Sun protection, including use of a sun protection factor (SPF)
- Prevention and treatment of dandruff and acne
- Hair restoration and growth
- Skin bleaching and lightening
- Skin and lip balm
- Collagen production
- Immune and circulatory system improvement
• Skin lesion healing

For more information on whether your product is a cosmetic or a drug, or whether your soap is regulated by FDA or the Consumer Product Safety Commission, please refer to "Cosmetics Q&A: Personal Care Products" and "Is It a Cosmetic, a Drug, or Both? (Or Is It Soap?)".

To view the definitions of the product types for which you can request an Export Certificate in CAP, click on the red question icon located next to the certificate type list. The system will display in a new window with a description of each certificate type, as shown in Figure 6 below:
Navigation
At the top of every page in CAP (Figure 7 below), a status bar will track your progress through each step of the online application process.

Most of the fields in Section 1 are automatically populated based on the information from your Online Administration Account (OAA) and cannot be edited in CAP. If the information is incorrect, you can select the "OAA Account" hyperlink, login to your account, and make the necessary updates to your OAA.

You can also click on the "FURLS HOME" link, located in the top right corner. Then select “Edit Account Profile” on the left-hand side and update your account profile accordingly. Once you have updated your account, navigate back to CAP and verify your changes.

After selecting the type of certificate requested, please enter the number of certificates requested.

If you have selected a "General" Certificate, proceed to section 4 of the application.
