Introduction

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA or Agency) is the regulatory, scientific, public health and consumer protection agency responsible for ensuring all human and animal drugs, medical devices, cosmetics, foods, food additives, drugs and medicated feeds for food producing animals, tobacco and radiation emitting devices are safe, and effective.

The mission of the Center for Drug Evaluation and Research (CDER) is to perform an essential public health task by making sure that safe and effective drugs are available to improve the health of people in the United States. CDER regulates the over the counter (OTC) and prescription drugs, including biological therapeutics and generic drugs.

The Office of Pharmaceutical Quality (OPQ) oversees and coordinates the overall regulation of human pharmaceutical quality within CDER, including submission review, manufacturing facility assessment, and surveillance of the quality of marketed pharmaceutical products. The Office of Policy for Pharmaceutical Quality (OPPQ) develops, implements, and updates science and risk-based policies and standards related to human drug product quality, including application assessment and inspection.

Duties/Responsibilities

The Deputy Office Director serves as a primary advisor to the Office Director and, in collaboration with the Office Director, provides leadership, program direction, and general supervision and oversight for OPPQ's operations and all processes associated with the pharmaceutical quality.

- Assists with the development of scientific policy and policy guidance.
- Leads and contributes to shaping strategic and tactical approaches to developing and implementing drug quality standards and regulations to protect consumers from unsafe, ineffective, and otherwise adulterated pharmaceuticals.
- Provides advice and assistance concerning administrative and technical matters pertaining to the programmatic and informatic support of policy activities.
- Identifies policy needs and develops plans, strategies, policies, program content, priorities, and goals to accomplish Center/Agency objectives related to drug quality policy.

Supervisory Responsibilities: Assists in managing multi-disciplinary program, providing leadership and management oversight to subordinate support staff and division directors. Supervises and evaluates staff who serve as experts in their field. Provides occupational specific technical and administrative direction and supervision 25 percent or more to the subordinate supervisors and staff performing the work and functions of the organizational unit. Reviews and approves or disapproves subordinate supervisor's and staff's leave requests. Obtains resources and identifies strategic obectives for the organization.

Reasonable Accommodation

Reasonable Accommodation Policy

Federal agencies must provide reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities where appropriate. Applicants requiring reasonable accommodation for any part of the application process should follow the instructions in the job opportunity announcement. For any part of the remaining hiring process, applicants should contact the hiring agency directly. Determinations on requests for reasonable accommodation will be made on a case-by-case basis. A reasonable accommodation is any change to a job, the work environment, or the way things are usually done that enables an individual with a disability to apply for a job, perform job duties or receive equal access to job benefits.

Under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, federal agencies must provide reasonable accommodations when: An applicant with a disability needs an accommodation to have an equal opportunity to apply for a job. An employee with a disability needs an accommodation to perform the essential job duties or to gain access to the workplace. An employee with a disability needs an accommodation to receive equal access to benefits, such as details, training, and office-sponsored events. You can request a reasonable accommodation at any time during the application or hiring process or while on the job. Requests are considered on a case-by-case basis. Learn more about disability employment and reasonable accommodations or how to contact an agency.

E-Verify

The Food and Drug Administration participates in the USCIS Electronic Employment Eligibility Verification Program (E-Verify). E-Verify helps employers determine employment eligibility of new hires and the validity of their Social Security numbers.
