Introduction:

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is the regulatory, scientific, public health and consumer protection agency responsible for ensuring all human and animal drugs, medical devices, cosmetics, foods, food additives, drugs and medicated feeds for food producing animals, tobacco and radiation emitting devices safe, and effective.

The Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research (CBER) mission is to protect and enhance the public health through the regulation of biological and related products including blood, vaccines, allergenics, tissues, and cellular and gene therapies.

The Office of Therapeutic Products (OTP) is a newly established Super Office within CBER which is responsible for the continued safety, purity, potency, and effectiveness of cellular, tissue, and gene therapies, plasma protein therapeutics, and other products regulated by OTP. The Office of Clinical Evaluation (OCE) is responsible for the continued safety, purity, potency, and effectiveness of cellular, tissue, and gene therapies, plasma protein therapeutics, and other products regulated by OTP.

The Division of Clinical Evaluation Hematology (DCEH) ensures the safety and effectiveness of biological therapies or devices regulated by OTP used in the prevention, treatment, and mitigation of disease.

Position Summary:

The incumbent will serve as a Lead Physician, with a specialty in Hematology, who serves as a secondary reviewer and is one of the principal advisors to the Division Director and other Center senior staff for the evaluation of the safety and effectiveness of novel biologic cell and gene therapies, plasma derived protein therapeutics, certain medical devices, and other OTP regulated medical products. The physician evaluates clinical trial designs for a variety of hematologic indications. This position can operate in either the Malignant Hematology Branch or the Benign Hematology Branch, as appropriate.

Duties/Responsibilities:

Specifically, the Lead Physician will:

- Serve as a source of continuity following marketing approval and regularly review the adequacy of labeling. Provides secondary reviews (and infrequently primary reviews) of the results of studies or other information to determine the adequacy of clinical post-marketing requirements and commitments.
- Serve as a general resource to more junior staff to evaluate clinical trial designs and interpret regulations and guidance regarding the standards of safety and effectiveness for products regulated by OTP.
- Lead reviews to include assigning and evaluating work of team members on a regular and recurring basis.
- Perform regulatory review responsibilities that may include, but are not limited to, coordinating the review of INDs, IDEs, BLAs and their amendments and supplements, PMAs, 510(k)s, and product labeling.
- Assure that scientific reviews of regulatory submissions such as INDs, IDEs, BLAs, etc. are incorporated into a final assessment addressing all key aspects of the product(s) and proposed clinical trials.
- Provide authoritative advice to sponsors on such matters as, the design of clinical studies for products regulated by OTP. Makes recommendations, both verbally and written, on initiative product development programs for OTP regulated medical products.
- Serve as a DCEH Branch spokesperson and recognized authoritative source of information on matters related to the development of new regulations and guidance documents pertinent to cell and gene therapy, plasma protein therapeutics and other OTP regulated medical products.
- Serve as an authoritative scientific expert that is sought by peers with respect to issues related to these products manufacturing, characterization, specification, and safety testing; and as to the adequacy of design, implementation, and analysis of clinical trials.
