

Limitations: The adverse event and product problem reports contained in this record are not necessarily causally related to (caused by) the reported product, nor do they mean the product was defective. Consumer complaints involving animal foods are received by FDA through voluntary reporting systems. Not all reports undergo follow up actions by FDA; however, each report received is important to FDA as part of our ongoing surveillance efforts related to pet food safety. Trends in reporting can provide an early warning of emerging safety issues of concern.

Other limitations:

- For any given report, there is no certainty that the reported pet food caused the adverse event. The adverse event(s) reported may be more related to an underlying disease, condition, or concomitantly administered medication.
- The report narratives are provided in the form in which we received them, the quality of the information provided about the adverse event/product problem is dependent on the quality of the information received from the veterinarian and/or pet owner.
- Adverse event report numbers should not be used to calculate incidence rates or measures of relative risk. It is not data from a controlled study, and there is no accurate way to know the true size of the population exposed to a product, nor the true population affected with an adverse event.
- Adverse event data should not be used to compare the safety of different products. Many factors can influence reporting, and products that are more widely distributed or sold in greater volume may have more reporting than those with limited distribution or sales. Products for which there has been recent publicity may experience more reporting for a period of time afterwards. Underreporting is also common with adverse event reporting systems.

EON-141878	9/17/2013 15:03	4 health Grain Free Beef & Potato Formula For Adult Dogs	Only July 16, 2013 I purchased a 30 lb. bag of 4 HEALTH GRAIN FREE - BEEF and POTATO FORMULA at Tractor Supply in (b) (6) - I never used this food before and since it was highly rated I thought I would give it a try. Well when pouring the food out of the bag I found what seems to be some 'foreign object' - maybe nylon threading, not sure. Very small pieces, black and white, thin, semi-flexible and pinchy at the ends. Tried to report to Tractor Supply which wanted me to just return the bag for another. Expressed my concern for others and had to ask who manufactured the food.. told Ainsworth... got their number from Tractor Supply.. called 814-724-7710, got an automated service and left my message and phone # (repeated the number twice) but I never received a call back. When I received no response I brought the bag of food back to the store but before doing so, I took samples of the food to hold onto incase needed and I also took all the information I could read off the bag... UPC, Lot # and Exp Date. When I returned the food to the store I showed the cashier some of the kibble pieces with this unknown object protruding and she too agreed that it didn't seem right to be in the food and also agreed it was sharp at the edges. Other than their apologizing I did not get the impression that anything was going to be done to further investigate. At that point I was sorry I had brought the bag back to the store. I did tell them that I thought they should hold onto the bag since I had reported it to Ainsworth but had not heard back from them yet. Of course they refunded me. Today, September 17th I phoned again this time with a number I found online for Ainsworth 800-219-2558 and got the same automated message. It was approx. 1:30 PM and I left both my home and cell # and asked that they please contact me even if I reached the wrong party so that I would know that. I explained the entire issue once again and still no return call. Since I am not capable of confirming the substance I found in the dog food but am quite concerned and since Tractor Supply nor Ainsworth seem not to be too interested in this matter, I thought it would be best for me to report this here to the FDA so that at least someone might check into the safety of this product.

EON-141822	9/17/2013 0:03	Dynamic Pets Real Ham Bone	My husband, three year old daughter, and I purchased one of these ¿Dynamic Pets Real Ham Bones¿ for our 8 year old Pomeranian/sheltie (b) (6) on September 14th, 2013. We gave the bone to (b) (6) when we got home that evening. Throughout the night, (b) (6) started vomiting uncontrollably. The next morning, September 15th, 2013, he was shaking very bad. He went into the yard and dug a big hole. He never digs. We live in (b) (6) . With it being a Sunday, we had to drive to (b) (6) to take him to an emergency animal hospital. After a 3 hour visit, x-rays, lots of medications, and a $428.01 vet bill, we were told that he had a blockage in his small intestine. The surgery was going to cost $5000. We were told to see if he survived the night, and take him into our vet in (b) (6) in the morning. On September 16th, 2013, we took (b) (6) into (b) (6) in (b) (6) . They did more x-rays on him and we found that the blockage had moved to his colon. He was given more medications, a special dog food, and after another $361.56 vet bill, we were told to wait till he passes it. After having this incident occur, my husband and I researched this ¿real ham bone¿ and found that it has had complaints since as far back as 2007. People have posted stories of their dogs going through the same issue and some even dying from it. It also says that the FDA has been investigating the Dynamic Pet products for as far back as 2008. EON-141821	9/16/2013 23:33	Natural Balance Limited ingredient Diet chicken and sweet potato small bites	I have been a Natural Balance customer for years and have had no problems. The company recently merged with Del Monte. I bought a new bag (LID chicken and sweet potato) After the merger, and my dog immediately started vomiting. I continued to feed him food for a week and he continued to vomit. Then I contacted vet. That was a month ago. I have had to feed my dog homemade chicken and rice since. He is no longer able to eat kibble without vomiting. My vet bills and frustration levels are getting high. What was in this food that made him sick? I contacted company and they say ingredients haven't changed. Well, something in that bag made my dog very sick! I have read several negative reports about this company recently. EON-141797	9/16/2013 17:24	Bravo Beef Blend	The problem is not with the food itself but the fact that the 10lb chubs of some beef and chicken are not weighting in at 10lb. I have notified Bravo in the past at least 3 times before. If I'm going to pay for higher quality dog food then I would like to get the exact amount that is labeled on the package that I am paying for. This has been an ongoing problem for at least the last year for myself. My latest 10lb chub of the Original Beef Blend weighed in at approximately 7oz less then the 10lb it should have been. This has been the highest amount under weight I have had.
EON-141782	9/16/2013 15:33	Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula Puppy Chicken & Brown Rice Recipe Dry Dog Food	(b) (6) has been on Blue Buffalo for the past 9 months and done well with it. However, after the purchase of our last bag he has developed problems with constipation and diarrhea, eventually he refused to even eat his food. EON-141751	9/16/2013 14:18	Nature's Logic Canine Chicken Meal Dinner Fare	We purchased (b) (6) at 8 weeks of age. We began feeding him the Kibble one week after we brought him home. (b) (6) had diarrhea and vomiting non-stop. We had (b) (6) to the Vet over 11 times. They thought it was a strong parasite. They put (b) (6) on a different, bland, feed and all the symptoms stopped. I thought the medications and the bland diet had settled his gastric system. I began to feed my (5) year old Welsh Corgi the Natures logic also. He began to vomit and have diarrhea. He became lethargic and would foam out of his mouth. I believe that the Nature's Logic was a huge contributor to both dogs being ill. I have stopped feeding both dogs the Natures Logic Kibble. This is the ONLY thing that has changed in her diet. This morning I gave her a dog biscuit and within 15 minutes she was throwing up and sick. I immediately stopped the dog biscuits and she is back to normal. There is no doubt in my mind that it is the Iams® ProActive Health¿ Adult Small Biscuits. On 7/21/13 I purchased a bag of food at Petsmart and opened it in early August, it smelled strong but I didnt think anything of it. I started noticing (b) (6) "burping", a kind of spit up shortly after eating this went on until I noticed he seemed to not feel well. (b) (6) ended up with severe pancreatitis. It was believed to come from the food as he was not introduced to anything new and he does not receive treats other than his toys. Saw the vet multiple times who tested for infections multiple times which were negative. Did US that showed thickened bowels. About a month ago she began refusing to eat the dogwood. I switched from the healthy weight to another type of beneful dogfood about 6 months ago.) In desperation I began feeding her meat and rice which she readily ate. Her diarrhea became better within 2 days and she stopped vomiting and appeared to have more energy. Accidents nearly resolved. About 2 weeks later I reintroduced the dogfood but symptoms rapidly returned so I quickly switched her back to a the meat and rice diet. The time I got them I fed them the Kaytee Feista Max Hamster food. These 2 hamsters were taken care of the best care anyone could give them. The Hamsters like the food, but never ate the good things in the food. The short haired hamster (b) (6) Passed at 21 months and 14 days old, the long haired hamster named (b) (6) passed at 21 months and 13 days old. I have a third hamster named (b) (6) he never really ate the food for some reason. I called Kaytee and told them what happen and they want me to send the last bag of hamster food in. I read and heard in the last few months how this food hurts and kills hamsters. Kaytee will not tell me what is in the food but I need to know. I would like for you to do a test of the food also and see what chemicals are in it. There are a few chemicals in the food to preserve it I know. Before I send the evidence to Kaytee I want to know why to Hamster died from the same problems, organ failure. I can provide a sample of the food and really need it tested. Kaytee does not have any info on the life span of a hamster eating their food. Kaytee is acting like the want to bend over backwards but already trying to blame problems on other things. The 2 hamsters that passed were from different familes, not the same mom or dad. (b) (6) passed (b) (6) and (b) (6) passed on (b) (6). Thanks, (b) (6)

EON-141337	9/9/2013 16:12	Red Lake Earth , Barn Fresh , Red Lake Earth 6 # sprinkle bottle, Stall DRY, CAT LITTERS Private label & DE based	Diatomaceous Earth mft'd under Red Lake Earth, Barn Fresh,Stall DRY & DE cat litters are made by Absorbent Products Ltd of Kamloops Canada. They are all the same mined material. RLE is feed to many animals in their feed as an anticakeing agent...the meat & eggs set for human consumption. Barn Fresh & Stall DRY are used topically in barns, stalls, poultry houses, cages & litter boxes handled regularly by humans & our children. BF & SD are eaten by poultry & horses. AP 1st started "averaging" the arsenic & lead for appearances & utilized ppM's instead of ppb which is more common. Then AP stopped entirely listing the Arsenic As & Lead Pb on their trace mineral sheets so that consumers, animal feed PhD's did not know the high levels it contained. According to the FDA "levels of As above 55 ppb may constitute a health concern" & the FDA allows only 5 ppb of Lead. The EPA allows a mere 10ppb of As. Ppm is 1 part per 1,000,000 whereas ppb is 1 prt per 1,000,000,000. RLE, BF & SD's Arsenic averages 9.87 ppm's which would amount to 6,000 ppb's & their lead is 15.5 ppm's equivalent to 15,500 ppb's. If this lead was in paint chips I would have to have it Hazmat commercially removed. Whether fed at 2% GWF or handled by people, children cleaning litter boxes or eaten by animal's in their stall or bedding this is a HIGH health concern. There is also the HIGH copper level that could KILL sheep. Despite me telling them they would not put a warning on the bags. I represented them for 12 years. Don't wished to be named to them. But have Trace Mineral Analysis sheets if you need them (b) (6) & I wish to be listed as a govt protected 'whistle blower".

She got extremely tired during our usual morning walk and could very make it home. It was a cool morning and we walked the usual way, no further. She vomited a couple of times and then laid down, breathing really hard. She did not vomit food, just yellowish foam type liquid.(However she had vomited her food the day before). I rushed her to the vet. Blood test revealed high level of liver enzymes. Vet advised me to put her on boiled rice, boiled chicken, and chicken broth for a week. I come from the Medical field and know how important it is to handle raw food properly as I always do. I started feeding the Small batch chicken patties (1/2 half) to my 2 dogs. I fed some the next day also. The started having diarrhea (both of them). Since they have not eaten otherwise anything knew, I knew it was from the food. My 3. dog did not eat the food and the stool was solid. I then fed my 3. dog the food also and he started having diarrhea. The dog who got the most patties got bloody diarrhea also. There was pure blood coming out as well as was there visible blood on the stool. I purchased the food on August 14, 2013 at the (b) (6). I'm also a vet assistant/nurse so I knew how to help my dogs with natural remedies; thanks to that I did not have to go to the vet. After a few days of treatment they all recovered. I know the food was contaminated. I feed some raw for years. In fact, never had an issue with some awesome companies out there. Please don't make this an example of the raw food industry, as Answers, K9 natural are awesome companies without HPP and there is NEVER an issuse with them! Why I'm reporting this is because I contacted the pet store AND the manufacturer Small batch and I have been very badly treated as a costumer. Both of them would not respond for weeks. Finally, Small batch responded and I ended up emailing back and forth for weeks with 3 people; the owner, the manufacturer (his brother) and the secretary. They tried to blame me for everything and were VERY rude to me instead of taking responsibility for their contaminated food!	7	Years	Spaniel - Cocker English	Dog	45	Pound

Corn is the #3 canine food allergy and there are serious mold issues with corn (as well as wheat). Further inquiry to the company revealed the corn used in their product is GMO. Thus, adding only corn gluten meal makes the food high in cysteine which is a cause of urinary stones in dogs and cats. A dog with kidney issues should NOT be consuming corn under any circumstances, let alone corn gluten meal. (2) The analysis on the bag of dog food states the phophorus content is at around 2.5%. EON-141158	9/5/2013 22:45	Orijen 6 Fish Grain Free Dry Dog Food	Friday, August 23rd I opened a brand new bag of Orijen 6 Fish dog food to give my dog his morning meal. An hour after he ate, he looked like he was going to vomit, but didn't really; he brought some ;stuff; up into his throat and swallowed it. A few hours after that, he did vomit. It was very large, with a lot of undigested food. An hour after that, he vomited again, and it was yellow bile. He became very lethargic and wouldn't eat or drink. I watched him carefully and let him rest. He seemed to be running a fever and was still very lethargic the next morning and had bloody diarrhea so I rushed him immediately to the vet. He was running a very high fever of 104.2. The vet examined him, took blood and gave fluids and medication. She was very concerned about his high fever and recommended hospitalization but agreed I could take him home as long as I monitored his temperature every few hours to make sure it was going down and would take him immediately to the emergency hospital if his fever elevated or he showed any worsening symptoms. When the blood tests came back the next day, the vet contacted me to tell me that my dog was in liver failure and to take him immediately to the emergency vet specialist. The specialist again wanted to hospitalize him, but because I live 3 minutes away from the emergency hospital, agreed to let me monitor him at home. *Blood Test results available but upload function was not working	10	Years	American Pit Bull Terrier	Dog	87	Pound

EON-141009	9/4/2013 20:33	Nutro Ultra Holistic Superfood Senior	My dog suddenly had severe diarrhea which persisted for over 36 hours, even though I withheld all food as soon as the diarrhea began. After the 36-hour period I fed her only small meals of chicken breast & rice, and she recovered. After a few days I started her on her usual food, which is canned Nutro Ultra Holistic Superfood. Within a few hours of reintroducing the food she started having explosive diarrhea again. I put her back on the chicken-rice diet for about a week and she did fine with no gastrointestinal upset and no diarrhea. At this point I realized that the initial diarrhea had begun when we opened a new 12-can box of Nutro. Just to be on the safe side I returned the rest of the box to Petco. I wrote down the expiration date and series of numbers on the bottom of the cans for reference. After several days of the bland diet I started her on a brand-new box of Nutro cans. I looked at the bottom of the cans and they had a different date/series of numbers than the ones she had been eating when the problem first started. She did fine of the new box with absolutely no diarrhea or stomach rumblings. Since I had called Nutro to ask if there are problems, and given my dog's older age, I just shrugged off the illness as a coincidence. She completed the new 12-can box of food and then yesterday I opened a new box. Last night she started the horrible diarrhea episodes again. So I looked at the new cans and they had the exact same date and series of numbers as the box I had returned. I called Nutro and they were unaware of any problem but noted the information. Here are the numbers from the bottom of one of these cans: First Line: Best by 06 28 15 20 2 Second Line: 326G2NSC0223-52-UL2. I am concerned there is a problem with this batch of food, given the 2 separate incidents 3 weeks apart, both occurring when my dog was fed the food with the same numbers. EON-140584	9/1/2013 19:24	Iams so Good Wholesome blends with savory chicken	I have 2 dogs. (b) (6) was very picky about what food she would eat. She refused to eat the dog food I got the first time (Old Roy Large Breed). So I picked up a 13.5 lbs bag of Iams so good from WalMart on (b) (6) in (b) (6). She was the only dog that ate it. The other dog ate the Old Roy. She was in good health prior to this. She had just went to the vet less than a month prior for her Wellness checkup and shots. Her bloodtests then showed she had markers for Cushings disease, but the vet, (b) (6) wasn't worried because she wasn't showing any signs. She was still kind of finicky on eating it, but she did. A week, maybe 2, she started acting weird on the night of (b) (6). She wasn't her usual hyper self when my husband gave her and the other dog their nightly rawhides. She's always been a little weird so we were only slightly worried and I was going to call the vet in the morning. At 5:30 I woke up to weird whining noises. I rushed in there room and found her breathing extremely hard, she had vomited and defecated, and was unresponsive. I immediately called the vet - (b) (6) - where I got connected to Emergency Pet Center. We rushed her there. They tried to stabilize her and ran some blood work. They weren't sure what was going on, they thought it was possibly poison. At 7 they had us take her to our regular vet. They ran some bloodwork and tried stabilizing her. At 10:37am on (b) (6) (b) (6), they called me and said she had passed away. My issue is - if it was poison, both of my dogs would have gotten into it. The other is more nosy. But she is fine. (b) (6) was the only one that ate that dog food. I'm concerned with the other recalls, that it could have been contaminated with something.	8	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	84	Pound

I am contacting you because I saw a commercial tonight that made me realize that we switched dog food brands about 2 months before he got sick. He went from IAMS to Blue Buffalo. EON-140347	8/28/2013 11:33	Blue Wilderness Duck Recipe	This is the email I sent to Blue Buffalo ----- I hate to have to report this but my cat became sick after eating Blue Wilderness Duck Recipe. His symptoms started with diarrhea, and then included vomiting up the food, both undigested and partially digested. He otherwise acted normally - no signs of pain or distress. We figured that it was because, for the first time, we didn't switch gradually between the old (also BW Duck Recipe) and new bags so we gave it a few days to see if he would improve. No luck. I went back to the store to see if there were known problems with the food and they said they hadn't heard of any, and suggested (in order to not upset his system too much by switching brands/products) buying a different bag of BW Duck Recipe with a different lot number. We withheld food for 12 hours then tried small amounts (1 T, twice) of the new bag. Unfortunately he did no better. I withheld food for 18 hours then started feeding him Wellness canned food. There was no more vomiting. He had loose stools once more and seems to be fine now, several days later. I have already reported this to the store, Petsmart in (b) (6). Feel free to contact me for more details. 			improvement in his health and playfulness was immediately obvious. <ul style="list-style-type: none">- We switched him to Blue Wilderness about 8 months ago, and noticed he seemed even more playful, so we kept him on it.- We have switched flavors several times on both BB and BW and always switched gradually, even when the flavor/type didn't change.- The most recent bags (before he got sick) were both Duck Recipe, one large, the next medium size. Do not have lot numbers.- When he became sick, we had finished the current bag of Duck Recipe and did not switch gradually to the new bag of Duck Recipe. (I want to mention that in case that could have caused the problem - perhaps the new bag simply has a new ingredient that (b) (6) is allergic to, rather than containing something toxic.)- The first bag of food, the one he became sick on, was an 11 lb bag, lot J22.- The second bag of food was a 5 lb bag, lot Z11.- (b) (6) has not had any more symptoms. Still on Wellness canned food.- We did not take him to the vet, but would have if his symptoms had continued on Wellness. It was very clear that it was the new bag of food, and not another issue, and that seems to have been confirmed by his improvement on another brand of food.- Both bags were purchased from the Petsmart in (b) (6) within the last two weeks.- I have been told that I can bring them in for a refund, but would like to see if you want samples and/or the original bag first. Now, if I'm the only one reporting this problem - and I hope I am - I am willing to chalk this up to (b) (6) becoming suddenly severely allergic to BW Duck Recipe. But if I'm not, and other owners are reporting problems, I'm hoping that you will perform the testing needed to know if there is a problem with these lots.

EON-140068	8/23/2013 15:57	Hills Prescription Diet L/D Canine Hepatic Health	Only July 29 of this year we opened a brand new bag of L/D dog food we had just purchased from the vet. She was feeling great and ate well but shortly thereafter she just passed out on the floor. She finally came out of it and it took her a little while to get back to normal. The very next morning, same routine. She was very excited to eat and again shortly after eating she passed out again and never came out of it and ended up dying. We just assumed she died from either a heart attach or a seizure. I called the vet and informed them of what happened and if they knew of anyone who could use a new bag of dog food to just call me. No one called and we thought, well we have two other dogs and we would just give them a little treat in the evening as they always like to eat a treat around 7 p.m. Shortly after giving them a small treat, one of our other dogs got all shaky on his legs and was completely out of it. We had him lay down on the sofa and it took him a while to get back to normal. That's when we put 2 and 2 together and wondered if it was the dog food. I have attempted to locate a lab that would do a test for toxins but to no avail.	11	Years	Boxer (German Boxer)	Dog	80	Pound

EON-139998	8/23/2013 12:03	Purina Beneful Healthy Weight	8/8/13 we fed (b) (6) his evening meal like normal, within minutes of eating he threw up his entire meal. He proceeded to vomit the rest of the evening and night every hour to hour and a half. That evening he also started getting diarrhea. The next morning we took him to the vet, she gave him fluids, medication and did blood work and sent us home with oral medication to give him. The remainder of the day he proceeded to get worse. He no longer would eat or drink and we couldn't get his medication in him. By that evening his diarrhea went from brown to bright red blood. We then decided that we needed to take him to the emergency hospital. They gave him IV fluids, medication and monitored him the entire weekend. We took him home Sunday evening with medication and the results were pancreatitis and beginning stages of liver failure. He doesn't eat table scraps, dog treats or random things laying around. The only thing that he had was the purina beneful. Which happened to be a new bag of food. We still have bagged up some of the old food if you would like to sample it.	6	Years	Retriever - Chesapeake Bay	Dog	68	Pound

His weight is always 104-106 pounds. Went on vacation July 25, 2013. Our parent's watched our dog, did not go to a kennel. We gave (b) (6) a new dog food, Beneful, as a change. Our parent's notified us that (b) (6) vomits after eating, and drinks a lot of water. He finished the small bag of Beneful while we were away. Apon our return, (b) (6) was lathargic, and not eating much. We went back to his "old" food, Kibbles & Bits, and he began eating better and NOT vomitting. However, I discovered a mass on his back. Took him to the vet on Aug 6th for another exam. He had lost over 10 pounds since his last visit in June! over a tenth of his body weight in 6 weeks!!! our vet did numerous tests, blood and urine, to test for diabetes, liver, kidney....diseases. All came back negative. (b) (6) is healthy, except for rappid weight loss and vomitting. It was a $475 vet bill to discover it was BENEFUL that caused these problems, according to our vet. She's been eating the Wellness Stew for at least a year with no adverse effects. I bought several cans of Wellness Chicken Stew last weekend and gave her half a can for dinner on Sunday with the intention of giving her the other half the next night. After we went to bed that evening (b) (6) sleeps next to my bed), (b) (6) seemed uncomfortable and had bad flatulence. She then jumped up and asked to go out. She had very loose (liquid) stools, but after the bowel movement she seemed okay and slept fine. I threw out the rest of the can in case there was something wrong with it and fed her the Royal Canin for the next few days as it is milder and easier on the stomach. Last night (Thursday), I gave (b) (6) a whole can of Wellness Chicken Stew-- her first since having diarrhea last Sunday night. Within hours she had bad diarrhea and was up until 3:30 this morning going outside every hour with more diarrhea. (b) (6) seems okay this morning and is asking for food.	13	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	62	Pound

EON-139297	8/18/2013 15:54	Nutro Max Natural Chicken Meal & Rice Recipe, Nutro Max Natural Chicken Meal & Rice Recipe Large Breed Adult Dog Food	My dog has been on Nutro Max Adult Large Breed for 6.5 years. (He was on Nutro Max Large Breed Puppy his first year.) Starting in May, 2013 he started having blood in his stool, had difficulty breathing, and kept waking up at night as if he was very uncomfortable. His coat turned greyish, coarse and like bristles, and his eyes dull. I thought he might have arthritis, and put him on gluco/condroitin, but his symptoms continued. The vet was new to us, so he did not notice anything unusual. Starting April, 2013 I was having to suddenly drive 180 miles just to find this brand of Nutro dog food, and three weeks ago was forced to buy Nutro Max Adult (Natural Chicken and Rice). Immediately upon serving this, my dog started passing gas, which he has never done in his life. A couple of days later, he went into a bloat/torsion situation, started anxiously needing to go outside, dragging me so he could eat handfuls of grass. He started shedding a lot, more than he has in his life. He was very sick, and I called my vet's voicemail, which stated they did not handle emergencies. Although I did call (and visit) my vet the second time the bloat happened, the first event I was able to reach emergency, on-call vets (Dr ^{(b) (6)} ^{(b) (6)}   . Both told me to look out for his gums turning white and his trying to vomit, but not able to, before I brought him in for surgery. I also gave him Gas-x and lowered his food and water dishes to help with possible bloat/gas issues. However, still on this Nutro dog food, the bloat/torsion distress situation happened all over again. Because this was so abnormal for my dog, I went in to my normal vet on 08/15/2013 and told the vet tech the symptoms, and that it only started when I began feeding the Adult brand, rather than the Large Breed Adult brand of Nutro. 			change in food. On 8/15, I immediately started feeding my dog human-grade cooked chicken breast, rice, flax seed, carrots and B vitamin supplements. After the first day, my dog was sleeping through the night, was breathing normally, was moving and resting comfortably (not like he was hurting like while on Nutro), his eyes became bright, and he started acting with the energy of a puppy. Now, the third day, I was amazed to brush my dog's coat and found it very soft, healthy and with a sheen of normal oil on it. It's been 4 days now since my dog has been off the Nutro, and he has not passed gas since, nor has he had anything close to the bloat. It's as if he was never sick at all. He's even moving, acting and feeling better than he was this winter and spring on the Nutro Large Breed Adult formula. I live in rural (b) (6). Two co-workers have had to suddenly put down their two dogs who were otherwise healthy. As I understand, those dogs were both on Nutro Dog food, too. Neither wanted an autopsy. At this time, I know both owners want to put the sudden deaths behind them. However, I have also read many dogs this summer have started suddenly having gas issues, then becoming acutely ill or have suddenly died while on Nutro. I also see 1,480 complaints on consumeraffairs.com from the public with very similar sudden sickness, then suddenly healthy if the owners get their dogs off the Nutro. I also believe I am being objective about this because I asked questions about the Melamine recall in 2007, but continued feeding my dog Nutro because I felt Nutro was taking steps to use a different supplier. However, now, when my dog suddenly is acutely ill with gas/bloat/torsion issues that only began within two hours of feeding him this dog food, and just as suddenly went away when I took him off the Nutro, I ask that this be checked into. Even my vet believed the acute issue was related to the Nutro dog food. Would you please consider researching or doing the tests relating to the dog food being consumed when these sudden illnesses occur so we don't have to watch our dogs die?

EON-139032	8/16/2013 0:39	Acana Chicken & Burbank Potato by Champion Pet Food	Fed my dog ^{(b) (6)} Acana Chicken & Burbank Potato for 11 months. Before that she was on a wet diet. I wanted her to gain some weight. After 11 months of eating the Acana dry food she developed a tumor on her spleen. It ruptured and cancer spread throughout her body. She had to be put to sleep. I believe the dry food made by Champion Pet Food killed my dog slowly. After researching the ingredients, I found several articles on a connection between CARBS/STARCH/SUGARS = TUMORS FOR DOGS. These ingredients are used as fillers for the food. The dog is a carnivore, and should only eat what is naturally digestible. Plus I believe it is very hard on a dog's organs to digest food that is dry. They need a wet diet. Nobody informed me of this. I read it all after the fact of my dog's tumor. WARNING LABELS SHOULD AT LEAST BE ON THE PACKAGING OF THE DRY FOOD PRODUCTS. OTHERWISE MORE DOGS WILL DIE A SLOW HORRIBLE DEATH. NO ONE WILL UNDERSTAND WHY? THIS IS UNCONSCIOUS BEHAVIOR THAT IS KILLING MANY DOGS. This from my experience with my dog. Something needs to be done! My heart aches at the fact of what I now know killed my dog. Dogs do not normally produce the necessary enzymes in their saliva (amylase, for example) to start the break-down of carbohydrates and starches; amylase in saliva is something omnivorous and herbivorous animals possess, but not carnivorous animals. This places the burden entirely on the pancreas, forcing it to produce large amounts of amylase to deal with the starch, cellulose, and carbohydrates in plant matter. Thus, feeding dogs as though they were omnivores taxes the pancreas and places extra strain on it, as it must work harder for the dog to digest the starchy, carbohydrate-filled food instead of just producing normal amounts of the enzymes needed to digest proteins and fats (which, when fed raw, begin to "self-digest" when the cells are crushed through chewing and tearing and their enzymes are released).	8	Years	Collie - Border	Dog	50	Pound

EON-139031	8/15/2013 23:24	Nature's Recipe Large Breed Chicken Meal and Oatmeal	I started my dog, (b) (6) his new bag of food around 07/30/13. I buy him Nature's Recipe Large Breed Adult Chicken meal and Oatmeal formula. When I opened the bag I thought that the kibble looked a little bit different than usual but I know that the batches change so I didn't think anything of it. (b) (6) was not eating his breakfast meal when I gave it to him in the morning, he did eventually eat it but not until late afternoon, almost right before his evening meal. This is an odd behavior for my dog. He always eats when I feed him, but because I have recently moved into a new home without other dogs as my previous house had I again chose to ignore this because I figured he just felt that he didn't have to scarf down his food. I soon discovered my dog was having a lot of foul gas. I then began to notice he was having diarrhea. I have not had time to take him to the vet as I just started a new job. He has had that for about a week....mind you not chronic or I would have taken him to the emergency vet, but not good either. I tried emailing the company to ask if they had changed their formula (because I know a change in a dog's normal food can cause them diarrhea) but they didn't answer my question, they asked me for the number on the bag which I do not have because I put my food into an air tight container and throw away the bag. Just saw lots of news reports of dog food containing salmonella so I thought I should report my experience. I would like to know if other Nature's Recipe customers have had the same problem. I have been feeding him boiled rice chicken and pumpkin to harden his stool and it seems to be working but have been still mixing a little bit of this dry food in. I need to know if its contaminated!	2	Years	Unknown	Dog	57	Pound

EON-138879	8/15/2013 15:39	California Naturals Kangaroo & Red Lentil Formula	(b) (6) had unexplained GI issues (diarrhea, accidents in the house, lack of appetite) starting in late 2012. Initially, the problems seemed to resolve on their own. However, these problems became increasingly severe very rapidly in (b) (6). We took her to multiple vets at multiple veterinary practices and ran every test that these vets could think to run (blood work, urinalysis, fecal samples, X-rays, ultrasounds, etc.) - and none of the vets could determine what was wrong with her. They eventually referred us to the VRCC specialty hospital in (b) (6). Even their internal medicine specialists couldn't determine what was wrong with her - and by this point she wasn't eating anything at all (no matter what we offered her) and was clearly not doing well. They decided to do an endoscopy on her - and said she didn't do well with the anesthesia, probably because of her weakened state. She died the following day at the specialty hospital. Approximately two weeks after (b) (6) died, the company that made her dog food - California Naturals - issued a recall of their products because of salmonella contamination. The specific food I fed (b) (6) was California Naturals Kangaroo & Red Lentils formula (dry kibble). I still had a lot of this food left over (though I had stopped feeding it to my other dog), and I sent two samples of the food to (b) (6) for testing. One of those samples came back positive for Salmonella Group C1. (b) (6) had been cremated immediately after her passing, so we could not do any further testing of her, but we felt like this salmonella contamination of her food - confirmed by the (b) (6) lab analysis - was the smoking gun that we had been searching for, but that none of the vets could find for us prior to her death. We are utterly heartbroken that her food appears to have been the cause of her death at the far-too-young age of only four years. She was a wonderful friend and companion - and a very special spirit - and her death has left us truly devastated.	4	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	50	Pound

EON-138501	8/14/2013 21:57	lams HealthyNaturals	i bought lams Healthy Naturals because my dog is overweight and I heard lams was a good brand. I gave it to him and he ate it eagerly; however, about half an hour later he began to vomit. He vomited convulsively for about two hours, off and on. I thought I had introduced a new food too fast and so the next time I gave him the lams, I gave it to him mixed in with some other food. That was one or two pieces of kibble. The next night I increased this amount slightly, but it was still only half a dozen pieces of kibble. The night after that I thought he had adjusted, so I gave him a full cup of kibble, the same as I had done the first night. He again vomited convulsively for over an hour. On both occasions he was very lethargic the following day and did not have an appetite.	3	Years	Beagle	Dog	50	Pound

I left it out all day and they wouldn't touch it. This is the same food I always buy them so this was very concerning.

EON-138146	8/13/2013 10:24	Pedigree	My Problem is as follow: i have giving pedigree can food to my dogs for many years but the one I have bought lately they stop eating them , since the past few months I have to putting in the trash can, I give them food in the morning and when I coming back from work and the food still there, this called my attention, I observed white worms walking in the plate, every day . The food is off color all the time , odor is very strange and once i opened the cans the beef is descomposed immediately. My dogs feel hungry but when try to eat ,they can not ! the smell of the food is not good, I smelled myself and I questioning : who can eat this??? . I have noticed changes on weight lost too, because of this food ,I thoughh I was giving to them good food and is not happening. I can cause them a health problem getting this food. Last sunday August 11, 2013 , I was looking at the cans very upset about this problem and I found a phone number where to call at the label and I called immediately but unfortunately , was closed .Yesterday I decided to notify Pedigree about my problem. I get food from walmart at (b) (6) , same problem again.

EON-138078	8/12/2013 22:57	Blue Buffalo Wilderness Puppy	We started feeding (b) (6) Blue Buffalo dog food. She became sick with diarrhea and we took her to the vet. They told us she had a bacteria infection and she was put on antibiotics. We left to go on vacation and she was with a neighbor for 3 weeks. When we returned home she seemed to be doing better. My husband bought a new bag of Blue Buffalo and she started having diarrhea again. He thought something was wrong with the food, so he went back to Petsmart to buy another bag. Her diarrhea became even worse. I took her to the vet again today. They were unable to figure out any medical explanation for her stomach issues. I was advised to switch her food to a different brand. Tonight while I was at football practice I was speaking to another parent. I happened to mention I had taken my dog to the vet with stomach problems today and he said he did the same thing on Saturday. After going through the symptoms and times our dogs has been sick, we started discussing where we purchase our dog supplies and the food our dogs eat. They both eat Blue Buffalo from the Petsmart located in (b) (6) . I called the store and spoke with the manager, she said it didnt matter what the food was doing to animals I would need to contact the FDA if I had an issue. When the formula was "improved" several moths ago, they both began vomiting. Our female, (b) (6) was sicker than the male. We took them to the vet (several times), nothing was found to be wrong. On the vet's recommendation, we discontinued the Nutro food and fed them a bland diet of rice and boiled chicken. They stopped vomiting. We slowly introduced the Nutro food, but once they were again given the appropriate amount of the Nutro Lamb abd Rice for their size, the vomiting began again. We followed up with a second round of switching to a rice/chicken (home cooked) meal and slowly reintroduced the Nutro food - same thing happened again. A search on the Internet shows that nearly 1,500 people have had this problem since Nutro "Improved" this food. Some people believe that the food killed their pets. EON-137883	8/12/2013 11:03	Fancy Feast Flaked Tuna	Let me start by saying that we have a total of 5 cats, all indoor and all confined to 3 rooms. On Tuesday, (b) (6), I fed my cat (b) (6) (the other cats do not eat wet food) a 1/4 can of Purina Fancy Feast Flaked Tuna and left for work. My boyfriend woke up and saw throw-up and a yellow mucus. When I came home from work, I could not find (b) (6). She was hiding under the bed, I pulled her out and she was soaked from the stomach down, would not eat or drink and lethargic. I phoned the vet and was asked to bring her in, I explained that I live an hour away and they would be closed by the time I got there. I took her the next morning to the vet, she had a 104.9 fever, she was given an antibiotic shot and a food supplement, and the said to keep her isolated, the vet stated it was a virus and if she was not better in 72 hours to bring her back. On Wednesday morning, (b) (6), she was still lethargic and was unable to judge where the water bowl was and was unable to stand. When I arrived home, I gave her the supplement and some water via an eye dropper. About an hour later, I checked on her and she had vomited again. When I woke Thursday morning, she was the same, however, when I returned from work, she was a little worse, I phoned the vet and they said bring her in first thing in am, they will keep her a few days and give her IV. I stayed in the room with her until midnight. On Friday morning, I got up and went to check on her and she was dead. I did alittle research and found a few complaints on Consumer Affairs site in regards to Purina. I did contact Purina on Friday and filed a claim. I still have the can of food. I buried her in the back yard. I questioned the vet about an autopsy and was told that it was too late as she was buried and all evidence would be contaminated. She complained that the noodle is not eatable and seems to be made or mixed with some type of rubber. She was then burning some of the noodle and a black sticky liquid has dropped down to a plate. Hong Ngoc complained that the liquid smelled like rubber. From the video clip, it seems to me that the noodle was actually not normal and looked like rubber. We have talked to a few people and they also saw that program and were also concerned about the food safety. We have heard a lot about the food safety issue in countries like China, Taiwan, and Vietnam and know that a lot of different types of food were imported to the U.S.A from those countries. The finding from Hong Ngoc who has shown it publicly on TV has made us really concerned about the food safety here. Please contact the VietFace TV at the address and phone number below to get more information. We hope that the FDA will open an investigation on this issue. This noodle and other unsafety products may be imported and solved by several grocery stores here. If this could not be found and prevented then the health of many people could be affected here. VietFace TV Houston Corp. 9999 Bellare Blvd. Suite # 1127 Houston, TX 77036 Phone: 713-469-9000 Email: info@vftvhouston.com

In the afternoon and throughout the day (b) (6) started with multiple episodes of vomiting and diarrhea and continual drive heaving. Further she refused any tempting of food and water. At 0200 the emergency vet hospital in (b) (6) was called and (b) (6) was brought in for emergent care. Blood work, xrays, IV fluids, abx were given. EON-137798	8/9/2013 20:27	Wellness WellBites; Lamb & Salmon Recipe Soft & Chewy Treats	I break treats in half for my two small dogs to share. In doing so, I found tiny and extremely sharp objects that appeared to be shards of bone in the ¿chewy¿ treats. I went through a handful of treats in and mashed each up to see the contents. In every treat or two, there was 1-3 tiny shard(s) of what could be some kind of bone. I also found a what looked to be a fish bone(long & thin in nature) and a piece of PLASTIC - hard, thin, sharp, clear plastic. If these treats contain harmful objects, they should be discontinued. If my sensitive dogs had been ingesting all of the bone piece and plastic, they would most likely be very sick. EON-137615	8/9/2013 9:48	NaturVet Quiet Moments Calming Aid Plus Melatonin	Took both my cats to the vet for routine visit today. (b) (6) is an 11 year old female with a thyroid issue. (b) (6) got vaccinations, as usual. About five minutes later, she went into anaphylactic shock and the vet administered something to counteract the shock and a sedative to calm her. She was puking and fighting with the vet--very out of character for her. At first, we thought she had had a bad reaction to the injections. However, upon arriving home, my second cat, (b) (6) (a 2 year old male) began vomiting all over the house. Since he could not stop vomiting, I turned around and went back to the vet. He confirmed the same condition that had occurred in the first cat. He thought it was odd that both cats would have had a negative reaction to the vaccinations since such reactions are not typical and both animals have been vaccinated in the past. At that point, I asked him if the batch of vaccines had perhaps been tainted or bad. He said he had administered multiple vaccinations from the same batch to other animals and they had no reactions. I happened to mention that I had given the cats two each of the "Quiet Moments" treat to calm them before the vet visit. Given the odd ingredients, and given no other cause for the violent reactions in both cats, we deduced that the treats are the culprits. Furthermore, my veterinarian said he never heard that it was a good or safe idea to give cats melatonin and ginger as calming agents for cats.	11	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	9	Pound

EON-137367	8/7/2013 15:49	Waggin' Trail Wholesome Chicken Jerky Tenders , Waggin' Train Yam Good wholesome yams wrapped with chicken treats	Beginning in late Summer 2012, I started buying Waggin' Train yam good treats and wholesome chicken jerky tenders for my 12 year old Pomeranian. We would consume 1-2 of these jerkies per day. In September/October 2012, we went for his check up at the vet, and found out he was leaking blood protein into his urine; the vet thought it was a UTI or bladder infection. He was put on medication. Throughout this time, he continued to consume these jerky treats. In late January 2013, I noticed that my dog was not eating, so we went to the vet. From that time until early (b) (6), his kidneys started to deteriorate, he had a heart murmur, he was losing weight, his appetite drastically declined, and we were going to the vet's 3-5 times a week for subcutaneous IV fluids. He would have good day and bad days, but he became progressively worse as his kidneys starts to shut down. On (b) (6), (b) (6) died. I did a lot of research on what could have caused his kidney failure, and linked it to the treats. I stopped giving him the jerky treats in late January/early February 2013, but it appears that the damage was already done. My dog was healthy before consuming these jerkies, and he never had any problems.	12	Years	Spitz - German Pomeranian	Dog	11.8	Pound

She continued to throw up 3 or 4 more times that night, mostly just water/foam. The next morning she would not eat or drink and continued to vomit. I took her to her Vet and she spent most of the day there. She received subcutaneous fluids, anti-nausea medications. I brought her home and she slept all night. The next day she did not eat again, only drank a little water. Today (day 4) she was still not eating or drinking. I immediately stopped giving him the food. the reason i stopped giving so quickly is because I had just got done treating my other dog who lives in a different home for vomiting and diarrhea at the vet. i did not at the time associate it with the food, but since my other dog stopped eating the food she is okay, and it seemed strange to me that my perfectly healthy dog ate the same bag of food and got sick within a few hours.	10	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	18	Pound
EON-136922	8/2/2013 19:51	Evanger's Grain Free food for dogs and cats: Rabbit	We are not certain if it is the food or which one, but it is very likely due to these circumstances. We have an indoor cat that never goes outside and 2 dogs. The dogs and the cat all have Giardia with the symptoms of intense diarrhea/bleeding and have been diagnosed via a stool sample through our veterinarian's office. The only thing all 3 pets have in common are their foods. They all eat EVANGER's Grain Free Rabbit wet food and they all consume Great Life Grain free food, the dogs eat buffalo and the cat chicken. When they first got sick we went on to check for food recalls and these were not listed, but it is likely they are not listed because no one takes the time to report it. Had we not brought a stool sample we wouldn't have even known the pets had Giardia. The vet did note an unusual high rate of pets with this intense diarrhea in the past two weeks. So when checking food recalls we came across a great deal of literature on previous warnings to EVANGER's for unsanitary conditions, food stored in improper containers and a large list of other things dating back to Dec. of 2012. So my gut instincts tell me this may be the source. We just want to keep pets from suffering as ours did as our cat almost lost his life from the intense diarrhea, not being able to eat and becoming dehydrated.	1.25	Years	Boxer (German Boxer)	Dog	67	Pound

I ran out of his regular dog food and purchased the purina at Wallmart.He began getting tired a week to 2 weeks later. I contacted his vet and she said it could be the summer heat.I went by and talked to her assistant,and she said she could change his medicine but wait and give more tome to work. I was giving him 20mgs twice a day. On (b) (6) he got me up vomiting @ 2:30am. He settled back down and the next day I went to his vet and they were closed,but they reffered me to (b) (6). I took him there and they thought he has a water born virus. They kept him over nite. At 10:45 on the (b) (6) they called me and told me I might want to come down there he taken a turn for the worst and was vomiting up bleed and passing blood thru his rectum. I went down there and he died @ 1:15am. The vet said that he had a very severe Bacteriol infection that she didn't diagnose upon his first arrival. I asked her before could she check to see if he was poisoned and she took his blood and checked it there and cam back to tell me that he had not been poisoned.I called back Sunday afternoon to tell the recpionest to have her call me,I had forgotten to tell her that I ran out of his regular dog food and given him the purina dog food. She said that could very well been the cause of his death. I was advised to call purina and give them the back code on the back and ask if there was a recall on that food,I was told no.I told the lady @ Purina that I had looked on the internet and it showed a recall on that food. A couple of weeks ago, after purchasing a new bag, he began refusing to eat the food, which he had never done. He would eventually eat the food, but he picked at it instead of eating it right away. It was clear he disliked the food, which he never had before. I did not immediately make the connection that it was after starting the new bag. I assumed he was getting picky, but having done physically well on the food before I wanted to keep him on it. After a couple of days, he developed a serious bout of diarrhea and vomiting. The vet examined him and found no fever, just GI distress. They prescribed medication to treat the symptoms and flagyl to treat the intestinal inflammation. He went on a temporary prescription diet and ate the food happily. The symptoms were gone by the next day. After a couple of days, I began transitioning him back to the Blue Buffalo food. He continued to dislike the Blue Buffalo, trying to eat around it to get to the prescription kibble. In the last day, I completed the transition back to the Blue Buffalo. He was reluctant to eat it but eventually did. Last night he had a lot of gas, with a strong odor noticeable to the family. Not long after, she began licking the blanket, then the carpet and twice went outside to relief herself and eat grass. She vomited the first round of grass, and after approx. an hour woke up and began licking the blanket, carpet, kitchen floor, and returning to the backyard for more grass eating. She has since made noises and opened her mouth as if to vomit, but has not vomited since her first round. She did consume about 1/2 her bowl of water. EON-135550	7/24/2013 0:54	Organix Butcher and Bushel	We have opened several cans of Organix dog food, in several different flavors, and have found chunks of chicken bone in them. I didn't think much of it with the first can, but after the third, from 2 separate trips to the store, I became very concerned. I am returning all of them and changing brands.
EON-135446	7/23/2013 13:09	Purina Puppy Chow Complete and Balanced	I noticed Sunday (b) (6) that (b) (6) had thrown up. It was a clear throw up. I figured maybe he had just drank his water too fast. Within a few hours he wanted to just lay down. He had diarrhea one time. By the night he had started to have dark watery foul smelling diarrhea. He didn't want to drink either. My father brought him to the vet the next morning. (Monday (b) (6)). The vet gave us antibiotics and electrolytes. He went down hill rapidly last night. His pupils became dilated they had no response to movement or light. When I tried to give him the electrolyte solution it was hard to open his mouth. He also had this think clear spit that hung out of his mouth. He lost control of his bowels and it would just leak out, at this point is was mostly blood. He passed away around 1:00 am.	3	Months	Pit Bull	Dog	12	Pound
EON-135439	7/23/2013 12:42	Purina Beneful Healthy Rasiance	Our dog was feed beneful brand dry dog food and became very sick. He stopped eating altogether and started to uncontrollably urinate blood. He became very lethargic and eventually could not move and started to urinate clotted blood tissue even on himself while just laying there. I immediately changed his food and even though he was really sick he actually ate the new food I bought, the new food was grain free with no harsh preservatives in it. We took him to the emergency vet and they completed a urinary analysis. It was negative for a urinary tract infection and his x-ray was negative for any blockages in his GI tract. We and our vet strongly agree that this food was the cause of the sickness. Since changing food he has been perfectly fine. The food also causes skin allergies and those have also dissipated since discontinuing that food.	7	Years	Basset - Artesian Norman	Dog	56	Pound

EON-135360	7/22/2013 22:02	Innova	We had good results in the ongoing treatment of our 11 year old (b) (6) diagnosed with Anal Sac Adenocarcinoma in December. Following surgery and the start of Carboplaten (chemo), we were seeing improvement. Most recently however we (b) (6) experienced 2 rounds of High fever, diarrhea, vomiting, blood and mucus in stool, lethargy, weakness, lack to no appetite and limping on front left leg. Food related issues were our last thought, and in the course of eliminating potential causes from other sources - pancreatitis, tick borne, chemo related (all tests negative), etc., we found out there was a food recall for Innova, which is what we had been feeding him for a few years. After learning of the 1st food recall, about March 30, after we had taken the recalled food back to the feed store and exchanged it for a "good" bag. Shortly thereafter, our dog began the above symptoms. We spent approximately $1000 in vet services, tests, medications to get him back the health to continue the cancer treatments. In the mean time, we bought another bag, unfortunately we did not keep the receipt or lot code for this bag, assuming the factory was producing a quality food again. On June 28th the same symptoms recurred and again we spent approximately $1000 between 6/28 and 7/9 on further tests for tick titer and pancreatitiis ultrasound and blood work. Everything relating to these were normal. During this time, our dog refused to eat the Innova food and we switched brands. On July 11th we learned there was a 3rd food recall that included the food I had been feeding (b) (6) until late June/early July when he quit eating it. 			still have a portion of this bag of food, as well as an unopened bag for our younger (b) (6) that we will not use or feed to him - we switched brands immediately. Once I began feeding (b) (6) the new food, and continued with an antibiotic that we "thought" was for a tick borne illness, his symptoms have begun to disappear. No more blood in his stools, no more diarrhea, no spike in temperature, no vomiting, etc. I am now convinced based on research and numerous food reviews for Nutura/Innova contamination issues from other pet owners, believe the problems are related to the contaminated food and if our dog had been 100% healthy we probably would not have seen these problems. However, since he being treated for cancer, his compromised immune system was affected by the contamination. Our younger dog, same breed, was also fed Nutura/Innova and had no medical problems. I have all vet records, receipts, remaining recalled food and all email correspondence with our vets to show our significant expense ($2500+) and problems, we believe are associated with the food from Nutura/Innova. We believe we should be reimbursed in some part by Nutura/Innova as a result of their poor product and lack of communication. We had been enrolled in their Buy 10 bags and get one free program over the years, so they clearly had us on "file" and could easily have notified us. The letter from Nutura Pet Products related to a bad advertising campaign identifies they had our information and could have contacted us when the 2nd and 3rd food recalls occurred. Please contact me ASAP for any further information or details that I can assist with; I believe Nutura/Innova could/should be responsible for a portion of our vet bills due to their poor manufacturing and subsequent lack of communication of the food contamination to their customers and loyal pet owners. EON-135295	7/22/2013 12:27	Nutro Natural Choice Light Dry Dog Food	(b) (6) has been on Nutro Natural Light for several years without any problems. Recently Nutro changed its formulation (I believe sometime in March, 2013). Shortly after our recent purchase of Nutro Natural Light, (b) (6) became ill. I believe this was the first time we have purchased the Nutro Natural Light with the new formulation. His symptoms is/was a complete loss of appetite, was lethargic, would vomit after eating, and starting to have incontinence. Noticed foul odor, as of sewage, not present in "old formula". Approximately 6 15 13, (b) (6) the cat started eating less, vomiting several times a week, eventually lost approximately one pound, ate minimally of the new formula, preferred other food, became quiet and almost lethargic over last 2 weeks. Stopped offering (b) (6) "new formula" Science Diet and substituted canned cat food on 7 14 13. Since then, energy level gradually restored, no more vomiting after 7 14 13. EON-134787	7/17/2013 22:54	Nutro Ultra Large Breed Adult Dog Food	Purchased a new bag of Nutro Ultra for Large Breed dog food at Petsmart. I always pour the food out into our dog food container and I noticed that the kibble looked a different color than usual. I wasn't sure why, but it just looked different to me than previous bags. In any case our dog ate 4 meals out of this food bag and on the night after the 4th meal we awoke to vomit and severe diarrhea in our home. There was three piles. We continued to feed the Nutro thinking that the dog got into something - diarrhea again on the next evening in our home. The severe diarrhea continued and so after a week of feeding out of the new Nutro bag I decided to look online to see if I missed a recall. I had not missed a recall, but I came upon 1,400 complaints of the same issues online that have been happening over the past four months or so. I stopped feeding my dog the Nutro - returned it to the Petsmart I purchased it at and told them my story. The said they had not heard anything and offered a replacement bag or refund. i took the refund and have since changed dog food brands. My dog is STILL having diarrhea all the time and I am waiting for a couple days to see if the new food helps - if not we are going to our vet. Please look into this...I do not find my new bag of dog food - my dogs illness - and all the other complaints a coincidence.	1	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	68	Pound
EON-134761	7/17/2013 16:39	d/d Canine Skin Support Venison Formula	My dog has been eating Hills Science Diet, D/D Venizon canned dog food about 2 years now. From Jan-April 2013, my dog did not want to eat the food, in fact, somedays would not eat it unless he was really hungry. The food color had changed to a darker color with a mashed potato consistency (versus a pasty, "cranberry sauce" texture) and there was liquid in the bottom of the cans. I contacted Hills and through an explanation of my situation, they felt the food had been frozen during storage at the distribution warehouse and was freezer burnt. They sent me coupons for more food, but because the distributor was the only one for my area, I kept getting the same food and lot numbers back. Hills advised me there was nothing more they could do and advised me to go to Pet Direct.com and see if I could get some food with other lot numbers. They said my dog seemed "(b) (6)" and that other dogs were eating the food without a problem. I sent them pictures and they said that the darker color was an acceptable color. I told them I was in a difficult situation because my vet ordered my dog to eat this specific food. They said I could cook my dog some food and offered no solutions other than Pet Direct which gave me no assurance I would get food not made between Jan-April.

EON-133775	7/12/2013 14:12	Purina Alpo Chop House T-bone steak flavor w/ Angus beef, Purina Alpo Chop House Rotisserie Chicken Flavor	I'll start by saying, for the past 3 years, my dog always ate Chicken Soup for the Dog Lover's Soul. She was diagnosed with lymphoma and started a whole regime of pills for her chemo. She was supposed to have about a year to live a longer and normal quality life on this plan. Two weeks after her treatments, she died and all three Animal hospital doctors are puzzled how she declined so rapidly. The only clue provided was a culture taken 15 hrs before she died. It showed she had an antibiotic resistant strain of E. coli bacteria that helped to ravage her body and ultimately caused her demise. Confused as to how she would have picked this up, the light bulb turned on - her diet. Well, the diarrhea returned and on her 10th day of Alpo, she was very sick and an infection started on her belly. We took her back to the animal hospital and they gave her the standard antibiotic concoction which works to fight the infection but were all shocked when at 2 in the AM, she fell into a coma and can clearly see the infection taking over her body since it was immune to the antibodies. She died a couple of hrs later there after that am. This is NOT common as per the Dr.'s (one Oncologist from (b) (6) and three ER Dr.'s, two from (b) (6) & one from (b) (6) and after some deductions of where she could've been exposed to antibody-resistant bacteria, only one place appears so strongly to be the culprit, Alpo. Remember, she was on anti-nausea and diarrhea pills plus steroids for the chemo which potentially masked what was going on. The oncologist and three other ER doctors said they had never seen something like this happen before. If the chemo pill was the culprit then it would've taken 3-4 days to filter through her system. This infection started less than a day after I gave her the pill. I would like to have the final 2 remaining cans of alpo tested for the E coli and will pay for them myself if needed.	6.5	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	61	Pound

EON-133701	7/12/2013 10:39	Chicken Nibbles PCI Brand, Quackers 100% Natural Breast of Duck PCI Brand	This report pertains to two dogs, both 10 years old. The silky terrier, (b) (6) developed severe gastrointestinal issues with much blood in her stool. She lost 2 lbs on an 11 lb body and was very sick for about a week. The poodle became sick in this same time period. She lost control of her bladder and was lethargic. She also lost 1.5 lbs on an 8 lbs frame. Her symptoms match many of the symptoms I found on the internet.....she had sugar in her urine but it was not attributed to diabetes, but her kidney's inability to function properly. They were both treated by my veterinarian who suggested we stop all treats and he put them on special digestive dog food (in addition to medication, etc). We were pretty much only giving our dogs the treats I'm reporting on. Since stopping these treats, both dogs have basically recovered. I am not sure if there is long term damage to the kidneys as they are still under observation.	10	Years	Poodle - Toy	Dog	8	Pound

I contacted the manufacturer today as the food bag recently purchased had an astounding amount of fine granular particulate material that made my dogs cough, gag, and have issues eating. We began to mix it with water and then canned food to compensate. We thought at first, as all pet foods do, have some granular material, that it just needed to distribute among the bulk, but it became clear this particular bag/batch had a severe quality control issues. We did not save bag/receipt as never had any issues with any previous pet food. We were dismissed by this company without any consideration upon a phone call. We have paid 50-60 dollars a bag for years without question for years. The failure of this company to even investigate the request questions their claims of quality for yours and mine pet care!!!

EON-133649	7/11/2013 17:42	Kingdom Pets Chicken Jerky	I started giving Kingdom Pets Chicken Jerky treats purchased at Costco to my dogs starting Jan 2012 or so. After a few months of giving the dogs the treats about every other day I noticed that I would find vomit in the morning upon awakening but did not know what dog it came from. I never thought it could be the treats. About June of 2012 I started not just noticing vomit but diarrhea as well that appeared to be coming from one dog and not every night. I work and have a very busy schedule. The dogs had a vet visit and they appeared healthy and eating so I just thought my pug and/or my bichon had sensitive stomachs. About October of 2012 I witnessed all three of my dogs would vomit during the day, mostly outside when I was with them. They would eat grass. By October my kids were giving the treats to my dogs daily. All three dogs vomited but my pug was worse. I took him to the vet in October and he treated him for a bacterial infection of the stomach and we thought he would get better. I changed their food thinking it could be that but did not think it could be the treats. I did not put two and two together. They loved the treats and they perked up when they were given to them so I didn't think it could be the treats. In November my Pug started losing weight & not eating well. I took him back to the vet and he ran blood work. His kidney functions were very bad. He was treated from that point to they day we had to put down with special dog food, medication and i.v.'s. We did all that was available to save him but could not. It wasn't until I got the diagnosis of kidney failure that I started researching on the internet about kidney failure in dogs and several sites gave information regarding the connection to chicken jerky treats made in china and kidney failure in dogs. Immediately when my pug was diagnosed in November (Nov. 16) I found the info. about the treats and discontinued them. My other two dogs quit vomiting and recovered. My pug did not it was too late. I am just now submitting this report because the grief has been so bad I have been unable to submit it. I still am having a hard time reliving this while I type.	4.5	Years	Pug	Dog	20	Pound

EON-133588	7/11/2013 15:27	purina pro plan shredded blend lamb and rice formula, purina one with lamb and rice	(b) (6) has leaky gut syndrome from eating purina one with lamb and rice and purina pro plan with shredded lamb and rice. Most veterinarians don't know what this is because they have no education about nutrition. I took (b) (6) to five vets, and only two knew what it was. It allows bacteria, toxins, and undigested food to pass through the bloodstream, where they cause chronic low-grade infections, inflammation, and allergic responses. The immune system identifies undigested food proteins as foreign invaders. I am sending you her previous records from the previous owner to show you that she had ear and skin infections. (b) (6) had problems the day I got her, like loose fowl smelling stool and gas. Skin, ear, urinary track infection, ate her stools, her fur was coming out a lot, and her immune system was so low I had to give her b-12 shots. She got worse before she got better until all the toxins were out of her system. I ruled everything else out, because I tried everything that you could think of until I read about this, and when I changed her diet and gave her probiotics and enzymes all the symptoms were gone. I also give her vitamins. The previous owner had to put all kinds of drops in her ears and keep them dry, especially when she swam. Now she swims all the time with no ear problems at all. She doesn't scratch anymore. She doesn't have bad gas anymore. Her stools are normal. Her skin isn't dry. I applied for pet insurance and I had to cancel it because she had previous issues that I didn't know about, and they wouldn't pay for any of my vet bills. So then I asked for the old records so I can see all her issues so it would help me know what was going on with her. I never met the previous owner, but I got his number and asked him if they noticed anything, and they said that sometimes she ate her stools and had gas sometimes. He said she had a rash on her belly too. He told me he fed her purina one, and then he had her in a kennel until they found a home for her where she had a foster parent which fed her purina pro plan with shredded lamb and rice. I figured out that (b) (6) is allergic to chicken. She gets gas and diarrhea the day after she eats it. There is chicken in	5	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	77	Pound

			both dog foods. I believe that purina one made her immune system low and purina pro plan made it worse. I asked the foster parent if she noticed anything, but (b) (6) always ate her stool, so how could she know. She had so many animals to take care of so if she had gas she didn't smell it if she ate in the kennel. Her gas would start about fifteen minutes after she ate something, and last about 2 hours. A diet high in non nutritive fillers and carbohydrates causes urinary track infections, allergies, harsh on the intestines, and lead to diabetes. Purina pro plan has ethoxyquin, which is the most carcinogenic preservative, and I think that's what made (b) (6) worse. Both have beef tallow, which is restaurant grease that is hard to digest, causes diarrhea, and allergies, and premature aging. Its the worst kind of fat. Its labeled as vitamin E. Poultry by products that are poor quality, usually rancid, and preserved with restaurant grease, and are diseased, rancid feet, beaks, and are not fit for consumption, no nutritional value. Purina one has corn gluten meal which is a poor protein source that can cause allergies. Both have corn gluten, which is highly allergenic, adds sugar. Pro plan has propyl gallate, which a chemical preservative that can cause digestive upset and stomach irritation. Animal digest which is rendered by chemical animal tissues, rancid diseased parts. By products can cause weight loss, malnutrition and vomiting. Dogs with sensitivities or other health problems are particularly more likely to run into trouble with this food. Purina one and purina pro plan has no guarantee of ethoxyquin free ingredient is used. Vitamin k(menadine) is linked to liver toxity, and allergies, abnormal breakdown of red blood cells. Beet pulp(pure sugar) is used to slow down the transition of rancid animal fats and causes stress to the liver and kidneys, causes allergies and ear infections. What ever vitamins are added are lowered by using preservatives and being cooked. I have been doing a survey about dog food. It asks what do you feed your dog or cat and if they have any health problems. So far the people who give their dogs real food have no problems, but the people who feed their dog or cat just commercial pet food have problems like stomach and skin

			dog or cat just commercial pet food have problems like stomach and skin problems. I have another dog that is fourteen years old who started with kidney failure last September. I did what the vet said and used their dog food and he got worse. I almost put him to sleep, until I started to feed him home made food and he has no signs of kidney failure any more. He does have caderacs and arthritis, but he was doing better than (b) (6) in the beginning. I know that Monsanto controls the FDA, but there is a major problem here. I see a lot of animals with the same type of problems lately, and something has to be done about it. Years ago if your dog was scratching, it was because they had fleas. Now they are on steroids and antibiotics which doesn't help. I have been reading about this ever since (b) (6) was sick, and learned a lot. Pet food needs to be regulated. Our pets are like our children. We have to speak for them. Purina isn't the only bad dog food. Most of them are bad and I wouldn't trust them. I tell as many people as I can about how bad pet food is to get the word out there because I never knew until my dog got sick. For a lot of animals, its too late then. Veterinarians and pet food manufacturers are making a ton of money with pets getting sick. I can send a ton of paperwork to prove that these dog food made my dog sick, but I can only send five. I will send you the vet records and whatever else I think is important. I do have a letter and an email from (b) (6) stating that (b) (6) has leaky gut syndrome. I didn't know how to send that, but if you want it, I can fax them to you.

EON-132589	7/6/2013 15:03	Beneful Playful Life Dog Food	My labradoodle was in remarkable health. I decided to change her dog food for some variety, switching to Beneful Playful Life from Iams. She had also had several other kinds of grocery store dog foods over the years with never a problem. A month after eating solely Beneful, my once healthy dog had a seizure. She had also in the past few weeks of eating Beneful developed a terrible skin rash on her belly and in each corner where her leg meets her torso. On top of that, she had developed hot spots on her back and front paw, along with yeast infections in all of her paws. I didn't attribute it to the Beneful and kept on feeding it to her. Her blood work from her seizure came back normal, so the vet assumed she had idiopathic epilepsy. Most of her rash and spots cleared up with medicine, but within a few weeks, she had developed more skin rashes and hot spots. Two months after her first seizure, my once healthy dog had another one. One of the other vets in my practice suggested a different food. Within two weeks, without medication, her skin problems had completely cleared up. It has now been almost a year and she has not had any more seizures. I do believe wholeheartedly that Beneful was the cause of my dog's ailments. Dog food companies should not be allowed to sell such toxic food.	3	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog	65	Pound
EON-132588	7/6/2013 11:24	IAMS	I bought his normal food that he has been eating for over 10 years. IAMS the large breed, green bag dog food at Target off the (b) (6) . I came home poured him a bowl and he ate about half of it. A couple days went by and I had noticed that he hadn't eaten the rest. At first I didn't think much about it but he started looking and acting very sick. About the 3rd day he started throwing up and having diarrhea. He is still drinking water and is an inside dog so I kept a close eye on him. Around the 5th day he was still really sick and it came to me. He wouldn't go near the laundry room which is where his food is and I did the math and it started making sense that the food was bad. I did a test and made him white rice with chicken broth. I put it by his bowl of food and he wouldn't go near it. I moved it to the kitchen and he ate it! At this point he is still sick but drinking water. I tried calling IAMS 3 times to report the problem and I was on hold for over 30 minutes each time. No one ever answered. I do believe something is wrong with the food. I do have the food however I don't have the bag because I always dump the food into a sealed container so it can stay in the AC in the house. I would like to get the food tested. I really thought (b) (6) was going to die. Once I realized it was the food I started giving him probiotics to restore his stomach. He still has a little diarrhea but no more vomiting. EON-132587	7/5/2013 23:18	Pro-Pet Adult Daily Vitamin Supplement	I purchased pro pet adult vitamin supplements for my dog to be more healthy and it turns out that these vitamins was a recall containing salmonella. i had no idea it was a recall I barely found out two days ago since my dog has been sluggish and tired lately. It wasn't the food I gave him because I checked it closely and I keep a close eye on everything he eats. I clean out his water every single day twice a day, and he's an outside/inside dog. I always watch what he eats and he's never gotten sick his entire life. He's only 8 years old and he has another brother who is in excellent shape/health. My dog has been throwing up a lot and crying out of nowhere, he has bloody diarrhea and his muscles/bones has became weak. He was always an active dog no matter how tired he was, he would always run and jump around all the time. He's been drinking more water than usual because of dehydration, a symptom of salmonella. He lost two of his teeth from eating his regular dog food as well, I seen it fall into his bowl while he was eating. He's been laying down so much now and when I call him over he doesn't come anymore he just looks at me and lays his head back down. I took him to the vet about two weeks ago and they said there was probably something wrong with his spine because he's been keeping his tail all the way down when it's usually always up. They gave him a shot and some pills and he's gotten a little better but when there were no more pills he went back into a sick mode once again. I took him to the vet again today, and he's gotten to the part where he has to be put to sleep since there was nothing that they could do about it at this time. I have had this dog for many years and he has never gotten sick ever, or even food poisoning. I'm not okay with this in any way, I purchased this a year ago at walmart http://www.walmart.com/ip/ProPet-Vitamins-Adult-Dogs/10318455 but it was called pro pet about a year ago. My dog has taken nearly 35 pills out of the 100 on and off this past year. This sickness barely hit him 3 weeks ago and he's just getting worse. EON-132309	7/2/2013 17:12	Blue Buffalo	We just had our annual vet appt. 2 weeks ago and all tests came back fine. I opened a new bag of Blue Buffalo Chicken and Rice formula Saturday morning, which my bostons have been on their entire lives, and (b) (6) began to throw up multiple times each day and became lethargic compared to his normally hyper self. He would wake up normal and energetic but go downhill shortly after he ate and by evening he was shaking and just curled up. It worked this way Saturday, Sunday and Monday. I did extensive research online to determine, or rule out, if the food might be involved and was shocked at the number of complaints about intolerance to Blue Buffalo. My other boston was unaffected but (b) (6) has always had a more delicate system so this didn't surprise me. I thought I would test it and introduce a new food combined with white rice, since I was stopping Blue cold turkey and not weaning a new food in. It's been 8 hours - (b) (6) has more energy than I have seen in days and he hasn't thrown up at all. I am now convinced it was the food and all indications point to him being on the road to recovery. I called my vet and told them about the situation but we did not go in for a formal visit. If (b) (6) were to continue throwing up, I would have brought him in today, but I do not think that is now necessary. I also brought the opened bag of food back to Pet Supplies Plus today for a refund, so I'm afraid I no longer have the bag to reference UPC or other numbers. They smelled the food and could not detect a foul odor but that was as far as it went while I was there.	3	Years	Terrier - Boston	Dog	24	Pound

EON-132263	7/2/2013 14:42	California Natural: Herring and Sweet Potato	My dogs have been eating California Natural Dry Dog Food: Herring and Sweet Potato Flavor for about 3 years now. Every month, I purchase a new 30lb. bag of food. For the first week of this past month, my dogs were both uncharacteristically lethargic, experienced diarrhea (sometimes with some blood), and were frequently vomiting. I assumed at the time that they had eaten something they shouldn't have on a walk and it was just clearing through their system. Usually when this happens, it only takes a day or two and they're back to normal. So for them to BOTH be acting this way for a week was alarming. My husband and I decided that if the symptoms persisted for more than a week, we would take them to the vet. Because they started to feel better, we avoided that trip. However, we also started feeding them boiled chicken and rice to settle their stomachs within the first couple of days of their being sick (and not feeding them the dry dog food) which is probably why they got better. It wasn't until my next trip to the Pet Store that I was informed of the recall (when I asked if they were out of stock,) At that point I put two and two together with the timeframe and realized that my dogs had more than likely eaten some of the compromised food.	5.5	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	70	Pound

I was having to make her drink some water as I was afraid she would dehydrate. Called (b) (6) wondering if was the pain pill or if she was sicker than I first thought. They told me to take her to (b) (6) and I was lucky they took her that day. They xrayed her and almost operated and decided she did not have a blockage. EON-130513	6/26/2013 2:21	Purina Cat Chow Naturals Plus Vitamins & Minerals	All three cats experienced abdominal bloating. Then some vomiting which was initially attributed to fur balls. One constant was the effort of the cats to COVER up the food bowl repeatedly. I smelled the food and it didn't smell the same as it had in the past. They all three seem to be voraciously hungry. These are INSIDE cats and have never had this issue before. Their stools have become fluffy --- they are difficult to flush. There is no diarrhea that you would expect from internal parasites or serious illness. This is very uncharacteristic of these cats. Something has changed or there is some kind of contaminant in this food. This brand of Cat food has been fine for over a year and all the sudden--- this issue and I am planning on returning the remainder of the product to the store and home cooking chicken breast and brown rice for the kitties until the issue clears up. EON-130508	6/25/2013 19:30	Grain-Free Evanger's Chicken, Grain-free Evanger's Buffalo, Grain-free Evanger's Beef	We got a shipment of Evangers grain free cans (buffalo, beef, and chicken). We have been ordering this food for about a year and have not had any problems in the past. Upon opening, we noticed a rather foul odor so we threw it out. We opened several cans of each and continued to notice the smell (sort of like burning rubber), so threw many of them away. Then we thought we might be reading too much into it, so we were feeding it to our dog, and he was eating it and seemed fine. Then, after about a month, on June 8th he had a horrible bout of uncontrollable, explosive diarrhea. He would not eat anything and was very sick. We took him to the vet, put him on metronidazole (antibiotic), and he cleared up within an hour of his first dose. During this time, we were not feeding him the Evanger's food. Once he got better, we began introducing the Evangers food again (as a topper to his dry food). Within 5 days, the explosive diarrhea came back. The vet gave us more of the antibiotic, which he is currently on and doing better. I do not know if the food is related to the diarrhea, but I do know that it has a very foul smell. I subsequently found an old can of the Evangers food from a previous shipment and it absolutely does not have the same smell. We will not be feeding our dog this product any longer, and I am concerned that this food could be contaminated.	4	Years	Terrier - Irish Soft-coated Wheaten	Dog	42	Pound

EON-130225	6/24/2013 16:15	California Natural Rice & Chicken Meal Formula Low Fat	I had been feeding my dog California Natural low fat dry kibble for nearly a year. Starting on or near March 17, 2013, he became lethargic and no longer wanted to play with his toys. He would sleep more also. A day later he began having issues with excess gas and burping. A day later he began occasional regurgitating which then progressed to throwing up. After several days of that he acted like his stomach was hurting, looking hunched up. So off to the vet we went. My vet took blood and urine samples and several xrays which showed that (b) (6) esophagus and stomach was thickened which the vet said indicated they were inflamed, and possibly the beginning of an ulcer, most likely from something he had eaten. He was given several shots, one for the pain and one an antibiotic and put on a vet only food. After a week of medications and a month of the special food and pepcid, he recovered and is now fine. At the end of his treatment I was going to put him back on his regular food but when I arrived at the pet store I saw the signs on the shelf that the food was being recalled. I bought a different brand of food and sent in a request to the company for a refund of what I had bought before and let them know how sick my dog had been. They sent me a refund and a voucher for a new bag of food. I used the voucher and then donated the food to a rescue. I will not use that company's food again because after the food being sold for one week it is now again off the shelf due to a further recall.	4	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	9.6	Pound
			I spoke to my vet and he agrees that it had to have been the food that caused the illness but we have no way to prove it now. The company is still claiming that no pets have gotten ill from the food. Total treatment cost, $531.90

EON-130137	6/24/2013 11:30	Purina Friskies With Tuna Flaked	We purchased Purina Friskies cat food. The product number on the scan is: 50000 48014. When I opened the can, the product was primarily liquid. It smelled like fecal material. I have never had this problem with any pet food ever. The smell was worse than kitty litter or stool. I wanted to dispose of it as quickly as possible so I flushed it down the toilet which seemed appropriate given the smell and I washed out the can in the toilet. I am concerned that this batch of cat food may have contained bacteria harmful to pets and/or that many cans of this may have gone out to consumers. This can was purchased within the last week.
EON-130079	6/24/2013 6:00	Hartz precision nutrition milk replacer for kittens	After having three 5 week old kittens die I did some research on the milk replacer I was feeding them at the time. It was my first time using Hartz Precision nutrition milk replacer. I usually use the replacer from my local vet, but it just so happen that they weren't open when I needed the replacer. I went to my local Walmart and purchased two 8oz. canisters of the Hartz milk replacer. After my kittens passed away I looked up the Hartz milk replacer and found others that had had the same symptoms that my kittens had. Vomiting, off balance, falling over when trying to walk, becoming unconscious, and eventually becoming unresponsive with a glassy stare. I took my kittens to the vet and had to have them put down the vet said they wouldn't make it. My first kitten passed away Wednesday (b) (6). My second kitten passed away Thursday (b) (6), and the third kitten passed away Saturday (b) (6). I have two kittens left from the litter I rescued. I quit feeding the milk replacer on Sunday the (b) (6) and so far they are both still doing fine. I can not explain how mad I am that this product is still on the market. Please take the time and go to hartzvictims.org and read the stories of others that have used the Hartz precision nutrition milk replacer. I am asking that this product be looked into before other innocent lives are lost. My kittens names were (b) (6), (b) (6) and (b) (6) I lost three precious lives and the guilt is eating me alive that I fed my babies a product that killed them. Hartz should be held responsible and take this container of death off of the shelves.

EON-130071	6/23/2013 21:09	Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula"	We switched our dog food to "Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula" at the age of 8 month. She has been eating this food with no issues for the past 6 month. I purchased yet another bag of BB food from Petco like I always have. We did not associate the problem with food at first and our dog suffered from diarrhea for over a month. We took her to our regular vet who gave her antibiotics which she took for 10 days and seemed fine. Two days after we finished giving her medicine the diarrhea returned. We figured it had to be her food and after switching her from BB to another product "Taste of the Wild" her stomach stabilized to what it used to be prior to me buying this 30lb bag of "Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula". It obviously was contaminated or BB changed their ingredients. I read online that another company purchased BB and I hope this does not happen to anyone else. But I decided reporting this was important if the company is putting out contaminated food.	15	Months	Terrier - Black Russian	Dog	95	Pound

EON-130057	6/23/2013 16:21	Innova Adult Dog Food-Small Bites	(b) (6) would not eat her morning meal (very unusual for her) on April 27, became extremely lethargic during the day and night, would not eat her evening meal, and early the next morning, pooped a huge pool of blood like raspberry jam. I then immediately took her to (b) (6) early on April 28 where she was placed in intensive care and eventually diagnosed with hemorrhagic gastro enteritis. I learned from my normal vet (b) (6), who received regular reports on (b) (6) from (b) (6), that a suspected cause was Salmonella. She was in intensive care for 5 days, happily recovering enough after 4 very difficult days to come home on the 5th day, May 2. She remained on medications for another week. During the time (b) (6) was hospitalized, one of my 2 other dogs (b) (6) had mild diarrhea, but I did not connect the two problems. (Both (b) (6) and (b) (6) who had the mild diarrhea, were eating Innova small bites adult dry food; my third dog, (b) (6) was eating Innova low fat adult dry food, large bites). I live in a suburban part of the city of (b) (6). My dogs do not wander on their own. I have an enclosed back yard and most often go out with them since they tend to bark if left outside. Two or more times a day, I walk them on leashes in my neighborhood. They do not have an opportunity to get into trash or other yukky things. Mostly they are in the house with my husband and me, retirees. Shortly after (b) (6) came home after her hospitalization, I learned of yet another recall notice for Innova dog food (Natura Pet Foods). I have fed my three dogs Innova dry dog food for several years thinking it was an exceptionally high quality food. I fed my 3 dogs 2 meals of Innova dry food every day (in addition, they got a spoonful each of Wellness canned meat mixed in to every meal; I use a total of one can of Wellness canned meat	6	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	31	Pound

			every day between the 3 dogs, always refrigerating the unused portion.) However, now looking back on various episodes of diarrhea and the recent emergency with (b) (6) the light bulb has gone off, and I believe that (b) (6) contracted Salmonella from her Innova dry food. I no longer have the bags of Innova food that I was using recently. Because it was recalled, I turned in my remaining bags of Innova dry food to the store (Pet Supply Plus in (b) (6) .) where I regularly purchased Innova dry food and I was refunded the purchase price of those bags. I do still have the lot numbers and codes from those bags. However, I can't remember whether I was just finishing up a previously purchased bag of Innova Small Bites when (b) (6) became ill or whether I had already purchased the bags I had more recently that I turned into the store. Since learning of the latest recall, I have completely lost confidence in Innova dry food and will feed my dogs another dog food. Meanwhile, (b) (6) hospitalization and subsequent medication cost close to $3000. I am interested to learn if there is a class action suit against Natura (other than the one that ended in 2012 for false advertising) that I can join to recover at least some of the costs of her treatment and also to hold Natura accountable for their poor manufacturing standards for a very expensive dry dog food and for the harm to pets whose owners thought they were buying the best possible dog food.

EON-129858	6/20/2013 22:33	California Natural	Two weeks ago our 14 year old Cocker Spaniel quit eating and had diarrhea. She is our older dog, so we didn't think much of it, but called the vet and put her on antibiotics and a medicine for upset stomach. We fed her a new canned food and in a few days she seemed okay. When she started eating better, we started feeding her California Natural again and she again quit eating. In the meantime, our 5 year old Pitbull mix all of a sudden quit eating and acted lethargic. The next day we took him to the vet and he was extremely sick. Bloody, uncontrollable diarrhea, and lethargic. Within 24 hours he went from being a hyper pitbull to a sickly, pitiful dog. The vet kept him for three days and two nights. He came home last night and still had diarrhea, but has slowly started to eat some hamburger and rice. I think he will be fine, but we were very worried for a couple of days.	5	Years	Pit Bull	Dog	58	Pound

EON-129749	6/20/2013 13:00	California Natural Chicken and Rice	Our dog has never missed a meal in her life and eats all her food immediately when fed. Over the course of about a few days she lost interest in food, began vomiting, had diarrhea, was listless, began yelping randomly as if in pain, had extreme dry/cracked nose, sagging red eyes, heavy breathing, weak (couldn't walk to end of driveway when she normally takes a 2-3 mile fast paced walk daily), and finally stopped drinking. We assumed this was how she was going to go and this was the end. I also noted she had just started a new bag of dog food when this occurred. I stopped the dog food and began feeding her cooked rice and chicken to try and get the vomiting and diarrhea under control. Within a few days of discontinuing the food she was eating, drinking, energy returned and generally back to normal. I tried re-introducing the food for one day and she began gagging as if she was going to vomit again so I went back to rice, chicken and salmon. We did not take her to the vet since given her age, we just assumed this was how she was going to go. On a whim I checked if there was any reports of problems with her dog food, California Natural and saw it was recalled. I feel pretty strongly that she had an illness from the food.	13	Years	Pointing Dog - Hungarian Short-haired (Vizsla)	Dog	55	Pound

We watched her closely and her breathing was labored, her pulse was racing, her body temperature had noticeably dropped, her gums and tongue were turning white and her saliva was cold. I rushed her to an emergency veterinary service about forty miles away. We arrived at the emergency veterinary clinic around 9 pm. We were at the (b) (6) until approximately 3 am. The veterinarian believed (b) (6) to have ingested poison, more specifically rodenticide. We do not have anything of that nature around our home and (b) (6) is never outside unsupervised or for prolonged periods of time. The veterinarian performed a centesis to remove the blood from around (b) (6) heart. The clinic also ran a battery of tests and prescribed vitamin K to assist in clotting. I took (b) (6) to our regular veterinarian, (b) (6), the following Monday June 10th for a follow up. (b) (6) had a large amount of blood in her stool throughout the day on Sunday and it continued into Monday and Tuesday. The veterinarian and staff ran a battery of tests believes (b) (6) episode was due to ingesting poison. Because of the large amount of blood in her stool, our vet wanted to keep (b) (6) under close watch. EON-129136	6/17/2013 14:15	Milo's Kitchen Chicken Jerky Waggin' Train Jerky Tenders	I took my Min-Pin to the vet to get her teeth cleaned and upon doing bloodwork before the procedure, discovered she had high levels associated with kidney disease. A week and a half later, I had to put her down due to a rapid decline of health despite efforts to correct the problem. It was speculated that her cause of death was a more than likely a result of the chicken treats from China that have been removed from the market. I am greatly saddened and heartbroken of her loss and at the same time furious to find out that no one is being held liable for this.	3	Years	Pinscher - Miniature	Dog	15	Pound

EON-129071	6/17/2013 10:33	Beneful Healthy Weight	Our dog (b) (6) was eating Purina Beneful for a long time. On (b) (6), I purchased a 3.5 bag on Beneful Healthy Weight for him at Petco, he was always eating the Original Beneful. Approx. a week later we started feeding him this food. He was alway a good eater and after a few days he showed no interest in this food and would actually eat all around it to get to the wet food we mixed in there. On (b) (6) we went and bought Beneful Original for him thinking that he just did not like the new food. He was eating the original but again not enjoying it as he always did. On (b) (6) he vomited in his cage. It was undigested food and had a terrible odor. He was still acting normal but drinking an excessive amount of water. He did vomit again until the morning of (b) (6) and at that time I went on line and read all the complaints about Beneful. We immediately returned the opened bag to the store and started on a bland diet of rice and boiled chicken. Even on the bland diet he vomited again on the nmorning onf (b) (6) and we noticed his gums were turning white and he had tremors. Took him to the vet and was told he was in kidney failure along with being anemic. He was suffering and after many hours of him being in the animal hospital and his condition was not going to improve, we had him put down.	8	Years	Collie - Border	Dog	40	Pound

EON-129008	6/14/2013 19:24	WELLNESS CORE GRAIN FREE PUPPY FOOD	Puppy has been eating Core Wellness Grain Free Dry Puppy Food for about 3 months with no problems until recent purchase (May 2013). Puppy began having consistent diarrhea with large amounts of mucous at times, which lasted for almost two weeks, and threw up twice during this time period (no change in diet since she started on the Core Wellness puppy food). Puppy also became extremely lethargic when normally extremely energetic. Thought she might have gotten a stomach virus so we eliminated her Core Wellness food and started her on a bland homemade dog food diet and she began having pretty normal bowel movements; still a bit mucous-like at times, but overall a vast improvement. When she appeared to be pretty much recovered, we put her back on the Core Welless Puppy Food and she immediately began to show signs that she had stomach pain and immediately began to have diarrhea again. After only giving her two portions of the dog food we decided to switch her to some left over Purina Puppy chow that we had from when she was a baby. She immediately began to recover. Due to these events and to our puppy previously being extremely healthy, we threw out the BRAND NEW batch of food that we bought and are 98% sure that she was having these symptoms because of that bag/batch of puppy food. Please investigate. We bought that batch/bag of food in May/June 2013 at the PetLife Store at the (b) (6).	5	Months	Beagle	Dog	17	Pound

EON-128542	6/12/2013 0:45	Nutrish Dry Dog Food	I had been feeding my Pomeranian "(b) (6)" Rachel Rays, "Nutrish" Dry Dog Food for about a year up until 5-10-2013. I had been purchasing the 14 pound bags in the Beef and Chicken varieties. He started having seizures which lead to his energy levels decreasing. He is normally the type of dog who is more than willing to go outside and run on an extra long lease I have. But over the past several months he became less enthusiastic about this type of activity. I observed him eating a good deal of grass to offset the lack of nutrition and ease his upset stomach. He also had several instances where he vomited all of the contents of the Nutrish Dog dog food each month. In the months of April and May (2013) his condition worsened where he would "Yelp" without warning even though he was resting on his dog bed. This increased to yelping in the middle of the night until the first week in May. I became overwhelmed at the thought of losing him as he is MY THERAPY PET. I suffer from Major Depression. I also bathed him and noticed his fur would come out in huge clumps. I tried to contact the Nutrish customer service through their email but they never replied. I also tried using Twitter as a direct message. No reply. I have since switched to Nutros Max which has a much higher digestibility rate. (b) (6) condition is improving. His coat has filled in where there was NO HAIR. His Seizures have stopped. And his energy is improving. I was scared I was going lose him or would have to put him down prior to switching foods. I have a science major and am concerned that the amounts of fillers i.e.corn are too high. Nutrish should be pulled forthwith. Nutrish also needs to be fined. Soon after, he began acting lethargic, vomiting and having diarrhea with symptoms significantly worsening around May 15, 2013. We took him to the vet, who recommended a "bland" diet. We stopped feeding the Wellness CORE and began feeding 1/2 boiled chicken breast, 1 cup cooked white rice and 1/4 cup canned pumpkin twice a day. Within one week, his activity level returned and vomiting and diarrhea resolved. On June 4, 2013, we began adding the Wellness CORE dry food back into his diet with 1/2 cup Wellness CORE, 1 cup cooked white rice and 1/4 cup canned pumpkin. EON-127570	6/7/2013 12:06	Blue Buffalo Wilderness Chicken Recipe	A new bag of food was purchased from PetSmart on 05/24/2013 and was used for feeding on 05/25/2013. (b) (6) the 2 year old dog, started vomiting on the morning of the 28th. He also had diarrhea. He refused to eat on Wednesday and seemed to appear better on Thursday morning when he ate his food. Thursday evening he did not eat and had vomited that afternoon. Friday morning (b) (6) the 3 year old dog, had explosive diarrhea. She had been eating normally prior to and since Friday morning. Friday morning (b) (6) was given a small amount of food and vomited at least three times during the day and refused to eat that evening. Saturday morning both had diarrhea, and what little (b) (6) ate he vomited. Saturday June 1, 2013 both dogs were seen by (b) (6) of (b) (6) Animal Hospital. Since (b) (6) was the more ill of the two he had blood work which included a CBC and a fecal smear performed. (b) (6) had a fecal smear. Both dogs had a fever of over 103 degrees F. The fecal smears for both revealed bacterial overgrowth and high white blood cells. (b) (6) blood work showed a slightly high hematocrit as well as a slight electrolyte imbalance due to dehydration. (b) (6) and (b) (6) were given a 300mg each injection of antibiotic, Ampicillin, and were given an anti-diarrhea, Metronidazole (Flagyl) to take over the course of 2 weeks. A bland food diet of boiled chicken and plain white rice was also prescribed. Seeing as our third dog who eats Blue Buffalo Small Breed Chicken (not Wilderness) has not displayed any sign of being ill the vet suspects the new dog food as a cause for illness. As of Tuesday, June 4, 2013 (b) (6) stools have returned to almost normal and has not had any more bouts of diarrhea. Monday morning (b) (6) vomited blood and Tuesday morning he vomited his breakfast and around 7pm he vomited more blood. Wednesday morning (b) (6) stool was almost normal, soft but mostly firm. Friday, June 07, 2013 (b) (6) vomited foamy liquid with some blood several times between 6 am and 7:30am. He refused to eat his breakfast. He was given his 3 medications that he is to take twice daily. EON-127467	6/6/2013 21:39	Royal Canin Veterinary Diet Hypoallergenic Hydrolyzed Protein Adult HP - Feline	My cat has been eating this brand of kibble for the past eight months with no issues. Upon opening a new bag a few weeks ago, the kibble looked "different". The color was darker, the shape was smaller, and the texture/feel was much drier than usual. I figured that the kibble was "overcooked" or something like that, and gave it to my cat anyways. After a couple of days eating this new bag of kibble, my cat started to develop diarrhea. He also picked at his bowl of kibble, whereas he usually likes it and usually eats it right up. My cat and I had to go out of state for five days. While out of state, the diarrhea worsened, I became suspicious of the food, but I couldn't get more of this prescription kibble until returning home. When we returned to my home state, I picked up a fresh bag immediately. This fresh kibble looked normal, and my cat ate it readily. EON-126170	6/2/2013 10:36	Innova Large Breed Adult Dog Food	I purchased a new bag of Innova Large Breed dog food at PetCo and slowly transitioned my dog from Neutro to Innova. EON-126036	5/31/2013 13:00	Waggin Train	Gave Waggin Train treats to two dogs (mine & neighbor dog) approximately two weeks ago. Started noticing my dog losing weight, had constant diarreha and vomited on occasion. When he did drink water it was excessive and sometimes would vomit afterwards. Became lethargic at times and then refused to eat. He has dropped approximately 20 pounds in few weeks since eating treats. Took him to the vet three times and last time they kept him in overnight on IV antibiotics. They wanted to keep him longer but we thought taking him home might help with his appetite and recovery. We were able to take stool sample in as of today so will wait results of that as he still has major diarreha. He is finally eating but we are still giving him antibiotics and other meds. We have spent over $1000. in vet bills this past week and still have no answers as to the cause of his illness. The vet has taken x-rays x 2, blood tests x 2 with no definitive answers yet. I am positive it is these treats that caused him to regress and I will be taking action to have the responsible parties pay for any suffering or damage this may have caused in our beloved pet. The vet also mentioned it was like he had pancreatitis.	6	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	75	Pound

I fed her Honest Kitchen's Verve (10 lb box). After 7 days of no problems, she refused to eat and was having trouble going to the bathroom. Within a couple of hours, she wouldn't get up and I took her to the Emergency Vet (5/25). They dianosised her with a UTI. She was given antibiotics and sent home. Sunday she was still struggling to get up and was blood in her urine. Back to the ER. Since it was a holiday weekend, we didn't get her test results back until last night. EON-125944	5/30/2013 21:36	Beneful Healthy	We were feeding our dog, (b) (6) beneful but switched her flavor on May 12. By that night, she started with diarrhea. By Thursday, her diarrhea hadn't subsided and in fact turned bloody. I took her to the emergency room. They gave her two antibiotics and told me her liver enzymes were higher than they would expect with a GI upset or HGE. They asked if she had been in any toxins. I said no. They said her levels should be less than 100 and they were over 600. They insisted I get them rechecked in about a week. They told me to keep her on the beneful. We did. GI upset subsided but poop was still abnormal looking (like sausage). Took her in the following Thursday (23rd) as directed to regular vet. They tested levels. I figured they would have dropped. Nope. They increased. By about 30 per day-- she was at 812. They insisted on a comp blood panel and bile acid test the next morning. Her results came back Saturday. ATL levels then 833. All other blood work normal. This stumped doc as she expected to see something else going on. So suggested (b) (6) gets ultrasound. As such, she got her ultrasound Tuesday. I insisted on another ATL level check as she stopped beneful on the 25th. They switched her to RX food. Her levels dropped to 800 as of Tuesday. Not knowing this may have been caused by the food, we mixed the beneful with our other dogs food, (b) (6) on the 25th. By the 26th he had diarrhea-- completely liquid. I stopped food on the 26th. He is now taking RX food. He saw the vet today and is on meds to stop the diarrhea. (b) (6) ultrasound came back with no abnormal growths, or anything that would have caused this issue. This was all induced by the toxin of the Beneful. I would like reimbursement of the vet bills associated.	6	Years	Dobermann	Dog	70	Pound

EON-125878	5/30/2013 13:36	Kirkland Signature Super Premium Adult Dog Chicken Rice and Vegetable Formula	I have two dogs...one chow and one lab/weimaraner mix. He is 6 years old and weighs 90 lbs. Both have been in excellent health...just recently had check ups at the vet and everything looked great. I bought some dog food from costco about 1 1/2 weeks ago, same food they have eaten for years. They both got really sick about 5 days ago. I've been feeding them minimally and it seems every time I introduce the dry food to them again neither is excited to eat it. I think they have eaten it out of being extremely hungry, but then they seem to go through the same cycle of getting sick all over again. Symptoms include vomiting, putrid gas, and excessive diarrhea. I feel so bad for them and cannot figure out what else it might be. I called Costco (the location I purchased it from) and they indicated that they have not had any returns or other complaints. I want to make the report so that if there are more that do start coming in, we can pinpoint the cause. Thanks.	8	Years	Chow Chow	Dog	50	Pound
EON-125876	5/30/2013 12:39	convenia	I brought (b) (6) into the veterinary office to have her anal glands expelled, which is something she needs to have done almost monthly. After the veteriary completed expelling, she indicated that they may be slightly infected and that she would like to give her an antibiotic, more as precautionary than anything. She offered the Convenia one time injection or a pill form. I asked if there were any adverse reactions and told no. Since this seemed very convenient and (b) (6) is somewhat of a pain to give pills to, I decided to move forward with the injection. Within 1 hour of receiving the injection, I found (b) (6) curled up in a ball in a room upstairs that she never goes into and had large bumps all over her body. I immediately contacted the veterinary office and they advised me to bring her right in. The vet administered an iv of steriod and advised me to give her bendryl 3 times a day at 8 hour intervals. That seemed to take care of the hives, however, (b) (6) remained lethargic for several days. On the fourth day after having the injection, I was awaken in the middle of the night to find (b) (6) having a seizure. (b) (6) has never had a seizure previously nor has had any health issues other than her anal glands becoming impacted. I contacted emergency services immediately after and was told to just observe her, which I did. This occurred on a Memorial Day weekend early Sunday morning (2 am), so I continued to observe her for which she was disoriented and very lethargic - on Tuesday morning as soon as the vet office opened, I contacted them to advise what had happened. They had indicated to keep observing her and they had made a followup contact to the manufacturer advising of the seizure.	4	Years	Schnauzer - Miniature	Dog	23	Pound

EON-125793	5/29/2013 23:24	Kibbles 'n Bits 'n beefy bits	After eating the food, she almost immediately threw it all up. About an hour later she had an accident in the apartment. The stools were thick and brown. She threw up about three more times. It was yellow and had mucous . She had runny stools and was straining to defecate. The stools were reminiscent of thick brown gravy. She threw up on Saturday and was still having runny stools. Their consistency was slightly better. By Sunday, she was refusing to eat and was having problems standing. She refused to go outside. By Sunday night she was in obvious distress. She was taken to the emergency vet Monday morning. By this point she was drooling, anemic, had low pressure and was in shock. The decision was made to euthanize her.	9	Years	Brittany	Dog	59	Pound
EON-125707	5/29/2013 14:15	Purina one smart blend sensitive systems	(b) (6) was fed the food 4-7 days roughly before the reaction. He was lethargic, unwilling to eat or drink (ate and drank little in the first few days), and turned yellow. After rushing him to the hospital and days in critical condition, he was diagnosed with fatty liver. On the second or third day he was hospitalized, our second cat ate some of the other cats food. When she did, we found a foreign item the vet described as a fibrous material. The next day we found off white worm looking bugs that I later looked up online that appear to be indian meal moth larvae. Whether the fatty liver is caused by this bag of food, or the years or days of eating Purina that is not balanced. I want to someone to investigate the food. He is given a few treats on occasion, also made by Purina, but the food was visibly not up to par upon closer inspection. He is still hospitalized today and they are putting in a feeding tube because he refuses to eat.	12	Years	Unknown	Cat	18.5	Pound

They also had me fill out a report. I have not heard from them since. 1. Cat eating Science Diet dry light cat food without issues for 5 years. No other food given. 2. New and improved formula for cats - I buy first bag of this (b) (6) (initially thought late (b) (6), but my bank statement says (b) (6), in packaging that very closely resembles the old formula. My initial thought is that they enhanced flavor. In (b) (6), after a week of eating new food, my cat starts slight vomiting - unusual for her. Week 2/3 - vomiting increases and I get concerned, so I take her to the vet. Exam and blood tests indicate she's very healthy - with only a slightly high count on one test pertaining to liver (which could be result of vomiting for 2 weeks). 4. Start looking at "improved" cat food ingredients, which I never had an issue with before. Cat stops eating period - very bad, as I now know that a cat who vomits food/stops eating goes into liver failure in as little as a week. Tried changing her food after (b) (6) with no luck - all the while I start panicking, and taking cat back to vet repeatedly for IV fluids, appetite stimulant, as well as force feeding her (with little luck). 5. Take cat to vet hospital, for more tests. She is now in liver failure with underlying pancreatitis due to not eating. She requires surgery for a feeding tube to save her life. She spent 3 days in the pet hospital. Further xrays show no signs of other issues. 6. Discover that Science Diet has added wheat gluten to new formula, among other things. One post on above link indicates an ingredient to increase shelf life was added as well. Gluten is a known allergenic in pets. 7. I am beside myself with grief and stress, and $2700 in the red. 8. Then last night our shepherd got the hiccups and today 5/27/13 started vomiting. In retrospect we realized that over the last month both dogs have had to be encouraged to eat all their food which is highly unlike them. EON-125490	5/25/2013 10:51	Innova Adult Dog Food Large Bites	In August 2012 my dog developed what we thought was a urinary tract infection. She started leaking around the house and was put on antibiotics to treat her condition. She re-lapsed two other times in the fall of 2012 so her doctor did some blood work. I noticed her to be unusually lethargic and it seemed as if her had was very warm as if she had a fever. Finally her doctor found that there was significant damage to her kidneys and that she is now suffering from renal failure. He also put her on special food. Shortly after she started her prescription food her symptoms improved. We never tied anything back to the food as the doctor told us this happens in many dogs for some unknown reason. He also put her on subcutaneous fluids twice a week that we have to inject through the skin. She is on Antibiotics daily for the rest of her life of which we are told will be shortened drastically due to the damage to her kidneys that will not repair itself. In addition I came down with Salmonella poisoning myself from handling her food. I had diarrhea four days and my stomach was inflated like a balloon for almost six days. I had a day where I was so achy I thought I was dying and could not get out of bed. This illness took me about 10 days to recover. No one else in my family seemed to suffer these same symptoms. I fed my dogs Innova dry dog food. Adult food large bites in the 30lb bag. My other dog suffered from bouts of diarrhea but did not develop the same symptoms as of yet. She was one at the time and she has always seemed to have a less sensitive system. I spent the extra money on Innova under the impression I was buying a higher quality food for my dogs. I can't believe I almost killed them with this food and could have sickened my 2 year old daughter as well. I'm devastated and have thousands of dollars in medical bills that are associated with Lexie's treatment. I received notice from Pet Smart that Salmonella was found in Innova's dry dog food produced in December and that it was being recalled. At that point all the pieces of the puzzle came together. EON-125484	5/24/2013 18:39	SENTRY PRO XFT	Re: (b) (6) To Whom It May Concern: I am writing this letter to inform you of the horrible experience I encountered after using the product Sentry Pro XFT on 5/17/13. I purchased this product from the Petsmart located at (b) (6). I paid the full price at $32.99 for the product plus tax. I purchased the correct dosage for my 26 pound pug mix named (b) (6). I purchased the orange box, labeled from 21 to 39 pounds. First, before I get into the details of the experience my family experienced after using your product, I want to tell you about my dog, (b) (6). Often, it's said, that dogs are a man's best friend. To me, he is much, more than that, he is family. I have had (b) (6) since he was 8 weeks old, and have given him the best love and care possible. (b) (6) is now six years old. He had no known health problems, and is an active, good dog. He is very much a part of my family. He is up to date on all of his shots, and has regular vet visits. On 5/17/13 I applied the Sentry Pro XFT to treat my dog, according to the directions on the box. A few hours later, he began suffering severely. (b) (6) began to shake and violently scratch his skin. He also was blatantly experiencing pain, he was crying and whining, non-stop. On early Sunday morning, I also found a live tick on my dog. So, not only was the Sentry Pro XFT poisonous to my dog, it was ineffective. The live tick was located in an area that (b) (6) wasn't scratching, so that was not his reason for his itching. After many sleepless nights, and attempting to comfort my dog, I made an emergency veterinary appointment on Monday 5/20/13. The doctor (b) (6) saw was unable to diagnosis his exact issue. He was prescribed antibiotics. After several days of treatment with the antibiotics,	6	Years	Pug	Dog	26	Pound

			with no relief for my suffering dog, I called (b) (6) again. I spoke to (b) (6). I again informed (b) (6) doctor of his symptoms and when it began. This was after he was treated with your product. (b) (6) came to the conclusion, that the reaction my dog is experiencing was from the use of your product. He was prescribed 25 mg of Benadryl every 8 hours, and a bath each day. Later that day, I began to do online research. I came across numerous complainants against this product I had used. I have included a sample of what I discovered. I am very scared of the long-term effect this medication may have on (b) (6). He has barely improved since Wednesday, with the treatment of Benadryl. If he does not improve, he has to go back to the (b) (6) Clinic to be placed on a steroid called Prednisone. These veterinary bills, lost wages from missing work for his appointment, and prescription are costly. Also the cost of the product. (b) (6) does not stop scratching or crying. As I mentioned earlier, I am highly concerned about the long term effects this poisoning may have on my dog. I treated him preventively with the product, not only did it poison him and cause pain, it was not effective in killing a tick. I wanted the FDA to be aware of this situation. I would like to have this product reviewed for safety reasons, I do not wish this on my worst enemy. I hope this experience does not happen to other people. This was a severe hardship and caused my pain to my dog, a member of my family. As I expressed earlier, I love (b) (6). I can't imagine life without him, and he is still young. Please, take this letter into consideration. Thank you.
EON-125472	5/24/2013 15:00	Dogswell Happy Hips Chicken Breast	I gave my dog approximately 6 chicken jerky treats over 3 days around the end of February 2013 until she began vomiting and having diarrhea. I discontinued giving her the chicken jerky at that time. However she has been in slow decline over the past 2 1/2 months resulting in a diagnosis of renal failure on 5/8/2013. On that day she began expensive treatment for renal failure and I now prepare the only food she is given - boiled chicken, white rice and vegetables - and she is given distilled water to drink. She is on medication as well as receives sub Q fluids all of which I administer. I have high hopes that her condition will improve but more than likely, the damage has been done. EON-125237	5/22/2013 21:39	Nutro Max Natural Chicken Meal and Rice Recipe	I have been feeding my dogs nutro max chicken and rice adult pet food for months now with no problems. My husband and I fed the dogs on the 17th as we usually do from a new bag on the 17th of May 2013 and noticed on the 18th of May bloody diarrhea in 2 dogs and regular diarrhea in another. I completely stopped feeding the dogs and provided them pedialyte, rice, carrots, and celery as directed by my vet in the past for my American Eskimo that had surgery last year. However, the bloody stool was effecting my chocolate lab and lab mix ages 1 and 3. After a day of a bland diet the bloody stool and diarrhea disappeared. On May 22nd 2013 in the morning I returned to the same feeding schedule of Nutro Max Chicken and Rice Adult pet food. By 8pm that night the bloody stool had returned to the dog. I took to the internet and found on consumer reports the many problems this dog food has been causing for others that were very similar to my story. I have stopped the use of this product and will not continue to use it.	1	Years	Unknown	Dog	50	Pound

EON-124719	5/19/2013 13:24	Purina Beneful playful life	I believe my dog has an allergy to menadione used in Purina's Beneful. I do not have an accurate date on when the problem started so I entered the date I purchased the last bag of Beneful. I have been feeding both of my dogs Beneful for years. (b) (6) would have episodes where he would vomit large amounts of undigested dog food, go into seizing & have diarrhea. His former vet thought nothing of it because these were periodic episodes & asked me if (b) (6) ate fast (which he does). The former vet stated that putting (b) (6) on seizure medication was more harmful to him than episodic seizures. A friend warned me of complaints against Beneful a few weeks ago. Since then, I have been researching Beneful, the complaints posted on their facebook page & have sent email to Beneful (awaiting response). We took both dogs off Beneful & gave them Blue Buffalo basics on 5-1-13. (b) (6) had 3 more episodes of vomiting & seizures on 5/6, 5/11 & 5/13. The first one was mild but they were getting increasingly worse so I took him to our new vet on 5/13. I talked with my vet about it & he did not think it was the food. He did do a CBC & small animal profile on (b) (6) on 5-13-13. The lab results came back normal but we had to put him on Phenobarbital for seizures. Beneful insists all of the ingredients are approved by you & they admitted they added menadione they source from China. What I found on menadione on your page is that it is banned for use in human supplements & contraindicated for use in horses. I believe my dog (b) (6) & the other dogs are having adverse reactions from the menadione. It is a man made drug. I had no idea what I was feeding my dogs but now that I know, I want others to know. I urge you to stop the use of menadione in dog food as a precaution. Your information on your website regarding the use of menadione is left to the discretion of the manufacturer & states that it is an unnecessary ingredient so why not stop it's use. I am very concerned for the health of other dogs that may be suffering/dying because the effects of menadione has not been proven unsafe. I believe it is a harmful substance for many dogs. Many of the complaints from sick pet owners who gave their dog Beneful include vomiting, diarrhea & seizures. An article I found states that menadione can cause liver toxicity, induce allergic reactions & weaken the immune system. Please, please help.	6	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	38	Pound

EON-124289	5/15/2013 16:09	Purina Indoor Formula	I purchased an 16 lb. bag of Purina Indoor Formula from Petsmart on 3/16/13. I did not open the bag until the night of 3/17. I put approximately ½ cup in the bowl that night and put another ½ up in the bowl on 3/18 at around 0600. At 0615, my cat, (b) (6) seemed okay and was walking around acting normal. Around 0700, I took a shower and was getting ready for work. I blew dry my hair and (b) (6) came into the bathroom and was still acting okay. Then, I got dressed and was just about to put on my makeup when (b) (6) vomited clear liquid and started growling and hissing. You could tell he was in extreme pain. I called my vet's office that morning, 3/18/13, and was told to bring (b) (6) in to see (b) (6). (b) (6) was not sure what was wrong with him. She gave him liquids, steroids, pain meds and high powered antibiotics. That night when I brought him home, he smelled like he was dying. I took him back to (b) (6) the next day for fluids, more meds and an x-ray. When I picked up (b) (6) that night, (b) (6) said that when she drew (b) (6) blood it smelled like ammonia. (b) (6) said she had never smelled anything like this before in all the years she had been in practice. I told her, my cat was acting normal until he ate the new food. (b) (6) told me that when she took (b) (6) x-ray, it showed his digestive tract had stopped working. She told me to take him to another place for an ultrasound. The morning of 3/20/13, I took him to another vetenairy clinic that specialized in ultrasounds. The person who read the ultrasound said there was no course of action for this very perplexing case. That night we took him to an ER for animals and they gave (b) (6) fluids, pain meds, antibiotics, antimetics, and kept him over night. At the ER they took a UA from (b) (6) and his urine was green. The ER vet, (b) (6) had never seen cat urine that was green before. (b) (6) continued on having more day and ER vet appointments in the days that followed. Everyone was perplexed by the cause of what was making (b) (6) sick. (b) (6) is ten years old and has never had any medical conditions before. He has been healthy until after he ate the new food. (b) (6) told me she thought it was the new food and he had food poisoning. (b) (6) said the only treatment for tainted food poisoning was flushing the system, antibiotics, pain meds, and pray. (b) (6) said that after an animal has eaten tainted food the response is normally not positive. If they do respond there could be lingering medical conditions that followed. It has now been a month and half and (b) (6) is still not to baseline. He might not ever be the same but he is alive.	10	Years	Domestic Mediumhair	Cat	11.7	Pound

EON-123937	5/13/2013 10:24	HARTZ Precision Nutrition Powdered Milk Replacer for Kittens	Our mama cat was hit and killed by a car when her kittens were just 2 weeks old. When they were about 3 1/2 weeks old we ran out of the kitten milk replacement we were using, and instead of going to the farm store to get another can, we picked up the HARTZ PRECISION NUTRITION POWDERED MILK REPLACER FOR KITTENS. I used it on Monday and walked into the room to get the kittens for feeding the next morning and found one kitten stretched out in an area all by herself, eyes vacant and unblinking and totally limp and lifeless, although still with a VERY rapid heartbeat and shallow respirations. I massaged her to stimulate her and put the hairdryer on her to warm her since she had been away from the body heat of the other kittens. I held her for about 3 hours and then had to run an errand. My husband came in to check on her and when he touched her she jumped like she had been shot with a bolt of electricity, became very hyperactive - almost frantic for several minutes and then calmed and began to act more normal. She refused to eat the rest of the day. We thought maybe she had suffered from hypothermia so added additional heating to the room for all of the kittens. The next morning, two more kittens were laying lifeless and by afternoon one more became ill. All were hypersensitive to touch at the beginning and end of the episode, would utter plaintive cries of pain, then their eyes would go vacant like they were in a trance, and their bodies would go lifeless except for the racing heartbeat. They were unable to blink their eyes. Fortunately we figured out that the only change had been in the formula and immediately stopped using it. Unfortunately it didn't stop before affecting another kitten, but the effects were shorter lived for that one. The episode for one of the kittens lasted over 12 hours and she and one of the other kittens I was convinced would not survive the ordeal they were so sick. One kitten did not go through all of the symptoms, but prior to the formula change had been the liveliest and most zestful eater. Since the incident with the formula he has lost weight and his eyes are not as bright. Additionally I am having to	3.5	Weeks	Domestic (unspecified)	Cat	10	Ounce almost force feed him to maintain his current weight. So in all, the entire litter was affected. When I went online at amazon.com to order more of the good formula, I just thought I'd look at the HARTZ brand customer comments. Almost all of the comments were warnings to prospective buyers not to purchase the product because it would sicken or kill the kittens. PLEASE do what you can to get this product removed from the market. What those kittens had to go through was horrific to watch and had to have been even more horrible to experience. I posted my experience on Amazon's website also, but unfortunately did not see other's warnings until it was almost too late. I also plan to contact our local Walmart and do what I can to notify the chain, but the stuff can be bought everywhere. It's not fair to put these defenseless, dependent animals through this torture.

EON-123902	5/13/2013 0:48	Purina Beneful Healthy Weight Management	Dog began shaking, vomiting, lethargic, diarrhea, and no bowel control almost overnight after eating a new bag of Beneful dog food. She became so ill that she would not eat the dog food at all which is unlike her which is why her nickname is pig dog. She lost an extreme amount of weight quickly so I began cooking her food for her and she began eating again and getting better. I did not realize at this time that it was the food causing her illness and once she began getting some strength back to walk around I started feeding her the Beneful again mixing it with the homemade food. She began puking immediately again and only would vomit when the food had Beneful mixed in. She fell very ill again so this time I went to the internet to see if maybe it was the dog food and search for a recall. I was shocked at the infinite complaints with the same symptoms and the same dog food. At this point it is absolutely unforgivable that the consumer is not at least afforded the right to know about what dogs have been experiencing after eating this food and let the consumer make an educated decision. The store (Walmart) was out of Purina ONE that day so I picked up a small bag of Beneful Healthy Radiance. The small bag lasted about a week (give or take a few days) and it seemed to be going okay so when she ran out I bought a bigger bad of Beneful and this time it was the Healthy Weight formula. No sooner did I get it home did I find she had an accident on my carpet. Diarrhea to be exact. I didn't think anything of it and just shrugged it off to be an upset stomach. Then her condition seemed to get worse. She has had consistent and almost constant diarrhea for the past 4-5 days. It's like she can't even control herself. I haven't had a single problem with my dog until I started feeding her Beneful. It seems like ever since I started her on it, her health has been declining drastically. She has to spend almost all of her time outside because all she does is have diarrhea. It is very frustrating! I am just absolutely worried sick over my dog's health and I do not know what to do. If Beneful is doing this to my dog then what is it doing to others' dogs. PLEASE HELP!	7	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog

EON-123896	5/11/2013 8:30	Wellness Chicken Formula, Wellness Chicken and Herring Formula	When opened two 12.5 oz cans of Wellness cat food, the food was of a mushy, oily consistency. I did not feed the food to my cats. Then I noticed that if I gently shook other cans with same lots numbers, I could feel the food sloshing around inside the can, whereas ordinarily the food is firm and would never slosh around. Affected lot numbers were MW7 ("chicken and herring formula") and MW10 ("chicken formula"). Cans with other lot numbers bought at the same time from the same store were normal. I still have two affected open cans and two affected unopened cans. I'm not sure if I should bring them back to the store or same them (maybe to be tested).

EON-123889	5/10/2013 19:39	Purina Chef Michael's Oven Roasted Chicken Flavor	Recently purchase Purina Chef Michael's Oven Roasted Chicken Flavor dry kibble dog food on Sunday, April 28th from our local Albertson's - UPC 17800 13391 (MFG: Best if used by Aug 2014 - 30451787 1942L04 3064) on Friday, May 3rd we feed it to our Dog (b) (6) and immediately after eating it she drank 3 bowls of water - a bit unusual but didn't think anything about it until Saturday, May 4th evening when she refused to eat anything and obviously started feeling bad; at approx. 8:30pm she threw up the Chef Michael's food and appeared to be undigested (you could still make out the chicken and pea pieces). After throwing up she drank water and again threw up an hour later and continued to throw up every hour to hour in half - at approximately 5:am we took her outside where she went poop and it was visible that there was blood in her stool. It was then we decided to take her to (b) (6). (b) (6) was completely dehydrated (RedBlood cells were high and her protein was low) they administered Hydration injection, anti-nausea and something to calm the inflammation. We took her home about 8:30am and followed the Vet's instructions on giving her small amounts of water, letting her lick and ice cube etc... once home she continued throwing up... at 6:45pm she went outside to urinate and that was when she had a discharge of bloody mucus diarrhea. We returned to the (b) (6) where the admitted her so that they could put her on an IV and rehydrate her, put her on antibiotics, and gave her a few other aiding injections and care for her as she continued to have Bloody Diarrhea throughout the night/early morning. We returned to (b) (6) at 7:00am Monday, May 6th and transported her to our Veterinarian (b) (6), where they admitted her, keeping her on the IV, also providing her other anti vomiting medication and caring for her and watching her progress... I picked (b) (6) up about 4:00pm and brought her home. (b) (6) is progressively getting better day by day, but it has really taken a toll on her and our family. Our Vet thought it could be very likely that this condition was due to the Purina Chef Michael's food. I have contacted Purina and am waiting to hear back from them.	4	Years	Dachshund - Miniature	Dog	10	Pound

EON-123882	5/10/2013 18:30	Purina Beneful Playful Life	Good Afternoon, I have been feeding my Wire hair fox terrier for several years with Beneful Dog food. Even when there had been problems with other dog food brands several years ago, After checking the list of the brands that were causing problems, since Beneful was not on the list at the time I wasn't concerned. Well a couple of weeks ago I purchased a new bag of beneful at Walmart, I normally get the orange one since she seems to like that one better. However this time I purchased the purple "Playful Life" product. This morning my son informed me that "(b) (6)" would not get up, wasn't eating her food or being her normal overly active self. She is a very hyper and excited dog. She loves to be petted and get hugs, so when there is a drastic change in her behavior like that we are extremely concerned. When I checked her she would not get up, would not eat and we had to urge her to drink her water. She would not lick us, jump on us, or even roll over to have her tummy rubbed. Her feces was like black tar like consistency and when moving it there was a yellow sticky type substance (the shade of the yellow nuggets in the beneful) My thoughts are maybe it is not the whole beneful line but possibly the type (playful life) for instance that may be the problem. I pray that she will recover from this, however I will no longer be purchasing Beneful until I am confident this problem is solved. EON-123498	5/8/2013 9:33	Nutro Large Breed Adult Lamb and Rice	My dog has always eaten this pet food, since we've owned him. Every spring, he blows his coat and suffers mildly from allergies. He had some hot spots on his paws so I took him to the vet where he got an injection of antihistamine and antibiotics for one of the sores on his paws. We did the same thing last year, also while he was eating Nutro. When he blows his coat, his appetite is somewhat reduced, so I was expecting that. And I had read that antibiotics could cause reduced appetite, so I wasn't too concerned with his reduced appetite, as he was drinking water as normal and didn't seem feverish and his eyes and gums looked fine. My husband and I went on vacation and checked him into a kennel we always use, and gave them enough of the Nutro to cover the visit. When we got back, (b) (6) refused to eat. He would wolf down anything else we gave him - biscuits, treats - but he wouldn't touch his kibble. All he'd do is lay around. He's ordinarily a very playful, active dog, so it worried me, but I thought maybe he was being picky after being spoiled at the kennel. After two days, his bowl of kibble was still sitting there untouched, and I couldn't get him to play for more than a minute or two at a time before he'd just lay down. (b) (6) has always been the kind of dog who would eat anything you gave him - he's not picky. And he'd inhale it, whatever it was, so seeing him with no appetite was disturbing. I switched him to white rice and canned chicken, and he inhaled it, and went back repeatedly to lick the bowl, so he was clearly hungry. He just wouldn't eat the Nutro, so I took it away and have not fed it since. He improved overnight! I've never seen a dog bounce back so quickly. He's been on Orijen for a week now, eats his portion in seconds, and is as active as he ever was. (Much to my sometimes chagrin - he's the dog version of Dennis the Menace.) I took the Nutro back to the store I bought it from for a refund, and tried to tell them my concerns, but they were dismissive. I've read lots of complaints about Nutro now, and while (b) (6) didn't seem to suffer some of the more severe symptoms being reported, he definitely suffered lethargy and and a complete unwillingness to eat Nutro. I really believe that it was hurting him, and am relieved that I caught it before it could do him more harm than it did. A last note - we had no problems with Nutro in the past, but only started noticing it with this "New and Improved" formulation, I think. Maybe they changed something in a way that's making the dogs sick? Please investigate! Thank you.	4	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	85	Pound

EON-123011	5/5/2013 15:33	Kirkland Healthy Weight Dog Food	On (b) (6) we bought a bag of Kirkland Healthy Weight dog food instead of the regular Kirkland Mature dog food which we regularly use. The bag of Healthy Weight was grabbed inadvertently, but we did not think there was a problem and decided to use it anyway. On the evening of (b) (6), our adult son, (b) (6) who was staying with us while he was in transition, opened the bag of Healthy Weight to feed his French bulldog ((b) (6)). The next morning, (b) (6) was very sick; she was throwing up and had diarrhea. (b) (6) did not tell us (b) (6) was sick at the time; he thought the illness occurred because of the switch from her regular food. This is the only night he fed his dog from our food as he bought her regular brand the following day. We had another bag of Kirkland Mature dog food that we were finishing off, so our dogs were not fed from the bag of Kirkland Healthy Weight dog food until the evening of (b) (6). The next morning ((b) (6)), all of the dogs were vomiting and had diarrhea. By this time, our oldest dog, Percival also had exaggerated joint pain and stiffness. We assumed the illness may have been caused by switching from the Kirkland Mature dog food to the new Healthy Weight bag. We fed once more the following evening from the Kirkland Healthy Weight bag of dog food. On the morning of the (b) (6) our dogs were still very sick and refused to eat their breakfast so (b) (6) went back to Costco on his way home from work and picked up our regular Kirkland Mature Dog food. By (b) (6), we learned about (b) (6) illness and became convinced that the Healthy Weight dog food was making them ill. Because she was still feeling sick, we did not allow her to nurse her pups that evening and decided that I would take her to the Vet the next morning. The morning of (b) (6), (b) (6) was still very sick and weak. Her head was swollen and she had dropped weight so we took her to the veterinarian, who informed us that her kidneys were failing. (b) (6) was immediately admitted to the veterinarian hospital where she stayed until (b) (6). Upon her release, we were told that (b) (6) would not live more than two months; she died on (b) (6), approximately one month after eating the contaminated dog food). (b) (6), we filed a "Report of Incident" with Costco and told managers (Patrick Young and Ryan Beaupre) what had happened with our dogs. Our claim (# (b) (6)) was opened on (b) (6); we spoke with Costco representatives (Dr. Anderson and Dr. Brookshire) and I released (b) (6) veterinarian records for the Costco representatives to review. We were offered a Costco Gift Card if we would close the case at that time. We were also told that there have been no recalls on any of the Kirkland dog foods since 2008; however, after conducting our own research, we found numerous complaints and recalls involving dog food sold at Costco and other retailers who use Diamond Corporation to make their brand dog food between 2008 and 2012. And all 2010 through 2012 claims had the same indications and symptoms displayed by our dogs. On the day before he left for Christmas vacation, Costco representative (Dr. Tarlow) contacted us and asked for the veterinarian records that we had already previously submitted. He also asked us to dig up (b) (6) body for an autopsy. We immediately called our Veterinarian's (b) (6)

			body for an autopsy. We immediately called our veterinarian's (b) (6) office to determine if the records had been released. We were told the records were faxed to Dr Brookshire a couple of weeks ago and (b) (6) office also faxed the records to Dr. Tarlow. Later that morning, Dr. Tarlow called and told us that he had spoken with (b) (6), and claimed that (b) (6) had stated that it could not have been the dog food that caused our dog's illness. Because of this allegation he was closing our case but, since we had been such good Costco customers, Dr. Tarlow again offered us a Costco Gift Card. We immediately called Dr. White and he denied telling Dr. Tarlow that the dog food did not cause our dog's death. (b) (6) stated that he informed Dr. Tarlow of the fact that (b) (6) kidneys were destroyed from a toxin that was introduced to her, but there was no way to prove where the toxin came from because Costco took the bag of dog food and there was no sample to be tested. Also, it had been too long to diagnose the other dogs. (b) (6) did state that, since all four of our dogs got sick after eating the food, and all stayed sick for several days after eating it, he was highly suspicious that it was the dog food that caused their illness. (b) (6) also stated the only thing an autopsy would prove was that (b) (6) death occurred because her kidneys were destroyed, but the toxin would have already worked its way out of her system. Our family had already suffered through the trauma of losing our dog, and the idea of digging her up for an autopsy that would not prove anything, was unacceptable. However, if it would help our case and Costco wants to exhume the body and pay for the autopsy, they may do so as long as they agree to return and re-inter the body. However, Dr. Tarlow told us that if we want to proceed with this claim, it will be necessary for us to do so through Diamond Corporation's Attorney. I would respectfully like to point

			g p i y p y p out that the Kirkland name is branded on the dog food, therefore we feel that this claim is Costco's responsibility. We feel Costco representatives have not been very sympathetic about the death of (b) (6), and Dr. Tarlow seemed to just want to get the case closed (the case was closed on January 2, 2013). Dr. Tarlow claimed it was not Costco's policy to take dog food back and that the bag of food in question was returned to us. In fact, that is not the case. We purchased another bag of Kirkland Mature dog food, but after we realized our dogs had been poisoned, we did not want to further risk their health. Therefore we returned that bag also. The bag returned to us was the Kirkland Mature dog food, not the Healthy Weight dog food that had poisoned our dogs. We have bought ALL of our dog food at Costco for the past decade; we spent over $2,000 last year alone on Kirkland brand dog foods. After showing this kind of loyalty, I am upset by the treatment and lack of concern on Costco's part.

EON-123004	5/3/2013 22:24	PCI Brand "Chicken Breast Tenders"	(b) (6) is a mixed breed, part Chihuahua, from her appearance. She has been eating Chicken treats for some time with no noted negative effect. A couple of weeks ago, we bought a new container of chicken breast fillets. She did not seem to eat these treats with her usual gusto, sometimes leaving them uneaten. My wife and I both noted this. My wife first noted that (b) (6) was taking longer to urinate than usual, perhaps a week and a half ago. She wondered if (b) (6) was developing a bladder infection at that time. (b) (6) became lethargic, began drinking remarkable amounts of water and urinated with much greater frequency over the next couple of days. Most remarkably, she stopped eating. (b) (6) loves food, so this was very unusual. We took her to the vet and told them that we suspected a UTI. They gave (b) (6) an antibiotic shot, took urine for analysis and sent us home with oral antibiotics. The urine came back quite dilute, with no bacteria found, but with trace glucose. The vet then suspected diabetes and tested her blood, but the blood glucose was normal. A second urinalysis found a greater amount of glucose than the first test. They then tested for Addison's and that came back negative. Then they asked if (b) (6) has been eating chicken treats, as they suspected that this was Fanconi syndrome. (b) (6) eats a lot of these treats, so the vet suspects that this is what we are dealing with. Over the next several days, we force fed (b) (6) but she's been rebounding. She's still drinking and urinating more than usual, but she will willingly eating baby food, so her appetite is definitely better. I suspect that she will make a full recovery, but I wanted to add our case to the body of evidence suggesting that these dog treats are a hazard.	6	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	26	Pound

Corporate when asked stated it was shutdown for scheduled maintenance. This is true, however the contamination is being covered up by using this excuse. This problem has not been reported and needs to be investigated. We were told it had already been reported; which is a lie. They are trying to keep it quiet because of their past violations. They said they would reheat the product to kill the contamination and if they found that the ingrediants came from an outside supplier they would report it on their insurance and they would not be liable. As I said earlier, this needs to be investigated immediately.
