

Limitations: The adverse event and product problem reports contained in this record are not necessarily causally related to (caused by) the reported product, nor do they mean the product was defective. Consumer complaints involving animal foods are received by FDA through voluntary reporting systems. Not all reports undergo follow up actions by FDA; however, each report received is important to FDA as part of our ongoing surveillance efforts related to pet food safety. Trends in reporting can provide an early warning of emerging safety issues of concern.

Other limitations:

- For any given report, there is no certainty that the reported pet food caused the adverse event. The adverse event(s) reported may be more related to an underlying disease, condition, or concomitantly administered medication.
- The report narratives are provided in the form in which we received them, the quality of the information provided about the adverse event/product problem is dependent on the quality of the information received from the veterinarian and/or pet owner.
- Adverse event report numbers should not be used to calculate incidence rates or measures of relative risk. It is not data from a controlled study, and there is no accurate way to know the true size of the population exposed to a product, nor the true population affected with an adverse event.
- Adverse event data should not be used to compare the safety of different products. Many factors can influence reporting, and products that are more widely distributed or sold in greater volume may have more reporting than those with limited distribution or sales. Products for which there has been recent publicity may experience more reporting for a period of time afterwards. Underreporting is also common with adverse event reporting systems.

Two weeks before this happen we had just moved to a new town. (b) (6) population maybe 1000. We did not know a soul. We feed him the same Dog food for years. I know what goes into his body at all times, we are with him 24-7. I ran out of food and at the last minute ran to the only grocery store in town (b) (6) there selection was horrible. I grabbed a bag that stated made by Purina, so I assumed it would be safe little did I know. Within 24hrs after eating one bowl of dog food he became severely sick. He started shooting out enormous amounts of blood from both ends, it terrified my husband and I we have never seen so much blood. It covered all the room, carpet ,walls, you name it. We rush him to the vet right away. We brought the dog food bag with us, knowing this was what made him sick. As soon as he got in the room were the vet could see him, he filled the vets room with blood from both ends. The vet even said I have never seen anything like this. He took blood and gave him antibiotics and 3-4 more medicines . The vet was impressed that we brought the bag of dog food with us, he stated most are not as responsible as ya'll. EON-424427	4/30/2020 1:20	Taste of the Wild Pacific Stream Canine Recipe with Smoked Salmon A Grain-Free Diet	He had thrown up several times. There was no blood of anything like that. He was back to himself the evening of March 12th. The following day my grandson and I took my 2 big dogs to go for a hike. We parked and proceeded to walk across the street to the trail head. (b) (6) collapsed as we were almost all the way across the street. His breathing was labored and he could not stand up. A passerby saw me struggling to carry (b) (6) back to the truck so he stopped and carried him then loaded him into the truck for me. I called the vet but was diverted to another vet who was taking the emergency calls that weekend. I thought he'd be dead by the time we got there. The vet immediately started emergency care. He said (b) (6) was shocky, they were running iv fluids, doing X-rays, doing ultrasounds, drawing labs, giving steroids and other medications. He told he did not know if (b) (6) would make it. He did survive after spending 3 days and nights there but through it all, all the exams and tests the vet is not certain what happened. When I brought (b) (6) home he could barely walk and still had some rattling breath sounds. The vet did tell me to stop feeding the dog food I was using immediately because it is on a list of foods that cause health issues for dogs. The vet did say he believes what happened was some type of cardiac event. He said we could do a troponin level for 220.00 and we could check for taurine deficiency for 400.00 (grain free dog foods are missing taurine and it is needed for heart health), but he said I really need to spend 600.00 for a heart echocardiogram because that will give us the most useful information. He also understood that I had been told several weeks before by my out of state vet that my other large dog needed a heart echocardiogram. So I was facing spending 1,200.00 more than the current tab of over 1,300.00. My other large dog is a Siberian husky. He developed a dry cough. The vets nor I hear any fluid around his heart or lungs. At the vet clinic I use in (b) (6) a vet there told me I should have a heart echo performed on the husky. I was just starting to find out how bad grain free dog food could be for the health of large dogs. The vet that performs the heart echos will not come to (b) (6) until he feels safe due to the China virus. I checked with another clinic here and they use the same vet to do the heart echos. In the mean time I was still feeding my little miniature pinscher the dog food when she became sine with diarrhea and vomiting. My dogs are never sick so this is all very unusual. Also I'd just received a new bag of this dog food the day before (b) (6) collapsed. He had 2 meals from the new bag.	9	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	62	Pound

Recently we purchased a new bag from our vet and noticed that the packing had changed from a green label to gold. (b) (6) now vomits almost every time after he eats which consists of vial and food only (no hair). He also is consuming a significant amount of water. Today we decided to look online and stumbled upon review after review of the identical complaint about this food causing cats to vomit and dehydrate. Obviously concerned we have contacted our vet and I have wrote the manufacturer an email. EON-423782	4/26/2020 5:28	The Honest Kitchen Pumpkin Pour Overs	PET OWNERS BEWARE! The packaging for this product is mislabeled; the promised weight and nutrition facts are not accurate. I contacted The Honest Kitchen over a month ago, hoping it was an “honest” mistake. They said they’d look into it and get back to me, but never did. I started using The Honest Kitchen’s Pour Overs product as a supplement for my elderly dog’s meal. Because of his age, I watch his health and nutrition very closely. It seemed to me like the volume of food in the Pour Overs was less than I expected based on the packaging’s net weight listing, so I weighed the product on our kitchen scale. The net weight advertised on the packaging for this product - 5.5oz/155.9g - is not the actual weight of the food inside. The food weight listed on the label is inclusive of the packaging. The actual food provided is almost 10% less than the label promises. Other brands’ pour overs and wet foods list the actual weight of the food inside without the packaging. The FDA and AAFCO both require this. The Honest Kitchen’s labeled calorie content for these Pour Overs is also based on the inaccurate weight, so if you’re basing your pet’s diet on the brand’s label your pet is consuming less calories per meal than they need. It’s unclear if the guaranteed analysis numbers are also based on this miscalculated weight. I contacted The Honest Kitchen directly in hopes they’d respond and resolve this, but since I haven’t heard back from them, I wanted to warn other pet owners.

EON-423392	4/23/2020 15:44	Science Diet Adult 1-6 Small Bites	My dog and a neighbor dog have been sickened by Science Diet's Small Bites (Chicken and Barley Recipe) April 17, 2020, we opened a new bag of Science Diet Small Bites Dog food. My dog (b) (6) ate two meals of the food, mixed with a little rice and the Science Diet sensitive stomach kibbles. The next morning she vomited. She was very lethargic; her urination was even more unusual than it had been (hardly any large output, even after just waking up in the morning); she had weakness in her back legs when she walked - a slightly wobbly gait; her eyes were not very bright; she was hunched over. But this wasn't the first time we've had a problem with the same dog food. Since we adopted her in December, (b) (6) had always rejected the last quarter of a 4 pound bag of the Small Bites. She wouldn't eat it. I had to throw it out - every bag. The one exception is the previous bag, which she just finished. She refused to eat the bottom quarter, but I mixed it with rice and a stew dog food to make it more appealing. We even gve her treats to eat it because she continued to refuse at first. (I pushed it on her because I was worried that we might have a hard time getting more dog food eventually, if quarantining lasted a long time.) Looking back since December or January, around the time we pushed the "bottom of the barrel" on her, she started acting strange - withdrawing, scared, hunched over, lethargic, unfocused, urinating alot but usually very little each time, not very bright eyed. When we gave her food from the new bag, she continued to have these siymptoms but also vomited for the first time. I wasn't sure the food was hurting her until I gave some of the newly opened food to a neighbor for her dog. Her dog devoured it for one night, but then refused to eat it from then on. Since last Saturday, I have not given her this Science Diet food. I have given her boiled chicken, rice, chicken broth and some vet-supplied W/D. Is there still a Vitamin D problem with Science Diet dog food ? I have alot of food left, which can be tested. Thank you.	4	Years	Terrier - Jack Russell	Dog	18	Pound

He has been eating Purina Fancy Feast Gravy Lovers canned food for 3 yrs now and loves it. I recently purchased a 30 can variety package from online pet supplier Chewy.com. He refused to eat the first 3 days I started feeding him from this package, even bolting away from his dish when I set it down for him. I stopped feeding for a few days, then tried again about 4 days later. He ate about 1/2 of the can then walked away. Approximately 15 minutes later he vomited. He still will not eat any of the Gravy Lovers product from that package. I purchased some cans of Gravy lovers and some cans of the Grilled Chicken canned foods that day from Walmart. He is eating the Grilled Chicken product without any issues but will not touch the Gravy Lovers products. I do not not what is wrong with this particular product but I strongly feel there is something wrong with it. I noticed that in the last few months there are other cat owners who have similar stories concerning Fancy Feast foods. I have not called Purina, as others are saying that Purina is denying any product issues and just send them coupons. My hope is that others have also expressed their concerns with you as well so that it can be looked into and hopefully keep other's pets from becoming sick.	11	Years	Domestic Mediumhair	Cat	10	Pound

This is the same food she has been eating for the better part of a year. We tried mixing her kibble with rice and other milder foods but she saw no relief. Her stool was tested and she was found to have a bacterial imbalance. She was treated with antibiotics and prescription kibble. She was one week past the antibiotics and acting normally, so we started introducing small amounts of her regular kibble back into her diet. She has gone from perfectly normal stools to liquid after one meal of the regular kibble. It has taken this episode to realize the new bag of dog food may be the culprit. EON-423167	4/21/2020 23:36	Sheba Perfect Portion Multipack Paté	I have a multipack of Sheba's "Perfect Portions" and upon opening some of the wet food containers they are moldy. I had a pack before where I noticed mold on a few pouches (about half) and threw those away. I did feed the remaining ones (might have been stupid looking back on it, but I am in a rural place and I did not want to go out for more food during a pandemic). In this pack, all the ones I opened so far (3) are moldy. The best by date is: 07/2020. UCP code: 2310012400. I think the batch code is: 838D14JC02. I will not be feeding the rest and will be holding on to them until the best by date runs out in case you want to collect them. I do not know how important these things are to you, but especially in a time were everyone is worrying about the pandemic and is short on money, I don't want cats to get sick and potentially die from food poisoning. Sheba is not a good food brand, I know that, but food should not mold before the due date. And usually by the time it is moldy, I suspect it is already bad. I am fortunate enough to have food from a different, more high quality brand, as well as balanced raw food, but many do not. I don't know anything about your job, but I would hope this food gets recalled. I did notify Sheba, and I will also be notifying "Truth About Pet Food". I am telling you this for transparency reasons. I will also be keeping an eye on my cats. If they get sick, I will find out what made them sick, and go against Sheba. Another reason why I am holding on to this food, as I highly suspect that more of these packs are moldy. The date below is the approximate day I opened the first pack with moldy food.

We adopted (b) (6) in July of 2019 for a rescue. He was in perfect health as I took him to our vet when he came to live with us. My husband started to walk him after the weather warmed up, he started with a cough and noticed his breathing was not right. We took him in and started on antibiotics and steroids. After a few days, we did not see any improvements so back to the vet. This time we took x rays, after the doctor reviewed it, I was told his heart was enlarged and lungs full of fluid. The vet suspect it was from the food since he was healthy prior to all of this happening. (b) (6) went home with Lasix and multiple antibiotics. His symptoms improved but once the Lasix was finished, he was back to struggling to breath. Called the vet and she suggested he will need to be on the Lasix for the rest of his life due to the damage it has caused. He was on the medicine three times a day and we had to reduce it to twice a day after three days, but he went down hill. His body couldn't do it any more, his lungs filled up and he was coughing trying to get the fluid out. From the coughing, he bloated. I took him to the vet and she said, even if we did surgery, she didn't think he would make it because of his heart. We contacted Nutro corporate office, they said there was nothing they can do about it since the FDA has not pin point it to their food.....I wanted to contribute to the investigation of this type of dog food as it took my boy from me and left me heartbroken.	5	Years	Mastiff	Dog	140	Pound

EON-422873	4/19/2020 18:08	Good'n'Fun Triple Flavor Kabobs, Good'n'Fun Triple Flavor Rolls	To address my (b) (6) teething and need to chew, on April 6, 2020 I bought a bag of Good'n'Fun Tripple Flavor Rolls and a bag of Good'n'Fun Triple Flavor Kabobs at the local Walmart in (b) (6). On or around April 10th, I gave (b) (6) one of the rolls and a kabob to chew on. He chewed regularly on the roll and devoured the kabob, so I gave him another kebob on April 12th, and April 14th, while he continued to chew on his roll. Since giving (b) (6) these products, despite the fact that no changes were made to his routine or diet, I began noticing his stool was becoming increasingly soft. By April 14th I noticed that he was eating less and less and seemed to be increasingly lethargic. On the morning of April 16th when I let him out of his cage, he defecated on the floor before he could get outside. Then at 2 AM on April 18th he had an episode of diaherra so severe that he defecated in his cage around 2 AM. After cleaning him and the cage up, I put him back to bed, but when I went to get him at 7 AM, he had had another episode of bad diaherra, and afterward he would not eat anything, was very lethargic, and started vomiting and dry heaving. Since it was a Saturday, I took him to the (b) (6). After the vet hydrated him, checked his blood work, and gave him an X-ray, she diagnosed him with gastroenteritis and prescribed an antibiotic, anti-nausea medication, and probiotics. He was unable to stand up that evening, but today he is better; I am to take him back to his vet on Monday for a follow-up. Last night I started reflecting on possible causes for his illness and I remembered his stool problems started shortly I had given him the Good'n'Fun products to chew on, so I decided to research them for any prior problems. From my research, I discovered that in June 2017 there had been a recall of these products because quaternary ammonium compound mixture as a processing aid in the manufacturing of rawhide chews, but at that time the products were processed in South America. I also learned that the FDA had identified many problems with Chinese imported dog treats, including the use glycerin during processing, that these treats often lead to gastroenteritis. Both products have glycerine listed as an ingredient and were made in China (distributed by United Pet Group located in VA, a division of Spectrum Brands, Inc. The expiration date for the kabobs is 11/28/21 and the rolls is 11/30/2022. Other identifying info on the package of the kabobs is YU 19 333 J2D039 and on the package of the rolls is Lot# Ja19303. Of note is that I also have a 14 year old Shih Tzu who did not eat these products and has not had any gastroenteritis or other illnesses.	7	Months	Maltese	Dog	8	Pound

On Wed, Thurs, and Friday dog was fed Science diet just like was being fed at the shelter prior. Friday the dog was given one "Nothin' to Hide Rawhide Alternative" made by Fieldcrest Farms. Fri night the dog would not eat dinner. Sat she ate chicken and rice and then a "Stuffed Peanut Butter Roll made by Poochie. Two hours later she was throwing up (3x) within a 2 hr period. Then she was fed small pieces of chicken and rice and a small piece of hotdog. She vomited after every food offering and after any water consumption for the rest of that day. She was taken to the (b) (6) on Sunday (b) (6). They gave her subQ fluids, an anti-vomiting injection, and they took two abdominal x-rays to rule-out a foreign body (obstruction). The x-rays were normal except for some gas. She was sent back home on a bland diet. When she got home, she had some diarrhea and she would not eat. She continued with vomiting and anorexia for 2 more days. On Wed (b) (6) she very lethargic and her gums were yellow so they took her back to the ER. She was admitted to the ER where they took blood, started her on IV fluids, ultrasounded her abdomen. The ultrasound of her kidneys and liver was fine. The bloodwork showed anemia, infection, bilirubinemia, and extremely high kidney values (creatinine of 19). She did not respond to critical care treatments and she declined through the day and into the next morning until she was in lateral recumbancy, trembling, and not producing any urine despite 24 hours of IV fluids. Humane euthanasia was performed. There is one test for Leptospirosis still pending.	10	Months	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	45	Pound

EON-422636	4/17/2020 3:24	Kaytee Yo Chips Berry Blend Flavored Treat (artificially flavored)	My bunny of 7 years was in perfect health. On (b) (6), I found her dead on the floor in her room. Few days prior, I started giving her Kaytee Yo Chips Berry Blend I purchased from Amazon in March. She got slightly sick and wasn't eating. I thought perhaps it was just some fur she may have swallowed during grooming. She got better after being fed water and gas-x for children. I decided to lessen the treats as well as I was suspecting it may be them but she has been eating similar treats for the past 7 years of her life without issue. The night before she died, she remained playful but kept staring off into space which was slightly strange. Generally, when she is sick she mopes around and hides but did not so I wasn't suspecting illness. On (b) (6) she was dead. I found an abnormally large bowel movement in her cage, alongside diarrhea. That is an indicator of GI stasis due to diet and the only thing that differed were the treats. The bag actually says I can give 8-16 for larger rabbits and 4-8 for smaller. I only gave 1-2 a day and gave none the night prior and she still died. After looking into the reviews on Amazon, while most seem good, I ended finding several comments stating their rabbits were hospitalized or dead after. One was in February stating one day of the treats and rabbit was dead next day. These treats are poisonous and I am not the only one who has come fourth. Shame on the company and shame on amazon for not flagging the comments and allowing this company to sell such horrendous "treats". My bunny probably died in pain and died by herself and it was my fault for feeding her this rat poison. I have had her for 7 years and have never had any issues with treats up until this last week. I only wish I saw those bad reviews prior. I would've never bought anything from amazon to begin with.	8	Years		Rabbit	5.5	Pound

EON-422482	4/15/2020 20:52	4Health Grain Free Beef and Potato Formula	(b) (6) was a rescue pet, and her age is estimated. She was in need of a teeth cleaning and got it on 3/3/2020. Prior to the cleaning, she had an exam where she was given Meloxicam for arthritis on 2/10/2020. She had been on grain-free food since I got her (for about 3 years) since she was allergy prone (assuming that would help). Around (b) (6), she started getting very bloated and breathing hard and fast (panting about 55 breaths per minute). We took her to a different vet on (b) (6) where they were they did an X-ray and were able to see fluid in her chest and an enlarged heart (they also found a BB where someone had shot her at some point in her life), and they told us to take her off the grain-free food and meloxicam immediately as those are common side effects. We took her off of everything right away, but she started shaking and would not eat, and eventually she started having black, bloody stools, her legs gave out completely, and she started making loud crying noises like she was in a lot of pain on (b) (6) where we had to make the most painful decision ever and put her to sleep around midnight. This was during a time where we were not even allowed to enter the vet's office due to the COVID-19 outbreak, and they had to come to our car to do it. It was truly heartbreaking. We were not aware of any prior heart or kidney issues before this event---she had no signs of any failure prior to (b) (6) While being older may have contributed some, I think the above events caused it to happen and likely happen much faster.	10	Years	Spaniel (unspecified)	Dog	32	Pound

Also, he seemed distended in the abdominal area. I made an appt to bring him to his reg. vet the day before his 7 yr old bday on March 17. Upon evaluation of an exray, it appeared he had a tumor on his heart near the base of the aorta. We immediately drove to a cardiology specialist for further evaluation. It was there it was determined he had a benign chemodactoma, but was leaking fluid in the pericardium space, and he had accumulated alot of fluid. They drained the fluid and also a second time two weeks later. My last option was to do the pericardectomy surgery so the fluid could drain and be absorbed in his body. That was performed in April 2019. He made a full recovery and is back to his active self, but he endured so much in 2019.	8	Years	Terrier - Boston	Dog	27	Pound

I switched her from her usual dry kibble to Fancy Feast wet food to ease her stomach, since common side effects of doxycycline are vomiting, diarrhea, and loss of appetite. After a week of treatment, the vet determined my cat's condition was unchanged and more bloodwork showed she had asthma. However, three days after her last doxycycline dose, my cat's vomiting had gotten significantly worse. She would violently vomit one to several hours after every meal to the point where she couldn't keep any food down. She also started having increasingly uncontrollable diarrhea. She was given anti-nausea meds (Cerenia) which would stem the vomiting temporarily, but the diarrhea got worse until it was the consistency of chocolate milk. This continued for three days. The third day she was so lethargic she wouldn't leave her bed and completely ignored her food and water. I rushed her to the ER for dehydration, and she was given fluids. When she got home she showed some interest in her food, followed by vicious diarrhea hours later, and she became so lethargic she would lie down in the middle of walking down the hall. I finally noticed that her symptoms had drastically worsened at the same time I'd stopped giving her her usual food and started her on Fancy Feast wet food. I found dozens of reviews of Fancy Feast that described her symptoms exactly, and I immediately switched her back to her old food. Two days later, after steady improvement, she was completely normal - no diarrhea or vomiting whatsoever, playing with her toys and drinking water again.	8	Years	Domestic (unspecified)	Cat	9	Pound

This time they caused bad diarrhea, to the put where the food came out of his anus exactly as it had gone into his mouth! Undigested. I then put him on Instinct raw boost mixers Immune Health and it turned his urine orange. I thought it was blood and rushed a urine sample to my vet. Urine is ok no blood. So vet advised not giving this food for several days and see if urine color goes back to normal so I put (b) (6) back on the Chicken Flavor and the diarrhea came back. Also cause diarrhea in my other pom who is 7 years old. I am very concerned this is a bad bag. I have two other bags which I will check the lot on.	2	Years	Papillon - Spaniel - Continental Toy (with erect ears or with dropped ears (Phaléne))	Dog	3	Pound

EON-421333	4/8/2020 20:00	Canine Carry Outs	On 1/23/20 I purchased the "Canine Carry Outs" Dog treats from a local Walmart and gave them to my dog around 6pm. approx. 2 hours later my dog (b) (6) began to show signs of lethargy and loss of motor function. Without any idea of what sort of issue he was having I rushed him to the emergency vet as he looked very ill and sedated. Upon Intake I provided only what I speculated the problem could've been with him but since I least expected a commercially sold dog treat from a local Walmart, the Vet Recommended blood tests, fluid administration, overnight stay etc I ended up incurring over $1000 worth of bills. The Toxicity report the vet gave me when I picked the dog up was due to Garlic/Onion. I had brought the "Canine Carry Out" Treats with me the next day to show the Vet what he had eaten just before this occurrence and he was taken aback by the highly toxic ingredients in the product. Please advise me as to what I can do to not only recoup from the costs of the visit but to save other dog owners from these very harmful treats. Thank you.	2	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	49.3	Pound

EON-421208	4/7/2020 22:16	Purina Bella grilled chicken pate 05049208 Purina Bella filet mignon	On Friday March 13 I had to rush my oldest dog in emergent into the vet. She was experiencing bloody diarrhea, hypothermia anemia, shock, and by all means dying. Through blood work her liver enzymes were well over 1000. We were puzzled she had not got into anything that could have done this. I never keep poisons in my house and all medicines are kept well out of reach in locked bottles. The only thing the vet could figure is it was something she ate. After days of wailing and planning on cremating my dog I finally got a call. They don't know how or why but she has recovered. After bringing her home I was on strict orders for a bland diet I'm small increments for 3 days then slowly introduce regular food. I followed vets orders to perfection couple teaspoons a day of rice and turkey. On the third day I introduced back Bella wet dog food she immediately committed. I thought this was my fault I gave to much to fast something so I restarted. Day 6 reintroduced the Bella wet dog food a second time with the same result. After the second occurrence I realized it wasn't me it was the dog food. I asked my mom how the other 3 dogs have been she replied with " I have been having to limit there food because they have terrible bloody diarrhea". That's when I knew it was the Bella dog food. I immediately stopped feeding all my dogs the Bella and switched to a different dog food. Like magic all my dogs bounced back no more vomiting no more bloody diarrhea. This dog food needs to be recalled immediately. It's killing dogs shutting livers down. It is poisoning our beloved pets. I will never buy Purina ever again. I have two dogs, senior Dachshund & one year old Golden Retriever. Plan was to take Golden off 4-health puppy food & only buy one food. So I bought the new product " Strive 4heath" I Slowly started the change by mixing with present food. After 7-days dog refused to eat food. The Dachshund became ill, with blood in stool. (he does have other health problems) Took to Vet & blood test shows he has kidney failure. He is eating Hills KD special food now, I am not sure he will survive the kidney problem. I could not afford to test the Golden. I changed Golden to his old food & after 7-days he seems ok or some better. If it was just the senior dog I would not suspect the food. EON-420210	3/31/2020 13:12	Hills Science Diet Chicken & Barley	Bad canned food from Amazon deliveries received on 3-4-20, 2 pallets of 12 cans. (b) (6) (dog that was effected) was eating ½ can of science diet and dry food mixed- dry food was eaten prior to, during , and after introduction of suspected bad canned food . Initially fed dog ¾ can from new delivery of the science diet wet food along with the dry food, & diarrhea began within 4-6 hours. Immediately stopped the canned food and gave dog only dry food; I was not sure what caused the diarrhea at the time so I stopped the only thing that was different prior to onset of symptoms, the wet canned food. I began feeding dog only dry food for approx 1 week, diarrhea slowly stopped, I continued to only give dry food for next week after and poops returned to normal. I then after a few more day after poops were normal( about 2 1/2 weeks) introduced the suspected canned food, mixed with the dry food which I continued to fed while diarrhea slowly stopped and introduced the wet food once again. The diarrhea began again after 4-6 hours. I again stopped the wet food and within a 5-6 day period poops were again normal. I have the barcode of the 2nd can that was fed to my dog only, at the initial onset of diarrhea, I did not know it was the canned food which caused the symptoms yet and tossed the can. The Amazon deliveries that caused the problem were dated best Before 10 2021 but the batch SKU were mixed. I have all but 2 -3 of the cans still from the deliveries of canned food that caused the diarrhea. I do have the SKU from the 2nd can I knew the issues from however, I do not know the SKU of the initial can that caused the diarrhea, because the 2 deliveries of 12 cans, the 24 cans contained a mix of skus which I can provide all but 2 cans . No vet care was needed, because I immediately stopped feeding the suspected canned food, had I not been closely overseeing the feeding and know my dogs poop ( I walk her daily and have been picking up her poops for the past 3 years daily) the issue could have required vet appoint and eventually a very sick or dead dog could of been my situation.	7	Years	Catahoula Leopard Dog	Dog	44	Pound

We have to go through the food each time we open a can for large size bones- frequently more than an inch long and very thick. We have noticed in happening in the majority of the cans. You can see that they grind up the bones with the food but now we have to be very careful because so many of the bones are large and a pet could choke on them. Our cat loves this food but am concerned about the quality control of the product with the large bones in the cans. I would hate to see them take it off the market but something needs to be done about the danger this is with pets. I think it has been happening for awhile now and we just go thru the product carefully, we lost one cat last year and she was coughing frequently which may have been caused by the bones. They do have an excessive amount of ground up bones in this product but again our living cat likes the food.

Shortly before, we set an appt for annual physical with Vet. Vet listened to heart, asked assoc to listen, both thought a bit odd. He suggested we follow-up with a Cardiologist and ECHO, which we did. The Cardiologist said it is DCM (Dilated Cardiomyopathy). We confirmed that (b) (6) was on a high quality grain free dry, but that we mix freeze dried and some wet. She told us to change to Grain,-no more grain free or BEG suppliers; our Breeder (also a Vet) looked at the report, asked up to change to Royal Canin for Golden Retrievers, added Taurine, and another heart supplement for now; and our local vet sent us to a support group for DCM owners, so we could learn more. (b) (6) pants more, but is normal most the time. They are all hoping, the damage is reversible. The prior food fed was consistently " Lotus Oven Baked small bites, Sardine & Herring". We thought he was doing fine on it, loved everything about it- except when this was diagnosis, and informed it may well be causing the disease with high legume content. She goes crazy for it, which is unusual for a dog that is given real food. We only gave it to her for breakfast at most 1/4 cup. For the past 10to 12 weeks, she has gotten really hyper. And she developed severe runs. She was unwell and we didn't know why. It took us weeks to figure it out. The runs got so bad I put her on plain boiled meat and rice. Upon giving her Nutro, we noticed it was causing her symptoms. It's like she is on amphetamines when we give her this food. Her entire system speeds up and she has a lot of gastrointestinal discomfort, sharp pains, edgy behavior, can't sit still, uncomfortable, weird barking. When we stop it, it takes her 3 days to get it out of her system and then she is normal again. We feel this could kill her. EON-418780	3/20/2020 14:12	Blue Buffalo Basics Limited Ingredient Grain Free Formula, Blue Basics Limited Ingredient wet bood	in 2019, our vet recommended a grain free food from Blue Buffalo. We fed her this limited diet, senior food for an entire year. Occasionally, when we would open a new bag, she would have stomach cramps & diaherrea and need to go outside to go to the bathroom quite often. This was perplexing, but we didn't really even connect the dots, so I would throw out that bag & open a new one. The vet recommended moving to adding wet food as well, so we did. Everything would be fine. She started having what we thought were cute breathing sounds when she was sleeping, sounding like snoring. She stopped liking to go on walks, which is very unusual as she loves to go on walks. Suddenly, after eating she had a seizure. I scheduled an appointment with our vet's office, which put us with a new vet within the clinic. She discovered a severe heart murmur and after an X-ray, she determined (b) (6) has developed mitral valve disease, is retaining water & her lungs are affected by excess water. Her trachea is also collapsing. Her heart is very swollen. Just one year before, she was completely healthy. The vet then asked about her diet, in which I told her what was recommended last year. The vet told me that a grain free diet could be a contributing factor and told me to research it. We are furious and devastated by this and are so upset by Blue Buffalo's manufacturing inconsistencies.	11	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog	22	Pound

EON-418475	3/18/2020 16:48	Rachel Ray Dog Food, Coffee products jelly crisco nuts	I am an employee of (b) (6). We ship pet and human food. I have been working for this company (b) (6) and have observed several behaviors that our operations team cover up that goes against FDA regulations. For example, a truckload of dog food was returned to our facility because it was infested with bugs. The operations team just unloaded the trailer and put the product back into production without inspecting the product. The product was then shipped out again. Also, the operations team has frequently loaded empty trailers with product on our dock to hide it so that it appears our warehouse is cleaner than it actually is. When they load the random items onto a trailer, the product sits on our yard for several days with no seal on the trailer which allows anyone to access the product and potentially add harmful agents to the product. Our operations team has also recently forced several associates to stay at work when they were visibly sick. They are exposed to this product and their saliva gets on the product when they sneeze or cough. With the recent Coronavirus concerns, this is extremely troubling. I have brought up these concerns several times to our Supply Chain Leader and he brushes things under th rug and pretends things like this are not happening. I am concerned because my pet consumes the dog food that we ship and if anything were to happen to her due to their negligence it would be unforgivable. Also, the break room at our location is ALWAYS deplorable. We have mold in the refrigerators, the temperatures are not right for storing food, we never have soap to wash our hands in either the break room or bathroom. We were also promised a cleaning station equipped with Clorox wipes, hand sanitizer, and disinfectant spray so that the associates can clean their work equipment but the cleaning station was never provided. We also have had several rodent sitings that have not been reported. We frequently have dog food outside our dock doors that attract insects and bugs and rodents but it takes several days if not weeks to clean the dog food up. Associates eat on the production floor and leave chip bags and soda cans strewn throughout the warehouse. There is also several issues outside of the facility. Truck drivers will urinate in bottles and throw them in the parking lot and our sanitation team refuses to clean them up so they will be sitting outside for weeks on end. There are so many issues at this facility it is ridiculous. I really think someone from the FDA needs to come investigate without notice because any time we have an audit, they make the associates work crazy overtime to try and clean up before the audit happens. Please investigate these issues.

EON-417773	3/12/2020 23:32	ZIWI Peak Air-Dried Mackerel & Lamb Recipe for Cats	Simply put, Ziwi Peak canned and air-dried foods for cats have a very high kcal content. For my currently 5kg cat, who is overweight, they suggested, based on their online feeding calculator, for me to feed her 294 kcal to maintain the weight. Based on vets recommendations, for her to lose weight I should feed her about 80 percent of that food. That would mean she would be getting 235 kcal. This is above the general recommendation for a cat her size! Anyways, I have been feeding her the air-dried food for roughly 2 months now and she went from 4.8kg to 5kg. The company suggested I feed her less, eventually going down to around 218 kcal, which is still too much. I have asked the company twice about why their food has such high calories and why they do not adjust with their online feeding calculator according to if a cat has been spayed or its activity level. Their answers continue to insist that their food is nutrient dense, but refuse to address my concerns about the amount of kcal in the food. I spoke with my vet on this issue and she recommended I go back to feeding her kibble for weight loss. So I am switching to another brand. However, I am still concerned about how many kcal this company is recommending. My hope is that you could look into this and at the very least ask the company to address or better explain why it is okay for their food to have such a high kcal count. For reference, below is their first email response to me and their last answer to my length email questioning the amount of kcal in their food compared with other companies and compared with vet recommendations. "Our air-dried food is an excellent choice for overweight pets. EON-417664	3/12/2020 9:00	Rachel Ray	- Dilated cardiomyopathy phenotype with globally decreased left ventricular systolic dysfunction and congested heart failure - (b) (6) has been diagnosed with a heart disease characterized by decreased pumping and relaxation functions of the heart. The main causes of this are: 1) Idiopathic dilated cardiomyopathy - This is a primary heart muscle disease that can result in secondary rhythm disturbances. This carries a genetic predisposition and is a diagnosis of exclusion. 2) Tachycardia-induced cardiomyopathy - In this form of the disease, the rapid heart rate comes first and paces the heart into poor pumping function. The way to diagnose this is to control the heart rhythm/rate and see if pumping function returns. (b) (6) has not had evidence of a rapid heart rate so this is not high on our differential list. 3) Myocarditis - This refers to heart muscle inflammation that, in dogs, can be secondary to a number of infectious diseases. You have elected not to submit a blood test (troponin) to assess for this unlikely condition. 4) Diet-associated dilated cardiomyopathy - Recent data has revealed an association between boutique grain-free and exotic diets with the development of dilated cardiomyopathy phenotype in dogs. The FDA is currently investigating this link further. In these cases, changing the diet can result in improvement, or even resolution, of left ventricular systolic dysfunction. Another form of dietary dilated cardiomyopathy phenotype involves taurine deficiency. You have elected to hold off on submitting a taurine level to the lab at this time. We will start (b) (6) on taurine supplementation, as described below. The end result of these processes is dilation of the heart chambers, increase in intracardiac pressures, and eventual congestive heart failure if the process cannot be reversed. Congestive heart failure is evidenced by lethargy, coughing, rapid or labored breathing, abdominal distention, weakness, exercise intolerance, or collapse. Some dogs with this disorder, and certain breeds in particular (Dobermans and Boxers) are at higher risk of sudden death due to abnormal heart rhythms. (b) (6) has evidence of severe cardiac changes and continued, albeit now only very mild congestive heart failure today. Our treatment goals will be aimed at changing (b) (6) diet and improving her cardiac function. We will plan to monitor her for any signs of improvement or progression in the future. <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- Ventricular Premature Complexes (VPCs)</li><li>- Moderate Pulmonary Hypertension (PHT)</li></ul>	7	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	28.8	Kilogram

Ideally, we would recheck (b) (6) after being off all cardiac medications to ensure she continues to do well before giving our final blessing with her diagnosis - Degenerative valve disease / endocardiosis - (b) (6) cardiac valves are mildly thickened with continued, mild regurgitations. He weighed 150 lbs roughly 5 months ago. I noticed signs of what I thought were because he might be anemic. I took him to his vet. After tests, they believed he had congestive heart failure which was also allowing fluid in his left lung and an enlarged liver. I took (b) (6) back to his vet for a liver aspiration, which came back negative for cancer. At this point he had gone from 150 lbs to 118 lbs. I was referred to a cardiologist, (b) (6)(b) (6). He confirmed that (b) (6) had DCM and that it was more probable than not that this was from a grain free diet. I was feeding him Blue Wilderness grain free beef dog food with life bits for over a year. He is being monitored every week with an ECG to see if he improves. Cans	My cat had been having bloody diarrhea, vomiting and avoiding litter pan for months. I didn't know it was the food problem at first, plus her symptoms were on and off so I kept feeding her Fancy Feast by Purina. But 2 months ago (Jan, 2020), I ordered a new case of FF. She suddenly got very sick, lost so much weight, not responding to calls, not drinking water, her diarrhea was so bad that she couldn't control it at all, and I thought she was dying. I took her to the vet for several times, did blood tests, x-rays &amp; everything. Vet said she was seriously dehydrated, having minor infections in the intestines and it was her food problem. So I stopped feeding her FF and the diarrhea &amp; vomiting was gone almost instantly. In the past week, she's still having some minor problems defecating but she's having a normal life again, she's no longer hiding, she's eating and drinking fine and enjoying human interactions again. She's obviously recovering.

We had begun to see problems with this food in the form of (b) (6) defecating all over our house, in the form of dark stools, but we thought the diarrhea may have been due to a change in his diet. Then on (b) (6) , after feeding (b) (6) Blue Buffalo for breakfast, he started shaking violently from side to side, then for most of the day, defecating and throwing up the food he ate. He was also lethargic and slow moving all day long (this is an extremely active and fast moving dog, and slow movements is out of character for him). When we touched him, he would shake violently and yelp in pain. Patient was up to date on vaccines making kennel cough less likely; patient was prescribed an antitussive. Patient was seen again on March 6th by the family's regular vet for worsening respiratory issues, lethargy and decreased appetite. Chest radiographs were taken which revealed severe cardiomegaly and signs of L-CHF. Owners were advised at this point to take patient to local ER hospital. On ER presentation (3/6/2020), TFAST revealed severely dilated heart chambers with poor contractile function. Patient was placed in oxygen cage. Echocardiogram showed that the LV walls were thin with markedly reduced contractile function. LV cavity was markedly dilated as well as the LA. MV appeared mildly thickened and appeared to have an abnormal papillary accessory attachment in the LV. RH and PA were also dilated. Trace PCE. No pleural effusion or ascites. Echocardiogram was consistent with severe DCM resulting in CHF as the cause for cough and dyspnea. Given the long term history of a BEG diet, it is possible that these changes are related to nutritional imbalance, and may potentially improve with diet change and medical treatment. Some cases of diet related cardiomyopathy do not improve despite strong suspicion that there is a dietary component. There also could be a component of mitral valve disease (degenerative or dysplasia), but it will not be possible to tell until we see if her heart size decreases and results in a decrease in the MR. Recommend diet change as directed by (b) (6). Recommend treatment with pimobendan and furosemide, with addition of an ACE inhibitor and taurine supplementation when eating and not azotemic. EON-417355	3/9/2020 12:24	Blue Buffalo Grain Free Diet	Dilated cardiomyopathy phenotype with globally decreased left ventricular systolic dysfunction - (b) (6) has been diagnosed with a heart disease characterized by decreased pumping and relaxation functions of the heart. The main causes of this are: 1) Idiopathic dilated cardiomyopathy - This is a primary heart muscle disease that can result in secondary rhythm disturbances. This carries a genetic predisposition and is a diagnosis of exclusion. 2) Tachycardia-induced cardiomyopathy - In this form of the disease, the rapid heart rate comes first and paces the heart into poor pumping function. The way to diagnose this is to control the heart rhythm/rate and see if pumping function returns. Dexter has not had evidence of a rapid heart rate so this is not high on our differential list. 3) Myocarditis - This refers to heart muscle inflammation that, in dogs, can be secondary to a number of infectious organisms. We have submitted a troponin (specialized blood test) to assess for this condition. Dexter's troponin was increased, which may be secondary to his arrhythmia or an infectious disease process. Infectious disease testing involves blood tests sent to an outside laboratory. 4) Diet-associated dilated cardiomyopathy - Recent data has revealed an association between boutique grain-free and exotic diets with the development of dilated cardiomyopathy phenotype in dogs. The FDA is currently investigating this link further. In these cases, changing the diet can result in improvement, or even resolution, of left ventricular systolic dysfunction. Another form of dietary dilated cardiomyopathy phenotype involves taurine deficiency. You have elected to hold off on submitting a taurine level to the lab at this time. We will start (b) (6) on taurine supplementation, as described below. The end result of these processes is dilation of the heart chambers, increase in intracardiac pressures, and eventual congestive heart failure if the process cannot be reversed. Congestive heart failure is evidenced by lethargy, coughing, rapid or labored breathing, abdominal distention, weakness, exercise intolerance, or collapse. 			Some dogs with this disorder, and certain breeds in particular (Dobermans and (b) (6)s) are at higher risk of sudden death due to abnormal heart rhythms. As has progressed to the congestive stage of this disease, we recommend the below therapies, in addition to a diet change. ?Mild Pulmonary Hypertension (PHT) - This is a mild elevation in the blood pressure of the vessels that lead from the right side of the heart into the lungs. PHT can be caused by long-standing left-sided heart disease (likely cause in Dexter) or primary lung disease (including occlusive diseases such as heartworm disease or pulmonary thromboembolism). In severe PHT, the right side of the heart is overworked and can begin to fail (right-sided congestive heart failure), causing fluid accumulation within the abdomen or around the lungs. This can be seen as abdominal distention and/or respiratory difficulties. The degree of PHT is currently mild and does not require specific therapy at this time. ?Ventricular Premature Complexes (VPCs) and ventricular tachycardia - These are early heart beats originating from the lower heart chambers (ventricles). These have many different causes including heart muscle disease, electrolyte (potassium, calcium) (b) (6)alities, chest trauma, tumors, and severe systemic diseases. For , these are most likely a result of his severe cardiac changes. These abnormal be(b) (6) y cause symptoms (collapse, fainting) or even death when severe. is having frequent ventricular arrhythmias and we will need to initiate an antiarrhythmic me(b) (6) at this time. We have had to carefully choose the medicat(b) (6) n primary heart and other issues. We will continue to monitor rhythm closely in the future. (b) (6) ?Pulmonary/Lung Mass - A tumor was discovered in lungs upon review of thoracic radiographs (x-rays). As discussed, this could represent a primary tumor, or alternatively could represent spread to the lungs from a more distant cancerous process. Given his critical state, further workup has not been performed during his stay the last few days. Further workup is advised with our Medical Oncology team, potentially to be performed as a dual appointment with one of our oncologists during his upcoming cardiology recheck.

EON-417123	3/5/2020 21:08	Purina Puppy Chow Healthy Start Nutrition Complete	We brought home our 2 beagles, (b) (6) and (b) (6) on October 20,2019. We were requested by the breeder to leave them on the Purina Puppy Chow Complete until at least 14 weeks old. We obliged. On Saturday, November 2, 2019, we opened a new bag of Purina Puppy Chow Complete. The same exact brand they'd been happily eating, just a new bag of it. Within hours both pups were lethargic and experiencing heaving sweating, uncontrollable drooling, vomiting, white gums and low body temps. We rushed them to the emergency vet and after extensive testing and an overnight stay in ICU receiving fluids it was concluded their vitamin D levels were too high. The vet stated there were 3 possible sources of vitamin D poison, the first and most sensible being the food. The other 2 weren't applicable (the pups are in secured crates and have no access to our home medicine cabinet and they were still currently being leash walked out doors and we do not have any rat poison around our home) Everything points to the Purina Puppy Chow Complete. Even our pup who consumes more food was the sicker of the 2 pups. I contacted Purina on several occasions. They finally stated they would test the food, and sent a bag so I could send in a sample for testing. However, Purina did not honor their word. After waiting patiently for 6 weeks (which is how long they told me the testing would take) I was finally told they didn't test the food for any unsafe levels. They simply looked at it. I even sent them the pups labs along with the food sample. I have attached labs, vet office notes and photos of the bag of food in question. The vet has now prescribed a third treatment which we gave him last Friday and we are supposed to do a follow up treatment 3 weeks later. We feed my dog Fresh Pet Salmon and research online shows that tapeworm can be found in salmon. EON-415816	2/21/2020 14:44	Natures Recipe ORIGINAL Lamb and Rice Recipe	I would like to address a matter involving a dog food brand that I was feeding to my dog who passed away. The dog food brand Nature's Recipe ORIGINAL Lamb and Rice Recipe is produced by Big Heart Pet. It was bought from Chewy.com on September 11th, 2019 in a 15 pound bag with the barcode 730521504380. The bags lot number is 9190804062334 and best if used by 10/02/20. I believe that this brand of dog food is what caused my dog to become ill. This was not the first bag I had fed to my dog. She had been eating Nature's Recipe for about two years. I had previously always bought Nature's Recipe dog food either from Chewy.com or my local Petco. When I bought the dog food it was always stored in an airtight container at room temperature. My dog had always been nothing but healthy and full of life so when she suddenly fell ill it was a shock. I then started doing research on the food I had been feeding her and found a horrifying deadly ingredient that I firmly believe caused her to become ill. The ingredient is called menadione sodium bisulfite complex also known as vitamin k3. Vitamin k3 is a man made synthetic version that is not natural. It causes many illnesses including the one my dog got called hemolytic anemia which is a disease where the body attacks and destroys its own red blood cells. The ingredient was banned in human food in 1963 by the U.S Drug and Food Administration because of its toxicity in humans. On September 18th 2019 my dog (b) (6) passed because of the disease this ingredient caused her to fall ill from. My reason for writing this is to bring it to your attention in hopes to get it banned from being used in our beloved pets' food.	11	Years	Unknown	Dog	47	Pound
EON-415776	2/21/2020 10:08	Zignature Kangaroo Formula	(b) (6) has been getting Zignature Kangaroo formula for almost her entire life. She has been healthy until yesterday when I took her to the vet for a cough. The vet noted that her heart sounded abnormal and recommended we X-ray her heart. Her heart was incredibly enlarged and there was fluid present on her lungs. We immediately took her to a specialist, where they conducted more tests, and she was subsequently diagnosed with dilated cardiomyopathy (DCM) and mild congestive heart failure. She has no genetic predisposition to DCM, per her Embark DNA test results.	2	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	40	Pound

EON-415643	2/19/2020 20:44	Acana Heritage Fresh Fish Formula	(b) (6) started a grain free diet in Feb 2018 - I changed his food from a Hills Science Diet Venison to an Acana Fish Diet. I really knew nothing about grain free and bought what I thought was a top of the line great food for him. In May/June 2019 he became sluggish which I figured was old age and then he developed a cough on July 1 2019 which I thought could have been kennel cough, my regular vet determined he had an heart abnormality. Recommended a cardio consult. I took him to (b) (6) in (b) (6) because his cough escalated (ahead of consult appt) and saw a cardiologist who did an echocardiogram and diagnosed him with DCM. Suggested his diet may have been the cause and he started medication on July 4 2019 and switched his diet to grain inclusive Hills Science Diet kibble. At his second follow on Sept 27 2019, the echocardiogram showed his heart was improving. By January 11, 2020, his heart was back to normal from meds and diet and his activity level is no longer sluggish - he is back to normal.	13	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog	90	Pound

He was not wanting to get out of bed, did not want to eat or drink water. He had low energy and 1 episode of diarrhea. Less than 24 hours later I brought him in to the vet. He was hypothermic and admitted to my vet's office where he stayed for 4 nights. I later received the results of his blood and coagulation panel where he was extremely anemic (low hemoglobin count) and his coagulation results were so high they were unreadable. I was sent home with Vitamin K, oral and topical antibiotics. He passed away one hour after I brought him home from the vet.  I will create a report for my other cat, (b) (6) but I will talk about her here because it is relevant. The veterinarian maintains it was a continual exposure to rat poison in the home. Rat poison is not something we use in our home. Both the cats blood coagulation results were high. (b) (6) was brought in to the hospital and had elevated coagulation results, though not as severe as (b) (6) We and the vet are questioning whether it was the cat food that was contaminated with this poison. We bought a new bag of cat food on December 19th and reflecting back, (b) (6) began showing possible symptoms around (b) (6) with Boots passing away (b) (6) . 			(b) (6) performed an ultrasound, prescribed additional antibiotics to treat her current symptoms of nausea and soft stool and sent (b) (6) home with a variety of dog food. November 13, 2019 - We went back to (b) (6) to get (b) (6) stitches removed and to discuss with (b) (6) (the internist that performed the initial ultrasound) the results of the fecal testing. (b) (6) notified us that the test results revealed salmonella and campylobacter bacterial infections. See provided medical report. (b) (6) prescribed additional antibiotics and highly recommended us against continuing to feed (b) (6) (and our other dog (b) (6) raw food. January 7, 2020 - We contacted (b) (6) to let him know that we did some research on having the dog food tested but it seemed that we cannot have it tested directly ourselves. (b) (6) suggested that we can bring the food samples back to (b) (6) for them to send out to the (b) (6) . January 9, 2020 - Dropped off food samples to (b) (6) January 25, 2020 - We received the testing report from (b) (6) which noted that the food sample was positive for salmonella. Other Note: When we first brought (b) (6) into the ER and the vet suspected the cause was a foreign body, we opened seven (7) packages (2 weeks worth of food for (b) (6)) of the raw food and sifted through the food to look for potential unprocessed bone shards or other foreign bodies. Below is a picture of what we found. Although these bone shards were not the reported cause of the issue, we showed these to the vet and they said that these shards are not normal, some of them are very sharp, could cause stomach/GI issues for a small dog, and that they would not feed this to their dog. Note we still have the bone shards if helpful. See attached picture.

Grain Free dog foods have apparently been linked to fatal heart disease in dogs...especially golden retrievers. We have a 10 month old golden who has been fed grain free (Journey from chewy.com) exclusively since birth. One of the indicators of an issue is trouble breathing. Lately we noticed the dog panting at unusual times...bedtime when she has not been exerting herself. I immediately ceased using the grain free product but am reporting this to the FDA as requested. EON-414736	2/11/2020 2:04	9 Lives Hearty Cuts With Real Chicken and beef in Gravy	Incident Sun Jan 26th 2020 Contaminated 9 Lives Canned Cat Food. My husband opened can in one of our Upstairs Bedrooms where he feeds the cats. The can burst when he pulled the tab. He had it splatter in his face clothes feet and it splattered all over the room on the carpet. On the dresser the window and all over the floor.It smelled like a Dead Animal. It was so strong that it made us both gag and nauseous. My husband frantically ran it downstairs and got it out of the house The Smell was so potent it penetrated the whole house. A horrid smell. (b) (6) put it in a plastic bag where he threw in the garbage where I later had to retrieve it to try to determine what would have caused this. He went back upstairs and cleaned for maybe a half hour but he wasn't feeling good he went outside to get fresh air. i went up and finished cleaning the I spent 7 hours trying to get the smell out. The Smell still resides in that room. It is in our carpet and we cant get the smell out I called Mills Fleet Farm Customer service and told them they might want to take it off the shelves asked for a Manager to call us. They never did. We contacted JM Schmucker Company on there website and reported what happened. I then called them Monday January 27th. I sent picture of the can but it smelled awful I could not get the numbers off the bottom of the can. The 1st representative said they would send Fed X label for us to return it. Called again the 2nd person said no they do not want it back since it might contaminate the plant. Then called again a 3rd time talked to (b) (6) said to be a supervisor of the department. He said no we did not have to send it back however I wanted to have it tested to see what was in it. They were not interested what caused the canned cat food to be contaminated. They said they did not want the can. I still have the can in my garage. I have had to handle this can 3 times now but the odor is so foul I am unable to get the can out and turn it over to get the numbers off the can. My dogs ate out of each other dishes so I feed them all the same dry food to limit this and only feed (b) (6) the dry and wet. I used Sweet Potato and fish and sweet potato and venison. (b) (6) became sick first that I noticed. I noticed when I took (b) (6) for a walk and after (b) (6) finished urinating, when (b) (6) attempted to urinate again blood came out. Before I noticed the blood, I was constantly taking (b) (6) to vet. He seemed in pain and his energy levels were extremely down. The vets put (b) (6) through hell and nothing improved and I am on a fixed income. When I noticed the blood after urine was complete, vets started giving (b) (6) antibiotics. The antibiotics made (b) (6) feel better but the blood came back. The vets told me I was a horrible person for not euthanizing (b) (6) because he had some disease they never really told me what it was or why he had it. Never explained anything to me. (b) (6) developed the same symptoms with blood after (b) (6) pissed all his urine out and still tried to urinate, he pissed bright red blood. I was told by vet that the problem with (b) (6) and (b) (6) were separate. (b) (6) was diagnosed with heart murmur but vets never did anything for heart problem. I was dealing with a lot of violence and was paralyzed and dealing with a lot of violence and medical issues. I was on a very low income and charging thousands of dollars for each vet visit for each dog. I also acquired (b) (6) in 2012. (b) (6) ate same food and began having problems with blood in urine. I have severe issues of guilt for listening to vets and euthanizing (b) (6). In 2018 I took (b) (6) to emergency vet and they sent (b) (6) home. Suddenly (b) (6) suffered a what seemed to be a violent heart attack and died next day. (b) (6) weighed 70 pounds when I adopted him (b) (6) weighted 125 when he died. (b) (6) only ate the natural balance. (b) (6) ate a bowl of food a day. (b) (6) is same size as (b) (6) about 35 pounds. My dogs were my family. I suffered severe violence and severe medical issues due to victimization. My dogs loved me and comforted me. They helped me when I was paralyzed. I had no idea of the problems with the food for animals and that the food causes so many health issues. I called and spoke with someone in FDA but due to many problems in my life, this is first I can write and this is not a complete detail. Many dogs are becoming sick from this product and no one is doing anything. Many more doctors were seen besides what I was allowed to complete. (b) (6) is the oldest and he was in good health overall. The last month or so he really slowed down. He was an eater and would eat anything, but he started not wanting to eat his dog food. He died this week at home of what looked like a heart attack. He was breathing very fast while laying down. I started scratching him and hugging him and then he seized a bit and then stopped breathing. He seized a couple more times with his tongue flopping out and then he passed. We had him cremated. I wish we would have had him looked over though.	12	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	70	Pound

Progression of the left atrial size was noted, compared to measurements in Nov 2018. There was lack of definitive evidence of congestive heart failure. Based on an echo performed on 1/2/2020, she is currently stable and her heart size has remained relatively static, however, there are a few indices that are suggestive of progression. Specifically, her systolic / contractile function was considered inadequate, especially in light of her concurrent degenerative valve disease. This is not necessarily expected in a small breed dog and the evidence for impaired contractility prompted recommendations for a diet change due to concerns about a grain-free diet causing contractility problems on top of valve disease.	8	Years	Spaniel - King Charles Cavalier	Dog	14.2	Kilogram

It was a container of Cesar's wet dog food, the "top sirloin" flavor (green and black packaging) and it was supposed to be a classic loaf in sauce. I did not check the other to see if there was mold or not. These should be removed from the shelves or something. It could harm people's animals. There was white mold and a green/grey mold. A lot of it. The UPC for the molded Cesar food is 023100056722. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

EON-414199	2/4/2020 16:00	Zignature Kangaroo Formula Limited Ingredient Formula	(b) (6) had been eating Zignature Kangaroo formula since August 2018. She is an extremely active dog and was in great health. So we had thought. On January 1, 2020 she had an episode where it looked like she was going to pass out. We believed she possibly had a seizure so we started with the neurologist (we now know it was because her heart was not pumping blood properly). (b) (6) had developed a cough that was believed to be a throat irritation. Come to find out she was in end stage heart failure. January 25, 2020 she was rushed to the vet for not being able to breath and they did a chest x-ray and we were told her heart was surrounded by fluids and more then two times the size it should be and the fluids were leaking into her lungs. She was immediately sent to the emergency vet where they started her on oxygen and meds right away. The initial diagnosis was end stage heart failure and the first question we were asked was "what do you feed her." A taurine test was done and today (2/4/2020) I received the results that her levels were low. She is now on heart meds as well as Lasix's to continue to drain all the fluids. On January 28, 2020 we saw the cardiologist and (b) (6) was officially diagnosed with DCM and they believe it was due to the Zignature food. As of now she is stable. She will be on heart medications for the rest of her much shortened life now because of this dog food.	30	Months	Shepherd Dog - German	Dog	60	Pound

I was able to get a vet appt. for 1-30-20 as I thought he might have something caught in his throat. Upon exam, my vet told me that my dog had a prominent heart murmur. We had been to the vet a week before due to a Question of an ear infection..negative. My vet said that she couldn't be sure that she was hearing a murmur at that time. Over a week, it had become very apparent. Chest xrays showed an enlarged heart. My vet asked what type of dog food he was eating and it was a grain free brand. She said that I should change to a food that included grain which I did. In addition she prescribed Taurine and an antibiotic as she could not rule out an infectious process. EON-413890	1/31/2020 23:04	Special Kitty Mixed Grille Pate Dinner	(b) (6) has been living in a feral colony that I have been caring for since she born but I met her at about 4 weeks old., She escaped her mother (b) (6), whom was inexperienced and too harsh very hissy and attacking her often to keep her hidden and out of site. I found her on a tree limb 15 feet up meowing at me. She was then taken in by (b) (6) to care for her with her other kittens. I believe (b) (6) has been around the colony now for at least four years. She is a very long hair cat. I have always fed her Special Kitty Mixed Grille flavor dinner pate as she absolutely loved it. I also fed her dry kibble of Purina Natural. She always especially loved the wet food. She would gobble down as much as she could get but she always remained a very petite cat loaded with personality. The last day I saw her she was eating the Mixed Grille out of her little bowl. Generally she comes to the feeding area twice a day. However, I have not seen her since that day. I have found one cat dead, and then two others with dreadful symptoms of portions of their bodies being in paralysis, starting at the front of their body, then weakened and not able to stand, sit upright or walk, then front legs becoming rigid, then breathing but their body gets stiffened, paralyzed as they are dying even though they feel hot. I have reported on those cats (b) (6) and (b) (6) in another report. I just feel awful that I may have fed her food that was contaminated and could have given her the same symptoms so she could not walk back to the feeding area.

EON-413888	1/31/2020 22:28	Special Kitty Mixed Grille Dinner Pate	(b) (6) is a very feral cat that lives deep within the woods. I have been feeding her since her mother abandoned her in our back yard as a kitten. She will rub my legs but when I try to pick her up she scratches. She grew up to be very strong, high energy and dominant and after living in the woods for several years, hisses like a dragon to scare off other cats. She prefers to be alone and I have been her only friend. So she often dominates the food bowls where I had placed the Mixed Grill wet food. I generally have to replenish the other cats bowls with more food after she leaves. Sometimes she only comes every three days to eat and acts especially hungry so I generally let her eat as much as she wants. So I remember she ate about four different bowls of the mixed Grill cat food that morning. That was the last day I saw her. It has been almost two weeks and I have not seen her come back which is highly unusual. I have been hiking in the woods in hopes of finding her.
EON-413886	1/31/2020 22:00	Special Kitty Mixed Grill Dinner Classic Pate	I found the Youngster lying on his side all stiff and not breathing -dead. Very unusual for a feral cat, as it was in the open, on the ground, underneath my back porch deck, but totally out in the open. I initially presumed that it was not feeling good and may have fallen off the balcony rail as he was walking to the bird water fountain. Rarely do cats or raccoons fall from a balcony ledge and if they do they land on their feet. However, it did not make sense as he had no noticeable injuries. Usually if a feral cat is not feeling well they retreat to be hidden, to avoid any predators. It wasn't until I saw how (b) (6) died and then how (b) (6) died, did I realize the same thing could have happen to this younger cat. I brought out a crate to bring her inside to see if I could help her. The temps were in the 50's. I had never picked her up previously but had been able to pet her. She was very weak howling every few minutes when her body's muscles would tighten without her control. She would only lift her head to cry out. Her breathing seemed normal but her front part of her body including her front legs were becoming more rigid after each contraction. She closes her eyes and seemed to be sleeping for periods then upon waking would meow loudly. She lost control of her urine, it just came out of her. She stopped breathing.	2	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	18	Pound

EON-413609	1/29/2020 12:00	Special Kitty Mixed Grill Dinner classic Pate	I first saw that he was having difficulty walking seemed to not be able to fully bend his front legs the temps had changed abruptly from being 60 degrees to low 20s with snow so thought it might have been due to the cold. He looked like he was. Crouching down as he walked. At first I thought it was due to ice on the back deck. Then as I got closer and started talking to him realized his eyes were rolling back, seemed overall very weak had difficulty sitting upright but was trying to eat dry food. The day before during the warmer temps I had fed him and the other feral cats whom often shelter on my back porch a can of Special Kitty mixed grill. That is the only flavor I generally buy as the cats don't seem to eat the other flavors. I never feed the wet food if the temps are below freezing. He was attempting to eat purina dry food. I could tell his legs seemed to be rigid and so I brought a cat crate out on the deck. I had never handled him before but he just seemed to know I wanted to help him so walked in and Icarried it into my bathroom and he lied down on his side and never got back up. His body started tightening with his front legs going forward in front of his body and his back arching with his head looking upward. His body would then relax and then tighten. He had no control over his body, or body fluids as urine came out of him and seemed to be comforted just being warmer. The contractions happened every few minutes left is front and back legs rigid, his breathing was normal, he felt hot to the touch. He then seemed conscious but uncomfortable not able to move any parts of his body. His body became moreand more rigid but breathing was normal. It was a weekend evening (b) (6) vets office was closed.	3	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	19	Pound

A new case arrived (5.8-oz cans, case of 24) from Chewy.com with a new colored label on the outside of the can (pink instead of green), but same name of the food. Opened the food and noticed a different consistency (rubbery, less moisture), different smell (pungent), and different color (lighter grey instead of darker brown). Lot number 470758 / L470758A, Best by, best before or expiration date: 16 Nov 2021, UPC code (also known as the bar code): 30111 47075. I fed my cat this food anyway because it is her prescription food. She developed bad diarrhea and gas right away, lasting for 3 days eating the food (consumed 3 cans total), so I stopped and purchased the older SO version w/green label at my vet and started her on anti-diarrheal medications and pre and pro-biotics. I looked up the food online to see if other people experienced this, and multiple customers complained of the new formula on Royal Canin's website, on Chewy and other pt food sites, which is scary- this food is dangerous. I contacted Chewy to investigate this batch! Cats are refusing the new version and/or getting sick, too- vomiting, diarrhea, etc. I'm a vet tech in school and had to report this, as cats are suffering with the new recipe.	2	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	7	Pound

EON-412842	1/22/2020 15:44	Nature's Domain by Kirkland Signature	(b) (6) has been fed a grain free diet her entire life. She collapsed on 11/28/19, 12/8/19 and 12/15/19 after increased excitement and remained docile the rest of each of these days. During these 2 1/2 weeks, she lost interest in her toys/ playing and was lethargic. After the 2nd fall/collapse, we took her to regular vet office and they performed blood work and xrays. Dr. notice fluid in the belly on xray, but did not seem concerned and said her falls were from arthritis in the hips. After 3rd collapse, we saw a different vet at the same clinic and she recommended we see a cardiologist. First available appt for their traveling cardiologist was 3.5 weeks away, but we could go to ER vet if she seemed like she was in pain or worsened. We monitored her for the next 3-4 days and she still seemed lethargic and not herself. We went to the ER vet on 12/21 and they ran more tests to rule out organ failure and other disease that may cause collapse. They determined the fluid in the belly was caused by right sided heart failure and the collapsing episodes were syncope due to lack of oxygen and blood to the brain during times of intense excitement. She was diagnosed with DCM and placed on 1 heart med and a water pill to flush the fluid from her belly. We returned to the ER vet on 12/23 for the on staff cardiologist to perform an echo cardiogram and she was prescribed a 2nd heart med. We were informed DCM has been linked to dog breeds that do not typically get that disease whom were fed a grain free diet. We were instructed to change her diet to a non-grain free formula and start supplementing with 1500mg of Taurine twice a day. These instructions were immediately followed and (b) (6) was acting more like herself, less lethargic and wanted to play again almost instantly. We followed up 1 week later with more blood work to check the BUN levels in her kidneys and that came back normal. Her condition markedly improved with the change of diet, prescription medications and supplemental taurine.	9.5	Years	American Pit Bull Terrier	Dog	70	Pound

EON-412741	1/21/2020 22:20	Orejin, Acana	This time of year "season changes" (b) (6) would itch normally but we noticed her getting skinny, not eating. We graze feed at home and noticed she hadn't eaten in 4 days so I called the vet and made an appointment for 12/14/2019. At the vet they did a physical exam and (b) (6) noticed an irregular heart sound, a murmur. So he suggested we do a chest xray. After the xray he could see that she had fluid inside and outside her lungs and that her heart was enlarged. He said it could be a couple different things but we wanted to wait for some of the blood work test to come back, same day. After waiting he then told us it could be congestive heart failure but said we should see a cardiologist as soon as possible. He then even said we could do a procedure that they could go in with a needle to get thr fluid out but after some time they realized her heart was too weak and she could die from the procedure. He then suggested having her stay at the (b) (6) so they could monitor her condition. I declined the offer because I wanted to be with her in case it was going to be her last moments with us. 12/20/2019 my husband and I drove to (b) (6) to wait 7 hours in the ER fro an echocardiogram. After that test they told us it was dilated cardiomyopathy. They changed one of her medications and added a supplement. In the discharge papers I got the link for reporting this issue because they strongly think it is from the food we had been feeding (b) (6) since 10 weeks old. We bought Orejin and Acana her whole life because it was known to have smart ingredients and no clue that it was grain free, even our vet in (b) (6) at the time said it was good food. Anyways, feel free to reach out to me if you need any other information. I would love to help with this issue so other dogs don't experience this on top of other families. It is super sad and heartbreaking. Side note: I hate seeing rows of Orejin and Acana on the shelves of Petco, Mudbay, Kriser's, Bow wow woofs and most feed supply stores.	4	Years	Cattle Dog - Australian (blue heeler, red heeler, Queensland cattledog)	Dog	40	Pound

EON-412738	1/21/2020 21:28	Kirkland Signature Adult Formula Lamb Rice and Vegetable Dog Food 40 lb.  Manufacturing Code from package: Best by 09 Dec 2020 9344330 KLV1206D2N WSK 04:45	After opening the bag on 1/4/20, my dog tolerated it fine. She has been on this food (alternating with the Kirkland Signature Chicken flavor) for nearly 2 years (since March 2018) and never had an issue before. This bag, however, when she eats it she vomits within about 3 hours. She then won't eat for 2 days or so, and I have had to cook her bland chicken and rice for a few days. Once she ate this food again, she threw up again.	4	Years	Boxer (German Boxer)	Dog	45	Pound

EON-412330	1/18/2020 14:20	ABOUND Grain Free Salmon and Sweet Potato Recipe	My husband and I have noticed an ongoing pattern with my 2 dogs that when they eat dog food they get sick. They are lethargic, they throw up, they don't eat and they just "mope" around the house. So I would feed them rice for 2-3 days and then eventually slowly reintroduce the dog food. We had no idea it was actually the food we thought that maybe they had a stomach virus or something. Then I decided to google the ABOUND dog food and found that it was recalled at one time from KROGER where we buy our dog food. EON-412302	1/17/2020 21:28	Members Mark Lamb and pea	We had been feeding him the food for months and gradually he started to get slower and slower moving. We thought it was possibly just his age. We also had a major life event take place and thought that possibly it was effecting him as well. We also have another dog that is about 1 years old that is a rescue and her stomach has had issues since we got her. But then we got a puppy in November and she has not had any issue with her stomach or stools being a normal hard or any stomach problems. The night before christmas the 1 year old had an accident in her cage. We cleaned it up and figured it was because of her issues. All the while they continued to eat the same food as each other. Then we purchased a new bag and within 2 feedings the 7 year old was barely walking let alone running, the one year old was even slower, and the puppy had diarrhea like never before. The morning the puppy had diarrhea she had a vet check up and they said there was nothing wrong with her or her samples, everything showed healthy. When we returned home the 7 year old had diarrhea in his cage. And that never happens, he is extremely clean and hates to have mess around him, he was extremely guilt ridden and you could tell he did not feel well. The only thing that all 3 of them have in common is the food they ate. Members mark lamb and pea. We took the food back Sunday the 12th, fed them all chicken and rice with broth for the next 3 days and the 7 year old is running at an extreme pace again! He walks like normal instead of like something hurts, the 1 year old hasn't messed herself once and the puppy is back to normal stools.	7	Years	American Pit Bull Terrier	Dog	70	Pound

I poured most of the contents of the bag into a sturdy dog food container with a screw on airtight container and I also poured about two cups into a smaller transparent airtight container. Next morning I went to reach for that container and as I opened the lid, a moth came flying out. I thought it was odd but thought I was mistaken and maybe it was laying on top and flew when I touched the lid. The next day I serve some of the food to my Yorkies and noticed that food looked as if it had cobwebs... then I saw another moth flying inside container!!! Called company and never got a call back. Took it back to store and got my money back and dumped all the food in their rear dumpster. When I got home, the container had a few larvae inside the container. Disgusting!!! I am now ridden with guilt for not noticing that infestation immediately before feeding my precious dogs.

However, they seem stale with how brittle they are. The pieces break off as dry brittle shards of like hard plastic. One of these pieces caused the choking. The piece was still stuck in his throat for over 12 hours. My dog was still able to breath, however he could not breath as well when he got excited or ran due to the irritation the piece caused. Thank goodness after about 12 or so hours, the piece got soft enough for him to cough it up, and of course chew and then swallow it. This was both scary for myself and my dog. I felt that I needed to report this, so no other dogs have to suffer with this trouble. I dont feel as if our trouble is over just yet. It wasn't long after that my dog had a seizure. After 3 we went to the vet to get some answers. Vet thought he had a tumor. He was put on anti-seizure meds that helped for a bit, but then they became more frequent. We went back into the vet to see if there was more we could do. Decided that with his age (14), we'd keep him comfortable. He was having a seizure about every 2-3 weeks. In the September of 2019, I moved from (b) (6) to (b) (6). While in transition, I didn't have access to Blue Buffalo dog food because I postponed my delivery schedule. Therefore, I fed him the dog food I had been giving him prior to switching to Blue Buffalo. During those two months, he never had a seizure. Also I stopped giving him his meds because we didn't have a vet. Finally when things settled down I was able to give my dog the same Blue Buffalo dog food that he was on prior to my move. That evening he had a seizure. I never fed him that food again. That was almost 2 months ago and he's been seizure free the whole time. I had been using Dr. Marty's Pet Food since April, 2019. When grinding the food, I found several objects similar to plastic, bone and rope which stopped my food processor. I called and was instructed to return the shipments and that the company had a change in the formula. (LOT #181QAA-13 - BEST BY 09/30/21) I was told that the product could look differently; however, I am concerned as to what the hard objects and rope-like objects were in this food. Had I not ground this product, I believe he would have eaten whatever was contained in these bags. I returned the food immediately with no response; I sent a registered letter, still no response. I have yet to be advised what the foreign objects were, nor did I receive a refund of $70.32 for the cost of returning both orders. I have retained two samples and am anxious to know what the objects are and if any other dogs had consumed this product with any problems.

EON-411500	1/8/2020 20:24	Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula Small Breed Adult, Blue Buffalo Divine Delights Small Breed Adult Wet food, Blue Buffalo Dental Bones XSmall	My dog was in blue buffalo dry and wet food as well as dental bones for several years. A few months ago, my dog had very bad stomach issues with diarrhea and vomiting. My vet said it may have been minor pancreatitis. I switched her food from blue buffalo and a few months later the pancreatitis arose very severely. She was in the hospital for 3 nights and 4 days being treated for this condition. She was very lethargic, had a high fever, and could barely move. After reading so many similar stories I believe this condition may have been caused by my dog being on blue buffalo because hundreds of others have had the same experience. My dog has a long road to recovery with appointments with internal medicine and is now forced onto a very costly prescription diet.	5	Years	Terrier - Yorkshire	Dog	13	Pound

He has had a diagnosis of Feline Idiopathic Cystitis, which was managed well with Hill's C/D diet. I switched to Blue Buffalo Healthy Gourmet Meaty Morsels Chicken Entree Canned Cat Food &amp; Blue Buffalo Indoor Hairball Control Chicken &amp; Brown Rice Recipe Adult Dry Cat Food late March 2019 to late May 2019 because fish product was added to Iams Hairball formula. Noticed (b) (6) was losing weight in May 2019 and was taken to the vet at (b) (6) to run tests. His doctor advised to stop feeding Blue Buffalo when asked about current diet. Prior to adding Blue Buffalo to (b) (6) diet, he weighed 13.8 lbs but dropped down to 12.3 lbs by late May 2019. He continued to lose weight from May 2019 to November 2019, with many visits to the vet. He has been diagnosed with Inflammatory Bowel Disease, Chronic Pancreatitis, and Chronic Kidney Disease-Stage II. (b) (6) had been hospitalized for CKD stage III in late August 2019 and now requires Vitamin B injections for the remainder of his life, prescription foods for kidney care and IBD. There is no cure for CKD, pancreatitis or IBD. My cat has been eating the same food since 2013-2014 and never had any issues until eating Blue Buffalo.	8	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	11.7	Pound

EON-411386	1/7/2020 22:20	Purina ONE SmartBlend True Instinct Natural Adult Dry Dog Food & Dog Treat	I have purchased a number of bags of Purina pure instinct turkey and venison flavor over the last several months and noticed on one of the bags that there were white crusts within the venison pieces and weevils crawling about. Initially I thought I had stored it incorrectly and that the bugs came because of my mishandling. I bought another bag and replaced my container with an airtight container and there were no bugs. On the last two bags I have purchased I immediately noticed both copra beetles and weevils crawling around. I purchased all of this food from amazon. I observed the same complaints about this food on the amazon reviews. I have notified amazon. Please consider recalling this dog food.
EON-411385	1/7/2020 22:00	Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula Healthy Weight	My dog has been very healthy her whole life. She has been eating Blue Buffalo for a couple of years but has had a few stomach issues. Last year I took her to the ER vet because she had bad gas and a bloated stomach. On 1/1/20 I took her to the ER vet because she was throwing up blood. They said the cause was ulcers. I took her home and on 1/5/20 she was throwing up again. I took her back to the ER vet and they admitted her. She had to stay for a couple of days and was treated for ulcers and gastroenteritis. The vet identified a thickening in her stomach and intestines. I have to take her back for a follow up visit in a couple of weeks. This has costed me over $2000. I believe all three of the instances were cause by her food, Blue Buffalo, who currently has an open lawsuit. Dogs are dying and getting ill from this food. If you google Blue Buffalo the first result are: lawsuit and killing dogs.	6	Years	Beagle	Dog	22	Pound

EON-411361	1/7/2020 15:44	Grocery Pup Turkey Pawella	I have been feeding both of my dogs the Turkey Pawella Grocery Pup food for over a month. I recently purchased a large bag of several individually packaged Turkey Pawella flavored food from (b) (6) located at (b) (6). I left one of the individual packs in the refrigerator overnight to thaw. The next day I fed both of my dogs with this food and within 2 hours they were both vomiting and suffering from diarrhea. This continued for 8 hours and then required hospitalization for 48 hours after I witnessed blood in their stool. I am confident that the source of their illness was the Grocery Pup food. My dogs are supervised 24 hours a day and only walk on-leash under close monitoring. I urged Grocery Pup to examine their food and take the necessary precautions to ensure that other dogs are not subject to whatever contaminant caused my dogs this severe illness. One of my dogs almost died and they are both still very sick. It is heartbreaking to see them suffer like this and the financial burden of the veterinarian bill is substantial (over $1,000).	2	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	8	Pound

We took her to (b) (6) where she was given an EEG and was diagnosed with dilated cardiomyopathy with 'months' left to live. She remained in oxygen for 24 hrs and was given an diuretic to drain the fluid from her lungs along with medicines for heart arrythmia. She was released from the hospital on Jan 6 with the continued diagnosis of DCM and a short life prognosis. Even her treats were prices of her own food. In early October, she was coughing, having difficulty breathing, and was generally uncomfortable. We took her to the vet and she was diagnosed with CHD. She has an enlarged heart, fluid present in or around her lungs and heart. She now has to take Lasix and Vetmedin twice a day so she is comfortable. The vets recommend these--BUT they have changed manufacture/ingredients! They used to have good chlorophyll and high quality protein and vets all climbed aboard and sell in their offices! BUT, they changed formula (around 2015 from what I can figure) to 'pea flour' for the green and this made the not as good and high CARB=diabetes (as the grain free pet foods are bad for cardio health)...then they changed again and replaced with wheat flours, meals and animal fat. These Ade my cat ill. I placed a warning on my local Craigslist and received numerous replies saying vets could NOR figure out what was wrong with their animals and as son as the stopped the Greenies and 1-2 followed my advise to 'clean them out' with coconut oil (blockages intestinally) they recovered.  VETS ARE STILL UN-AWARE OF THE FORMULA CHANGES and many animals (dogs AND cats) are being mis-diagnosed because of this!)  PLEASE INVESTIGATE THIS. EON-410925	1/2/2020 20:20	Fromm Heartland Gold Grain Free Adult	It has been a painful journey for us to watch a strong and vibrant dog slowly fade away. (b) (6) was diagnosed with DCM a type of heart failure. His first episode was in August. Originally we thought he had epilepsy but as the days passed we knew it was something different. In October just before we left for our Annual hunting trip to (b) (6) we took (b) (6) the vet to make sure his levels for the meds he was on for epilepsy were not hurting his kidneys and also because he was just not right. They decided to do a ultra sound of his heart as we were not convinced he had epilepsy. What they found was (b) (6) heart was enlarged. Enlarged to the point that when he exerted him self the valves in the heart would not seat and his brain would starve of oxygen thus causing him to faint. We were able to get him into a cardiologist by sheer luck as it can take up to 2 months get into one currently because of the DCM epidemic. What we found out is that (b) (6) heart was damaged by the food we were feeding him. We had been feeding him a grain free diet for about the last 1 1/2 years. We did so because he had some lesions between his toes and It looked like a reaction to his diet. The grain free fixed the lesions but damaged his heart. The cardiologist was very blunt and said if we can get (b) (6) 4 months down the line he might have a chance to make a recovery. He was started on a regiment of assorted pills that would make human cringe. About a month in we could see that the pills that had been working were not anymore and that (b) (6) condition was getting worse. We knew the battle now was to keep him comfortable and enjoy every second we had with him. (b) (6) I want to thank everyone at (b) (6) for everything they did to help (b) (6) I would also like to thank (b) (6) from (b) (6) in (b) (6) for being there for every question we had. DCM is currently what I consider an epidemic. The FDA knows there is a problem to the extent that it has published a list of Grain Free Dog foods that are suspect of causing DCM. But they have yet to have the food pulled from the shelves. There are those who think DCM and Grain Free Foods are not linked. The evidence shows otherwise. (b) (6) told us in October that his	4	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	80	Pound

			office is seeing 4-5 new patients a week that are dogs under the age of 5 with DCM. Every one of these dogs have been on a grain free diet. We also had to change one of (b) (6) most important drugs 3 weeks ago because the demand for the drug is out pacing production in pill form. And last but not least on Friday December 13, we had taken (b) (6) in to the Vet to have his abdomen drained of fluid that had built up due to the heart failure. While we were on the way out a gentleman walked in with his Lab and sat down. (b) (6) had taken (b) (6) out to the truck. As I was paying the bill I turned around and that gentleman's dog had collapsed. Not in a way that (b) (6) had collapsed. But in a way I could tell this was not good. They rushed this mans dog in to a room to try and revive him. I asked the man what type of food he was feeding his dog and if it had been grain free. He said he fed the dog "a listed" dog food. The gentleman did not know it was listed or that it was Grain Free. He had felt he was giving his dog a high quality food. This man's dog did not survive he was also 4 years old. We were lucky enough to be able to say our good byes with hugs and kisses. He was not. Many people are not aware of DCM and the connection to Grain Free pet foods. Many people do not have the means to have been able to get their dog the best chance to survive this travesty as cost of the meds alone are extreme not counting the countless vet visits.

He was a finniky eater and we tried several brands of food for him. We added a small amount of Honest Kitchen to each type of food we purchased, but he was VERY fussy. I purchased a small bag of Canidae small breed raw coated grain free with lamb. He seemed to prefer Canidae to the other brands we tried. I bought this from Pet Smart (b) (6). This trial amount was bought in September of 2019. (b) (6) seemed to like the product. I bought a larger bag in October. I noticed a few green pieces in the food. But since it was a new brand I didn't give it much thought. (b) (6) ate the contents without much prodding. On November 22, 2019 I returned to Pet Smart and purchased 2more of the larger bags. When my wife opened the first bag she noted to me that there were some green pieces of food in the bag. I told her that I thought that might be some of the freeze dried coating and we continued to feed it to our pet. (b) (6) seemed to be finniky again. We opened the second bag from the 11/22 purchase and dumped the remainder of bag #1 into it. This was about 5 days ago. Since then he has progressively refused to eat any of the food. Today our daughter came for dinner and we consulted her about the problem. She trials 3 Australian Shepherds and feeds them Canidae. After seeing the bag of food she stated that it looked like mold in the food. Our dog won't go near it. Maybe he is smarter than we are. I have attached pictures of the food, bag, etc. On one picture there appears to be some green matter on the bag. The food is green and when the bag is opened particles seem to float out into the air!!!! I am a bit upset that I have been slowly poisoning my dog with what I thought was premium dog food. And it has cost me over a hundred dollars for food that may have caused serious damage to my young dog. What to do now? I am contacting you first for some direction and concern. Are you interested in the nearly full bag of this product? Has this happened before? Do you have a problem? If I don't hear from someone at Canidae in the next couple of days, I will go to social media to get answers.

He has been on the same food, consistent amounts, since he was brought home. He has not strayed from this program except for this brand of dog "bones" that I have been giving him, due to the fact that they advertise a more "digestible" option from raw hides. Every since I introduced theses to him, he has been getting sick with what I will spare you with (something out of the other end) every single day. I couldn't figure it out. I took him to the vet where they did fecal exams, yet we couldn't figure it out there either. Once I stopped giving these to him, he stopped experiencing these symptoms immediately. I didn't realize this product was causing such harm to my animals. I also have a border collie that accidentally had one of these "bones" and hasn't been able to stop getting sick since. She has been throwing up constantly after consumption of one of these products, which she NEVER does. Its going to be another vet visit for me. I truly believe this product is harmful to dogs and should not be on the shelves advertising as a "better" option for raw hide bones. He was given another 1/3 of the can that evening,when I woke the next morning my pet was extremely ill, he was taken to our vet,whom could find no explanation upon physical exam so he ran complete blood work but still found nothing so he then took xray which showed nothing. Vet had said that he most likely ingested something that made him l'll & he ate some treats so the vet felt it would pass,he was given some meds for nausea & sent home. Of course it was a long day & by the time we got home, our pet was hungry so I opened another can of same flavor food and fed him, I noticed a decline in his health through the next hours & sat with him through the night,by the time we woke, he couldn't stand by himself,he tried and would fall over,excessive salivation - soaking his blanket, panting.he was dying. I immediately called vet for an emergency visit, it's an hour drive to get there. Vet could not figure out what was wrong, we thought he had been poisoned. Immediately start him on iv's & put in ICU. Heart examination & sounds were good so vet didn't feel need for a heart disease test , our pet had no health issues or had not been sick prior to this. But we decided to do one anyway & it was positive. Our pet pulled through that night & came home the next evening with heart meds and special vet food, he was back to himself again! Until 3 days later when I ran out of vet food and ours hadn't arrived yet, I opened another can of special kitty mixed grill pate, fed it to him in a.m. and then for lunch & he began projectile vomiting with the same symptoms as before and died.

EON-410531	12/27/2019 21:44	Chharpupu Yak Cheese Dog Chew Sustainably Sourced Made in Nepal MudBay	I purchased several Chharpupu Yak Cheese Dog Chews from MudBay (b) (6). The Chharpupu Yak Cheese Dog Chews splintered into very hard glass-like shards, which caused my larger male dog to experience abdominal pain and a slight amount of blood came out of my female dog's mouth. I took the chews away and notified MudBay while I was in the store in October 2019 (I don't remember the exact date). The employees just brushed me off and they said they haven't seen any problems with the chews. I called again on November 6, 2019, after talking to another customer who had the same experience with the chew splintering when her bulldog tried to eat it. I was again brushed off. On November 9, 2019, I sent an e-mail through the "contact us" link on the MudBay website (mudbay.com), letting them know what is happening with the chews. Dr. Katy responded to my e-mail and said they were checking the moisture content of the Chharpupu Yak Cheese Dog Chews. I sent another follow-up e-mail to Dr. Katy, but didn't get a response. I recently went into MudBay at the same location, and the chews are still for sale. The Chharpupus are manufactured by Three Vectors Corporation, Kent, Washington. The package says the Chharpups are distributed by Mud Bay, 521 Capital Way S., Olympia, WA 98501. These chews are very dangerous because they splinter into glass-like shards. The product is very hard, so the shards can and will pierce an animal's mouth, esophagus and stomach and maybe other areas. I do not believe MudBay will act in the interest of protecting pets, so I feel compelled to submit this report. I tried several times to let them know of the dangers of this protect, but my complaints have been dismissed.

EON-410425	12/26/2019 20:52	Rachael Ray Nutrish Natural Beef Pea and Brown Rice Recipe dry dog food	I purchased a bag of Racheal Ray Nutrish beef, pea, and brown rice dry dog food, 40 pound bag. After feeding it to my dog for a few days, he became very sick and began throwing up 8-9 times/day. He stopped eating and drinking completely. I took him to the ER vet 2 times. They tested him for various parasites, worms, and infections and also took Xrays. He was perfectly fine except he could not keep this Racheal Ray dry dog food down and stopped eating and drinking and became dehydrated. The vet gave us different food and after a few days of eating this food, our dog started to recover. After that food ran out, we switched him back to the Racheal Ray nutrish food and he refused to eat it. After he became really hungry, he started to eat a little bit of it, and then began throwing up a few hours later. We stopped feeding the Racheal Ray Nutrish and switched him back to his previous dry dog food that he was eating prior to switching him to Racheal Ray. He ate his old food without any problems and stopped throwing up. He is now recovering now that we no longer feed him the Racheal Ray Nutrish dog food.	16	Months	Entlebucher Mountain Dog	Dog	41	Pound

EON-410358	12/26/2019 2:12	Blue buffalo Freedom Grain Free Senior Recipe dog food	(b) (6) my parents rushed (b) (6) to the vet. She went from active healthy dog on (b) (6) to a dog struggling to breathe and barely moving. By the time she got to the vet she was at a breathing rate of 90. they had to pump several doses of furosemide in her as she had gone into heart failure. Her heart and lungs where full of liquid when they took the xrays. They kept her and stabilized her. She then got sent home on (b) (6) with 3 medications to help her heart, but was never the same. By (b) (6) she quit eating and was vomiting so she got taken back to the vet. That's when they asked if we had been feeding her grain free dog food. They kept her two more nights lowered her heart meds and got her to eat a new non grain free food and explained to me how the food was more than likely the cause of her heart failure. On (b) (6) we got to take her back home. She was very weak and once home would not eat. I slept next to her all night as she vomited, shook and was struggling to move. We took her straight back to the vet the next morning, (b) (6). At that point our vet in (b) (6) said there wasn't anything more they could figure out so they rushed us to a specialist in (b) (6). The entire 1hr 20 min drive I sat in back seat and watched my dog dying in my arms. By the time we got to the specialist she said her heart was at a grade 5 of 6 and she'd never seen a dog even make it to a 6. She ran more bloodwork to see what was going on, at which point dora's creatine and bun levels were completely off the charts of what she could measure. EON-410322	12/25/2019 0:00	Purina waggon train chicken jerky tenders	My step dad gave my dog (b) (6) 2 pieces of the waggon train chicken jerky from purina in small bites so she wouldn't choke about (b) (6) and after consuming it by that evening she was horribly sick and had explosive diarrhea and an upset stomach that was making awful sounds I've never heard before. She also got sick once I believe. I gave her some keopeptate thinking she just had an upset stomach and after about a day she was better but just acted as if she didn't feel good for another day or so. She eventually was 100% again so I thought on what changed to cause it and the only thing different was the treats so I said she wasn't to have anymore. Well fast forward to the evening/night of (b) (6) my stepdad forgot I had said she wasn't to have anymore and while I wasn't in the room she was given 1 piece til I walked back in and reminded him she wasn't to have anymore that she'd gotten sick and he stopped as soon as I reminded him. On the (b) (6) at about 7am she started to throw up and threw up once til that afternoon when she threw up 3 more times and seemed to be not feeling well and weak and again her stomach was making the most horrible noises I've ever heard in my life come from her stomach. She didn't poop all the 18th and she was sick all day and into the night. She didn't move all day from a chair she was in and laid there in the same position. The (b) (6) came and again the same thing was going on, I still hadn't connected the dots to the last event so I assumed again she was sick with some sort of dog virus, she laid in three same spot and when she had to go to the bathroom I had to pretty much carry her outside and back in she was so weak. She also began to shiver, I'm assuming out of pain, on the 19 th. By that point red flags were going off that this couldnt be a virus and we called our vet to get her In. Well her 2 vets she sees at the same clinic were both out for the day but another vet was available at 5:30 pm that night so we took that appointment to get her in because she couldn't wait 1 more day and took the only stool sample she gave to the vet. We went to the vet and was seen and he thought the same thing I did that she had an upset stomach and she was given a shot of cerenia and cerenia pills to take home and another pill that	10	Years	Beagle	Dog	24	Pound

			given a shot of cerenia and cerenia pills to take home and another pill that coats her stomach to calm it down and 2 cans of bland wet food to try and get her go eat. Overall it was a quick visit with a new vet we'd never seen. So we took her home happy that she was going to be ok, or so we thought. The next day, the (b) (6), we had an appt with their regular vet to get shots for 3 of our other dogs. Seven hrs after getting her shot, which we were told she couldn't puke after getting unless something is wrong, she puked the size of a 50 cent piece and all of the times she got sick it was yellow stomach acid looking fluid. I stayed awake all night with her making sure she was ok and putting her on a heating pad because her temp was low and watching her. About 4am I tried a teaspoon of the food as I was instructed by the new vet and she ate it and drank some water, which she held down but seemed to struggle with doing. I was hopeful that was a good sign. At 9:30 the next morning we were still worried so we called and asked could she be seen with the other 3 dogs shots her regular vet said yes. So we go in and the take an xray and blood work and as that's processed we gave the other dogs their shots. The vet went for the results and came back in and said she was in severe kidney failure and the numbers was so high the machines couldnt read them. This otherwise healthy dog, except some arthritis, was all of the sudden dieing of kidney failure and in so much pain she tensed up to the point the vet couldnt feel her organs during the exam. We asked was there anyway to reverse it or save her and then asked if she was her dog what would she do. She told us with numbers that high she could give her fluids and that she'd perk up with fluids but soon as they were stopped she'd go downhill again and the damage was too much for her to recover and she recommended putting her to sleep to end her pain and suffering. We all began to cry and was shattered by this news but prepared and began saying our goodbyes. Our family came from 30 min away to say their goodbyes as well. We were at the vet's office 2.5 hrs after close saying our goodbyes and sitting with her and comforting her threw the whole process. 			and I was certainly not leaving her to be discarded like trash. I went home shattered to pieces and crying wondering how my healthy 10 yr old dog had to be put to sleep. I started connecting dots with the treats and began researching those treats and to my surprise and disgust and anger I found out that these treats and others from this company has caused many deaths in animals, over a 1,000, with the same symptoms of renal failure or liver failure. I DO NOT want any money or compensation because the only thing I want I can't have back which is my dog and best friend I want this company to issue a recall and save any other unsuspecting pets and their parents from this heart break. I have never experienced such heart break in my life and it was all preventable if a greedy company had pulled these treats before we bought them not knowing they were killing dogs. We're going to have the treats tested to see if they come back poisoned like many others have reported. I beg you to please do something to stop these unnecessary deaths that can be prevented. I just want my (b) (6) story out there and to help prevent another unnecessary death.

EON-410237	12/23/2019 16:20	PureVita Venison and Red Lentils Grain Free dog food.	I rescued this dog in February of 2018 at age 5.5 from (b) (6). She was in "good" health overall and had a grade 2 heart murmur, was missing a few teeth and nothing else, upon her joining our home. In June of 2018, in an attempt to feed her a premium dog food product and help with her skin/coat and overall GI health, I purchased PureVita grain free dog food, Vension and Lentils. I fed this to her exclusively, twice daily for approximately one year, at a which point I noticed she was having a "choking" cough multiple times per day. I took her into our family vet who had also examined her just ONE YEAR prior and found that she now had a grade 4+ heart murmur, DCM and congestive heart failure. She was immediately started on Lasix, Vetmedin and Enalapril at the recommended doses but died of heart failure on (b) (6)/19 just 5 months after diagnosis. The rapid onset of serious symptoms and progression of this disease leave absolutely NO doubt in my mind that my otherwise healthy, semi-young and beautiful sweet dog was killed by this dog food. I know that no one cares and that no one is ever going to have to take responsibility for my animal or for the hundreds or thousands (potentially unreported) of animals who die because of this, but this is absolutely reprehensible. These companies should be required to show proof of quality studies and testing before being allowed to create diets for animals that mimic those of popular human dietary lifestyles for MONETARY gain. Just like we all know that grapes and onions and dark chocolate can kill a dog, I would NEVER have purchased a dog food with a product like lentils in it, if ANY proper study had been done and if it was shown to have even possible detrimental effects to ONE breed or ANY breed. I am not a bereaved pet owner pointing fingers at people because my dog died of heart failure. I've buried two who died of CHF in a normal disease progression and at older/elderly ages. (b) (6) heart was damaged by grain free dog food contains lentils and she DIED because of it.	6	Years	Spaniel - King Charles Cavalier	Dog	10	Pound

We have had 0 in her life. It was described as vomiting on the carpet, and in this room and a little over here. "it's not regular vomit though, you know...it's white and frothy not yellow bile" Over the next 14 hours, she does this another 33 times. Always the same kind. white and frothy, I take her to the emergency vet at 9 am on the 17th. They assume it is blockage-kids and Christmas, she got into something-I assure them that is not the case but let them do an x-ray. It is not a blockage, they assume a GI 'thing' give her a shot to stop the vomiting and we go home. She is woozy but stops vomiting until 3 am the 18th. She vomits 6 more times, I call my vet now knowing that the ER vet was wrong. My vet does an ultrasound, then 3 more x-rays. They are shocked with how healthy she is...minus the fact the she is going through congenital heart failure. She has an enlarged heart and is going to die. The reason the vet believes this is happening to such an otherwise healthy dog is the dog food. Blue Buffalo which is what (b) (6) has been eating since November 2018. These people have given my dog a fatal disease. She is my Emotional Support animal-not the I want a pet but live in an apartment kind. He just kept getting worse like he couldn't catch his breath or breathe. He was also not his normal active self. We took him to the vet and they first diagnose him with asthma due to allergies. We brought him home and 2 hours later had to take him back because he had gotten worse. The vet did an X-ray of his heart and even tested him for heartworms even though he gets a heart worm pill every month. They noticed his heart was grossly enlarged. They kept him overnight to keep an eye on him and to see what the heart worm test came back which was negative. He has then diagnosed with Dilated Cardiomyopathy. The vet told us it was very odd for a dog his age and size to have this but hopefully they had caught it early. He now has to take 3 medications. He takes Vetmedin (twice a day), Lasix (twice a day) and Benadryl (once a day). (b) (6) was diagnosed with crystals in her urine upon discovery of a urinary track infection with blood in her urine. As, stated before she has never had ANY medical issues prior. Her urine was tested by the vet and her urine came back with crystals, which has caused a switch to a prescription diet and a total of around 500 dollars in vet visits. After reading reviews and having conversations with people who have experienced the same with their own pets (starting a diet of Blue Buffalo and then being diagnosed with Crystals in urine due to a vitamin D toxicity) I discovered this is the cause of said crystals. The dog started to get a cough/gagging we took him to the vet and it was recommended that we do an xray this October 23rd. He displayed nothing other than this random gagging that would happen 2-3 times a day. I had not taken him for an xray though I took him on 12-12 for his annual and they had also mentioned that he needed to take a liver supplement because his enzymes were off. Then Sunday night my fiance gave him a small piece of apple and he started to choke/vomit. After this attack we rushed him to the emergency vet. They looked at all of his vitals and recommended an xray to ensure his esophagus was not obstructed. I allowed them to do so since i knew that this would also give us a view of his heart. When the vet came to review with us she mentioned that he had an enlarged heart to the point that his heart was actually what was causing him to choke because it was pushing on it and pushing his ribs out. She mentioned that the veins/vessels (white lines on the xray) looked good though. She brought him back out to us to take home and as my fiance was lifting him into the truck he fell over and stopped breathing. We rushed him back into the vet and they had to put him on oxygen though the same vet mentioned that he was having trouble breathing even with oxygen so we had to put him to sleep.	9.75	Years	Sheepdog - Shetland	Dog	22.8	Pound

EON-409170	12/10/2019 22:24	Earthborn Holistic Meadow Feast	I began feeding my dog, (b) (6), Earthborn Holistic (Meadow Feast) when I moved to (b) (6) in September 2015. I was told by the salesperson at a local dog food store that this was a great brand to feed him because it was grain-free and didn't contain a lot of artificial ingredients and fillers used by more commercial dog food brands. (b) (6) is a 30-lb miniature goldendoodle and is 6-years old. (b) (6) consistently ate this specific brand of food from September 2015-August 2019. In August of 2019, our local vet detected a slight heart murmur - which surprised me as (b) (6) always seemed in great health with high energy level. I immediately scheduled a visit at (b) (6), where they performed an ultrasound of his heart. His heart was slightly enlarged and his heart was pumping blood at below normal levels based upon the results of the ultrasound. The vet suggested that it's possible that this could be driven by his grain-free food, as he had been on it for several years. Starting 9/1/19, we switched (b) (6) over to a different dog food brand (Royal Canin) which isn't grain free, and also began supplementing his diet with 500mg of Taurine twice a day. We had a follow-up visit for a second ultrasound after 3-months of (b) (6) switching to the new food. The ultrasound came back conclusive that 1) His heart murmur was no longer present, 2) His heart's 'pump function' had increased 5%, putting him back into the normal range and 3) His enlarged heart had decreased in size to a more normal level. The vet concluded that these favorable results were either from the change of his food to Royal Canin (non-grain free) or the Taurine supplements we had been giving to him (or a combination of both).	6	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	30	Pound

EON-409077	12/10/2019 10:44	HILLS SCIENCE DIET CHICKEN AND BARLEY ENTREE	We changed (b) (6) food. We got a case of Hills Science diet, chicken and barley. Its the small cans. She ate it for about 2 weeks, 12 cans are gone from the case and we fed her one can a day. Then, she stopped eating, and started vomiting anything she ate. Treats, eggs, anything she ate. Then she wouldn't eat at all but she would drink. We took her to the vet, she had elevated calcium, bun and creatinine. The doc wanted us to give her lactated ringers through the skin of her back. We did that for one day, then when we woke up. She would not get up, would lay back down if we moved her. We thought she was dying so we called the vet, and he wanted us to take her to a clinic that was open on Sunday. We were there all day. They drew her blood, her bun was normal but the creatinine and calcium was still high. They did an X-ray, sent more labs out of state and did an ultrasound. The vet said she was not able to tell what was wrong with her, but asked if she could have gotten some vitamin d or if we had changed her food, then we remembered we had.	6	Years	Poodle (unspecified)	Dog	13	Pound

Super premium food for dogs	Dog was coughing about a week ago so we took her to the vet where they diagnosed her with "kennel cough". They prescribed meds to help but her condition only got worse. We only gave her 3 pills. By the 3rd day she was constantly vomiting, diarrhea, and breathing heavy. She then started to throw up pink fluid. We immediately called the vet to come in for emergency visit. To our complete shock she said her oxygen is extremely low and she is in heart failure. She was running around like a puppy a week prior and now our dog is dying? It was extremely difficult pill to swallow. We asked the vet how can this be she's a healthy dog and ONLY 7 yrs old. She then proceeded to ask what we are feeding her and we said rachel ray nutrish. She immediately said that is what has caused her condition the "grain free" food. The same food that we spent extra money on to insure our pets are eating the healthiest and best foods. We were completely devastated and feel this is our fault for feeding her the food. We have been feeding both our dogs this food since 2014.	7	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	55	Pound

NEVER has done this before. We had just opened a new can of dog food but did not realize at first it was the food. This went on after every feeding (fed twice a day) for almost a week until we figured out what the issue was. Our dog had been perfectly happy and healthy up until the day we opened that can. She has been eating Koha Kangaroo for over a year with no issues ever. Over the course of a week, she became lethargic, grumpy, snappy, vomiting, constipated over night, and just plain miserable with pain! When we figured out it had to be the food, we stopped immediately. She was fed another brand of Kangaroo and it was unbelievable! We truly did not believe nor want to believe it could possible be THE FOOD!! She was fine after eating the new brand--no obvious stomach pain, no grumpiness, and no vomiting. After a few days, she started getting back to her normal happy go lucky dog "let's play fetch" personality. EON-408800	12/6/2019 12:40	Globetrotter 27-12 Dog Food	We have a mix of Livestock Guardian Dogs (average weight 100 lbs) and Shetland Sheepdogs (average weight 25 lbs), all of which have been on Globetrotter dog food produced by Sunshine Mills for several years. In September, we purchased the same food, and the dogs began to act unusual, drinking an alarming amount of water, panting and pacing the house 24/7, scratching uncontrollably, and urinating in the house several times a day. Our dogs are very well house trained, and have never messed in the house, so for them to mess, not once, but repeatedly and uncontrollably throughout the day, threw an immediate red flag. (b) (6), who was a female Sheltie weighing about 13 pounds and approximately 9 years old, presented abruptly with severe seizures and paralysis the morning of (b) (6), and died within several hours of presenting symptoms. She was perfectly healthy until that day, aside from the urination problem that all dogs were exhibiting. On (b) (6), (b) (6), a 12 year old, 18 pound male Sheltie, also had severe seizures, paralysis, and died within a few hours of showing symptoms. We immediately ceased use of the food and closed it into a metal trash can in an outbuilding. We contacted the seller, and he redirected us to the distributor, who gave us the manufacturer's name, Sunshine Mills. During this period, the dogs continued to urinate all over the house, pant day and night, and show lethargy. We offered free choice water, and switched foods away from any Sunshine Mills product. Despite the attempts to clear the toxin from their systems, on (b) (6), (b) (6), a 12 year old, 30 pound female Sheltie, also began seizing and died shortly thereafter			Sheepdog (unspecified)	Dog

			shortly thereafter. We highly suspect Vitamin D poisoning, which Sunshine Mills has had problems with before, as per FDA website. Our surviving dogs, both large and small, are still urinating in the house (one on a near-daily basis), though far less than they were. They are still drinking large amounts of water, and while the itching has decreased, it is still apparent. The larger dogs recovered faster as to the incontinence, but were and are itching the worst, chewing their skin raw and ripping out their fur. Our family is devastated, we raised all three Shelties from puppies, and they were part of our family. When we called (b) (6) where we purchased the food, the owner said that they had previously requested that the distributor pick up the food in the summer months due to reported problems from customers who claimed their dogs would not eat the food. We were never notified of this, however, we had the same issues in July and August of the dogs not wanting to eat. We attributed it to the heat. The bags purchased in the fall, however, they consumed ravenously. The owner of (b) (6) . contacted (b) (6) the owner of (b) (6) in (b) (6) who distributed the food. (b) (6) contacted Sunshine Mills in VA and notified them of the problem, and then advised us to call Sunshine Mills directly, which we did. A representative of Sunshine Mills, (b) (6) , mentioned that they had tested the batches that went to (b) (6) . and detected rancidity and issues with the preservatives used in the food. He also mentioned that they would do what they could to compensate us for our loss.
			We then received a call from (b) (6) , a customer service representative with Sunshine Mills, who requested that we fill out a due diligence report. He said that he would send it, but we never received the form, so we called back on October 28th. At that time, he denied ever having spoken with us. He called back shortly after hanging up, and said that he had found the notes regarding our case. When we received the form after this third conversation, it is an extensive document utilizing very obtuse language. At that point, I reached out to Jennie Hallinan at the FDA. She was very understanding and helpful, and requested that I complete this form. We still have the food that killed our dogs in the sealed trash can, and have two unopened bags purchased from the fall in the same shed.

EON-408656	12/5/2019 13:32	Trader Joe's Chicken Breast Wraps	Our family pet dog has been diagnosed with Fanconi Acquired Syndrome (kidney disease). It is a result of the dog ingesting a toxin that damages the kidneys. Many other cases of this disease in the recent past have been traced to a toxin in pet treats with dried chicken and/or duck treats. We had been giving the product from Trader Joe's Food Market called "Chicken Breast Wraps". The treating Veterinarian has asked we report this to the Veterinary division of the FDA. After looking at the FDA Veterinary website we discovered hundreds more similar cases reported, some with pet deaths. We are requesting the FDA require all products similar to duck, chicken and rawhide treats be removed from the market until testing can determine the toxin, so as to hasten treatment and prevent death.	8	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	11	Pound

EON-408599	12/4/2019 23:32	Acana grain free dog food (Kibble style food)  Mix of the different flavour options made by ACANA.	(b) (6) was a f1b (or fb1?) golden doodle, dob: (b) (6), 2015. (b) (6) was fed grain free puppy formula by the breeder so our family continued feeding (b) (6) grain free ACANA as he grew (thinking we were doing good for him). We worked between the various grain free varieties offered by ACANA, any time we needed to restock his food. In late November 2018 (b) (6) was having difficulty breathing and was experiencing severe dry retching in the late evening. Attempts to help (b) (6) were not successful so a trip to the after hours emergency vet took place. The emergency vet worked very quickly and diagnosed (b) (6) with kennel cough. Unfortunately that was not the case, things were much more severe. In mid December about 2 weeks after (b) (6) emergency vet visit, (b) (6) nearly collapsed on a short, slow paced walk. Knowing this was not normal I immediately took (b) (6) to his regular vet clinic. It was at this time, during that visit we first received the heartbreaking news, (b) (6) was in congestive heart failure! An ultrasound during that appointment showed (b) (6) heart was enlarged and estimated to be pumping at the extremely low rate of 5% effective. The vet said at that time they would normally have kept (b) (6) for overnight monitoring but were afraid to do it feeling the shock of separation could kill him. We took (b) (6) home and prayed for a miracle so not to lose our young and amazing dog. Bloodwork drawn that night showed a normal taurine level for (b) (6). With the diagnosis from the Vet, we immediately switched (integrated) to new food, medication and supplements. All this in hopes of reversing some of the damage done up to that point. Our vet clearly identified that (b) (6) was suffering from DCM due to the grain free diet he had been maintained on. Following a complete changeover on food, following a taurine supplement just in case, and multiple costly medications no change was found in follow up appointments. (b) (6) survived past his 4th birthday in February 2019 but as summer set in and the temperature increase started, with no change in (b) (6) condition, we heartbreakingly said goodbye to our dear (b) (6) on (b) (6). (b) (6) was doing very poorly in the heat, quality of life was significantly not pleasant for him or us watching him go through it all. Diet related DCM killed my 4 yr old dog. My 10 and 7 year old were and remain devastated. I am heartbroken by his passing as he was a major support for me in my battle with PTSD even through his own illness. O unsure what diagnostics were performed but cardiac disease was suspected. His diet was changed to Purina Proplan from Earthborne Grain Free and he was started on Taurine supplementation. Since then, he's had 2 more brief episodes (Thursday and Saturday night) and was paddling with tonight's episode. At that time she was coughing up phlegm and had decreased appetite, but her energy was good. After a week of this treatment her cough improved but her energy level continued to decline as did her appetite, and she refused to lay down. She then presented to an emergency vet. Radiographs showed "marked cardiomegaly, pleural effusion, mild pulmonary edema, and difficult to see a clear diaphragm on the lateral views which is likely due to the overlying fluid but I am unable to rule out a diaphragmatic hernia". EON-408404	12/3/2019 11:24	Trader Joe's Turkey & Pumpkin Jerky Grain Free Dog Treats	After "treating" (b) (6) with Trader Joe's Pumpkin Turkey jerky, (b) (6) began exhibiting symptoms: lack of appetite and lethargy; drinking water (excessively); uncontrollable urination. The symptoms continued to worsen over the weekend. The first vet, (b) (6), asked my boyfriend if (b) (6) had consumed jerky treats; he said no because he did not know that I had purchased this season product on a lark. (We always buy the same treats.) . The vet prescribed antibiotics for a bladder infection while waiting for bloodwork. Because of the sugar in the urine, she thought he might have diabetes. (b) (6) got much worse - he was now vomiting up the water he was drinking. We knew we had to go to the animal hospital, and indeed the vet called when she saw the bloodwork to tell us that he was "in big trouble." The animal hospital (b) (6) did an ultra sound to look for blockages or tumors, which they did not find. They sent him home with an appetite stimulant because they were worried about him not eating (at that point it had been 4 days since he had eaten). We were horrified because (b) (6) was obviously in great distress. He wasn't getting the antibiotics because he was vomiting and peeing seemingly non-stop. The next morning I rushed him to my vet in (b) (6) because the head of the animal hospital obviously didn't know what to do. By the time we got to (b) (6), he had the blood work from (b) (6). He immediately asked about jerky treats. AND he immediately admitted (b) (6) for supportive fluids and antibiotics. (b) (6) was on an IV for 8 days. He has subsequently had another bladder infection, which we are told he is prone to develop because of the damage to the kidneys. We are 100% certain (b) (6) medical crisis (ongoing) was caused by this jerky treat purchased at Trader Joe's. He continues to be quite fragile. He is on prescription food, and we are testing his urine daily. We have had blood panels done several times as well as other lab tests. We have a definitive diagnosis of acquired Fanconi Syndrome. All other causes of Fanconi Syndrome have been ruled out by the tests and the treatment. For the record,	10	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	170	Pound

In the morning i went to feed the cats again but since only (b) (6) could be found so i continued to feed him a whole can to himself. He seemed fine after eating the food and 1 hour went by and I was outside petting my cat when suddenly it seemed as though he gasped for air and fell over an was unresponsive.I then picked him up and ran out of the house to the vet hospital and when I got there his heart had already stopped . I am so confused about this ..I have had these cats since they both could fit in the palm of my hand . They are brother and sister..Neither one has ever been sick .They both have had all their shots and both fixed when they were about 1 year old. I left the pet hospital trying to figure out how this happened so I googled cat food recalls and the first to come up was 9 lives cat food . We never found out what was going on the first time because we switched her food when it ran out and she seemed to get better (we didn't recognize the timing before) but when it happened again the day after we switched her to blue buffalo and we took her to the vet, the veterinarian advised us that they have seen this exact same thing happen many times when dogs are switched to blue buffalo. He told us to immediately stop the food. After doing some research online, we found thousands of others who have had the same thing happen, some even stating that their dogs died as a result of the food, we believe action needs to be taken to remove this horrible food from the market. There remianed in her bowl a small, tan, very elastic object in her bowl. As she was getting both a dehydrated as well as a canned food, it was impossibe to know which food was suspect. About mid-October I was able to identify the same kind of foreign object in the same flavor of Hound and Gatos 5.5 ounce Lamb, Chicken and Salmon canned food. I called the company but had to leave a voice man message. A little over two weeks passed when, with escalating frustration at the company's lack of response to food quality and safety concerns, I sent an email expressing my feelings. Later the same morning I received an email from Cathy at Hound and Gatos. Because I threw out in disgust the can from which the foreign material was found, I gave her a lot number and best by date from a different can of lamb, chicken and salmon from the same case (24 pack) of product that I ordered from Pet Food Experts in the spring. Cathy asked me to send the object I found in the can to (b) (6) . She told me it would take two weeks to analyse the foreign object and report back to me. About three weeks later, I spoke to Cathy at Hound and Gatgos to ask where my report was. She said that telling me it would take two weeks was incorrect and it would be longer. Shortly after, I received an email from Cathy, "I checked with our receiving department and they have no record of receiving a box or envelope from you. ..." I am furious with Hound and Gatos! First strange things in the food, then issues with their telephone system failing to respond in a prompt manner, failing to respond in the two weeks time frame I was advised and now can't find my letter with the foreign object tells me this is acomplmany gthat does not take pet food health concerns seriously. That is why I am filing this complaint.

I heard noises coming from the bag like something moving around in the bag. I placed the unopened bag in a plastic container, hoping that if whatever was in the bag chewed its way out, that it would be stuck in this container. As of now, nothing has exited the bag, but I still hear occasional noises. I did take the bag back to where it was purchased, but since they did not have any more bags left to trade it out with, they told me to come back when they had a new order shipped in. Therefore, the bag is in the container in my car. Limited Ingredient Diets Dry Dog Food Grain Free  Sweet potato and fish formula treats.	My dog was on natural balance from the time he was 6-8 months old to this month(born 2014), Nov. 2019. Around August/September this year he started having terrible diarrhea, almost everyday. My dog has never had diarrhea so I have been pretty wrecked trying to figure out what has been wrong with him. After a month I finally went to the vet, after switching to Royal Canin and a probiotic, he has massively improved back to his normal self. Normally I would have just let it go, assumed the brand had changed, but I have been reading many reports of people with similar problems in the similar time frame I had. Others who had been with this brand for long periods of time, and suddenly had problems with diarrhea, vomiting, blood. Another reason I decided to file this I accidently gave him some natural balance treats last night when I went out. Normally I would give him peanut butter, but I was out. This morning he again had violent diarrhea. It just seems like the coincidence is too hard to ignore at this point and I am genuinely concerned about the health of dogs who may be eating this food/treats.	5	Years	Bulldog	Dog	45	Pound

EON-407990	11/26/2019 21:12	Hill's Science Diet Youthful Vitality Chicken & vegetable entree	On November 21, 2019 I received a package of cat food from Petco. Out of the 24 cans I received five were swollen but all were expired, the oldest of which was 11 months past expiration. I contacted Petco headquarters and lodged a complaint. Petco HQ shipped out a replacement order that I received on the 26th of November in the same condition. All food in the second shipment had expired in January 2019. I have attached all images of the order and shipment information.

He spent a little more time sleeping. Something seemed off, but I didn't know what was going on. He was eating normally and not losing any weight. On the day of the event we went for a walk when all of a sudden he yelped out in pain, collapsed, jerked about then slowly went flaccid with agonal respiratory effort and tongue hanging out of his mouth. Felt on chest and HR was rapid and irregular. He suddenly came to, but took about 20 minutes to be able to stand up and walk back home. He was very lethargic and HR was still well over 200 and irregular. Took him into the vet. CXR revealed advanced DCM with pleural effusion. Was advised to euthanize him due to the advanced stage of his DCM, rapid and irregular HR, panting and the witnessed event. Results were normal except low thyroid hormones and low white blood cell count. They gave me Thyroxine tablets to give to her and Slippery Elm (administer by mouth), thinking it was a stomach upset. The said if she wasn't eating the next day to bring her in (b) (6) - The next morning I gave her the Slippery Elm and the Thyroid tablet. She threw up fluid and the dry dog food she had eaten 24 hours before. She did not eat breakfast. She drank some water and passed a small amount of normal looking stool. She was still lethargic and when we went for a walk she laid down and didn't want to get up. At around 3pm she peed and it was dark yellow. I took her to the emergency vet again. They still thought it was stomach issues. The gave her fluid under the skin and an injection of Cerenia and told us to continue the slippery elm and she should be eating. Her abdomen was swollen but when the vet pressed against it she was not feeling pain. At 7pm she was still not eating. Her heart was racing at around 200 beats per minute. She was even more lethargic and did not want to get up from a lying position. She was also drooling. We took her to the vet again, they put her on an IV and ran a pancreas test. At 11.30pm they called us and said her pancreas test came back abnormal. (b) (6) - I called the vet at 10am. (b) (6) Several times my Dog Food has been delivered HOT. Yes, hot. I have called Chewy each time and get the standard - ok, we'll send out another batch. This has happened multiple times with both canned and bagged dog food. I would not accept this from Instacart or Amazon Fresh and I will not accept putting my dogs at risk because of unsafe Food Handling. I have called Chewy and demanded to speak with a VP or above and finally received a call from a 4 month new hire in Customer Service. I work at home and my dogs let me know before FedEx even approaches the door, the delivered product in brought into the house within a few minutes. I have a long porter cacher so the sun never hits the product directly. I have opened Chewy boxes only to be met with a blast of hot air and, have the purchased Dog food in there danger zone. If I'm having this issue, and I bring in the product within minutes, what about (b) (6) ? I feel the temperature conditions from the purchased products are completely unacceptable and are a high risk for tainted/spoiled dog food. They may not have this issue in Maine, but here in (b) (6), many of the FEDEX delivery vans have side doors open and the driver has a fan. Nott my idea of cool, dry storage. The dog food delivery market is growing, but my experience proves that they are not doing it safely.

One adult cat became severely constipated requiring medical attention. My 4 month old kitten now has an elevated kidney level. The cans state, buried in fine print, "This product is intended for intermittent or supplemental feeding only." The cans also have statements for feeding daily. Which is correct? This is misleading. I overlooked the statement about intermittent feeding so that is my fault. I called the manufacturer and was told they were required to include the "intermittent feeding" statement the food is really ok for daily feeding. This makes no sense. The moisture content is 72 percent. I thought the required minimum is 75 percent. Please investigate this food for possible recall. It is dangerous.	10	Days	Domestic (unspecified)	Cat	5.5	Ounce

I suspected kennel cough. The vet looked her over and also suspected kennel cough. We started her on antibiotics and followed up the following week. She wasn't better so he gave her some injectable antibiotics and we continued on oral antibiotics. By the following week when we went in for yet another follow up and she wasn't better and was losing weight, I started suspecting heartworm and expressed my concerns to my vet. He drew some blood and took some x-rays and asked what type of food we feed. I told him we fed 4Health Grain Free. He took another view of her chest via x-ray and let me know she had an enlarged heart and heart disease. He had her follow up the next week for an ultrasound to confirm what kind of heart disease and started her on heart medication and a diet change. The ultrasound confirmed DCM (dilated cardiomyopathy) suspected diet related. He took some more blood and sent it off to be checked to see her Taurine levels. In December of 2016 I took him to the vet because he had been excessively panting. A physical exam showed nothing serious and the panting seemed to lessen so they werent concerned. In may of 2019 I took (b) (6) to the vet because he had developed a chronic cough. After doing xrays we were told Boston had an extremely enlarged heart, about the size of a small basketball. We started him on a diuretic and heart medication but unfortunately it didnt help him as much as we had hoped and he stopped eating. We humanely euthanized him on (b) (6). After cleaning up his puke, I walked into my living room and found another, similar puke pile. My wife and I kept close eye on him for the rest of the day and each time he ate food, he puked. His other pukes were filled with kibble instead of just being liquid (some hardly digested, some mushy). We put the food up on the counter partway through the day so his stomach would rest. Our other cat, (b) (6), who is a 1 year old female, had not puked at all but we had also not seen her eat at all. EON-406963	11/16/2019 3:12	Purina Kit & Kaboodle Dry Cat Food	All of my cats got sick from this food multiple times throughout the year. It caused horrible vomiting. I always switched food to something else to make sure it was the food and not an illness, and it was 100% the food. My boy cat got suddenly sick when on it and died. I recently bought a bag recently (about 2 months past his death) with my other 3 cats and they are all sick again. It's this food. If you go online, there are tons of complaints of people's cats getting horribly sick and some dying, but I don't think many know how to file a federal complaint and just put their complaints on their Facebook page describing their cats' illnesses and deaths. There is a problem, this is dating back to at least 2014. Something must be done. No more cats deserve to get sick or die.			Domestic Shorthair	Cat

EON-406718	11/13/2019 23:52	The Honest Kitchen Human Grade Dehydrated Grain Free Base Mix Recipe for Dogs, ACANA Singles Lamb & Apple Dry Dog Food	Summary: In September 2018 my dog was diagnosed with a grade 2 heart murmur, after several years of having eaten grain free, dry base mixes and kibble. By December 2018, she had begun daily supplements of taurine and carnitine HCL (250 mg each). By August 2018, she had switched to a non-grain free base mix, in addition to a home recipe. Today (November 13, 2019) at her physical, her vet detected no heart murmur. Additional info: In Sept. 2018, my female dog (~11 year old terrier mix, 32 pounds) was diagnosed with a grade 2 heart murmur during her annual physical. Previous annual exams revealed no heart issues (or other health issues). Since April 2017 she had been eating primarily The Honest Kitchen grain free base mix to which I added chicken or turkey (switching to turkey in 2018). Prior to The Honest Kitchen, she had eaten Acana Singles Lamb and Apple kibble (grain free), for 1-2 years (and occasionally after switching to The Honest Kitchen). After the heart murmur was identified, I started giving her daily "Carido Strength" (by VetriScience) pills, in Dec. 2018 based on purchase records. I think it was in April or May of 2019 that I learned of the investigation into links between canine/feline DCM and grain-free diets. Shortly thereafter I started cooking turkey/rice/veggies which I would supplement with The Honest Kitchen grain-free base mix. By Aug. 2019, I had switched her to The Honest Kitchen Organic Turkey Grain dog food, with added turkey and sometimes rice and veggies. Today (Nov. 13) at her physical, the vet could not detect any heart murmur. My vet would be happy to provide additional information.	11	Years	Unknown	Dog	32	Pound

They also gave him a shot for the nausea. We came home and I spent the nite with him. At this time he was not vomiting, poured liquid was coming out his butt. Was back at the vet first thing next morning, they referred me to a 24 hour hospital thinking he was going to need to be watched, I went there and we did ultra sound more blood work, and he was hydrated again. EON-406357	11/9/2019 21:12	Luvsome Cat Food Perfectly balanced nutrition for your kitten & adult cat Chicken Dinner Pate	I purchased a can of Luvsome brand wet cat food, Chicken Dinner Pate, for my feline. I opened the can and was emptying the contents into a small bowl for my cat to enjoy and while I was mixing it (my cat likes pate style wet food mixed with water) I found a large piece of bone (approx. 2.5 cm in length) in the food. Upon further inspection I found many smaller pieces of bone material in the food (approx. 1-2 mm in length) and what may be pieces of feather. I did not feed this to my cat as I do not want to harm my pet. The only identifying marks on the can as to production or lot number I found was on the bottom of the can as follows : "BEST BY APR 24 22 1416" "MADE IN USA GGC4MC". I purchased this product from King Soopers in (b) (6) on 11/7/2019 and opened the can on 11/9/2019. Thank you for your consideration into this safety issue for choking hazard to animals.

EON-406355	11/9/2019 20:52	Dr. Harvey's Golden Years Herbal Dog Supplement 7-oz tin	My dog is getting old, for this reason I decided to buy a supplement to help boost her immune system. After administering the first dosage I noticed a loss of appetite on the next feeding time. I feed her twice daily. The next morning she did not want to eat again and I notice diarrhea. She didn't eat for an entire day. She started eating more grass than usual and acting very depressed and quiet. The following morning she vomited. After then I decided to stop giving the supplement. After 1 day she began to eat again. Then her stool began to return to normal. Now she is acting normal and eating with no problem.	8	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	42	Pound

Our pug started coughing after starting Zignature Limited Ingredient food. Developed cardiac issues, went on meds, we changed food and he improved, but we lost him on Christmas Eve. We and our daughter have Boston Terrier puppies, at 1 year switched Zignature. Both developed cardiac issues. One intolerant of exercise, blue tongue and the other a murmur. Both resolved when we discontinued Zignature. I feel there is an issue with the peas or legumes or something in the food. Especially the Kangaroo. I am an RN. Feel it is my responsibility to report this. My store was defensive when I brought up the concern about Zignature foods.	9	Years	Pug	Dog	19	Pound

The next night, I gave them the Mixed Grill dinner and a while after eating, they puked a couple of times but not an unordinary amount. By this morning around 4:30-5am I wake up and my entire living room is filled with vomit and my cats were heavily salivating. (b) (6) was so dehydrated that his kidneys were starting to fail and also had diarrhea. The diagnosis was coccidia. A Grade IV/VI systolic murmur was ausculted over the left heart base with muffled heart sounds. On December 4, 2017, she was referred to the ER for progressive exercise intolerance and abdominal distension. An echocardiogram was performed, and she was diagnosed with dilated cardiomyopathy, biventricular effusion, and mitral and tricuspid valve endocardiosis. A thoracocentesis was performed, and 1175mL of serosanguinous fluid was removed. Following the thoracocentesis, (b) (6) was found stiff and unresponsive in her cage. She was administered 0.2mL of epinephrine IV and chest compressions were started until a TFAST showed a beating heart. Hospitalization was recommended, but the owner declined, and she was discharged and started on 7.5mg of Pimobendan PO TID, 10mg of benazepril PO SID, 75mg of furosemide PO BID, 50mg of spironolactone PO SID, and 750-1000mg of the EPA component of fish oils PO SID. She was rechecked on December 14, 2017, and she had showed improvement; her Pimobendan was decreased to 7.5mg PO BID and her furosemide was decreased to 50mg PO BID; Taurine was added at 500mg PO BID. She continued to show improvement via phone rechecks, and her furosemide was further decreased on January 9, 2018 to 40mg PO BID. At her recheck on February 1, 2018, she looked great, and her recheck time was extended. (b) (6) was then not rechecked until October 2, 2018. EON-406022	11/6/2019 13:28	Piggies Choice	On November 2, 2019, the director of the Los Angeles Guinea Pig Rescue, Saskia Chiesa, posted a YouTube video titled “Time for the Outrageous Guinea Pig Calcium Truth.” In the video, Saskia promoted her product called “Piggies Choice,” and that it was currently only available for purchase at her rescue located at 10856 Farralone Ave, Chatsworth CA 91311. After several requests in the COMMENT SECTION of the video, she implied that she may sell her product on eBay if enough consumers are willing to pay for the expensive shipping. The issue here is that a person in the comment section of the YouTube Video stated that Saskia’s product is actually a brand of rabbit pellets that can be purchased via the Modesto Milling website. Modesto Milling is located in Empire, California. There is a big difference in guinea pig pellets and rabbit pellets. It seems like false marketing to promote rabbit pellets as guinea pig pellets. Attached are pictures of the ingredients from both “Piggies Choice” and the rabbit pellets found on the Modesto Milling website. The ingredients are exactly identical and organized exactly in the same order. As a concerned guinea pig advocate, I am submitting this information in hopes that a government agency can investigate the ingredients in “Piggies Choice” and if it is actually rabbit pellets. Saska has been selling her pellets at the rescue for years. Consumers deserve the truth. If she is indeed engaged in false marketing, then the public should be on alert. Whether it is intentional or negligence with respect to her conduct, the well-being of guinea pigs is top priority. Only pellets formulated for guinea pigs should be marketed for them. Thank you for reading my report.

EON-405851	11/5/2019 12:48	TruDog Boost Me	I started to use TruDog Boost Me for my small rescue dogs on (b) (6). A few weeks later, my 3 pound rescue chi died on (b) (6), without time for me to take him to the vet. A few more weeks later on (b) (6) a second dog, my 8 or 9 pound chi, vomited one day and bled out the second day and died in my arms. I did not even have time to take her to the vet either. On Sept 17, 2019, my 3rd chi, around 7 pounds, vomited one day and started to bleed out the second day. I was able to rush her to the vet where the x-ray clearly showed internal bleeding caused from bone fragments in her intestines. On Sept 19, 2019 I wrote TruDog and sent the x-rays, the vets diagnosis, and also the bill asking them to pay for the bill. This is a small price to pay considering I lost 2 animals from the internal bleeding and almost lost a 3rd dog. The first email was ignored. On Sept 23, 2019 I sent another email with pictures of the bone in the product TruDog Boost Me, which clearly showed the ground bone fragments, that also matched the bone in my dogs intestines causing the internal bleed. For 5 weeks I was ignored as "it was under investigation." On Oct 29, 2019 I received an email stating that their manufacturer reviewed this and that they were not paying the vet bill. I offered them a chance to be the hero and do the right thing admitting that it was an issue, the ground bone, but this has been ignored. He was administered antibiotics and Lasix and placed in an oxygen tent after CXR revealed cardiomegaly and some pulmonary congestion. Diagnosis possible aspiration pneumonia and dilated cardiomyopathy. An echo confirmed the diagnosis of DCM. Incidental foreign body in stomach which was later removed endoscopically. He was discharged the next day. Continued to gradually improve. Was placed in a kennel while we traveled and upon return had worsened despite recieving medications and a new diet, although antibiotics had been completed after one week. His lethargy, lack of appetite, and mild, noisy respiratory distress prompted another vet visit on 10/28. CXR this time apparently revealing marked cardiomegaly and relatively good lung fields. He was placed on another trial of antibiotics and discharged. To this date there has been minimal improvement in his condition. His previous diet had been on Blue Buffalo Wilderness Salmon Recipe Grain-Free Dry Dog Food for years, but recently changed to Purina Pro Plan Focus Adult Sensitive Skin & Stomach Salmon & Rice Formula Dry Dog Food as another dog had become ill and read about concerns with grain free diets in dogs. I notified the company since this appeared to be a quality control issue, if not a choking hazard. I submitted pictures and information from the back of the bag. After a few days, I received a response that the pieces were "surged food" caused by the knife drive not being activated throughout the process of cutting the kibble. The company representative said, "Although not ideal, they are in no way harmful to your pet and are not a concern from a health or safety standpoint." I strongly disagree with this. While the pieces were too big to not see, one eaten by a cat would certainly be a choking hazard if not detected. In addition, I found some smaller pieces that could easily have been missed during a quick visual check.

Come to find out the liquid in her chest was being cause by heart failure, fluid was drained and was placed on meds but got worse and had to be put down, two weeks later another dog shows the same symptoms and had to be put down as well. After another week past the third dog showed exact same symptoms as the first two so the vet started noticing a pattern and asked about the ingredients in the dog food, when I told him about their diet he showed me this article explaining that it could be the dog food I'm feeding them that caused this problem. It was the same flavor we always get - Blue Buffalo Wilderness Salmon in the pink bag - within 2 hours she started having explosive diarrhea. This continued for a couple of days. It was very slimy/mucus-y. We put (b) (6) on the bland diet of just rice and boiled chicken to reset her stomach after talking to the vet. Everything cleared up, so we put a small amount of her food into the bowl mixed with mostly rice. The diarrhea came back within 2 hours again and was back for several days after only a very small amount of food. We have since switched her food to a different brand and everything has gone back to normal. She was on the Blue Buffalo Wilderness for well over a year without any problems until the most recent bag we purchased. She was supervised and by the time we took it away from her, 3/4 of it was eaten. She passed a lot of this bone in her stools for 3 days and then on the evening of 10/15/19, she began violently vomiting (8 times in 45 minutes) and was rushed to the emergency vets office. She continued to vomit many times and then began vomiting blood and parts of the blue nylabone, that had been ingested 3 days earlier. They admitted her and and discovered she had parts of the bone still in her stomach and intestines and developed Pancreatitis as a result of ingesting this toy. 3-4 barium studies later, and accute medical support overnight, and many xrays, they waited as she passed a large portion of the bone. Therefore surgery was averted. She was sent home with 6 different medications, dispensing for 10 days and is still not 100% back to her old self. 			This bone that she ate was packaged with 2 other bones, one is labeled edible, one is labeled a dental chew and the blue knobby one is a chew toy. I feel Nylabone is negligent in 2 ways. #1, packaging is confusing as to what you are getting, when you look at the label, at first glance, it seems all 3 are edible and they are NOT.# 2 the inedible bone is made of such a soft material, it required VERY little effort from our dog to eat it. I have read online where tons of people have had the same issue with this bone and their dogs have DIED. They have to be held accountable for this!. I see also there have been a few recalls for this product in 2015 because it does break into small pieces. Supposedly they had improved the product. NOPE.

It seems that something is wrong and we are going to stop purchasing it until we know the problem has been addressed. They wrote back this: Thank you for using Answers Pet Food. We ferment our goat milk which makes it more nutritious and safe to feed. Every carton can look different. Many cartons can look just like milk and other will be curded and separated. The curded/separated milk is more fermented and will contain more probiotics. The diarrhea your dog is experiencing is a detox, see attached. They sent me a pdf that basically says that switching to raw can cause a detox to occur and not to panic if your dog is lethargic and having diarrhea. This consists of Purina Beyond Simply 9 Lamb dog food mixed with 1/2 can of Beyond Chicken Lamb Spinach Grain free food. She has been eating this for 2 years so it was nothing new. My dog became sick vomiting. diarrhea and hot face and nose. I did not feed her again until the next evening. She was drinking a lot of water - more than normal. Not knowing what made her so sick (I am home most of the time and she is supervised when she goes outside) I threw out the new bag of dry Simply 9, the canned chicken lamb spinach grain free food (new can) The hot face continued as did the diarrhea. She was sleeping a lot. But after hours the vomiting stopped. I then cooked oatmeal (giving 2 tablespoons) mixed with home cooked chicken breast, swanson broth and green beans. Limited the amount to about 1/2 of her normal size meal. The diarrhea lasted for about a week. I continued with home cooked until diarrhea was stopped. Then I added one cup of dry food to this chicken oatmeal mix. She continued to recover and was more her normal self. Last night I added 1/2 can Grain free Beyond canned chicken spinach lamb to dry food and within a half an hour she was acting strange then started throwing up again. Nose was hot again. She started drinking a lot of water again. She slept all day today. Tonight I made her more chicken green bean mix and added dry Beyond Lamb food. No reaction and seemed to feel a little better. I threw out canned food. Thought you should know, since a Walmart Employee where I purchased the food stated another lady had returned 8 cans of the same purina beyond canned food stating "It was making her dog sick"	4	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog	87	Pound

Shortly after we opened the last bag, my dog was not acting herself. She was throwing up, having accidents on my floor, diarrhea, constipation, very lethargic, swollen stomach, and just no energy. We made numerous trips to the vets, had two different kinds of blood tests ran, and did scans of her body to make sure nothing was obstructing her stomach, everything came back normal except her scans showed her stomach and lining was very inflamed. The vet put her on 5 different medications and a strict diet. I kept trying to push her healthy mobility food and mixing it with the vet prescribed food or with hamburger or shredded chicken, she wouldnt go near it. It wasn't until 3 weeks later (that's how long she was very sick) i made the connection that it has to be this bag of food. She won't even go near the bag of dog food or eat food touching the kibble. I bought a different kind of dog food and she's eating it just fine.	10	Years	Terrier (unspecified)	Dog	18	Pound

On 16 April 2019, we bought a 35 Lbs bag, which he started on 18 April 2019. On 28 April 2019 early in AM, we noticed there was some bile and some vomit on the floor, and on 29 April 2019, he did not eat the whole day, and ate some grass but not as usually as all dogs but kind of "grazing". The next day (April 30th), he also refused to eat, and moved his bowls only a little. We took him to his VD, who gave him a blood test and an antibiotic, and pills for pain and for vomiting. For 3 days, (b) (6) took the med's and seemed to improve, but (b) (6) he refused to eat and take the medications, and on (b) (6) he produced large mucus, refused the med and eat, and continued "grazing" on the grass. The ultrasound indicated severe gallbladder damage (Mucocoele), and the VD said that if operated (b) (6) would have a bad prognosis including possible disabilities, and it was sadly decided to euthanize him. From the above, there is a strong indication that eating the food of the new bag (which look darker than usual), might have caused the gallbladder damage, and we would appreciate your taking whatever action is necessary to fully clarify the matter. At WellPet we are committed to providing the highest quality pet foods and treats available. Our expert staff of engineers is continuously improving our products to ensure that they are tasty and nutritious for your pet. We regret that the product you received did not meet our high standards. Our manufacturing facilities follow a very strict insect and pest control program that is constantly monitored. However, if pet food, treats and snacks are not stored properly at the distributor or retailer level, insects can be a problem. They can travel inside the packaging and can be seen in multiple stages including eggs, larvae, webbing, moths etc. Insect infestation can come from many places along the distribution channel and occurs prior to the consumer purchasing the product. While these insects are a nuisance and pet food industry does its best to store its food properly, they are non-toxic and non-parasitic. In order to better address your concerns we would like to get some additional information about the product for our Quality Assurance Department. If possible, please provide us with the flavor and package size of the product in question, as well as the Best if Used By/Please Enjoy By date and any additional manufacturing information stamped on the package. We do recommend working with the Amazon auction vendor for a refund. Sincerely). She has only eaten 4-health grain free beef and potato dog food since I got hurt. She has started to get very tired over the past several months but her breathing started to be effected over the weekend. She was taken to the vets and it has been determined she has a heart murmur and an enlarged heart. Her heart should measure less than 10 but hers is a 14. She is now going to be on medications the rest of her life and hopefully the medications work. The vet stated she has had the enlarged heart for a while now.	47	Months	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	38	Pound

EON-403559	10/15/ 201914:20	Hills Science Diet - Sensitive Stomach & Skin (Adult)	I buy my dog food at www.chewy.com, who delivers the 30lbs dog bags every month. I opened this dog food bag and have been giving it to my special needs dog (Hills Science Diet - Sensitive Stomach & Skin), as my dog has skin allergies and a sensitive stomach. Once I got down to the last 1/3rd of the bag, I noticed a large black lump of "something". I took it out of the bag, and found it to be mildew and black mold, that was stuck to the bottom of the dogfood bag. Then I found mildew / moldy food pellets throughout the rest of the bag, which means, that I just fed my dog special needs dog, contaminated dog for during the past 3 weeks!

On or about September 1, 2019 I purchased 4 cans of Nutro canned dog food. a few days later I opened one of the cans and noticed that some of the food under the lid was black. I opened a second can and it looked the same. I notified the Rural King in (b) (6) where I purchased the food and let them know there was a problem with the food. They said bring it back for a refund. I was not happy with the results so I called Nutro. They said they would open an investigation which turns out was nothing. I received an email a few days ago asking what I thought of their customer service. I was not very nice at that point. After doing some research I found out that the Food and Drug Administration is the place to take care of the problem. I have photos of the spoiled food as well the lot numbers.

She was slightly constipated and straining a little, however, so I researched and found that one of the recommendations was to give her soft foods (along with plenty of water) to soften her stools. (Other than this slight case of constipation, my dog was healthy, running around and jumping high, playing with us.) I fed her a total of one can of Purina One Smartblend turkey and venison that I purchased from my local Walmart ((b) (6)) around May 2019. On ((b) (6)), I fed her the Purina twice: about 1/4 at 8am and about 1/4 cup again at 6:30pm. On ((b) (6)) I fed her another 1/4 cup at 8am again. She seemed fine and even seemed to really like the food. I fed her the last of the can (another 1/4 cup) around 6:30pm on ((b) (6)). She seemed fine after eating, and went to bed for the night soon after. When I awoke to take her out ((b) (6)), I noticed that she had thrown up in her crate. 			but she refused to eat. She only wanted to drink; she drank about 12 oz. of water, nonstop. When I checked on her again at 11am on (b) (6), I noticed that she had vomited up more of the Purina food. I again tried to get her to eat the Cesar duck, but she refused. Again, she drank only water (another ~12 oz). By 3pm on (b) (6), she was lethargic, had difficulty standing, and was still unwilling to eat anything. She drank a little water (maybe a couple of oz), but just laid down in her crate for the afternoon. By 6:30pm on (b) (6), she could barely stand and refused to eat or drink. I figured that she was just having a tummy ache in reaction to the Purina, since this was not her normal brand or type (she usually eats dry food) of food. She became increasingly lethargic, and I worried that she had not eaten all day and had not drank in a few hours. She was too lethargic and her legs were too weak to go to her water bowl, so I began to feed her water using a dropper. There was nothing alarming. She did not throw up or anything, she just seemed really really tired. Again, I thought nothing of her reaction, other than that she just was not used to this kind of food and may take a while to feel better as it passed through her system. I kept checking on her and feeder her water through a dropper throughout the night, as she rested. When we checked on her around 11:30pm on (b) (6), she was dead. We were stunned, shocked, and devastated to lose our (b) (6)
			Afterward, I went online and found that other owners have had problems with this Purina dog food as well. I felt horrible that I did not have this information before. Owners reported their pets having the same immediate symptoms my dog experienced after consuming one can of this dog food between (b) (6) --vomiting, refusing to eat, drinking lots of water, lethargic, difficulty walking. I will be reporting our experience with Purina dog food and the death of our dog not only to the FDA but also, to Walmart, Purina, and consumer forums. No one should have to lose a beloved pet because of toxic pet food.

EON-403375	10/12/2019 23:56	Fresh Pet Select Small Dog Bite Sized Chicken Recipe	We purchased 4 bags of Freshpet dog food for Small Breeds from a local grocer in (b) (6). 2 of the 4 were contaminated and/or rancid. Their expiration date is 02/2020 and all of the bags were unopened and did not appear to be tampered with in any way. We did not know that there was an issue until our dog became increasingly ill (over the course of 36-48 hours), vomiting profusely and rapidly becoming weak. We took him to the Emergency pet hospital, and spent a very long evening trying to figure out what he could have possibly gotten into that would have caused such a sudden decline in health. While they decided to administer fluids and order additional tests, I ran home to check on our other dog. I had a lightbulb moment and checked his Freshpet bag, the first of four that had just been opened the morning before. The food appeared completely normal and showed no signs of mold or fungus, but leaning in I could smell a terrible rancid odor. I turned over the bag, assuming I must have gotten one that was past expiration, but nope, not even close. Of the remaining 3 bags, 2 of them appeared and smelled fine but the 3rd was gray in color and had a putrid smell. Luckily, we were able to get (b) (6) treated before the bacteria severely affected his organs and this situation could have been much worse than the bills we're left with. His recovery has been slow, but he is almost 100% back to normal. I hope that you guys will take action and further investigate Fresh Pet and their products, I'm sure there are others out there who haven't been as fortunate as we were.	18	Months	Terrier - Yorkshire	Dog	5	Pound

EON-402689	10/8/2019 16:28	Iams Proactive Health Healthy Adult	Our cat has always eaten Iams cat food from the day we brought him home as a kitten. He has been eating Iams Proactive Health cat food all of his adult life. Beginning in early August, our cat began acting like he was quite ill. I would feed him and he would just stare at his food bowl. He began vomiting green bile several times a day. He also began drinking more water than usual. He developed matting in his fur because he was not grooming himself. He was lethargic and wasn't the social cat we were used to. Instead of being energetic, he would hide under our bed all day and all night. The light in his eyes was gone. Prior to becoming ill he weighed 15 lbs. When we took him to the veterinarian, he'd lost over four pounds. He just wasn't eating, but seemed interested in the dog's food. That said, dog food is not good for felines. The veterinarian kept him for several hours and said she'd call us when she was done doing blood work and examining him. She phoned us two hours later and we went in hear news that shattered our world. She said all of the veterinarians were in agreement that our cat has B-Cell Lymphoma. We asked if his blood tests were normal, and she said they were. But all of his symptoms were spot on for B-Cell Lymphoma -- cancer of the blood. She did add that it seemed odd to her that he was interested in eating our dog's food. She referred us to an emergency clinic for an ultrasound, a bone marrow biopsy and chemotherapy. This is the breakdown of potential cost at the emergency clinic: Office visit : $125 Ultrasound : $426 Bone Marrow Biopsy : $2,231	9	Years	Siberian	Cat	15	Pound

			Chemotherapy : $3,000 - $5,000 On a hunch, we did not take him to the emergency clinic for B-Cell Lymphoma testing. He was interested in the dog's food, so because of that, I bought a different brand of food: Little Friskies Indoor Delight. He started eating like there was no tomorrow. I waited to report this because I wanted to be absolutely certain there was something wrong with the food. In short, our cat was literally starving to death because there is something wrong with his lams food. To date, 10/8/19, he has gained all of his weight back and is eating normally. We have not taken him back to the veterinarian, but did let her know via phone that we'd switched food, and he'd gained all of his weight back.

EON-402164	10/4/2019 14:24	Virbac C.E.T. Enzymatic Oral Hygiene Chews for Dogs	I purchased VIRBAC C.E.T.Enzymatic Oral Hygiene Chews for Dogs from my vet in the extra large size. I have a 90 pound Rough Collie. I gave my dog the chew at a time when I knew that I could keep an eye on him. He started making a strange noise. I opened his mouth and pulled the entire chew, in one piece, out of his throat. The chew, about 6 inches by 2 inches, is hard and crisp in the bag, but turned soft when chewed. I am certain that the chew was cutting off his air supply and was so deep down his throat as I grabbed the end of it when I pulled it out. I call my vet, wrote to the manufacturer, 800-338-3659, and also called Chewy because they sell it on their website. Virbac do not offer money back for unsatisfied customers. There are some comments in the reviews of people having similar problems. I have the chew in a Ziploc bag. It's still soft. I hope that some dog doesn't die from this product. EON-402159	10/4/2019 14:04	Beaver Dam Eli's Select Grain Free food.	My boxer (b) (6) started acting weird and not wanting to eat. We thought it was because of the heat but after a week of him not eating anything we made a Vet appointment on (b) (6). We arrived and the vet office where my dog collapsed in the parking lot which he never did before. Once we finally got in there the Vet stated that his heart was racing so much that he couldn't get a reading on it and he was retaining fluid either in his heart or bowel but he couldn't tell. He then referred us to the (b) (6). Once arriving they took (b) (6) in the back to get an XRay to see what was going on but he had collapsed again in the back and went downhill very quickly. Once the ER Vet came in she stated he had cardiomyopathy and that he was very critical and stated he wasn't good at all. We ended up putting him down and hour and 15 minutes after we had originally got to the vet office so we didn't have any chance to unfortunately comprehend that we had to put our 6 1/2 year old boxer down. We had just had him at the vet on May 30th for his shots and he was perfectly healthy. The food we fed him wasn't on this list but it was Grain Free food. We bought it at our local (b) (6) in (b) (6). We fed him Beaver Dam Eli Select Grain Free food. After boarding him for a few days while we were on vacation, we came back to him coughing. We thought it could have been kennel cough and let it go for a week or so. After it went away for a few it came back and we decided to take him into the vet. The vet did an X-ray and saw his heart was more than twice the size of what it should have been. She believed it was Dilated Cardiomyopathy and believed it could have been caused by the Grain Free Diet we were feeding him. His 3 and a half years we had him we fed him Taste of the Wild exclusively. I had switched between a few flavors over the years but mostly he ate, High Prairie Canine, Pacific Stream Canine and Southwest Canyon Canine. The vet prescribed Vetmedlin and Salix Lasik along with Taurine which we gave to him as prescribed for about 10 days before I came home to find his stomach bloated. I took him back to the vet where they determined he was having heart failure and suggested we take him to an animal hospital. The dog ate 1 meal from a newly opened bag when I discovered the food was contaminated with hard, white, sharp projections sticking out of the kibble. I immediately notified Chewy that the food was bad and was told to discard it. I bagged it up and set it aside until I knew if my dog was going to be affected, which he was within 48 hours. After getting him to the emergency vet for lethargy, inability to ambulate and extreme nausea it was discovered he had a fever of 106. The emergency vet proceeded to do blood work (CBC, General Chem) it was discovered he did have a slightly elevated white count with bands and a decreased retic count. They kept in the ICU as he was so unresponsive and ill. They treated him with IV antibiotics (2), hydrocodone, anti-emetics, anti-inflammatory, probiotics and fluids with close observation. I spoke with Chewy upon his admission and they asked for all medical records, the pictures of the food I had. I did forward all this information on to them. I told them that I had the food and asked if they wanted to test it.. they said I thought it was discarded. I let them know I had it sealed in a container and had taken a sample to the vet. At that time they wanted to test it but have not contacted me to do so. The vet believes that the objects in the food are bone or teeth of some kind with a bacterial contamination. My vet had me reach out to the (b) (6) and it was then recommended to me that I contact the FDA.	4.5	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	80	Pound

EON-401712	10/1/2019 8:52	prescription diet urinary care c/d	(b) (6) was diagnosed with badder stones and had all the tests to check his overall health from the vet which was excellent. he had an operation to remove the stones which were sent by hills to test the type of stones he had so they could provide the correct precscription food. the vet gave us Hills prescription diet urinary care dog food c/d in order to stop the stones coming back. (b) (6) was ok for the first week and then started to become very lethargic and had a raging thirst. the second week (b) (6) lost his bowl and bladder control and just could help doing this in the home. We contacted our vet who said it wont be the food he has picked up a bug or is just unwell. He began to pass wing that was putrid and the following day I noticed blood in his poo and decided to check the food online which has has hundreds of complaints about it and some dogs have died because of elevated vitamin D levels and to avoid the food at all costs. How can the vets still be prescribing this food in order to help your pet but it is toxic and making them ill. EON-401549	9/29/2019 22:24	American Journey salmon and brown rice recipe	I have been feeding my puppy American Journey brand dog food for months. It is distributed by chewy.com The food claims to be corn, soy, and wheat free. However, the most recent bag I purchased from PetSmart appears to have both corn kernels and also some sort of grain seed throughout the bag. My dog does not have a diagnosed allergy to these ingredients, but she's been having accidents in the house (which hasn't happened since she was a few months old). There may not be any relation. However, I know that some dogs have a legitimate allergy to these ingredients. I called customer service at chewy.com and they're refunding my money. But they didn't ask for any kind of code on the bag or anything for them to identify which batch of dog food may have been cross-contaminated. I just want to make sure they follow up so that they can prevent any medical issues in dogs that have allergies to these ingredients.

EON-401294	9/27/2019 14:41	Royal Canin French Bulldog Puppy	I fed my puppy around 330pm on Wednesday September 18 from a newly opened bag of Royal Canin French Bulldog Puppy food. It was the first meal from this bag. Approximately 1 am I awoke to my dog vomiting. After vomiting she began to be restless. In the morning, she was very tired but as the day progressed she became very lethargic, and was not responsive to anyone. She just slept. She refused to eat or drink. I took her to my vet where I expressed my immediate concern that she had gotten sick from her food. The vet attempted to treat her by trying to rule things out. She was treated with fluids, vitamins and anti-nausea medicine and was sent home. We returned the next morning as she still was refusing to eat and had slept continuously since being home from the vet the day before. She was again treated, sent home with some medicine and I was told to observe her. Again things continued to get worse, I returned to the vet again that day and the vet took xrays to check lungs for aspiration, all was clear. She was given a steroid shot and sent home with some prescription food. She finally began to eat (this was late Friday September 20). While improving, I returned Sunday September 21 to the vet with a fecal sample and met with my doctor's regular vet and expressed the timeline and my concerns that she had eaten tainted dog food. My regular vet sent her fecal sample out and it returned positive for salmonella.	9	Months	Bulldog - French	Dog	22	Pound

When he was a puppy (first year) I fed him Hills science diet which I purchased from petsmart. I transitioned to using Walmart Grocery pickup for its convenience and started purchasing purina Beneful. About 1.5 weeks ago I placed a Walmart order and they didn't have his usual food in stock so they gave me alternative Purina Beneful (beef flavor, small bites for small dogs). I started giving it to him about a week ago not thinking anything of it. I began to notice that he started to develop bald spots all over his body over the past week, he vomits every day after eating it in the morning (my dog never throws up), and he is constantly itching and scratching all over and He has hot spots/skin breakdown. He has been on Hill's science diet food in the past when he was a puppy, but we switched to Parina when I started using Walmart grocery pick up for its convenience. However, after some research online I am throwing this dog food away and going back to petsmart Hills Science diet. I am very concerned after reading similar reviews online about this brand that nothing has been done by the FDA regarding this. Please act soon. What concerns me, is that this brand is readily available at Walmart stores all over the country because if it's low price. However, I fear that many dogs are getting sick from this dog food. (b) (6) lives next door to her mother, who owned 3 dogs within the past 1-2 weeks who had presented with similar clinical signs and acutely passed away. Early last week, her 3yr old MC Chihuahua presented with loose stool that progressed to explosive bloody diarrhea. About 24 hours after onset of clinical signs, this dog experienced one seizure event then died. A few days ago, a 7yr old FS Shih Tzu was found standing in her own blood. She presented to her primary care veterinarian, who reportedly administered Vit K and IV fluids then discharged the patient. She died later that night at home. On (b) (6), a 3yr old MC Shih Tzu presented to his primary care veterinarian after melena and regurgitation was noted. Bloodwork and a fecal flotation was performed, with reportedly no abnormalities. He died within 48 hours of clinical signs (around 6pm on (b) (6)). Of the recently deceased dogs, all have previously been intermittently fed a raw-based diet prior to onset of illness and could have potentially had access to a chicken coop. (b) (6) has had significant contact with the recently deceased dogs around the onset of clinical signs. (b) (6) is reportedly up to date on vaccines. I probably started giving it to her at the start of Sept, when my other supply ran out. I, like any unsuspecting consumer, was giving my cat this food for the past month. A strange thing happened. She wasn't eating the food, just drinking the gravy, and yet she seemed like she was starving all the time. Soon she lost a ton of weight. She started vomiting very frequently and initially I chalked it up to her being almost 14, but was very concerned. Sept 21, I called the vet. Sept 22 she woke me up at 4am crying. I awoke to vomit and diarrhea everywhere. We went to the vet, she was 7.2 lbs, her normal weight is 9.5. Her blood levels were in the normal range for her age. The vet said she clearly had severe gastrointestinal distress. When I changed her food she immediately improved. EON-400775	9/23/2019 22:36	CBD Treat	Several colleagues visited a dog bakery known as Top Dog Barkery located 21010 Pacific Coast Hwy A-160, Huntington Beach, CA 92648. They all received treats from the owner, Karen, for their dogs and it was not until after the dogs ate the treats that the owner revealed they contained substantial amounts of CBD. I believe this may be in violation of any regulations with the FDA and/or AAFCO. Shortly after my colleagues were informed of this they questioned the owner why she gave their dogs a treat containing high amounts of CBD without their consent and knowledge, to which the owner deflected. She has also been known to hand out treats with CBD to unsuspecting dogs and has caused an allergic reaction with my colleagues' dogs that resulted in several veterinary visits. The owner and business deflect any sort of constructive criticism and concerns that customers bring to them and denies all allegations.

EON-400730	9/23/2019 17:12	CANIDAE Grain Free PURE Petite Small Breed Dry Dog Food Raw Coated Formula with Chicken 10 lbs.	My dog had an episode of near death 1 week ago, passing out and stopped breathing. Rushed to animal hospital. Diagnosed with congestive hearth failure, fluid in his lungs & enlarged heart and put on Lasic's drip for 1 day. Heart rating murmur diagnosed of "6" on scale of 1-6. Has never been sick and all other vital tests were normal. Was put on Pimobendan and Encard. Has now had two more episodes in a week. Regular vet has seen him two more times in the week. Struggling to breathe and rapid heart rate getting worse. The doctor showed me his notes from seeing the dog 6 months ago. Full checkup with no murmur detected and perfect health record. After the doctor and I could not explain the fast decline, we discussed his food. I told him that I changed (b) (6) to a grain-free food about 9 months prior to the first episode. After further research on the web I see hundreds of dogs with this same diagnosis of heart failure after switching to a grain-free food diet. This is absolutely horrible and NEEDS TO BE EXPOSED to the PUBLIC IMMEDIATELY. When Zica or any other human health-care crises occurs, it is all over the news immediately so people are aware and government organizations step in to broadcast and protect people and cause immediate change. Why is someone not doing something about this to save our dogs and cats. This is an absolutely travesty and criminal. These companies who are producing this food for dogs have to be stopped immediately and this has to be exposed to the pubic NOW, not in years after hundreds of more dogs die. Please help and do something!!

EON-400675	9/23/2019 11:16	Zignature® Kangaroo Formula - Limited Ingredient Formula, BLUE Freedom® Grain-Free Chicken Recipe, Loyall Life Grain Free Beef with Sweet Potato Recipe	September 7th 2019 - Owner noticed coughing for about 1 week, 2 days prior to presentation at (b) (6), owner noticed dyspnea and increased respiratory effort. Patient was seen at rDVM where thoracic radiographs were taken and revealed cardiomegaly and pulmonary edema. A grade 2 murmur was also heard at this time, no prior hx of heart murmur. Referred to (b) (6) . Overall assessment and diagnosis: Findings are consistent with dilated cardiomyopathy (DCM), and subsequent LCHF (in addition, Patient appears close to right sided heart failure as well). Given that the patient has been on BEG diet until approximately 3 weeks ago, diet associated cardiomyopathy is considered a possibility, however, primary DCM cannot be definitively ruled out. Recommend treating for CHF with lasix (see below) and pimobendan (0.25mg/kg PO BID) in the hospital. Since a significant number of the patients with DCM have arrhythmias, we would also recommend monitoring at least overnight with telemetry. Once the patient is home and eating well, an ace inhibitor should be started as a part of heart failure treatment. The patient has recently changed to a non BEG diet, from a reputable company, and that diet or a similar non-BEG diet should be continued. Recommend rechecking renal values daily while in the hospital, and 7-14 days after discharge from the hospital. Recheck echocardiogram in 3 months after discharge. Addendum 9/13/19 There were no malignant arrhythmias noted on telemetry overnight, and the patient is breathing with only very subtle effort on physical exam this morning. Has received approximately 10mg/kg of furosemide since admission. The owners came to take (b) (6) home this morning, and therefore we have not submitted renal values today. BNP: 8,853 (normal 0-900) Troponin: pending Taurine levels: pending CHF Recheck exam on 9/20 revealed that patient is tolerating CHF medications and overall is doing well at home. EON-400648	9/23/2019 0:04	Purina beggin dog snack venison flavour	(b) (6) started eating grass and vomiting one day which was odd for him. Started watching him after all food or treats given. On days without these treats he would be better. Stopped with them for 2 days as it was the suspected culprit and he was back to himself healthy and happy but still a bit tired. My husband had been out of town and was unaware of the issue and gave him one of the venison treats when he came home. Within 2 hours (b) (6) stomach was swollen and hard and he was licking floors, eating grass and vomiting. My larger dog (b) (6) (60 lb sheherd/dottie cross) had been lazy and eating grass as well a couple times but never got as sick as (b) (6). I checked the ingredients on the package and dried onions are listed. By 8am, she was at our veterinarian and was in shock. She was diagnosed with acute pancreatitis due to suspected dietary indiscretion. (b) (6) does not eat human food and does not explore outdoors, so would have eaten nothing other than provided dog food. (b) (6) had been out of town in my care 24/7 until 9/16/19, not eating this food. Upon returning to our home and eating this food, that is when she became sick. She occasionally eats only a bit of this food in addition to wet food. (This is important to note as two of my dogs who did eat this food between 9/6/19 and today have also been sick with bloody diarrhea, one needing to receive veterinary care.) Prior to this, my dog (b) (6) who is a mixed breed chihuahua/pug/pomeranian of 4 years age was treated on 9/11/19 by the same veterinarian for very similar symptoms. (b) (6) was not as ill as (b) (6), perhaps because of her weight. EON-400450	9/20/2019 1:36	Merrick's dog food's containing legumes and potatoes Romeo dog food (Canadian)	Was feeding dog homemade and/or store bought grain free canned dog food with either legumes or potatoes in the food. Over the winter of 2018/19 my dog started having less and less energy. She would not fetch her ball that we would always throw down the hallway in winter like she always did. She would just walk to her ball, instead of running, pick it up and drop it beside me panting, out of breath and unwilling to fetch a second time. At this time she was also refusing to eat her homemade dog food, forcing me to try several different brands of canned food without much more luck. She would not eat for 3 days, and when she would eat, she would only eat the oldest food first. I was starting to throw away a lot of dog food. I thought maybe she was just turning into an old dog and didn't think much more about it, until I heard of a friends dog who died from DCM and that it may have been related to the legumes in the dogs food. I then checked the foods and treats I had been feeding my dog for years and they all contained either potatoes or legumes in the first 3 ingredients. I immediately transferred my dog to a homemade diet of meat/organs, carrots, parsley and cranberries and homemade slow dried meat treats. She has been eating happily ever since and at least twice a day. It has now been nearly 5 months since discontinuing treats and foods that contain legumes and potatoes and she seems to have all her energy back. She has also been eating canned food without potatoes, legumes or grains just as well. I would definitely say there is a huge link to DCM in dogs due to potatoes and/or legumes in any large quantity.	8	Years	Poodle (unspecified)	Dog	12	Pound

EON-400311	9/18/2019 23:08	Taste of the Wild Prey Trout Formula	(b) (6) developed a cough so we took him to our local vet. The vet asked us what type of food we were feeding him, which was Taste of the Wild Prey - a grain free food. He informed us the cough could be nutritional DCM and to change foods immediately and start adding a Taurine supplement. After 2 weeks of doing this as prescribed (changing food to Purina Pro Plan Sensitive Skin and Stomach Salmon & Rice formula), his condition was deteriorating. We were referred to (b) (6). She had always been fine. We ordered from the same company (Chewy.com), the same product (USA Bones and Chews Bully Sticks) in July, and our dog became very ill with extreme gastrointestinal symptoms--both throwing up and liquid diarrhea. We took her immediately to vet, explaining we had just given her bully sticks from a new package; she had not been alone nore ingested anything else unusual in the days prior to this event. Vet felt strongly it was a reaction to bully stick, some kind of contamination. If further confirmation is needed, we offered a bully stick from an old package, and dog would not touch it--and she used to love them before this event. I communicated this information to Chewy.com and asked them to convey it to the manufacturer (listed on Chewy site as USA Bones and Chews produced in Virginia). I also let Chewy know of the lot numbers of the two packages of bully sticks, one plain, one braided (she had chewed on one of each kind that evening). Presenting complaint was cough, dyspnea and gagging. Grade 3/6 murmur. Referred to (b) (6) Echo findings: Subjectively thin LV walls with markedly reduced contractile function. LV cavity is severely dilated. LA is moderately dilated. MV is mildly thickened. RH is mildly dilated and PS is larger than the aorta. No masses or dirofilaria visible. No effusions. Assessment:Echocardiogram confirms severe DCM as previously diagnosed. LV cavity and contractile function are similar, but the LA is slightly smaller. Patient is breathing very comfortably since starting medications, but has been a bit pickier with food. He appears very quiet on exam, but reportedly is always a quiet dog at home and is on multiple anxiolytics/antidepressants. CBC/chem submitted for DCM study, could consider a small reduction in furosemide dose pending those results (eg 75AM/50PM). Continue current doses of pimobendan and enalapril. After being on meds, has better appetite, no more coughing, and he's more active these days with his ball. Hx of bilateral CCL repair sx in Dec 2015/Jan 2016. Subjectively thin septum and free-wall and atrophied papillary muscles. LA is markedly dilated. MV is mildly thickened diffusely. RV is enlarged. No effusions. Hepatic vessels appear normal. Overall assessment and diagnosis: Echocardiogram confirms previously diagnosed DCM with enough left atrial enlargement to result in CHF. Patient was enrolled in DCM study. Recommend continuing current medications, changing diet, and supplementing with taurine. The dog is on a bit of a conservative dose of pimobendan so this could be increased if signs of CHF recur. The dog has VPC's and APC's and likely is at some increased risk for sudden death. The right atrium and right ventricle are both subjectively at least moderately enlarged in size and function. No masses or effusions noted. The main and branch pulmonary arteries are subjectively normal in size. ECG shows sinus rhythm/sinus tachycardia when anxious - intermittent mild atrial premature complexes and single ventricular complexes are noted (due to severe myocardial changes). Doppler Comments: Moderate to severe mitral regurgitation is noted. Moderate tricuspid valve regurgitation is noted. Based on the TR velocity, there is evidence of mild pulmonary hypertension - likely due to increased left atrial pressure. 			Assessment: Based on 09/16/2019 echocardiogram, dilated cardiomyopathy (DCM) appears present and is severe enough to cause left atrial enlargement and pulmonary edema (fluid accumulation in the lungs). Dilated cardiomyopathy is a heart muscle disease where the muscle is replaced gradually and progressively with fatty/fibrous tissue. This results in a reduction in the pumping ability of the heart. At this time reduced function is enough to result in clinical signs of congestive heart failure (CHF). Therapy to reduce the amount of fluid in the lungs and further accumulation (furosemide and enalapril/benazepril) as well as to improve cardiac function (pimobendan) should be started. Once the CHF is stabilized and lungs are clear, periodic thoracic radiographs and echocardiograms are recommended to determine control of CHF and the rapidity of further progression of DCM. Additionally, many dogs affected with DCM (particularly Dobermans) may have ventricular arrhythmias, so a Holter (24 hour ECG) may be considered at this time once CHF is controlled. Other Comments [...] Unfortunately, (b) (6) heart changes are very severe and her prognosis may only be for 4-6 m survival.

EON-399985	9/17/2019 12:00	Fromm Four Star Grain Free Lamb Lentil Dry Dog Food	Presented to (b) (6) ER for a 2 day h/o transiently pale mucous membranes, dry non-productive cough and decreased appetite. Cardio evaluation: The LV cavity was markedly dilated with marked reduction in contractile function. The LV walls were normal in thickness. The LA was markedly enlarged. The mitral valve appeared mildly thickened. The right heart was subjectively normal in size. The PA appeared larger than the aorta. There was no pleural or pericardial effusion. No ascites seen. Overall assessment: Findings are consistent with dilated cardiomyopathy with subsequent LCHF, and multiform ventricular arrhythmia. Given the history of a lifelong BEG diet, diet associated cardiomyopathy is considered a possibility, however, primary DCM or other causes such as myocarditis cannot be ruled out. The ventricular arrhythmias are concerning enough to warrant treatment, and we would consider the patient at risk for sudden death. We recommend starting treatment with lidocaine (50mcg/kg/min) and oral amiodarone (300mg PO BID). Continue monitoring on telemetry while in the hospital. Given that the respiratory rates are in the 20's and there is minimal effort, we would recommend decreasing the furosemide dose to 2mg/kg IV BID, and continuing treatment with Pimobendan (10mg PO TID). The diet should be changed to a commercially available non BEG diet from a reputable company (a list of diets has been provided as a part of the study). Recommend checking radiographs to monitor for resolution of heart failure, and rechecking kidney values daily while in the hospital. Recheck in 7-10 days after discharge, and recheck echocardiogram recommended in 3 months. Final diagnosis: DCM with LCHF and multiform ventricular arrhythmias: r/o diet associated vs primary DCM vs secondary to myocarditis Previous diet: Fromm Grain Free Lamb, Chicken, Bison and Salmon (complete diet history attached to report) NEW diet: Iams mini chunks and Science diet chicken stew Elevated BNP: 9492 Troponin - pending Taurine levels - pending	3.8	Years	Pit Bull	Dog	36	Kilogram

EON-399619	9/14/2019 18:36	RACHEL RAY NUTRISH SUPER PREMIUM FOOD FOR DOGS. REAL BEEF PEA & BROWN RICE RECIPE. NATURAL FOOD FOR ADULT DOGS.	(b) (6) is a Cane Corso, Italian Mastiff, large breed. On Aug 23rd,2019, at the bottom of her 28lb bag of food (RACHAEL RAY'S NUTRISH, BEEF &amp; PEA, BROWN RICE, gluten-free, all NATURAL adult dog food) I found a large chunk of molded, fungi, food stuck together, near the bottom of bag, meaning? My dog basically ate the whole bag! There was also pieces of food looking the same, a lot. So I wrote company, they said to call w the reference number they provided. I never did, not then anyway. I threw out the food immediately, kept the empty bag, and some of the fungi food. Over the weekend I noticed (b) (6) had a very slight limp in back right paw. I assumed she twisted her toe or just a growing spurt. That Monday, 3 days later, foot wasnt better. I even went on Google researching toe injuries and splints to buy. Tuesday morning, (b) (6) can't stand! She could not stand on either leg! Throwing up, didn't want to eat, hard for her to chew and drink water, found that very odd. My daughter and I carried her in a blanket, like a stretcher to the car, and to the vet. Vet looked in stom, all good, forced her to walk, where she only collapsed, many times, did blood work on her, I took her home, next morning vet calls saying "...EXTREME AMOUNT OF ABNORMALITIES IN HER BLOOD WORK"... and needs to go to vet hospital ASAP! Vet thought was one kidney going bad, hospital too. They even gave her a catheter. That night, 5 days later, I'm signing a DNR FORM on my dog!!! Cannot explain the devastation.. I'm still going through it. (b) (6) survived!!! Dr. diagnosed her with a VERY RARE DISEASE named ADDISON'S DISEASE. Adrenal glands are effected, lower then normal hormones, such as cortisol. Vet Dr., said yes this can be brought on by FUNGI, also the symptoms of weed killer in dogs, are almost identical as Addison's disease. Gets worse. (b) (6) can live a normal life, THANK GOD, BUT?? She has too take medication EVERYDAY for rest of her LIFE and one injection monthly for the rest her life! She's only a little over two and a half. As of today? (b) (6) is a very energetic dog, very happy too! Eats very well. Also, I do not use anything in my yard for weeds or grass. EON-399487	9/13/2019 13:08	Zignature Kangaroo Formula	On 5/7/2017 at an agility trial I noticed my dog's gums were completely white. On the following Tuesday I asked her Cardiologist if this could happen with her current heart murmur. I was advised to bring her in for an exam. Upon examination an ECG was recommended and performed. Her perfectly athletic heart from her previous ECG now showed DCM. The cardiologist was in shock especially since she was only 4 years old. The year prior to this I had switched her diet to Zignature Kangaroo formula since my older Golden retriever was on this diet due to allergies out of ease of feeding one diet. My older Golden Retriever had also developed DCM after being on the food for one year but because of his age the diet was not thought to be an issue. After my young Golden was diagnosed, her cardiologist told me other young dogs were suddenly developing DCM around the country. I would like my dog/dogs to be added to the information to hopefully prevent other pet owners from going through what I have gone through. With medication, change in diet and the fact I caught this problem early, we have been able to reverse most of her heart condition. (b) (6)	7	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	64.6	Pound

EON-398842	9/10/2019 15:28	zignature salmon limited ingredient formula	(b) (6) woke my husband and i at approximately 1am and was gagging but not coughing anything up, couldn't lay down, and was acting very distressed. We rushed him to an emergency vet center where he coughed up a clear fluid and started to collapse. He was rushed into their ICU and we told them of his Von Willebrands to avoid any surgery without knowledge of the condition as we didn't know what was happening. We stayed at the vets office until about 5am as we were told he was stabilizing still and we could see him for a few minutes but he needed rest and was heavily drugged. We were informed that he was experiencing congestive heart failure and on oxygen therapy. We came back again around 9am and he was somewhat alert, hooked to a heart monitor with a pulse rate averaging 260-280 beats per minute with a severe arrhythmia and suspected dilated cardiomyopathy. He was not stable enough to be transported to a cardiologist yet, and they were not having luck with bringing his heart rate down yet. At 3pm the vet contacted us and let us know he was urinating now but the fluid on his lungs was severe and we should decide whether to continue treatment somewhere more capable or euthanasia. We contacted our normal vet and she brought up the food question at this time. We had been feeding (b) (6) Zignature salmon based food due to some skin and sensitive tummy issues for about a year and he really liked the food and had shown no issues prior to this episode. (b) (6) encouraged us to find a cardiologist and have an echocardiogram performed and taurine level tests done to confirm her suspicions. At 4pm we consulted with the emergency vet, (b) (6) heart rate was down around 180-220 beats per minute consistently but he was still oxygen dependent so we transported him with his oxygen tank and lines in nose from (b) (6) to (b) (6) as they had a cardiologist that could see our dog immediately. At (b) (6) the test were run by the cardiologist and diet related DCM was suspected with active congestive heart failure. (b) (6) remained oxygen dependent for approximately 3 days, and we were then told it would be best if we took him home as he was breathing well enough on his own and there was	3	Years	Doberman Pinscher	Dog	110	Pound

He is very lethargic, can't make it up our stairs to the 2nd floor so we stay on the 1st floor with him and sleep on our couch. He has frequent urination and very depleted appetite. His breathing stays consistently between 20-25 breaths per minute with most labored breathing when he lays on his side for more than 30 minutes. He has lost 10lbs since the congestive heart failure event. He is most alert about 30 minutes after his full round of meds and I would be happy to upload his medical records and what we are giving him for meds if this helps. (b) (6) was a very active dog even the day of the event, we used to run about 2 miles a day with him, and the only sign we maybe missed was occasionally during these exercise periods he would lay down in the grass if it was hot out. Other than that, he had yearly check ups with our vet and he never showed signs of any underlying issues. I have contacted via email Chewy.com and they were very kind but did refuse to post my review or our experience with his dog food and i do have documentation of my concern with them about there lack of interest in anyone sharing an actual issue with their distributed products unless you just say your dog doesn't like the taste as I believe that is misleading to the general public. I have also contacted Zignature twice via email without any response other than a thanks for contacting us email. My husband notified the boutique style dog food store that is in our neighborhood as they know us and our beloved (b) (6) and they said they were sorry for our experience but there is no "solid proof" that they are selling an at risk product or should provide any disclaimers about this food. I have every record of every visit that (b) (6) has taken to a vet since we brought him home at 8 weeks and would be happy to share all of them to help in this matter. Please contact me via email or phone. I would love to talk and provide updates as he progresses good or bad.

I had him on home cooking following the recall for 5 months and he received no vitamin supplementation during that time, whatsoever. In June, after 5 months of home cooking, his vitamin D had finally come down to 335. Because he was having IBD symptoms on the home cooked food, and a call to Hill's reassured me that the food is being carefully monitored, I returned to feeding the Hill's Z/D to him as this was the food that agreed with him the best. I continued to monitor his blood. After a month on the food, his level was 343. Four weeks later I had him tested again and it was out of range again at 479. Hill's Z/D is the only source of vitamin D in his diet. He is strictly limited to what he can eat because of his IBD. His treats have no vitamin supplementation of any kind. The only variable and explanation for the elevated Vitamin D blood level is the Hill's Z/D food that he is eating. We have been giving these treats to all our animals for more years than I can count. Never in all that time have I seen anything, much less hard plastic fibers in the treats. I have noticed the difference in the shape and texture of the treats that I most recently bought to be different from the product we've used for years. So why are we suddenly seeing this contamination?  As I save my dog treats in a glass canister, I do not have the bag which would have provided more information. EON-398289	9/5/2019 10:48	Taste of the Wild - Grain Free	We gave fed our dog (b) (6) Taste of the Wild pet food since the day we got her at the age of 3 months up until she developed symptoms. Prior to us knowing, it was hard to keep weight on her and she seemed to overheat faster than most dogs. Shortly after she turned 2 years of age she developed more severe symptoms and we instantly brought her to our primary vet. After th examination and xrays, the vet had found she had a heart murmur and an enlarged heart. We were directed to take her to the nearest cardiologist right away. That same day we drove across the state to the cardiologist. After an ECHO scan they found that all four chambers of her heart were swollen and she was experienceing congestive heart failure. She told us she may have 12 months to live. From there, the vet asked what she was eating. We told her Taste of the Wild(Grain Free) and she began to tell us about the grain free issue that has began to surface. We had no idea! She told us we wouldn't know if that was for sure until we make it through the first year. She told us it could be diet related or somthing she was born with. She was prescribed to 4 heart meds, 1 suppliment(tuarine) and a grain diet. Fast forard 6 months for he follow up ECHO scan. (b) (6) heart had made positive progress! The whole right side was back to normal(left side was still a little swollen) her heart murmur went from a stage 4 to a 3. Then fast forward to the one year mark. After the ECHO scan, we found that (b) (6) heart had completely normalized! Her heart murmur also went from a stage 3 to a 2. From that moment, our cardiologist concluded that it was a diet related. It only took a year of a grain diet to get a serious condition almost back to normal. I'm reporting the Taste of the Wild dog food in this report, but to tell you the truth, it should be all Grain Free foods that should be reported. I know some dogs have alergies and may need a grain free diet of some sort bu this stuff needs to be more heavily regulated. EON-398129	9/3/2019 22:12	Tobey's Gently Cooked Turkey Carnivore Grain Free Blend	My cat had black fur and was generally healthy. Her health actually improved while eating food from this manufacturer for the last several months. However, upon consuming a bad batch from this manufacturer her health declined immediately. Her fur turned brown (from black) and she had toilet problems, including constipation. This is consistent with lack of nutrient consumption. She was not getting the nutrients she needed, nor the nutrients the company claimed was in their food, from this batch of food. Once she was fed a different batch of the same brand of food, she started to recover immediately. No other changes occurred. The "bad" batch in question is visibly missing at least 2 ingredients that are listed on the product label, kale and spinach. No other batch (over 15 batches) I've purchased was visibly missing these ingredients. The texture of this batch was hard and inedible and completely different from the last 15 (or so) batches I've purchased from this manufacturer. The manufacturer also claims the product includes, "Fresh cranberries to promote healthy digestive and urinary tract." The cranberries appear to be cooked, not fresh. The label for this food also states the food is "gently cooked." It appears that the food was completely overcooked thus rendering all nutrient labels invalid. When I called the manufacturer about a possible overcooked batch they claimed that if they overcooked their food that was ok because overcooked food has the same nutrients as gently cooked food. I do not know if their label is correct or wrong for this batch after speaking to their representative. Lastly, their food turned rancid after only being in the fridge for 2 days (it was frozen prior to moving to the fridge to thaw). The label states, "refrigerate up to 3 days after thawing." This was not true of this bad batch.			Domestic Shorthair	Cat

He seemed to get better for a day or two and then got worse. We went back to the vet and they took an x-ray and discovered that his heart was about the size of a volley ball. To say this was devastating would be an understatement. Based on the x-ray the vet predicted that he had hours to a few days left. They offered options that would prolong his life for maybe a few months and also said that they could euthanize right then. We opted to bring him home. Once the sedation from the x-ray wore off, he seemed to perk up a bit, so we hung out with our sweet boy non-stop for a few more days and opted to euthanize once he stopped eating and the started coughing blood.	5	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	80	Pound

EON-397859	8/31/2019 5:40	RAWZ Meal Free Dry Cat Food Chicken & Turkey for cats	I purchased a second bag of RAWZ dry chicken/turkey cat food from (b) (6) on 7/13/19. It seemed fine and I fed it to my adult Persian (b) (6), who is 8 years old and in excellent health. I adopted a new Persian kitten on July 28, 2019, who I named (b) (6). He was 3.3 pounds and in excellent health the first seven days he was here. He developed diarrhea, took him to vet and was provided medication, fecal exam negative for any parasites. During this period of time I noted (b) (6) going to the bowl of RAWZ food and acting as if she wanted to eat, but walking off without eating, I at first assumed she didn't want to eat when (b) (6) was near bowls. I then started to realize perhaps there was something wrong with the food since (b) (6) had not been observed to eat, and gave (b) (6) some of the lams food I had left that I use to feed her prior to starting her on the RAWZ. She gobbled the lams and was quite hungry - I have no idea how many days she did not eat! At that point, I went back to (b) (6) and explained what happened and purchased a new bag of RAWZ, brought it home and (b) (6) gobbled it up. Contact with the vet, she stated that due to the ongoing diarrhea of (b) (6) kitten, to change the diet, as she felt (not taking into account what may be wrong with the bad bag of RAWZ) that the RAWZ food was too protein rich for a kitten. I purchased Nutro dry food on August 15th, and both cats have remained on Nutro since that date. I first contacted RAWZ on August 12th, I was told by Chris Briley they would send me a new bag of food and a label to return the bad bag directly to them - he indicated they would not test it, as it "had been tested three times prior to shipping," but they would analyze it. The package never arrived to this date with the return label. I then took the bad bag of RAWZ back to (b) (6) on August 19, 2019, got a refund and advised them what happened with RAWZ and to return the bag to RAWZ. It did not sound as if that would happen, so I kept contacting Chris at RAWZ via email primarily. He finally stated on Monday the 26th of August that they had sent a label to (b) (6) to return the bad bag. No further word until an email today stating the food had arrived, yet nothing had been done in regard to testing.	4	Months	Persian	Cat	3.3	Pound

			Despite my requests this was an urgent matter, as I needed to know what my two cats had ingested of a harmful nature, they have done nothing of substance since August 12th when I first contacted them. At this point, I feel I am getting the run around, and even if they said they tested that bag of food, I would not trust what they told me. Prior to returning the bag of RAWZ to (b) (6) I took some of the food out of the bad bag and put it in a ziplock, which I have in my possession. I also have the emails and voicemail, receipts, photos of the bad bag, including the scan area on the bag. I received a voicemail from a female last weekend stating she was the owner of RAWZ and that she wished me well, but that they test their food numerous times and nothing could be wrong. After that, I became quite angry, and that is when I advised Chris Briley that I did not care how many times the food was tested, there was something wrong with it and they needed to take immediate action. I explained that despite that (b) (6) loved the food, she was smelling something that prevented her from eating it, despite how hungry she was, and that caused kitten (b) (6) to have diarrhea. I am concerned of what effect this has had on both of my cats, especially (b) (6). I gave both RAWZ and (b) (6) nearly 20 days to do the right thing, and they have shown no interest in doing so. (b) (6) has been medicated this whole time, so I do not know if the diarrhea will come back when the medication is done, or damage to kidneys, liver, etc. I need to know what is wrong with that bag of food!! I am so worried. Additionally, there could be other bad bags other pets are being fed!!

EON-397842	8/30/2019 22:20	Taste of the Wild	(b) (6) was physically fit, healthy and active. Walked on a regular basis. Chased our other malamute around the yard like they were puppies. He was almost 10 and she just turned 8. (b) (6) ate someone's mac & cheese (trash) on a normal walk. (unable to stop him). 24 hours later he threw up bile, assumed stomach issue from trash. Next 24hours did not want to eat but would with tasty choices, drank water. Did not want to go for a walk first 24 hours, next 24 he would walk but little eating and still drinking. Husband thought maybe he had found a bone which was "stuck". Unable to access after hours vet Friday night but local vet was available the next day on Saturday. Left (b) (6) with the vet for inspection and had to respond to a SAR event. He would not let the vet in his mouth and they requested authorization to sedate. Inspection found nothing in his throat so they did an xray and found his heart enlarged and surrounded by fluid. They left him to wake up from the anesthesia and made an appointment the next morning to talk about his heart issue. He never woke up and passed away. They did an autopsy and found his heart enlarged, his other organs were perfect as was his blood work. No coughing or other symptoms of heart disease , no clue that is why he felt bad in the few days prior to his demise. Talking to our vet today when I had our other malamute checked she asked if (b) (6) was on a grain free diet. She then explained the FDA had a list of suspect foods and his food is on that list! We have been robbed of several years with the most amazing dog and it has been devastating. I put him on grain free when he developed a pink rash covering his entire tummy. After a few months the rash went away and I avoided grain. I had no idea we were shortening his life. We went to Mini Pet Mart today and found one brand in the entire store with no potato, peas or legumes! The clerk tried to say the FDA findings were not true or accurate. We are LIVING the truth and it has been heartbreaking. Started (b) (6) our other malamute on the new food. Venture limited ingredient for dogs Alaska Pollock Meal & Pumpkin grain free. 96% protein from 3 ingredients. 70% pollock meal, 22% pumpkin 7% flaxseed. 			heart today and it does not show enlargement on the xray. She said if we want complete answers we need to see a cardiologist for dogs. You know what is the saddest part? This was avoidable and curable..... We did not see the FDA report over a year ago because we are busy.....the vets office did not seem to sense the urgency and had no signs or questions up about food in their lobby. The pet store employee tried to debunk the entire issue....and as a result (b) (6) is gone years ahead of his time. It is always sad to lose a pet who has grown old and feeble with limited mobility and other issues....blind, deaf etc. But to lose a healthy , happy, fit, funny, busy guy is beyond heartbreaking. I feel everyone should be aware of this issue! There was ONE brand of food addressing the listed items in the entire store!!! When I called Taste of Wild the person said there was no scientific data from the FDA and the research was skewed. What it boils down to is money, they make money and are ok when a pet dies as a result. Maybe I will here back from someone? I did have the mortuary swab his mouth and sent in a DNA test so I will see what it says about his genetics. Tomorrow will be 2 weeks and I can type this without crying. It has been horrible and I am appalled it was avoidable.....

EON-397753	8/30/2019 2:00	Kirkland Signature Adult Formula Lamb Rice and Vegetable Dog Food 40 lb ES	(b) (6) In summary of what has happened in these last four almost five months, this is the best way I have been able to put the situation into words. On April 5th, we had brought our dog (b) (6) to (b) (6). He hadn't been looking too great or not feeling too well over the last week, but we thought it was something he ate or if he was just a bit fatigued, but all the sudden, the night before we finally decided to bring him to the emergency room, he started wheezing and his belly had seemed to be more swollen then usual. It looked like it was filled with liquid of some sort, he had also not eaten any of his dinner that night, but leading up to that night he was also slowly starting to eat less and less of his food as well. The vet quickly assessed (b) (6) condition and took him for and Ultrasound, and Echo-cardiogram, as well as a few blood tests. Her first theory was that he may be suffering from left sided heart failure which is causing liquid to build up in his abdomen which would explain all the symptoms that he has been feeling. A little later, when she had came back after all the tests were done, she broke us that bad news. She said that her first assumption was slightly incorrect, and instead of it being left sided failure, it was actually left and right sided failure. She asked us about his diet, his exercise, and all the other things that could be a cause of this sickness. She told us that the biggest thing that she thought would have potentially caused this was the food we had been feeding him for most of his life. That food was Kirkland's dog food brand, Nature's Domain. She explained to us about the Taurine deficiency that has been a common side affect of this specific food brand and about grain-free diets and how they were potentially detrimental to a dog's health. After the explaining of (b) (6) symptoms, she concluded that (b) (6) most likely had Dilated Cardiomyopathy. She said that even though it isn't the most common in this breed and most likely caused from the food that there is a	5	Years	Shepherd Dog - German	Dog	100	Pound

			common in this breed and most likely caused from the food, that there is a chance he was predisposed to it from birth lines. Given his severity, we could be expecting his passing in the next few years to even the next few weeks. Fast forwarding, the next few months after we found out that our dog was diagnosed with this. We brought him to the vet every other week, and sometimes once a week. He was quickly put onto a few different medications, some being diuretics and one calcium sensitizer. A few of the medications he was taking included Pimobendan, Spironolactone, Diltiazem, and Furosemide. In addition to his medication, we started giving him Taurine supplements, hoping that it would help from the deficiency within his food. His symptoms progressed aggressively as the vet had explained there was excess water in his chest so his heart wasn't able to pump normally and he started retaining water at a rapid rate in his abdominal area. This week, it being (b) (6), (b) (6) body has finally started letting us know that it was time to let him go. His abdominal area had swollen to a size we have never seen before, as he would usually fluctuate in size or the vet would sometimes be able to drain the liquid from his stomach if able. We are putting him down on the (b) (6) and after all of the research on this topic, I can confidently say that even given a possible predisposition to this illness, I believe the food he had taken in the past has sped up his process and given that this was irreversible cut the time with (b) (6) from a longer span to short 5 years. After talking to the vet from the initial emergency hospital and then the other vet visits up until this day, we have had the same diagnosis and reasoning from a total of 4 vets. Given that (b) (6) was supposed to have a span of a matter of days to weeks during the last exam. (b) (6) from the diagnosis date has been able to last his condition for a little less than 5 months. I do hope this helps with some research facts as to causes and my dog being one of the smaller percentage in pets that do react from these potentially harmful dog foods.

EON-397637	8/28/2019 20:52	Acana Appalachian Ranch	Our dog was fed grain free food from 3 or 4 months of age until 22 months of age. She was first on Wellness Core Puppy Food (chicken-based), then on Acana Free-Run Poultry, then on Acana Appalachian Ranch. She was on the latter diet for most of the time she ate a grain-free diet (approximately 9 to 22 months of age). After 22 months of age, she was transitioned to Purina Pro Plan Sport (salmon and rice) once we learned about the potential for dilated cardiomyopathy related to a grain-free diet in dogs. At that time she showed no symptoms. Between 24 and 25 months of age, she started to show exercise-intolerance symptoms that seemed to be getting worse (shortened exercise time, lessened intensity, prolonged panting after exercise, coughing with exercise). At this point, we took her to see a cardiologist who performed an echocardiogram and diagnosed her with diet-related dilated cardiomyopathy. We also had her taurine level tested that day. It came back at a normal level, which was expected due to having been on a new diet for a few months. The cardiologist recommended that we stay on the new diet and supplement with taurine. We will be seeing the cardiologist again in six months for a repeat echocardiogram to see if there is improvement in (b) (6) heart.	25	Months	Pointing Dog - Hungarian Short-haired (Vizsla)	Dog	44	Pound

I fed him (my rottweiler) on Saturday, 08/24/2019 at 7am, one 'Stella & Chewy's Chicken Freeze died raw dinner patty' along with 2 cups of 'Wellness Completel Health Deboned Chicken and Oatmeal' kibble, which is what he is normally fed. At approximately 1pm, the rottweiler had very watery stool, liquid only, and somewhat explosive. His stool had been completely normal leading up to this event. I know this because I monitor all of his "bathroom breaks" as he is an inside dog and only goes outside to potty, and is always monitored. He had two more episodes of diarrhea and was kept off of any food until the next morning. The next morning(Sunday, Aug 25) at 7am he was given only the 2 cups of Wellness Complete Health Kibble, mentioned above. His stool was soft but formed that morning. He was given only the 2 cups of Wellness Complete Health kibble, mentioned above, for his regular 3pm feeding. His stool was almost completely normal by late Sunday night, and completely normal by Monday. I continued with only the Wellness Complete Health Kibble from Sunday morning and evening, Monday's two feedings, and Tuesdays two feedings. My dog's stool has been normal. This morning, Aug 28, Wednesday at 7am I gave him the 1 patty of Stella & Chewy's first mentioned above.( giving the product the benefit of the doubt...maybe this whole thing was coincidence) But, by noon he once again had liquid stool, the same as the first episode. I left a message with Stella & Chewy's number, 888-477-8977. They have not yet returned my call. I am very certain there is something wrong with this bag of food.	8	Years	Rottweiler	Dog	93	Pound

EON-397474	8/27/2019 13:20	Taste of the Wild	My dog was healthy and switched to a grain-free diet at the age of 5. A few years later, a vet suspected an oddity in his heart and took an x-ray. His heart was enlarged. We continued to monitor it and take x-rays, and it continued to steadily increase in size. 3 days ago, he had a stroke. He then had a second stroke the next day. After sending a blood test out to a lab to test heart elasticity, he received a score of over 1500, indicating he is at high risk of heart disease and heart failure. He was otherwise a healthy 9 year-old dog. This dog is my life. I have depression and he has gotten me through the toughest of times. Losing this dog is potentially life threatening for both of us. As a result, we needed to feed him a poultry and grain-free diet. We fed him Canidae Grain Free Pure Dry Trout and Salmon flavors for the past 4 years, exclusively (while supplementing with treats of meat) because it was the only thing we could really find with no chicken in it. It helped stop his allergic reaction and we thought everything was fine. This week, he started having labored breathing. We took him to the vet on (b) (6) and he died minutes after arriving of cardiac arrest. We were told by the vet that he had an enlarged heart and his lungs were filled with fluid. Before taking him, he was still happy and social, eating and playing, but I am reading that Canidae's grain-free food is being investigated for causing exactly this issue in dogs and cats who eat their grain-free formula.	6.5	Years	Unknown	Cat	12	Pound

We have been feeding (b) (6) this food for almost 7 years. The packaging on the food is new. When I opened the bag, the kibble looked different. I thought it was part of the new packaging and recipe. I fed (b) (6) the food at at 7PM Friday night and again at 7:30AM on a Saturday morning. By mid morning, she was vomiting. Vomited 4 times over the course of 5 hours. Until her stomach was completely empty. Took her to the after hours emergency vet. Required a shot to stop the vomiting, and additional medication to help after we went home. After leaving the emergency vet, I went to Pet Smart and bought another identical bag of Simply Nourish Salmon Sweet Potato dog food, to compare to the bag I had at home. Upon opening the 2nd bag, I noticed that the kibble looked like it always has looked. I think the lot # for the first bag we purchased is bad. Smucker company (address: 1 strawberry lane, Orrville OH 44302) is in significant violation of FDA facility regulations. This facility produces treats and main meal for dogs and cats. The company ran an internal Audit several months ago which they failed so significantly that several employees elected to not feed the product produced there to their pets anymore. Problems include sanitation, cleaning practices, ingredient storage, ventilation, pre/post kill violations, human contamination, and safety issues among others. Additionally this facility shares the same building with both coffee and consumer product process labs. Product produced in these facilities is being tested with employees and consumers and being fed to their animals. As past experience has showed, there will be little to no effort to correct these issues which will continue to endanger people's pets and family members. I also believe that the facility has not been audited since its construction in 2017. Safety is simply not a top priority at this location which is dangerous to consumers.

EON-396901	8/21/2019 1:52	Taste of the Wild  Various varieties but all grain free.	Second dog is 11 to 13 years, unknown mixed breed, possible part Australian cattle dog, 27 pounds. I have been feeding (b) (6) a grain free diet for years due to possible allergies that we could not determine the cause of. When I got (b) (6), I fed him the same diet. I did not always use the same kibble, but had been pretty consistently using Taste of Wild for quite some time...few months to a year? (b) (6) liver values started testing high and I was having him tested every few months. After they continued to go up but ultra sound showed no damage to the liver, I talked to my vet about possible causes and started reading journal articles. I decided to get (b) (6) bloodwork done to see if his was elevated to rule out environmental or dietary causes. His liver value had spiked since his last test. (b) (6) was starting to slow down on our walks and I had to start carrying him home and do shorter and shorter walks. He was almost lethargic. Losing his breath and stopping every time we tried to walk. So, I took (b) (6) on his own walks until he started slowing down, too. This was right before I had him tested. The FDA's first warning had JUST come out. My vet mentioned it but we didn't jump to conclusions right away. I researched liver problems in dogs, pollutants, mold, and finally read the initial report from the FDA which mentioned the heart problems. When I researched that, I realized that my dogs were displaying the symptoms of the enlarged heart and that to test for it a vet would do blood work to look at this particular liver value. I spoke with my vet and he agreed that that was likely the culprit. I switched their diet to one without legumes and also added taurine supplement treats. About two weeks later, when i was walking the dogs they started running! They bounced back so quickly, it was miraculous! I hope that your research helps save other dogs lives, too. It was very scary to have both of my dogs fall potentially fatally ill at the same time. The older one suffered the most. His liver values are still coming down and are almost normal but the younger one's is completely back to normal.	5	Years	Corgi - Welsh Pembroke	Dog	30	Pound

SERIAL NUMBER 40243 10533 BEST IF USED BY SEPT 20 2020 #0200920AH2 A 0910. I gave my dog the new food that night and I would say about 2 hours later she was puking until she had nothing left in her stomach and started puking stomach bile. along with the puking came diarrhea. About 2am that night she woke me up by crying in her kennel, I went to see what the problem was because she never cries and as soon as I turned the light on I immedietly noticed that her face was swollen. Her snout was noticably pink and puffy , her eyes were both swollen and around her throat was swollen as well and she seemed to be acting lethargic. the next day the swelling, vomiting, diahrea continued till two days after that which was last Saturday the 17th. I took her to the vet on the Saturday the 17th and the vet thought she had something lodged in her stomach that was preventing food from passing. she administrated Xrays and the xrays came out clear. the vet then thought that she was having a reation to something of some sort put could not pin point it. so that night we tried the same food again under the impression it was not her food causing the issue, but we were wrong. the same thing as before happened again after she consumed the new bag of food. I would say there is something wrong with the batch of food we bought. one time the dog getting sick is understandable but two times and the same reaction each time is 100% a problem that needs to get looked into.	1	Years	Siberian Husky	Dog	37	Pound

EON-396704	8/19/2019 14:32	Fancy Feast Gravy Lovers Poultry & Beef Collection	Hello, I suspect my cat was sickened after eating part of a can of Fancy Feast. Last night, Sunday 8/19, I offered my cat her customary can of wet food for her second meal of the day. She ate only a small portion of it and left about 2/3 of the food in her dish. She usually eats an entire can immediately. She vomited a few hours later, which is unusual for her. She seemed not quite herself last night, and definitely lethargic this morning. She refused all food this morning, including three different varieties of canned Fancy Feast as well as cat treats she usually can't resist. I took her to the vet today, and I am glad I did. She had a fever of over 104 degrees and was dehydrated. The vet said he was grateful I brought her in when I did and took a can of the food she refused with him. He advised me to throw out the entire lot. While I don't yet know exactly the cause of my cats rapidly-advancing illness, I suspect we got a bad case of food. Please investigate this immediately. He was taking Barking at the Moon (Solid Gold) for a few years and then we switched to Taste of the Wild. I really don't know the source of the DCM but I would really like to see more research around this disease and how it can potentially be prevented or better handled. Another one I bought on sale, I reported to the store manager. My dog was throwing up. I called the vet. He said take him off that dog food. I did. He stopped throwing up. I put him on the no grain Pure Balance Lamb or chicken from Walmart. He has had no adverse affects to the best of my knowledge in regard to this brand of dog food. I decided to switch it just for a change and bought a bag of lams PH 15 lb bought at Walmart. Flies immediately swarm this food when put outside. It was disgusting. Without exception. I eventually took it back to Walmart and exchanged it for the Pure Balance no grain chicken version. There are no flies on this dog food when I put it outside. Flies are maggots from a dead body that turn into a fly. I did not contact the company.	12	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	70	Pound

I had mentioned to the DVM that I read an article recently about the grain free foods and was concerned, for (b) (6) was eating the Blue Buffalo grain free for small breeds, since he was a pup. From that moment I have been weening him off and now give him Royal Canin. DVM took x-rays and everything seemed normal. A month later, (b) (6) threw up twice but seemed normal throughout the day. At night, I noticed he was really warm, so I took his temperature and he had 109 fever. Took him straight away to a pet emergency hospital. There they did an x-ray and noticed he had an enlarged heart. I left (b) (6) overnight because he was borderline 103 fever, and I wanted to keep him for observation. The next day I took him to his DVM to check on him and my DVM did a heart sonogram and to him everything looked great. The DMV wanted me to come back in a week to follow up. I went back and the DVM took another x-ray on (b) (6) and noticed his heart grew 1 cm within a month and advised me to take him to a cardiologist. On April 19, 2019, I contacted the Distributor (Only Natural Pet at 1-888-937-6677), spoke with one of the staff members and, after reporting what appeared to be a plastic/glass shard embedded in a kibble bit of their cat food (Power Fusion, Grain-Free, Indoor Formula, Poultry Dinner), I was instructed to send an email to them, accompanied by picture attachments of said embed, along with a snapshot of the suspected bag in issue. 2. I did so and, not having received a return-reply concerning same, followed up with them until they sent me a pre-printed FedEx label to use to return the product in issue for exploratory investigation. 3. After following up as to the progress of said testing, I was contacted (via email), on May 3, 2019, by Mike Miller (Customer Care Manager in charge/Only Natural Pet) who, in turn, advised me that “(Our) investigation to this point indicates that this is an isolated incident and poses no health or safety concern. We received your package, and it is on the way to our manufacturing facility for further investigation”. 4. I replied that his determination appeared to be premature, at best, until a careful examination of both the lab and manufacturing plant were completed and both had reached a similar conclusion. I explained that my own cat WOULD have suffered the ramifications of an embed had it not been detected before feeding him. I also inquired as to a SECOND bag I had (unopened to date), based on the possibility of a repeat performance with another embed that could escape detection next time around. The (new) bag info was, in fact, the same as the suspect bag and, for the sake of good order, I provided all pertinent info again. 5. On July 3, 2019 I made a third and final request, to Mr. Miller, on behalf of Only Natural Pet, advising him that I had made a memorialization for the sake of proper business order and to, again, advise me of any further progress with regard to the exploratory investigation by his lab and whether a final determination was made in connection with said foreign object in such regard. I also advised him that I would be filing 9 complaints in total, including that the FDA. 6. I have received no further correspondence from Mr. Miller (or any Only Natural Pet representative) after May 3, 2019.

EON-395777	8/9/2019 17:16	4 health Beef & Vegetable Stew	My dogs was perfectly healthy. Could run miles with no issue at all. Since he was a puppy, I had him on blue buffalo. When he turned 3, I started making him home made food with these exact ingredients.... organic brown rice, organic zucchini, organic squash, organic carrots, sweet potatoes, beef, chicken, and sometimes other veggies and fruits that were all organic. Mixing that with canned (NO GRAIN) BLUE BUFFALO. In April 2019, I quit my job and started feeding him something cheaper called 4health. Grain free and not grain free. In May 2019, I noticed the dog had less energy and no where as much stamina as he used to have. Complete exercise intolerance. My vet suggested an echocardiogram which he then got diagnosed and so it goes. My dog went from a healthy strong dog to barely living in 2 months.	5	Years	Doberman Pinscher	Dog	80	Pound
EON-395716	8/9/2019 1:36	Nutra Thrive Ultimate Canine Nutritional Supplement Ultimate Pet Nutrition / Natreon Inc. #1 Recommended by Dr. Richter America's favorite Vet.	Shortly after beginning the product, my otherwise healthy dog began episodes of itching, biting paws, hives, over-excitement and uncharacteristic outbursts, that advanced to tremors and mini seizure-like episodes, lack of appetite, unwilling to drink water, fever, unable to stand or walk without severe shaking and weakness, wetting her bed and vomiting. We consulted with her Vet and discontinued the product as it was the only factor that has been changed in her routine. I inspected her and bathed her and spent several nights on watch soothing her and wetting her mouth with water. Placed her on a boiled beef and rice diet. Since discontinuing the product, she seems to slowly be springing back. She is still having tremors but less frequently. She has been mostly lethargic and constantly trying to get comfortable to lay down. The manufacturers responses to the many adverse reactions on their comment board is that the product contains a probiotic that kills bad bacteria which then leaches toxins into the system and could cause some unnamed reaction that will eventually pass and that most dogs will be fine with it the website suggests consulting with your vet before beginning. This product is dangerous and we still do not know about the extent of damage that this product has caused to her body.	4	Years	Pointing Dog - German Short-haired	Dog	70	Pound

We portioned out and cut up the ears according to size of dogs and gave them to all the dogs mid day of (b) (6) . None of the animals showed any symptoms the rest of the day. We checked all the dogs the next morning and found 4 puppies deceased with diarrhea discharge. I rushed the surviving 3 to the vet. One died on the way there. He diagnosed hookworms. Another puppy died later that day. The final puppy survived and recovered. All of the dogs had diarrhea. We de-wormed all of our dogs that weekend. On (b) (6) we again de-wormed all 6 dogs, and gave pig ear treats. Again all of the dogs got diarrhea and we assumed it was from the de-wormer. The remaining puppy rapidly declined and died before we could get it to a vet. On the same day I saw an alert about bulk pig ears, the symptoms matched so I called Rural King and they assured me their store was not affected. I refrigerated a sample of fecal matter from the deceased puppy and ordered a salmonella test kit from amazon. I tested the fecal sample and swabbed the pig ears as per the instructions in the kit and both show positive for salmonella.	6	Weeks	Great Pyrenees	Dog	3	Pound

The temperature outdoors was approximately 80 degrees (F). Once inside, his respiratory rate was 120 breaths per minute (video evidence) and I noticed that his heart was beating irregularly. I immediately called his veterinarian and he was seen 2.5 hours later. The veterinarian stated that at the time of his exam, his respiratory rate and heart sounded normal but recommended chest x-rays to rule out an underlying condition that may have caused the episode. Radiologist reviewed the x-rays and reported that (b) (6) had Dilated Cardiomyopathy and recommended Echocardiogram. Echocardiogram was performed 2 hours later. Findings showed mild left atrial enlargement and ventricular enlargement; fractional shortening was at the low end of normal. Right-sided chamber enlargement (mild) also present. Taurine level and proBNP was recommended and blood was drawn later that day. Cardio BNP level was 1.5. Taurine level was 360. Vet noted we were feeding (b) (6) ORIJEN Puppy food and informed me that the DCM could possibly be diet-associated. EON-395584	8/7/2019 17:24	Purina Beneful Simple Goodness with farm-raised chicken	On July 31st 2019 I purchased four boxes of Purina Brand Beneful Simple Goodness with farm-raised Chicken in the 56.4 oz boxes. On August 2nd I noticed one of my dogs had diarrhea with what looked like red blood mixed in. I immediately called my vet who was closed then contacted the manufacturer to see if there was a recall on my dogs food. After giving the customer service rep the lot numbers I noticed the expiration date read July 2019. No specific date just a month and year. She said oh that could be the problem that food could've been sitting around for a year in hot conditions and the chemical compounds most likely deteriorated. I examined the other boxes and realized two were not expired so I opened them and noticed the box I had fed my dogs that just had expired a couple of days ago was way darker in color. The food is packaged in individual serving plastic bags since it is a semi soft dog food mix. The rep told me to throw the food away and they would replace it. I also contacted the store and the manager told me that the "industry standard" is they can sell all the way up to the expiration date. I was furious so on the last day the food is set to expire within hours of midnight you sell me numerous boxes knowing that there is no way my dogs are going to consume them in that time. I was in shock but my main concern is this food should've had an expiration date way before it did because of its condition and the effects it had on my dogs. The second dog had semi loose stool but not as severe as my golden retriever. He is a smaller dog and doesnt eat as much so maybe that was why. I want to file a complaint and force Purina to re-examine their expiration dates on this brand of food so that no other dogs or their owners have to go through this.	9	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	56	Pound

I asked my vet if she thought the link between his prior food(blue Buffalo grain free)and his heart condition were a coincidence, and she said absolutely not. She was firm in her belief that there is a direct correlation between the two. We put him on mild medication that cleared up all symptoms, or so we thought. He passed away suddenly on (b) (6) . I have NO doubt in my mind that Blue Buffalo and their food stole my dog from me long before his time was up.  His brother (no direct bloodlines), has now started to show the beginning symptoms of the identical cough. This Pomeranian is named (b) (6), and is one year younger than (b) (6). They therefore started showing the same symptoms while they were in this food for exactly 8yrs each.	9	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog	8.4	Pound

When I got home that same day and opened the sealed bag, I found a bunch of bugs and nasty looking things inside. The food looks DISGUSTING and there is no way any pet should ever be fed such food. The product was bought new and opened same day of purchase. I contacted the manufacturer and was told that an infestation like this is impossible to happen during the manufacturing process. I took a video of the food and will include the link below for review Video link: https://youtu.be/64Nwjyu1EhE

Received July 29, 2019. My dog began getting 1 of these treats per day on July 30, 2019. By that evening the explosive vomiting and diarrhea started. I thought it may have been a virus. I continue giving her 1 a day because she loves this treat. By August 3, the diarrhea was explosive and nonstop. I read about previous recalls of this same product due to cleaning chemicals being in the rawhide. My dog and those animals affected had the same symptoms: severe gastric distress. I immediately quit feeding her this treat on August August 3. By Sunday August 4, after being on a bland diet and no more of this treat, she's slowly but surely getting better. By the way, these treats have an odd smell. I just want other animal lovers to be aware. We SHOULD NOT being allowing pet products from foreign countries who continuously poison our dogs whether knowingly or unknowingly. I'd appreciate a response. Thank you, (b) (6) Sent from my iPhone	8	Hours	Terrier - Yorkshire	Dog	6	Pound

EON-395310	8/4/2019 18:32	Whole Hearted Healthy Benefits Specialized grain free food for cats easy digestion chicken and egg recipe	Wednesday night (7/31), I opened a brand new bag of Wholehearted easy digestion chicken and egg dry food and fed (b) (6) from that bag with no older food in the bowl. She had previously had this food many times with no reactions. Approximately 1.5-2 hours later she became very lethargic and her eyes became sunken and unable to focus. A few hours after that she could not move and would not eat or drink, even treats. Thursday morning I took her to my regular vet at 7am. They gave her subcutaneous fluids and I brought her home and left for work. She was still not moving or eating or drinking. I checked on her at noon and she had not moved at all. At 5pm she still had not moved and I took her to the emergency vet clinic. She was in the clinic for 2 nights getting fluids and medication. On Friday morning, the emergency clinic called and said that she was having seizure and they administered medication. She stayed in the clinic until yesterday with some improvement but needing anti-seizure medication. Saturday night I got the bag of food down and smelled it and it has a very strong chemical like odor and does not smell how pet food should. I was able to bring (b) (6) home yesterday but she is still very lethargic, though she will eat and drink with coaxing and she needs anti-seizure medication for at least 4 weeks as she had another mild seizure before I picked her up and has small head tremors once the medication wears off. The Vet at the clinic said that with her symptoms, they would typically consider exposure to a toxin. There are no other toxins in my apartment that would have this effect (all cleaning supplies are in a closed closet with no access - she has no access to the bathroom and I do not take pills).	2.5	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	8	Pound

The next day we noticed that he was extremely sick, could barely stand up, excessively drooling, lethargic, twitching, bloodshot eyes, etc. My husband and I were leaving in just a few hours for a week long trip. After learning that he seemed to have all signs of Vitamin D toxicity I related the symptoms to the new food, and we immediately switched him back to Iams food and forced fluids on him to flush his kidneys. We were literally squirting water in his mouth via syringe bc he wouldn't even drink. We felt like we already saw improvement in his ability to stand before we left for our trip. Family members continued to be diligent in encouraging fluids and he thankfully has almost recovered completely. This food should be investigated further. EON-394886	7/31/2019 6:52	Just Fish Feast	on 07/09/2019 I purchased a 22.5lb bag of Just Fish Feast dog food manufactured by Only Natural Pet. Upon inspection of the kibble within the bag I noticed that there is large sharp white-ish objects lodged and protruding from many pieces of the kibble. I do not know what the objects are and so I had I initially contacted the company on 07/15/2019 in cause of concern after finding several dozen pieces of kibble with the unknown objects in them. The company apologized for having a "irregularity" within the bag and advised me to return the bag of food to Petsmart where I purchased the food from and exchange it for a new bag. I went to an entirely different Petsmart and exchanged the bag on 07/17/19 and when I got home I Inspected that bag of food only to find that this bag is also contaminated with the same objects lodged in the kibble. I emailed the manufacture back and I have Not gotten a reply in over two weeks and I sent out an additional email today 07/31/19 asking for a reply. I do not feel that this kibble is safe as many of the pieces protruding from the kibble are hard and sharp and if a dog does not chew the kibble to break up the pieces it can cause harm to the soft tissues in the throat and stomach if not scratch or get lodged in the gums within the jaws. I have taken several photos to show the manufacturer and also for my records and I am happy to provide them. I have never seen this unknown substance before lodged in the kibble of the food as I have been buying this specific brand of food for a couple of months now for my canine. The first bag of food had a UPC code: 8 11241 01419 6 Lot #095190NFFD and Best by date: 10-03-2020 The 2nd Bag of food (exchanged) had UPC: 8 11241 01419 6 Lot# 292180NFFD and Best By Date: 04/18/2020 As you can see the two bags are entirely of different lots and have a 6 month separation between "best by date"

			I think that this is a major hazard to any animal to consume the kibble with the pieces lodged inside. When I took the first bag to be exchanged at a different Petsmart the associate went through the bag and found some pieces and stated they believe the pieces were "plastic" and were shocked to see such large pieces lodged inside the kibble and how much was present. I have pieces of kibble saved as samples from each bag if needed for inspection. The kibble has not lead to any injury to my pet that I know of or can observe as of now, as I have been careful to pick out any pieces I find within the kibble so that my pet does not consume them. If you need any further details including photos please contact me back via email. Thanks!

EON-394871	7/30/2019 21:08	Merrick Lil' Plates for Small Dogs Grain Free SENIOR	I had a healthy Yorkshire Terrier mix (1/4 Rat Terrier) for twelve years. She always had a slight cough (suspected of a partially collapsed trachea), but it was never an issue for her and she lived a totally normal life, so she was never on medication or diagnosed for it. She had no other health issues of any kind, besides having to get her teeth regularly cleaned because keeping them shiny was quite a chore! She began experiencing major breathing problems in 2017. We have had countless trips to the vet. It was suspected bronchitis and sometimes pneumonia. During one of these x-rays, it was noticed that her heart was enlarged. At that point, I was told to see a cardiologist specialist to further assess the situation. This was the first I had ever heard of her heart being enlarged. I saw the cardiologist in June of 2018 and he diagnosed her with a "tricuspid and mitral valve regurgitation". He let me listen to the slight backup in her lungs with his stethoscope. Before then, no mention of anything relating to her heart was mentioned. At that point, I was told this wasn't anything major enough to began any sort of treatment. I repeatedly said I would start anything that was needed to get ahead of it. After that, she had a day at the beach which only seemed to worsen her breathing situation. She was gasping more than usual, so I took her to the ER that same night. It was then that they said she had pneumonia and started her on some meds. They didn't seem to be helping or clearing out the "fluid" in her lungs, but she managed. She would have some coughing fits, but it wasn't anything that seemed to be majorly affecting her quality of life. It should be noted that after this, she had a few "fainting" spells or what I thought could be seizures. She would suddenly stop, fall over a bit, and sort of rock back and forth like she had no control and pee on herself. This was alarming. I took her to the vet, but they couldn't find anything out of the ordinary. They still said she had fluid in her lungs and wanted to get that cleared up. She took a lot of meds for it that never seemed to do anything. A good while after, I rushed her back to the vet, because she seemed to be gasping A LOT more than normal and I thought her tongue looked quite purple. They said she was indeed not getting enough	12	Years	Terrier - Yorkshire	Dog	6	Pound

			oxygen. She was put on oxygen at the vet and I later took her to the ER (that same night) to remain in an oxygen chamber. This was in October of 2018. They did a lung wash and didn't find anything conclusive. She was said to have bilateral crackles, less cyanotic when on the oxygen, etc. I was given Prednisone, Terbutaline and Clavamox. She went back into her vet for many follow-up visits. I was worried that she would worsen when weaning her off of the medications. They recommended some inhalers and oral steroids. I was saving up for these medications (they were expensive and I had just spent over 4k on ER visits/meds), already had the inhaler, and purchased the meds on (b) (6). I was awaiting their shipment when my baby passed away in her sleep on (b) (6). She didn't wake up. That night she wasn't very interested in food, but that wasn't entirely abnormal for her during this past month with all of the medications, etc. Her tongue appeared rather pink to me, so I had not rushed her to the ER or anything. I fear her actual passing must have had something to do with medications. We tried weaning her off of them several times, only for the vet to recommend putting her back on them. She was a tiny fur baby. I feel partially responsible and think the medication was just too much for her. These recent reports from the FDA on DCM have opened my eyes a bit. Nothing given to my baby worked and it sounds more and more like they were treating her lungs when they should have been treating her heart. The symptoms of DCM are spot on and this only happened in the past few years in an otherwise healthy and happy little girl. This is very difficult for me to write and to look at her medical reports, but if it is in fact, due to her food intake then I would like to share my experiences, vet reports, xrays, etc....anything that I can to help. She has eaten Merrick for a good portion of her later life.

He began wheezing and became lethargic. We took him to the vet, and were told that everything appeared fine. Several days later he walked out to the back yard to go potty and was unable to make his way back inside. My wife and I had to put him on a sheet and drag all 250 lbs of him around the outside of our house to the front door. We had to get him inside out of the heat (b) (6) He lay inside, unable to get up for a long time. He finally wobbled to the back door as though he had to go back out, but collapsed onto the floor. He lay there for a day and started crying in pain. We called the vet to the house. The vet checked him and took blood, but again could not figure out what was wrong. He cried all night, and the next day I moved him onto his bed and drug him back to his sleeping space. He cried and cried for another day, and all I could do was sit by his head and pet him. I put a heating pad on his back hips as that seemed to comfort him some. It was very hard but I decided to call the vet again and have him put down. I sat with him and before I was able to call he gasped and stiffened up as I was petting him. I told him it was okay, and he died. Some red material came from his nose onto his sheet. We wanted to have a necropsy at that time but were unable to bring him to (b) (6). In the end we had him cremated. Thank you. EON-394835	7/30/2019 14:52	Hills Prescription Diet Canine Multi Benefit W/D	My Dog has been eating Hills Sience Diet W/D Weight control diet food for many years. it was prescribed by our vet because he wanted a food that would keep (b) (6) weight down. I submitted the prescription to Chewy as they do auto ship and free delivery for convenience. recently I purchased a new bag of the dry food as I had run out. I was feeding it to my dog as normal. on July 27th 2019 he became very ill. he was vomiting and having diarrhea. I took him to the vet and it was discovered he had pancreatitis. which is caused by excessive fat. that s when the vet realized that hills science diet changed the fat content of the food from 1-2% to over 9% and my vet said hills didn't notify everyone about it. this exposure to the higher fat content made my dog sick. so because of lack of information on the manufacturer part my dog became very ill. I contacted all the locations I know that carry this food and they were NOT aware of this change. when I called Hills they said they notified some veterinarians. but none of the other distributors that carry their food. this is an outrage. by not properly notifying consumers many animals can get sick and even die. I was lucky my dog is ok but how many will need to get sick before they are required to tell consumers of changes made to their products that can be potentially harmful. their food is not exclusively sold through veterinarians and it is for that reason they need to ensure all consumers are notified and the animals they claim to care for are safe. Also they can no longer call their food a weight control formula when they raised the fat content. by still calling it weight control that is false advertising.	11	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	26.7	Pound

She is fed only this food. On July 21, 2019 we opened a new bag of food. We noticed within a day she wasn't as interested in eating as usual and especially after opening a new bag (she is always extra interested in a new, fresh bag). She was still eating, but leaving a lot behind and just not that interested. Over the next few days she also seemed a little more lethargic and reserved than normal, and she was eating more grass when outside than usual. She was vomiting up the grass but no food vomit. Around July 24-25 we noticed diarrhea. On July 26 we suspected the food may be the culprit as nothing else had changed and her symptoms were not as severe as with her IBD flare-up. We bought a new bag (same variety, but different lot number from a different store) that evening (7/26). She ate voraciously. Her appetite has been back to normal since and her diarrhea is beginning to clear (7/29 AM). Her activity level is also much improved.	16	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	9	Pound

EON-394672	7/29/2019 3:04	Taste of The Wild High Prairie	Taste of the Wild High Prairie had fed for over 8-9 years without an issue. October 2018, all three dogs got sick, two of my dogs, 1 an Azawakh and the other a Rhodesian Ridgeback only vomited twice sometime during the night and one the next morning. My other Azawakh vomited blood and had bloody diarrhea. This one was taken to the Emergency vet and given Cerenia, Sucralfate and told to eat a bland diet. His liver ALT as 400. Took back a week later to check liver again and it had come down. IN January I bought a large bag of Taste of the Wild Southwest Canyon for variety. I begin transitioning with 1/4 cup Southwest Canyon to 2.5 cups for my Rhodesian and 2 1/4 cups of the High Prairie for my Azawakhs. All three became ill again, this time with just vomiting, no blood. I immediately contacted Taste of the Wild and asked why their Southwest Canyon with wild boar had the first 7-8 ingredients listed BEFORE the wild boar? She did not know. I then asked where they are sourcing the wild boar from, she told me local. I then asked when recalling my October incident if they had changed the formula of the High Prairie, she told me no. I then asked where they were sourcing the added supplements. She told me she couldn't give me that information. I then asked if the supplements were coming from China, she said no. Onward to May 2019. Bought another bag of High Prairie, thinking the October incident was just a fluke or bad luck. I was 2 days into feeding the new bag, when AGAIN, my dogs started vomiting again. This lasted a day, but the two others including the Azawakh who was so sick back in October had horrible diarrhea for days afterwards. I put my Rhodesian down due to stomach issues, and other issues that may or may not be related to the Taste of the Wild. But looking back my Rhodesian was in very good health prior to the onslaught beginning in October other than spondylosis and arthritis. She was 14 and had major stomach issues beginning in October so I do not believe this was just a coincidence. My two Azawakhs both who were in excellent health prior to the first October incident has had off and on stomach issues, smelly poop and still doesn't feel well. 			twice, once back in October and now again in May 2019. I have read several accounts of Taste of the Wild causing GI issues on various forums, bloody diarrhea, vomiting with and without blood. The accounts that many are reporting are exactly the same as mine. Taste of the Wild rep was extremely rude and said she would have someone that works in the testing call me back. They never called back. I asked if they did third party testing on their batches and she said yes. I then asked for the test results. She refused to send them to me. Taste of the Wild is not transparent or truthful regarding their sourcing, testing as she refused every question I asked. My other Azawakh who is older than the other is still having stool issues, runny, etc. He does fairly well on a bland diet, but each time I try to put either dog back on Taste of the Wild, they both again end up with runny stools, mushy and smelly. I have spent a good $1500.00 this far on complicated stool tests, blood work and repeated blood chem on this one dog and this does not include the October incident. Why would Taste of the Wild refuse to send me third party test results on their batches? What are they hiding. Certainly they do not believe that it is any of our businesses to know where they source their supplements and test results. I know there has not been a recall, but there are plenty of people complaining about the same GI issues with their dogs on Taste of the Wild. Can no longer trust a company that I have purchased their products for over 8 plus years not revealing where they get their vitamin and mineral supplements from and IF they even test each supplement before Diamond Foods adds it to the Kibble! There is NO precursor added to this brand of food - DL-Methionine for the taurine. There are tons of reports on various websites of other people between 09/2018 through Jan,2019 who had the exact same problem with this exact brand. Vomiting, diarrhea, persistent stomach issues now. One of my dogs has been to the emergency room now twice due to still having the diarrhea. He now has pancreatitis as you will see other dogs that ate this High Prairie have had. No, I no longer feed it. I am having to purchase chicken and boil it to get my dogs over the diarrhea which took over a month. I now feed Fromm's grain inclusive now that this company has been listed on the FDA as causing yet another problem - DCM.

He did not want to walk, and would just lie down wherever I sat him. When he started hiding, I started to worry because I know cats often hide before they die. I decided to give him a round of antibiotics [Cipro] and see where that left us. Only one day after I started the antibiotics, I saw a change. He was himself again [leads me to believe whatever contaminate is in the food is counteracted by antibiotics]! Later that same day, I stumbled across a Facebook post warning people about a contaminated batch of Friskies [1157, 1159 & 1161]. I ran to the kitchen to check and OF COURSE, all my cans are 1161. I stopped giving him the food the day before yesterday and he is completely himself again, circling my feet and chasing squirrels like he always has. I emailed Purina but they did not bother to even respond. I am keeping the cans. There are far too many complaints about this specific batch injuring and killing cats for it to be coincidental -- and all the complaints mention the SAME exact issues [lethargy, hiding, etc].	1	Years	Unknown	Cat	18	Pound

Feline presented with abdominal breathing, lethargy, loss of appetite, low body temperature and was taken to MayFair veterinarian clinic in Clio, MI on 7/12/19. X-Rays taken and confirmed non-cardio pulminary adema. The Veterinarian hospitalized her on Oxygen, IV, lasix and steroid injection. Bloodwork also performed and the only thing found was dehydration. Veterinarian prescribed Furosemide twice daily, and seems to have improved symptoms however breathing symptoms return when dosage is decreased. During this time the cat has stayed on the "I and love and you" food, without recognizing that this food is Grain-Free. EON-394502	7/26/2019 13:28	Acana Heritage Free run poultry then Acana Heritage red meat	Fed my dog ACANA for 2.5 years. They held themselves to a much higher standard than other dog food. I trusted them out right. I did my research and found they were highest quality in dog food. Well that took a turn in pretty quickly. We had thought she had a food allergy but are now seeing that it was ACANA that was causing the issue for her. (b) (6) began having gastrointestinal issues, extremely jelly like bloody stools that were constant and became very lethargic. I reached out to ACANA explaining the issues and they brushed it off that it couldn't be their food. Well I took (b) (6) off of ACANA and put her on a more bland type brand because my vet thought it could be an allergy. She immediately reacted positively to it so I put her back on acana but used a different protein version of there's. within one day (b) (6) had the same symptoms, lethargic, bloody stools. Then again i took her off and moved her to royal canin where she has been on this for about 8 months now and is doing extremely well. Although I don't believe it was the ingredients specifically and I feel they were high quality ingredients. I think it may have been some form of bean or legume in their food that was causing this long term issue that almost lost me my dog. I think they should check to see if the long term exposure to certain ingredients can cause issues.	4	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	70	Pound

I opened one bag this morning and my dogs would not eat it. They normally jumps on them and start scheming right away- it wasn't the case this morning. All 3 dogs refused to eat them. I then realized they were covered up with white mold and the rest were covered with green mold. I also noticed that the color of jerseys were much lighter comparing to other bags of them as though they were not fully cooked and yet packed and being sold. I believe there are more bags that contain same conditioned molded jerseys. The bag was completely sealed as usual and I had to cut to open the bag. Or there might be a whole in the bag - I'm not sure but I did not see the mold when I purchased a week ago. White mold is still hard to see and it may be that some of them in the bag may have turned green in last few days. There are supposed to be stored at room temperature. EON-394451	7/25/2019 19:04	Bravecto	On the evening of Sunday, May 6th, I administered Bravecto—a 3-month flea and tick preventive—at the appropriate dosage for her weight. Approximately 48 hours later on Tuesday evening, I realized she was completely blind. I made a vet appointment for the very next day, who then referred us to an eye specialist. (b) (6) eyes were filled with blood, and the cause of blood in both eyes was definitely the result of a systemic issue. I informed them that I had given her Bravecto 3 days earlier, and was wondering if she had an adverse reaction to it. They both assured me that there was no way that Bravecto could have caused this, and wanted to do several other expensive and extensive tests. That day, her blood work indicated a heightened immune response, but did not indicate any serious liver, kidney, or blood issues. She was prescribed oral steroids to suppress her immune system, and several eye drops (one of which, I had to give her 12 times per day). Over the next few weeks, there were numerous vet and eye doctor appointments, more blood tests, more drops, and little progress. The steroids were causing severe bloating and high blood pressure, and negatively affecting her liver function. We also had to put her on blood pressure medication to mitigate the effects of the steroids. I decided to reach out to a holistic vet because I did not feel that the vet and eye doctor were listening to me. She completely agreed that it was the Bravecto, and stated that this would be a long road to recovery because although the medication is at full effectiveness for 3 months, it stays in their systems for much longer. At this point, we were only about ½ of the way through the 3-month period. She sent me home with some holistic “remedies” and various supplements, and within a week, the blood in (b) (6) eyes began to dissipate. We began weening her off of the steroids and blood pressure medication and reducing the frequency of the eye drops. We were so excited that she was making progress, but we needed to wait a few weeks for the steroids to get out of her system before we could do another blood test. We had about 3 great weeks with her. Unfortunately, just around the time that the steroids would have been completely out of her system we were noticing that she had very	12	Years	Schnauzer - Miniature	Dog	9	Pound

			have been completely out of her system, we were noticing that she had very low energy. I called the holistic vet, and we had her bloodwork redone. Her red blood cells and hemoglobin were extremely low, so she wasn't getting enough oxygen. Blood tests were redone frequently over the next couple of weeks, and we tried many different remedies, but the results kept getting worse. She was ultimately diagnosed with immune-mediated hemolytic anemia as a result of the exposure to the toxins in Bravecto. Her body was destroying its own red blood cells. I had finally made the decision to put her down because she was not getting any better, but she ended up passing away at home on almost exactly 3 months from the one and only dose of Bravecto. That was the only variable.

After thousands of dollars spent on veterinary xrays and ultrasounds, she has been diagnosed with DCM. Her food brand, Earthborn Holistic, has been linked to DCM in an FDA report issued in the New York Times last month. She has been on this food for years and the veterinarians treating her believe the Taurine deficiency in the diet has likely caused the disease. She is now on expensive medications and if she does not respond, she will need to be euthanized because she cannot breathe properly. I am submitting this report to help with the mounting evidence against this brand. I hope you can eventually issue a recall. EON-394289	7/24/2019 13:04	Grain Free Easy to Digest Salmon Sweet Potato & Pumpkin Recipe	This pet was found to have a newly discovered heart murmur in December of 2017 despite always ausculting normally previously with a very extensive history at our practice (regularly seen for both sick and wellness appointments since puppyhood [first visit November 2006]). The pet has also had several normal ECGs that were done as a pre-anesthetic precaution (July 2007, January 2010, February 2012, &amp; June 2015). All of these anesthetic events barring the first were for chronic periodontal disease that was treated as needed with extractions of the effected teeth and dental prophylaxis of those remaining. The pet currently has only canine teeth remaining. There has also been one pre-anesthetic ECG run since discovery of the heart murmur that was also normal in April of 2018. The newly discovered murmur was at a sick visit, but persisted past recovery from this illness. Radiographs taken of the pet included both abdomen and thorax were interpreted by a board-certified radiologist; the heart size and shape were considered normal. First considered a grade II to III out of VI systolic heart murmur, this worsened in March 2019 to a solid grade III out of VI. This coupled with an elevated Cardiopet ProBNP value (b) (6) value: 3801 Normal range: 0-900) prompted additional diagnostics into heart health. Another normal ECG result was returned in May 2019 but the radiographs taken on the same date were interpreted by a cardiologist at IDEXX and revealed left-sided cardiac enlargement likely secondary to mitral valve disease without evidence of heart failure. Blood pressure values taken at this same time considered normal. The owner is interested in entering (b) (6) as a case study to the FDA due to her use of a grain free diet (Nature's Recipe Grain Free food) for the last eight to nine years and considering that Papillons are not an overrepresented breed when it comes to heart disease.	12.92	Years	Papillon - Spaniel - Continental Toy (with erect ears or with dropped ears (Phaléne))	Dog	8.8	Pound

EON-394287	7/24/2019 12:52	Merrick Limited Ingredient Diet Grain-Free	We took her and our other 3 year old Great Dane and 12 year old Yorkshire Terrier to the vet for and echocardiogram because they had been eating grain free food their whole lives and I wanted peace of mind that they had no issues. I had switched their food at the end of November 2018 from Merrick grain free to Purina Pro Plan. I immediately noticed a change in the energy level of (b) (6) our 5 year old dane. We had assumed she had slowed down due to her age but after the dog food switch she had the energy she had years before. I had echos done on (b) (6) 2/13/19 and (b) (6) and (b) (6) 3/6. The vet found in both (b) (6) and (b) (6) (2 unrelated great danes) had slight systolic disfunction of the left ventricle, with both of their hearts being very similar with a leaky mitral valve. Our Yorkie (b) (6) heart was clear. He did not recommend medication at that time as they were asymptomatic and he wanted to see how they would do with just a diet change. At our follow up echo's in June, 2019, (b) (6) heart function was the same and (b) (6) showed slight improvement. Again, his recommendation was to not do any medication and wait 6 more months for a 3rd echo before he could say 100% that it is diet related but he suspects that is the issue. It is also to be noted that I changed their diet 3 months before I had echo's done so the results may not truly show how much improvement they may have had, had I done the echo's before the diet change. I would suspect their may have been a good deal of improvement given (b) (6) energy level change which has continued to this day. We joke that maybe we can mix her food half and half because she is back to her wild puppy stage. In February on the same week she had the echo, she was also diagnosed with Thyroid cancer and has had surgery and chemotherapy for this and her energy level is a 10 compared to a 5 even going through that compared to the same time last year.	5	Years	Great Dane	Dog	126	Pound

Initially we started with Acana for about a year or two, then switched to Zssentials. At 4.5yrs old, she died of DCM. With all the news out lately i thought it should be mentioned so any studies you may have can include another statistic. EON-394113	7/22/2019 15:00	Pedigree CHOPPED GROUND DINNER with Beef CHOPPED Ground Dinner FILET MIGNON FLAVOR	I have been buying Pedigree Canned dog food for my dogs. I purposely buy the BEEF 'Chopped Ground Dinner' because one of my dogs is allergic/sensitive to Chicken. The cans are clearly marked on the front as With Beef and Filet Mignon Flavor. Both types show picture of steaks on the label and a stamp that reads MADE WITH REAL BEEF. Recently it was brought to my attention that labeling can be deceptive. So having 'older eyes', I got out the magnify glass and looked at the ingredients on the back of the can. The first ingredient in both cans is CHICKEN. Beef isn't even mentioned until about the 7th or 8th ingredient. Why in the world would a can advertised as BEEF be predominately chicken? What is the point of this. Pedigree does have a can labeled CHICKEN. This is not only frustrating from a consumer point of view. But from a vet bill point of view too. I couldn't figure out if I switched to BEEF food, why my dog continues to itch and chew on her feet. When I spoke to the consumer rep at Pedigree. She informed me that none of pedigree's dog food is made with BEEF. And that the 'law allows for this type of advertising. Perhaps from a cost effective way for the company, its a good idea. But it can be a deadly idea from the pet owners point of view. I wonder how many other pet owners with 'bad eyes' cannot read or even think that they have to police the companies labels for accuracy. In my opinion, the labels need to be changed to reflect EXACTLY what the base meat is. CHICKEN, with Beef flavoring seems simple enough. I will notify my friends, the pet food stores and of course my vet of my findings. thank you for your time and I hope your concern in promptly addressing this issue. I look forward to your response. (b) (6) p.s the report requires a date this problem started. I don't know how long I've been

The labeling indicates that one scoop (provided in the container) is the serving size for dogs 0-30 pounds. After about a week on the product, my dog began scratching persistently, rubbing on furniture, and shaking his head. I bathed my dog, but it didn't relieve the itching. I continued adding the Nutra Thrive supplement to my dog's food for 3-4 more days. On 7/4/2019, his symptoms worsened, and my dog was not eating, drinking or sleeping. The persistent scratching caused a secondary infection in his ear, as well. I brought him to my veterinarian, (b) (6), for an emergency visit on 7/5/2019. I brought the Nutra Thrive supplement with me, as I began to suspect that the Nutra Thrive may be the cause of this reaction, because nothing in the environment or his food was changed, except for the Nutra Thrive. (b) (6) advised me to discontinue use of the Nutra Thrive, and treated my dog with an injection for an allergic reaction and an ointment for the ear infection. After a few days off Nutra Thrive, my dog returned to normal, and his ear was healed in about a week. My dog has never presented symptoms like these in his life. He is a service animal and has assisted me for approximately six years. I adopted him when he was about six months old. He receives regular check-ups, has all vaccinations and maintains a very healthy diet. I do not feed my dog table scraps or junk food of any kind. I started feeding (b) (6) this new bag of dog food and noticed she vomited on the floor. I don't know when it happened therefore I cant give a time. I just noticed it the next day. She wasn't acting herself so I boiled a chicken breast (plain) and fed her a little to help with the upset tummy. She was lathargic, and vomited a second time. I was still feeding her the same dog food. It was at that point in time I decided to get her off Hills Science Diet Small & Toy Breed all together! Even though there wasn't a recall on the dry dog food! I put (b) (6) on Merrick and continued to give her small portions of plain boiled chicken to settle her tummy. And (b) (6) is fine now. Chest radiographs were performed [xrays] which revealed a severely enlarged cardiac silhouette [enlarged heart]. Patient was subclinical. Echocardiogram was performed on (b) (6) by a veterinary cardiologist which diagnosed DCM [dilative cardiomyopathy - biventricular dilation with reduced systolic function] with mild mitral and moderate tricuspid valve regurgitation. Ventricular arrhythmias were noted on ECG during the echocardiogram. Patient was started on pimobendan, sotalol and enalapril. Cardiologist noted that this is an atypical breed for DCM and should be checked for Taurine deficiency. Taurine blood level was submitted on (b) (6) which revealed on (b) (6) a critically low plasma taurine level of 37 [normal range 60-120, critically low when less than 40 per Antech labs]. EON-393839	7/18/2019 20:44	Bulk pig ears	After eating pigs ear treats from PetSmart, he developed bloody diarrhea. I took him to the vet and he was placed on flagyl which seemed to stop the diarrhea but 3 days after stopping he developed bloody diarrhea again. Took him to the vet again and they tried a stronger dose of flagyl which again stopped diarrhea until he came off of it. Got an email from pet supply plus about salmonella and he is now going to be starting Bactrim for that empirically. Still not recovered. EON-393830	7/18/2019 18:32	FreshPet Select Chunky Chicken & Turkey Recipe for Dogs	Started to supplement his dry food regime with FreshPet gently cooked pet food for about three weeks prior to the illness. I noticed a couple of incidents of vomiting, but didn't think about it being related. One day my dog got horrible bloody diarrhea. Next day he couldn't keep water down and was vomiting. We rushed him to the vet and he ended up having emergency surgery. Vet said that although he did not have a blockage, his bowel was so infected that it was swollen and bleeding. He had eaten grass as dogs will do because of the upset stomach. The grass and the bleeding bowel had created a blockage in the swollen intestine. My mother-in-law had moved in very recently and we had started giving her little dog the same food and she also became sick with the same symptoms. When we started to figure out what was the one thing they had in common, the only thing we figured was the FreshPet dog food. After research, we found that many people had similar experiences with this pet food. My mother-in-law was convinced that the package sell-by date said 7/7/19 and we figured out that she bought it at Target on the 9th. However, the remainder of the package did not have a date. She must have thrown that part of the package out. We do not believe that the store is necessarily responsible, but the manufacturer is not regulating the rotating of the stock. After extensive research, FreshPet is claiming on their website that their meat product is sourced from "USDA registered suppliers" but that cannot be true because according to the USDA website, any meat passed on for human consumption is condemned and denatured with charcoal dust or more toxic substances. In summary, my dog began eating this food and three weeks later, he almost died. He had such a bad intestinal infection that it gave him pancreatitis. He is just under 2 years old, and was a happy, healthy puppy. Many, many people have had adverse reactions with their pets to this food. It needs to be investigated, if nothing else.	2	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	50	Pound

EON-393801	7/18/2019 15:00	Bark Box The Snackening Chicken Dog Treats	On June 16th, we gave our pup one of the treats “The Snackening, Chicken dog treats” from Bark Box. On the 17th of June, the pup became lethargic and began vomiting profusely. After the 7th time she threw up I took her to (b) (6) to be seen. It was determined via X-ray that she had an obstruction in her stomach and emergency surgery was performed. At this point the treat had been in her belly for about 24 hours. The vet tech sent me a text showing the obstruction. The surgery went well and she was given antibiotics and pain medicine when she was sent home two days later on the 19th of June. To this point, the Snackening treat cost me $1,995.69 + $4.31 in tax for an even $2,000.00. Please reference the attached file “(b) (6) SX Invoice.pdf” for detailed breakdown. After four days of antibiotics, she began to show signs of sickness again so back to the clinic we went. She had more X-rays and this time it was determined that she was severely constipated and was treated for this reaction to the post-surgical treatment. This second trip cost an additional $226.76. Please see the attached “(b) (6) Xray Invoice.pdf” for detailed breakdown. The total cost of the veterinary visits due to her being given the treat ended up at $2,226.76. Bark Box guarantees the safety of their products and repeatedly states that all treats are safe for consumption by dogs with the exception of possible allergic reactions. Since this was not an allergic reaction and it was a failure of the product to properly digest in the dogs stomach I am formally requesting that Bark Box reimburse me for the treatment costs for the injuries my dog sustained when she consumed the treat.	6	Months	Chihuahua	Dog	5.5	Pound

			I am adding the FDA and The Association of American Feed Control Officials to this email as well, not as a hit on Bark Box, but so they can take the appropriate actions to ensure the health and safety of other pets. It is my opinion that Bark Box should pull this treat from the consumer line until the treats can be considered safe for consumption. Thank you for your time, actions, and concern, Sincerely, (b) (6)

EON-393789	7/18/2019 14:04	Kirkland Signature Nature's Domain Salmon Meal & Sweet Potato Dog food 35 lb.	(b) (6) was our mini Australian Shepherd who passed away unexpectedly due to congestive heart failure. Congestive heart failure obviously can happen to any breed of dog but mini Aussies are not predisposed to the disease. (b) (6) was a healthy, fit, active, energetic dog who had no previous health issues other than breaking a few teeth chewing bones. We started feeding (b) (6) & (b) (6) (also a mini aussie who is still living) a grain free diet in 2013 due to some skin allergy issues that (b) (6) was displaying such as itching and red inflamed skin. I read that it could be due to the grains used in her dog food. We started feeding both dogs Kirkland Salmon and sweet potatoe dry dog food and her skin issues cleared up. (b) (6) passed away at the age of 9 which is young for her breed. She looked and acted healthy and we didnt know that she had a heart condition until her heart failed last June and we had to euthanize her in the middle of the night at an emergency clinic because her lungs were filled with fluid due to a failing heart. (b) (6) who is still living at will turn 11 this October has been diagnosed with a heart murmur, enlarged heart and degenerative mitral valve disease. I am heart broken that my two fur babies possibly could have been healthy old dogs if I had been aware of the potential link between grain free diets and heart disease.	9	Years	Shepherd Dog - Australian	Dog	23	Pound

Two weeks after starting the medicine, she stopped eating. When she was taken to the vet, her kidney and liver numbers were elevated very high and we were told she was a very sick dog. We admitted her to a vet hospital where she had IV fluids and antibiotics to try and reverse what was going on with the liver/kidneys. The numbers for the kidneys continued to go higher. She was checked for Leptospirosis but that came back negative. Carprofen could also be the issue - 1 in 1,000 dogs could have an adverse reaction. Two days later with the numbers not coming down, we were advised to euthanize her. EON-393671	7/17/2019 13:48	Zignature Kangaroo Limited Ingredient Formula Grain-Free Dry Dog food	On (b) (6) . I arrived home from work with my working canine. My personal dog, (b) (6) (lab/catahoula mix) greeted him normally and they played in the yard for a bit. I then brought them inside and fed them as my normal routine. They went outside and they when they came in, I heard (b) (6) coughing. It sounded as if she spit up. When I checked there was what appeared to be water/saliva on my carpet, however, when I wiped it up I noticed there was some blood as well. I called my vet and in the meantime she did it again, however this time it was a larger amount of blood. I rushed (b) (6) to my Vet (b) (6) . They did some blood work and advised that her platelets were so low that they were not even registering. I was also advised her heart was very strained and struggling. I was advised she was critical. I then rushed her to (b) (6) I was advised by (b) (6) that her heart was incredibly enlarged and barely functioning. They did not know how she was even presenting in as good as the condition she was showing. She continued to cough up blood. She was in extremely bad shape and I could not continue to see her suffer with no guarantee of a possible treatment. She was euthanized at (b) (6) . EON-393534	7/16/2019 12:52	Blue Buffalo Duck and Potato Limited Ingredient Diet Grain Free	(b) (6) was our 3rd English Bulldog. The 2 prior had lived to 14 years and 1 month and 1 month shy of 14 years. When (b) (6) was diagnosed with Congestive Heart Failure at 11 years and 8 months we were shocked. She had been so healthy and we had always taken the BEST care of our bulldogs. She was gurgling when she breathed and was having a hard time walking and had been on the Grain Free food Duck and Potato for a couple of years. Prior to that she and all our other bulldogs ate food with grain in it. I am just sick knowing I may have contributed to her early death. She was active and always kept at a great weight with exercise. We also have an 8 year old English Bulldog that I immediately took off (and returned) Blue Buffalo Duck and Potato when I read the article from the AKC. This should be more widely shared with the public. There are so many folks who have their pets on grain free diets.	11	Years	Bulldog	Dog	48	Pound

He also went in when he tweaked a back muscle playing tug-o-war with a lab, where his heart beat was checked. He began coughing and throwing up regularly. We thought he was having allergies and when we returned to the vet, we discovered that he had a heart murmur and an enlarged heart. We ran multiple tests, including a cardiogram. (b) (6) had DCM and we were stunned. Since we got him at the age of 2 months, he was on 3 different dog foods including two Kirkland brand puppy foods and Taste of the Wild Pacific Stream. After starting him on taurine supplements and adjusting his diet to a legume free food, it seems that he is already improving, and we are so relieved! He had been eating Acana dog food for several years. He was treated the past two years by a cardiologist. When he was initially diagnosed, we switched his food to Orijen because we were concerned that the lamb in the Acana might be causing his taurine deficiency. In October 2018, our cardiologist told us that the FDA had come out with a warning linking grain-free dog food to CDM. At that time we switched him to Science Diet. Despite frequent visits to the cardiologist, supplementation with taurine and L-carnitine, and a large number of heart medications (b) (6) died last week.	6	Years	Spaniel - King Charles Cavalier	Dog	25	Pound

He collapsed in my living room (passed out). I rushed him to my work (Vet Clinic) and did labwork, ECG, and Xrays (which I can provide). Xrays showed "Heart Enlargement"- It was so severe I had no choice but to humanly euthanize my dog. Not to mention, 3 weeks later my other dog "(b) (6)" that was 12 yrs old, had to be put down as well. However I don't have xrays for him. He basically was just about almost gone when I had to rush him in (after hours). These dogs have been with me since they were puppies. Part of the family. I'm devastated over this. EON-393330	7/13/2019 20:44	Wellness Crunchy Puppy Bites	We were going to be away from home 4 days out of the week so we bought a Furbo dog camera to watch her and fees her treats while we were away. We purchased the camera and treats online thru Amazon. She usually would eat Greenies Teenie treats but they would not fit in the Furbo. So we purchased Wellness Crunchy Puppy Bites which were the recommended ones due to the size and apparently were "Healthy" & "Natural". Today I set up the Furbo camera placed the treats inside and tested it by having 4 small treats shoot out from the unit. (b) (6) hesitated for a bit since they were different but then ate the 4 treats. They are small so she had no problem while eating them. I gave her a bath immediately after and placed her in the room with a towel while I tested the camera. In the 10-15 minutes I figured out an issue with the internet connection I saw she laid on her side and thought she was taking a nap. When I went into the room to disconnect the camera I saw her eyes were open and she was still on her side. She did not respond when I called her name and was not breathing. She had died suddenly to my surprise!!! Even though she was old she was eating, drinking water and eating her Greenies treats up until the early morning. There was nothing we could do. She was gone. We are distraught and suspect something may be wrong with the treats. I called Amazon but all they did was offer a refund and said they would call me back in 2 business days. I kept the open treat bag and an additional closed one. Afterwards, I read about past recalls on Wellness dog food so I decided to report this because I would hate for this to be related to the treats and have it happen to someone else. Please advise.	14	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	7	Pound

On January 16th, we brought him to our regular vet because of a cough. It was there they stated his heartbeat was irregular and ordered an EKG. The EKG came back abnormal and they notified (b) (6) in (b) (6). We were told (b) (6) had to be brought to (b) (6) immediately. When we arrived they performed another EKG, echo and xrays. It was there he was diagnosed severe DCM, congestive heart failure and an irregular heartbeat. He was admitted and started on multiple medications. They asked us pages of questions until the arrived at what (b) (6) eats. (b) (6) has been on a grain-free diet since he was a year old. The name of the food was chicken soup for the soul grain free lamb and peas. IT was then they told us to stop feeding (b) (6) grain free and switch to a regular dog food. At this point the damage had been done. (b) (6) was diagnosed severe and had 6-12 months to live. He lived exactly 6 months from diagnosis. He was on over 30 something pills a day, and we did everything in our power to prolong his life. If I had known about the possible link between heart disease and grain-free, I would NEVER have given him that food. I know Great dane's are dispositioned for DCM but not at 3 years old. He was perfectly healthy before (b) (6). And on (b) (6) he suddenly just dropped and was gone. There was nothing we could do. I have all of his discharge papers documenting his case. My cat was euthanized the same day of surgery due to poor prognosis in response to possible cancer treatment. My cat deteriorated rapidly following the consumption of fancy Feast that was occasionally given to her as treats. During her “stable” period, she demonstrated food allergy related symptoms such as itchy skin and bumps on bilateral ear, as well as posterior neck (NOT fleas related). After receiving this heart breaking news i turned to the internet for some answers where i was reminded of the article i heard a few months ago about grain free pet food and the correlation to DCM. After reviewing the food list i was shocked to learn the 3 foods my dog has been fed since birth made the list ACANA, WELLNESS and ORIJEN.	6	Years	Corso Dog	Dog	131	Pound
EON-393190	7/11/2019 18:32	FROMM FOUR-star nutritional pork and applesauce formula dog food	(b) (6) had a seizure and had a hard time walking afterwards. We did not know she had a seizure we thought she hurt herself. She was given pain meds. Over the next two days we witnessed her getting better; she began eating again and walking. About 3 days later we witnessed her having a seizure. She had multiple seizures in a 20 minute window. By the time we got her to the vet she had passed away- as we pulled into the drive. They put a ultrasound on her chest and seen fluid surrounding her heart. It constructed her heart from beating and was causing the seizures.	10	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	89	Pound

The vet said her liver count was extremely high and white blood count was low. Their prognosis gave her less than 4 months to live. We went to a pet food store to seek out a different food, and were recommended Honest Kitchen. (b) (6) literally came back to life and her liver and white blood cell count stabilized. The vet said Acana was a good brand and we should just not get as high of a crude protein count variety. We started feeding the duck and barlett pear and pork and sweet potato, grain free kibble. Within less than two years, (b) (6) started hacking and we took her into the vet. After conducting xrays, ultrasounds, and blood work, they diagnosed her with congenital heart disease. We have had her on medication for 2 years, she has to be kept in quiet, quarantined space or it causes her to hack almost to the point of fainting. We believe this is attributed to her diet of Acana kibble.	16	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	6	Pound

Her 5 newborn puppies did not survive even after getting them to a foster momma dog and supplemental feedings every two hours. Three puppies were taken to a different vet and that vet found them to be suffering from malnutrition also. They all died before they were even 5 days old. I always remember him having a slight cough, but it used to not be so bad. Doctors would dismiss it as allergies to fleas or outdoors and let us give him benedryl. His coughs were occasional before, but now constant. Last year, I witnessed him have a seizure and he lost control of his bladder and there was nothing I could do but watch on my kitchen floor. He would come home from walks and just not be able to move, he would lay down and try to just breath sometimes. After he seized we took him to the vet. He was diagnosed with the heart disease that's been linked to grain free foods. He has been taking the meds for about a year to help but his condition just keeps getting worse but he is still a happy and playful pup. However he is still eating these foods now because our society doesn't believe in science and I cant convince the household to give him homemade food. It takes moving mountains to explain just the tiniest details to people. Hes a bigger type of chihuahua that can live 20 years. Its a shame that we put years worth of money and trust into these products for them to repay us this way. Especially with the cost of the meds. The only people profiting here are the food and drug companies. Meanwhile my dog is still dying.	10	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	12	Pound

He took that continuously every 12 hours on top of an antifungal antibiotics as well as ketoconozal. We were hoping this was going to help, but eventually he got immune to the apoquel. Then this past February, he started having seizures. On his first episode, we took him to the ER and they ended up finding a heart murmur. We took him to his regular vet and they can hear the heart murmur and prescribed him phenobarbital for his seizures. Within the last month, his allergies got worse and we took him back in because nothing was working. He was so itchy that his legs got raw and got hives on his head. The vet wanted to change his diet, because they felt the food could cause his allergies on top of the outdoors. He has been taking prednisone for the past month to get him to stop itching and back to somewhat normal. I had mentioned the report we heard on the news about Natural Balance dog food causing allergies and heart problems. The issue is, that Natural Bal. said it was grain free and we were advised to keep him away from any grains. Now this info is coming out and we believe that it played a huge factor why our dog was so itchy for years.	14	Years	American Pit Bull Terrier	Dog	81.5	Pound

When I arrived I took her out of the car to pee, and poop. After she was done we began to walk to enter the building, after about halfway to the entrance she stopped and would not continue walking. So I picked her up and carried her inside. I told the receptionist what I was there for and what was going on with (b) (6). she went to the back and got the doctor, she came out and took one look at (b) (6) and said I had to take her to an ER because they did not have the necessary equipment to examine her. So I picked her up put her in a shopping cart and loaded her back in the car and drove to the nearest animal ER. Once I arrive, at this point (b) (6) was unable to stand on her own. One doctor and a staff worker then took her out of the car and transported her inside on a gurney. I had to leave her overnight and they started her on IVs and antibiotics. (b) (6) at 5:50am I called and spoke with (b) (6) to get an update on (b) (6) condition. She stated that she was stable, and the fever had come down just a little but was still not standing or walking. After work I went to the hospital to see (b) (6) and get an update, (b) (6) was conducting an ultrasound on her at the time of my arrival. After he was done (b) (6) was brought into a room to visit with me still line on the gurney and unable to stand or walk. (b) (6) later came and gave me an update on her condition which had not changed. During the time I was visiting another doctor looked at the test results and saw that they were declining not getting any better, at this point (b) (6) stated that the problem was due to a heart condition! At 4:22pm (b) (6) was euthanized. Then on Monday my fiance showed me this article on 16 foods that causes heart disease in dogs, one of the 16 Was Blue Buffalo, a brand that I fed (b) (6) from the time I got her at the age of 6 weeks old. (b) (6) experience the same sign's. So now I believe that her illness is linked to the dog food I gave her for 11years and 5 months. EON-393029	7/10/2019 11:28	Rachel Ray Nutrish	Our family dog went from being very well, playful and full of energy to being lethargic and sickly in a very short amount of time. EON-393016	7/10/2019 9:48	Pig Ear (no package)	My dog was given a pig ear on Saturday, 6/29. Sometime in the next 6 hrs he vomited pretty significantly on my couch (he has never done this, he typically gets down and does it on the floor, which makes me think it was pretty quick onset for him). He seemed run-down and a little lethargic the rest of the day, but continued to eat and poop. He vomited the next evening as well, same symptoms, run down, lethargic, and acted in general like he didn't feel well. Since the 29th, he has vomited on at least 5 other occasions, which is unusual for him. He typically does vomit occasionally, like other dogs do, typically because he's eat too fast or something to that effect, but never this frequently. As of today, 7/10.. his most recent vomit was yesterday early morning. He continues to eat and poop, and is acting relatively normal from an energy level, unlike the first 2 days noted above. We discussed with the Vet, and it was determined that we continue to monitor him rather than bring him in, given the fact aside for the frequent vomiting, he seems fine otherwise. If his condition worsens, we will take him in for testing. We recently received a notice regarding a recall on Pig Ears due to Salmonella poisoning from Pet Supplies Plus, which is where we purchased this particular pig ear from that he was given on the day he became ill.	3	Years	Pit Bull	Dog	60	Pound

We took her to the nearest veterinarian hospital when they pronounced her dead on (b) (6). She was just two and half years old, very active and healthy. We fed her Blue Buffalo since she was a puppy, food, treats, etc. As good parents we thought this was the best food for her, but after reading about the heart disease linked to some of the foods, including Blue Buffalo, in which we fed her. We felt a obligation to report if this was something that harmed our baby (b) (6). We had an autopsy performed on (b) (6) at the hospital where they said that it was possible that she may have had a heart condition due to her left ventricle being thickened, possible blood clot, and or tumor. EON-392961	7/9/2019 15:08	Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula Chicken and Brown Rice	Around July 10, 2017, I was suddenly awoken by my Labrador Retriever, (b) (6) who was breathing heavy, panting, drooling, his front leg was swollen and I when I checked his heart rate, it was 180. I got him to the our vet, (b) (6), the next day where an exam and x-rays were done. Her initial thought was that he may have been bitten by something and his leg was just to swollen to find the bite mark. I was given antibiotics and took him home. While his heart rate did slow down some, his health did not bounce back over the next 24 hours. (b) (6) could barely stand up. His breathing was labored and I immediately took him back in to the vet on the Friday of that same week. (b) (6) examined (b) (6) and took a look at the x-rays which were taken a few days before. She came back in and asked me a bunch of questions and then took me to look at the x-rays. She pointed out to me what she thought was fluid drowning his lungs and a very enlarged heart. She immediately put him on Furosemide and referred me to a Cardiologist. I got (b) (6) in to see (b) (6) at (b) (6) quickly. An ultrasound was done, blood work and full examination. This is where I was told my (b) (6) had DCM and it was near advanced. His heart was in fact, nearly twice the size it should be and his lungs were full of fluid. His life would now entail daily doses of pills and monthly check-ups, limited exercise and eventually lose the battle. I fed (b) (6) Blue Buffalo dog food his entire life - up till when he was diagnosed with DCM. He was then put on Science Diet Heart Prescription Food. (b) (6) struggled and had many ups and downs. Good days and bad days but he was a fighter. He got to see 2 more Christmas's and 2 birthdays. His health started deteriorating quickly around January of 2019. I quit my job so I could be by his side as now he was basically in home hospice. He lost a lot of weight - down to 52 lbs. He rarely ate and when he did, 1 out of 2 times he would throw it up. He struggled to drink water and was so weak, he couldn't hold himself up long enough to go to the bathroom. On (b) (6), my husband and I had to make the decision to let him go. His quality of life was gone. He lost his battle with DCM. I know Blue Buffalo was in trouble years ago for having issues with the ingredients they claimed were part of their recipe. The vet was shocked and so am I as she has never seen this before. Upon doing some research the doctor believes that the grain free diet may have led to this. Again she had Wellness Core Grain Free diet for ~7 months and then Blue Buffalo NP for ~2 months until she passed. When the Vet initially examine (b) (6) on May 3rd she did a thorough exam and said her heart was strong and beating like an athletes would (b) (6) showed no signs of sickness at home. The morning she died she had a ton of energy at home running back and forth playing. I'm heartbroken and really hoping that writing this review can help other owners. There is a lot of misinformation on the web. Wellness Grain is listed by reputable websites as a great diet for dogs and even Bulldogs. Blue Buffalo NP is only available with a prescription from my vet, but it appears she was unaware of grain free diet. I'm not sure which of these caused this, but I wish I had known the risk when I bought Wellness and agreed to Blue Buffalo. Obviously I would have chosen a different route.	22	Months	Bulldog	Dog	17.8	Kilogram

We thought she might have had an infection from swimming in the lake. Doctor immediately told us about the FDA statement and said they've been seeing this for years.. She was put on Antibiotics in hopes that if was an infection. Unfortunately it was not. (b) (6) started getting worse (couldn't stand up) so on (b) (6) I told her to a 24hr. ER.. They tried to tell me she needed $5,500 in TESTs and I was basically lied to to extract $.. My wife is a human cardiology nurse and through her knowledge I was able to accept the prognosis was a chronic disease and probably what the FDA had described. I asked that fluid be removed from her abdomen so she would be comfortable. I took her home against medical advice and we kept (b) (6) comfortable on (b) (6). She could not pee or poop or eat on (b) (6), we knew the end was near. The fluid buildup in her abdomen had already started again.. My wife slept on the floor on (b) (6) and we prayed that she make it to (b) (6) without being in pain. She made it (b) (6) and we made an appt. to have her put to sleep (b) (6). EON-392896	7/9/2019 2:16	Ollie TURKEY RECIPE get your gobble on	(b) (6) had a severe allergic reaction, resulting in a $600 veterinary visit on July 3, 2019. He was prescribed four medications, for extremely high histamine level, fungal skin infection from being outside with open scratches from itching, an antibiotic, and medicated wash to soak his face That same day, we received our bimonthly shipment of fresh dog food from Ollie.com It arrives every 2 weeks, packed in dry ice, and we put it immediately into a small freezer dedicated to dog food. Putting it away, it seemed different than usual, like 2 different types of food. This caused concern, as every recipe Ollie makes contains potato, except the turkey flavor. I sent a photo to Ollie, questioning a possible mislabel. This was confirmed after I made 3 electronic contacts then called The representative on the telephone stated that, "this is bad." He further stated that the pouches labeled, "turkey" actually appeared to be two types, lamb and beef, both of which contain potato as a significant ingredient. While I cannot prove that the previous batch of Ollie was also mislabeled, I can state that there was a previous time I called Ollie to inquire if cross contamination of potato might have occurred. I have retained the food, and have verbal confirmation from the Ollie representative that this appears to be a serious case of mislabeling. My original order a year ago was for (b) (6) and (b) (6) my 2 yr old GSP. I suspended (b) (6) acct due to a question about possible ingredient contamination, renewal contingent upon personal allergy testing, to rule out foods. I subsequently reordered (b) (6) food, and used a small portion to test (b) (6) for reaction, for scientific purpose, in accepted food and estate ng and rotor I. (b) (6) had a major allergic reaction during this s time, resulting n hair loss and skin and nfections. That is when Ollie representatives agreed however s food appeared not to be the turkey recipe, the one recipe may not s potato, the allergy source. I cannot prove the connection between allergic reaction/vet bill and the next/7-3-19 delivery of my slabeled food. But I am pretty sure I can prove, and the company will admit, that they sent mislabeled food the next delivery, and this in itself is egregious. Were I to feed that food unwittingly that day, when my dog's histamines ne levels were that	3	Years	Pointing Dog - Hungarian Short-haired (Vizsla)	Dog	60	Pound

			high, he could have died, and I am so angry. I gave the company the option to do voluntary recall on 7/3/19, they refused. Their representatives have been in daily touch, first the original contact, then a supervisor, then that person's boss, who refused to give me me his contact info. Finally, necessary points: the delivery was for my second dog, (b) (6). However, both dogs had an account until I suspended (b) (6), the injured animal, until I completed what I made clear on the phone was allergy testing. At home, this requires the consumption of no food except a small sample of the suspect food, to see if there is a reaction in the absence of other allergens. We were in the middle of such testing when the reaction occurred, and the mislabeled delivery occurred the same week. I have no doubt the prior shipment was also tainted, but cannot prove it. STILL, both (b) (6) and (b) (6) were clearly flagged on their accounts, with potato allergy. Although (b) (6) has no allergy, his account is also clearly marked potato allergy, due to my dogs' tendency to lick each other's ears and mouths- all it takes for a reaction. Bottom line, despite my $600 bill at the vet ...I came to Ollie because of the potato free quality food. They admittedly let me down. They continue to obstruct my request for information regarding the 8th digit under the skew- I guessed five, but Ollie will not confirm. My dogs are flagged potato allergy, yet this is what they sent us. I find it an egregious breach of faith bordering on fraud- according to their rep on the phone, my turkey potato free recipe was replaced with beef and lamb, both of which contain potato

That afternoon the diarrhea started and continued through the night and all day Wednesday. Wednesday night he also got us up several times to go outside. Thursday this continued and Thursday afternoon he threw up again. He had been drinking some water and eating a small amount of kibble in between the diarrhea. Thursday night I could not get him to drink even when I dripped water into the side of his mouth as he lay on the floor. He seemed to be getting weaker and getting up from the floor much less often. So, I took him to the ER vet and they gave him meds for vomiting and diarrhea. They also gave him subcutaneous fluids for dehydration. The next day on Friday I took him to his normal vet where they gave fluids again and did more meds and X-rays. That evening he slept a lot which was understandable since he had not been sleeping through the night the past couple of days. Saturday morning he could barely walk. He got to the back hallway and lay down and would not go outside to go to the bathroom. I tried to hand feed some boiled egg, boiled hamburger and water and he turned his nose up to that. So, I took him back to his normal vet to be rechecked. Gradually over the next few days, he finally started feeling better and eating and drinking like normal.	1	Years	Poodle - Standard	Dog	80	Pound

Vet provided another course of antibiotics, and took stool sample to confirm no parasites. Then the other dog began having diarrhea again (b/c was on normal food again). Finally, vet determined food was source of illness, and recommended a switch. Food switch has led to firmer stools.	7	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	50	Pound

EON-392755	7/8/2019 0:24	Acana - Duck/Pear Lamb Beef	(b) (6) was in generally good health up to the event on November 24 of 2018. We took him for a walk and noticed a substantial loss of energy. He barely made it back to the house with his head hanging down. We thought at that point we were going to lose him. We immediately took him to our emergency vet and had a exam. They did not immediately know what was wrong as the initial X-ray did not show anything abnormal. Based on this the vet recommended that we make an appointment with the internist for a more comprehensive review. We took (b) (6) home and returned to the vet on Tuesday, November 27 as his symptoms did not improve. We demanded an echocardiogram as the symptoms were significant. Once completed it showed that (b) (6) had DCM. They then informed us at that point that (b) (6) was in cardiac arrest. The vet prescribed medication in the form of a diuretic (Furesomide), Benazapril, and Vetmedin. The vet also reviewed that a Diet including grains and Taurine has shown improvement with some dogs. As we were feeding (b) (6) a grain free diet (Acana) we immediately ceased and switched to one with grains and saw an IMMEDIATE improvement in his symptoms. Since we switched food and administered meds we have taken Remington back to the vet for two follow ups. The vet said (b) (6) has made "remarkable" progress as his heart has improved function by 20%. His heart mass is approximately 52% now and the vet said they would like to see it at 40%.	8	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	96.8	Pound
EON-392752	7/7/2019 22:48	Meow Mix Seafood Favorites - Savory Morsels with REAL tuna & salmon in gravy (the package also contains ocean whitefish and salmon & ocean fish flavors).	I purchased Meow Mix wet food in plastic tubs (with foil lids), and opened a package of "savory morsels with real salmon & ocean fish in gravy" for my cat. Not only was I repulsed by the smell (which smelled NOTHING like fish or seafood), but my cat was also repulsed by it and refused to eat. It truly smelled DISGUSTING. I have no idea what is used to make this product, but I am NEVER going to purchase this brand again! It looks and smells like maybe they used tofu mixed with long-dead, spoiling meat-by-product to make this cat food. Please look into how this product is being made and confirm that it indeed is labelled appropriately. If most of the product is NOT all real meat or fish, I think that the public has a right to know the exact percentage of real meat or fish in the product, and in an OBVIOUS way. As it stands, the photos on the package are very misleading. I purchased and opened this shelf-stable product well within the "best-by" date of 2/18/21, and did not subject it to temperature extremes prior to opening the package. The numbers near the best-by date are 9050477.

In November of 2013, she was diagnosed with a heart murmur. In November of 2014, she was diagnosed with an enlarged heart (left side) and prescribed enalapril and lasix.  She lived for four years on those medications (in addition to vetmedin, which was prescribed later). In November of 2018, she was diagnosed with cancer and was undergoing treatment (Immunocidin) on a tumor. She responded well to the first treatment, but after the second round of treatment, she was very lethargic and was having trouble breathing. She ultimately passed away on (b) (6) when we couldn't get her to the vet in time. While I think the cancer was somewhat to blame for her death, I think that she would have survived the cancer treatment had it not been for her heart condition, which I think may have been a result of the food she was eating which lists peas as the third main ingredient. EON-392741	7/7/2019 18:40	Blue Buffalo Freedom Grain-Free	(b) (6) had been eating Blue Buffalo Grain-Free Beef flavored food for about 3-4 years. About a month ago, we went for her annual appointment, and her veterinarian noticed a heart murmur. She then performed a chest x-ray and discovered that her heart was enlarged. Due to the recent studies, her first question was about the food. Because I told her she'd been on a grain-free diet, her veterinarian recommended I switch her off of that immediately and make an appointment with a cardiologist for further testing. 3 weeks after, we got in to see the cardiologist, and she performed an echo-cardiogram. She then diagnosed her with Dilated Cardiomyopathy, and determined it was likely caused by the grain-free diet. She prescribed her with Vetmedin (Pimobendan) and because I had done some research of my own, I asked if we could also give her a Taurine supplement. I am currently giving her those twice a day, and we will go back for a follow-up echo-cardiogram in 6 months to see if there's any change.	5	Years	American Pit Bull Terrier	Dog	55	Pound

EON-392739	7/7/2019 17:04	A Taste of the Wild	He began having shortness of breath when at rest, lethargic quickly, coughing. Took him to his primary vet after recording his coughing episode, and she was concerned because of the coughing. She believed that it was allergies to start since it was early March - pollen is highly prevalent this time of year. However, after showing her the video recording of his coughing spell, she recommended a thoracic radiograph. She was concerned after viewing the radiograph. Sent it off to be read by a cardiologist who reported the next day 3/3/19 that (b) (6) has an enlarged heart and in an episode of congestive heart failure. He was referred to (b) (6) and we arrived there on 3-6-19. Echo and bloodwork was done confirming he had an enlarged heart due to mitral valve disease. His cardiologist at (b) (6) said that it could be related to his diet and recommended we switch him over to a diet with grains as recent studies had shown increased risk of heart disease in dogs on grain free diets. I was told that he needed to be on pimobendan, furosemide, enalapril. So we started that daily and other than that there is nothing that can be done other than surgery overseas. Without surgery, he would eventually go into another phase of congestive heart failure and we would need to change doses on his meds. Kept him stable on meds while researching mitral valve repair surgery, since there are only 2 places in the world who offer it - Royal Veterinary College in the UK and Jasmine clinic in Japan. We got into the RVC in London and had surgery on (b) (6) costing around 28,000 start to finish. Surgery was successful, valve is fixed. Hasn't been on grain free diet since beginning of March. First cardiology follow up back in the states at (b) (6) is 7/15/19.	6	Years	Maltese	Dog	16	Pound

Eventually, we also switched out second dog, Blondie, to the same food. Within a year we started to notice Chonchi was coughing too much. She was eventually diagnosed with DCM in the summer of 2011 and passed away in April 2013. Then, in May 2013 Blondie was also diagnosed with DCM. She actually lived a few more years and passed away in August 2018. At the time, we thought it was too much of a coincidence they both developed heart disease almost at the same time and suspected the food, but it did not occur to us we could report it to the FDA. We did talk to out vet about it at the time after reading a possible taurine deficiency in the food might be the culprit and noticing taurine was either not listed or listed as one of the last ingredients in many Blue Buffalo recipes at the time. We actually started supplementing them with taurine after putting them on the Hills H/D diet. After an x-ray showed a potentially enlarged heart, we took her to Northstar Animal Hospital (NJ) to consult with their cardiologist prior to having the dental.  The cardiologist performed an EKG and diagnosed her with trivial mitral endocardiosis. Fortunately, no medication is required and no increased risk for anesthesia is noted. Nonetheless, he asked if we gave her a grain free diet and we confirmed we were. He recommended that we switch from a grain free diet to minimize the potential risk, especially given that she had been on one of the grain free diets on the list since we adopted her. He also advised against making homemade diets of chicken, rice and sweet potatoes, as an example. We are going to follow this recommendation.	82	Months	Greyhound	Dog	75.6	Pound

EON-392558	7/5/2019 10:28	Fromm Family Gold Adult	In December 2018, we switched our two-year old, Boston Terrier's food to Fromm Gold. Approx. 3 weeks after we switched his diet, he got sick and required a visit to the vet. Symptoms included vomiting and diarrhea. They performed an x-ray to see if there were any obstructions or tears in his bowel. There were none found. He was prescribed some medication to settle his tummy and some easy digestive food to allow his system to regulate. At this time, the vet did hear traces of a very faint heart murmur - the first time they had detected one. (b) (6) continued to eat the Fromm. (b) (6) system seemed to be regulated and normal again, until March 9, 2019 when (b) (6) woke up violently vomiting and with diarrhea again. (b) (6) was taken to the emergency veterinary clinic where he underwent a series of tests and scans. Again, there were no obstructions to his bowel as shown on x-ray, his white blood cell count was elevated and he was mildly dehydrated. The vet on-call prescribed him the same treatment as December, with medication to settle his tummy and gentle digestive food. At this time, the heart murmur was also detected at a category 6. (b) (6) was sent home to recover. On (b) (6), (b) (6) was brought back to the vet with continued symptoms of vomiting, diarrhea and dehydration. He was also incredible lethargic, barely able to walk to his water bowl or outside to eliminate his bladder or bowels. He was admitted to the clinic for a 3-day, 2 night stay, where he was given intravenous fluids. At this time a number of tests were performed including more x-rays and scans. His white blood cell count remained high and his heart murmur strong. On (b) (6), (b) (6) seemed to be rebounding, eating a small portion of the easy digestive food and seeming more alert. On (b) (6), (b) (6) energy was once again low, but he was taking food when hand fed. He was released to go home to rest and was to return on (b) (6) for further scans and tests. On (b) (6), in the morning, (b) (6) was lethargic and uninterested in food. He slept most of the day. At approximately 8 p.m., his breathing became quite laboured. He was picked up and held. Both dogs developed a noise in their breathing when excited which was described as a common problem in Labradors due to week flaps. (b) (6) noises got more pronounced and more frequent over time. He also had noticeable weight loss). His usual weight was around 60-62 pounds. During a standard vet appt (April 13, 2019), (b) (6) heart rate was erratic. The vet did an x-ray and ekg, he was in arrhythmia, his heart was enlarged substantially and had fluid in his lungs. The vet gave him furosemide and asked to keep him a little to let him settle down to see if the Lasix helped. There was an immediate change in direction, and we took (b) (6) to (b) (6). The Emergency vet told us he had Cardiomyopathy, arrhythmia was significant and he might die at any minute. They gave him diltiazem, pimobendin. I stayed at the ER while my husband took the (b) (6) home. The ER vet came out several times to tell me (b) (6) was critical and to see what we wanted to do (euthanize as an option). I asked if he was suffering and told no, I wanted to wait to make a decision until my husband returned. It was a Saturday and the Cardiologist was not available until Monday. We asked the ER to stabilize him and wanted him to see the Cardiologist before we made any life decisions. He responded well over the weekend to treatment and on Monday the Cardiologist called to say he had Degenerative Valvular disease which was somewhat common to Poodles and also CHF. We were asked if he was on a Grain Free food which we answered no to because the packaging for Zignature was not labeled grain-free. When the early reports for grain free foods came out, I inspected the ingredients which included peas, lentil and chickpeas and was told by the pet food store they qualified as grains. All 3 dogs were eating Zignature foods (commonly, White fish, Salmon and Trout, Turkey and Duck) for at least 3 or 4 years, until June 2018. The vet asked me to choose a food with less protein because of the age of the Labradoodles, our third dog is a King Charles Cavalier (8 yo)who remained on Zignature until Jan of 2019 when we switched her as well to the same senior food as the Labrodoodles. 			senior dogs - NOT grain free. (b) (6) was released that Monday (April 15) on several meds, increased to 5 meds over the next week,. Pimobendin 7.5mg BID, Diltiazem 30mg TID, Furosemide 20mg BID (unless resting respiration is above 35/ min then he receives an additional furosemide), benzepril (BID) and Spironalactone (BID). He has since been to his regular vet for follow-up blood work and ekg and I was told he was stable. At times, his breathing labored but not often. Initially when he came home from the vet hospital, he was unable to stand on his own and sometimes would collapse, we assumed due to going into arrhythmia. When he gets excited his heart rate climbs substantially. About 3-4 weeks after the ER and on his medications, he gained some weight back and is now his gait is appropriate for his age than prior to the medications.

The next morning she would not drink water or eat the food.She was lethargic and had a fever. I gave her ice cubes to chew on- which she ate. I then prepared a mixture of oatmeal and boiled chicken. She ate this mixture successfully for the next two days. I attempted to reintroduce Nutro food to her by mixing 1/4 cup kibble mixed in with the oatmeal and chicken human food. She ate it but with a few hours threw up undigested food then bile a few after the first vomit. I stopped feeding Nutro. I feed her a mixture of boiled chicken and rice or boiled chicken and oatmeal for the next 5 days. I then introduced a different brand of food to her without any problems. Both times the Nutro food was removed she bounced right back to her normal self. On a different brand of food She has successfully returned to her playful self without any vomiting,diarrhea or lethargy. EON-392489	7/4/2019 11:16	Nature's Recipe Grain Free Small Breed Chicken Sweet Potato and Pumpkin Recipe Real chicken #1 ingredient for adult dogs	This occurred approximately 31/2 months ago. My dog began the day with a cough around 5am. I took him to the vet by 10am. He had no chest congestion and his heart sounded fine. My vet thought perhaps he had a slight upper respiratory infection and gave me an antibiotic for him. During the course of the day, he was lethargic. I saw 1 drop of blood near him around 3pm. By 4:30, his paws were cool. The vet saw him again at 5PM. By then, he had a heart murmur at level 2 and his lungs were congested. We were sent to a pet emergency hospital. By 7:30, he had been put in oxygen, his heart murmur was now at level 5 and he was given Lasix. By 10PM they called us to say he had passed away. With everything I've been reading regarding grain free kibble, I'm concerned that perhaps his congestive heart failure and heart attack may have been caused by his diet. Smaller dogs have not been mentioned in anything I've read. The brand I use, Nature's Recipe, has also not been mentioned. The emergency hospital told us they see about one dog per month who comes in with this issue. Many do ok on medication for up to a year or maybe 2, they told us. Ours didn't make it past the day. I don't know if you are looking into smaller dogs and, most importantly, Nature's Recipe Grain Free for small dogs, which is what I've been giving our other dogs as well. EON-392488	7/4/2019 11:16	Horizon Pulsar Dog Food	Our beloved Wheaten Terrier (b) (6) died (b) (6) at the age of seven (about half the average life span for a wheaten) of dilated cardiomyopathy. She had been in very good health all her life and there were very few signs of distress or discomfort until very close to the end of her life. We had been feeding her Pulsar brand grain-free, dry dog food of the lamb and turkey flavors. The description of this brand lists lentils and peas as some of their main ingredients. We had noticed in the second half of her life that although she wasn't vastly overweight, she was struggling to lose weight and her belly was often bloated and swollen. She would often pant even when it was cool and could not run and play for long periods of time without getting tired. In the final weeks of her life, she was starting to pull on walks because she didn't have the stamina any more to go through with long walks. We were concerned and scheduled a visit to the vet, but we were too late and on June 19th she started to cough and pant excessively and act extremely strange. We took her to the emergency vet just in time for them to realize she was dying and attempt to save her life, but their efforts were in vain. If there is any connection with the fact that we fed her grain free food, we would really like to know as it would possibly provide some closure and help us inform our decision with future pets. We were told when we got her that she was allergic to wheat and that is why we avoided grain foods.  https://horizonpetfood.com/index.php/pulsar/	7	Years	Terrier - Irish Soft-coated Wheaten	Dog	32	Pound

On January 14, the murmur had progressed to grade II. On July 3, 2019 it was a Grade IV+ "musical" murmur. The progression indicated additional tests (x-ray and ECG) that revealed dilated cardiomyopathy and congestive heart failure. She was started on Vetmedin and Enalapril and referred to a cardiologist. Because of (b) (6) arthritis, she is not particularly active and we (her family) thought that her increasing "laziness" was a result of her joint pain, not an underlying heart disease. Her activity has steadily declined in the past -96 months, which is consistent with the timeline of the worsening murmur.	14	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	57	Pound

However, due to his breed(s) (Cockerspaniel, poodle and cavalier) it wasn't too abnormal to have heart conditions. She put him on a medication which they said he'd have to remain on forever. Over the next few months, our dog progressively got worse. Loss all control of bowel movements/constant vomiting and trouble breathing and loss of appetite. When we took him to his "final" appointment, it was determined that his heart was so enlarged that he can't possibly keep up and medication would just be a bandaid for so long. Limited Ingredient Diets Small Breed Bites Grain-Free Potato & Duck Formula Single Animal Protein Source	This submission is related to the June 2019 FDA announcement about dog food brands that could cause heart failure. We adopted (b) (6) at age 3 (rescue dog). When we got him, the rescue agency was feeding him Natural Balance Limited Ingredients, Grain Free, Potato and Duck Formula Small Breed dog food. They were doing this as they thought he might have an allergy as he was a bit hairless on his legs and abdomen. Once we got him, we kept on feeding him this same exact food. We also supplemented the dry dog food with ground up cooked chicken, frozen peas and white rice. He would get 2 tablespoons of the Natural Balance a day and about 1 tablespoon of the chicken/peas/rice food. We also gave him Blue Buffalo Blue Bits treats and a bit of people food each day. This is the diet we gave him the entire time we had him, along with his sister (b) (6) (also a Chihuahua at 7.5 lbs) who we got 2 years after getting (b) (6). On October 23rd, 2018, (b) (6) at the age of 10.5 years was his normal self in the morning, wasn't quite himself in the early afternoon, and by the time I arrived home from work at 4 p.m. his breathing was labored. Later in the evening I took him to the emergency vet clinic where I was told he was in congestive heart failure. Upon learning this and that there was no hope for recovery, I had him put down. Up until that day, (b) (6) was in darn good shape for a 10.5 year-old dog. In fact, we expected he would be with us for another 5+ years. After reading the FDA article, I can't help but wonder if his life was cut short due to what we thought was healthy food for him. (b) (6), who is now 9.5 years old was just diagnosed with a heart murmur. Of course, we have no idea if this is at related at all to her current diet, but we can't help but wonder.	10.5	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	7.5	Pound

EON-392331	7/2/2019 22:32	multiple including Merrick Hill's science diet Newman's	(b) (6) was born with a heart valve defect. At age 7 we were told he had high blood pressure. He was put on numerous medications, until the vet said she could not give any more, but his blood pressure was still very high. At age eight, we were told his heart was enlarged and one more medication was added. He began hacking soon after. I started researching on my own and found out he had DCM. Right around that time I read that North Carolina State was investigating the possibilities of grain free food causing or making it worse. That got me to reading ingredients of every food. I was shocked to discover that dog foods are almost all loaded with salt and sugar. It took a few months, but I finally learned a great deal about dog nutrition. In addition to the aforementioned, I saw that many grain free and other foods are also loaded with all kinds of spices and other things no dog should be eating. They are aimed at appealing to the owner and are not tested for long term affects. I put (b) (6) on a sodium free and sugar free diet. None of the canned or dry foods that were sodium free had sufficient protein, so I went with a raw meat diet with d-ribose and small amounts of vitamins and mineral supplementes. His vet told me he would be dead within a year. He not only is two years past that day, his blood pressure is now completely normal. I have argued with several prominent dog food companies and veterinarians about this. None care at all that salt and sugar are killing and sickening dogs. Dog food companies only want to sell and vets want more appointments. I sincerely hope you will add investigation into the contribution of sodium and sugars into high blood pressure, which can cause or worsen dilated cardiac myopathy, just as they do in heart disease in humans. It discusses the results of the "Clean Label Project" in ranking dog food recipes based on testing for environmental and industrial contaminants. What struck me as fascinating is that most of the "top ranked" (least contaminated) dog food recipes were dominated by Stella & Chewy's and Sojo's, both of whom I do not appear on the FDA complaint chart at all. Further, most of the "bottom ranked" (most contaminated) dog food recipes are dominated by Acana, Orijen, and Earthborn Holistic, all of whom are noted in a US News article ( https://www.usatoday.com/story/money/2019/06/28/dog-heart-disease-fda-finds-potential-link-16-brands-dog-food/1592388001/?utm_campaign=FDA-finds-16-toxic-food-brands-for-dogs (Pmanpj)&utm_medium=email&utm_source=Newsletter&_ke=eyJrbF9lbWFpbCl6ICJoZXJkZG9nekBnbWFpC5jb20iLCAia2xfY29tcGFueV9pZCI6ICJLQkpFOG0ifQ==) as having the most amount of complaints (though I think those numbers give only a limited view of what is happening because they are not adjusted for relative market share). Could it be this is not so much a nutritional issue, but a simple contamination issue?

EON-392303	7/2/2019 17:00	Taste of the Wild	Approximately 5 years ago, I began feeding him "Taste of the Wild" dogfood because it was being promoted as what dogs really need for nutrition because it was high in protein and did not contain any fillers or grains. He eventually went from being extremely healthy to not being able to hardly go up two flights of stairs or run at all. He also would gag if he laid on his back and could not breathe. He began losing weight and muscle, going from 90+lbs to barely 70lbs. He was constantly coughing and gagging and when I first took him to the vet, they thought he might have contracted the dog flu. When treatment was not helping and he continued to worsen, they performed an ultrasound and found that his heart was severely enlarged, nearly four times normal, with significant arrhythmia. He had begun to also collect fluid in his abdomen to where he looked like he had a big beer belly and this had to be drained. He has had the draining procedure several times over the past 8 months and has to take five different heart medications to remain alive. He has somewhat stabilized and with a change from grain-free food plus the medication, has not significantly worsened; however, is but a shadow of his former self. Dogfood manufacturers should not be allowed to promote grain-free as the healthiest alternative for pets.	8	Years	Doberman Pinscher	Dog	70	Pound
EON-392302	7/2/2019 16:56	Orijen Original	We fed our dog Orijin brand dog food her entire life - being advised by the pet food store that grain free food was better. At around 11 years of age, our dog stopped being able to run like she used to - hikes would be shorter as she seemed to be getting tired more quickly. Later that year, when our dog was about 11 years, 6 months old, she developed a choking, hoarse cough which we initially thought was hair in her throat. About a month later, we took her to our local veterinarian who listened to her heart and said it sounded like heart failure. We then went to a specialist who said her heart was greatly enlarged and that she would likely die without extensive medication. We started her on the medication and after a couple of months, she was getting more lethargic. We ultimately decided to euthanize her - she just was too uncomfortable.	12	Years	Shepherd Dog - Australian	Dog	50	Pound

EON-392301	7/2/2019 16:48	Taste of the Wild	We were living in the (b) (6) from 2013-2016. Prior to this, i had fed my dogs Wellness dry food. During our 3 year stay in the ME, they were fed with Royal Canine. Going back in the US in 2016, it was mandatory for our dogs to have a clean bill of health. Everything was perfect. Once in the US, i started feeding them Taste of the Wild for small breed. So, 2016, 2017, 2018 it was Taste of the Wild dry food with an occasional wet food (caesar's) as toppings (sunday treat). In January 2019, they had their teeth cleaned and this was when a heart murmur was discovered on (b) (6). Took him to my vet, after lab work and X-rays, it showed that he has DCM. It also explained the occasional coughing, excessive thirst, and distended stomach from time to time. (b) (6) now, is on maintenance heart meds and liver supplements. I am correlating (b) (6)'s DCM to the dry food Taste of the Wild (recent FDA report says its #3) since this was the only change we made on his lifestyle since our return from the (b) (6) On a good note, so far, my other dog, (b) (6) a mix breed of Shitzhu/Chihuahua has not been affected. During the day on Friday, (b) (6), (b) (6) was as active as he is always is - playing fetch with toys, running around the house. However, around 9 p.m., on Friday evening I took him out for a walk and he appeared lethargic - he was not as excited as he usually is upon my retrieving leash to walk. In addition, he was walking very slowly almost at a snail pace which is not his usual, which is almost a brisk jog or full-out sprint. Upon his expiration, after being refrigerated two (2) days at a veterinary hospital, due to his sudden death, we had a necropsy done. Diagnosis was left ventricle was dilated with a right to left ventricular free wall thickness ratio of approximately 1:2 with no other gross abnormalities observed. The dilation of the heart represented a cardiomyopathy, however microscopic evaluation would be required to definitely diagnose a cardiomyopathy. He was in good body condition.	2	Years	Shih Tzu	Dog	15	Pound

After both my husband and I each gave (b) (6) a GREENIE one evening by mistake, she developed pancreatitis. Our vet said we would need to put her on a low fat diet for the rest of her life so we switched them both to the NutriSource weight management. They became "pooping machines" and had frequent bowel movement but they loved the food and couldn't seem to get enough of it. Looking back it seems like (b) (6) started having trouble around the time we switched her over to NutriSource Brand Dog Food. Her vet diagnosed her with congenital heart disease and Cushing's Disease earlier this year around the first of this year I believe and our vet suggested we switch her to Royal Canin Brand Dog Food as he said it would be better for her. On the afternoon of (b) (6) she was panting a lot and appeared to have a little cough. I gave her a pain pill and she was not panting as much but she started licking a lot. Once again, I now recognize that as a sign she was probably in a good deal of pain. Around 10:30 PM something happed to her and she fell off a foot stool and hit the floor. Her legs went stiff and she stopped breathing. My husband resuscitated her and she came around. We immediately called our vet and he said to watch her. We did for approximately two hours and she appeared better then she appeared to either have a seizure or a heart attack. We rushed to the vet and she had to be euthanized. The following day would have been her 12th birthday. Please note that I am unsure of the exact date the problem started. EON-392199	7/2/2019 1:24	Acana Grasslands and Acana Ranchlands	My 3.5 year old German shorthaired pointer was diagnosed with dilated cardiomyopathy after experiencing a cardiac collapse event back in 2012. Within 2 months of being diagnosed, he passed away after suffering from a fatal cardiac collapse. Back in 2012, the veterinarian cardiologist could not explain why it had happened to a dog so young and to a breed that does not have any history to this disease. None of his siblings had the disease and the breeder never experienced any of their litters getting this disease. It seemed like a completely unlucky and isolated incident with no explanation. Now, in 2019, there is an active FDA investigation into Grain-Free foods and dilated cardiomyopathy in dogs that have no history of the disease. While I began having my suspicions that my dog may have passed away due to this very reason, it didn't really hit me until the FDA released their June 2019 update where the list of implicated dog food brands was provided. Up top, the number one brand implicated so far in the research is Acana. My dog was fed Acana dry food his entire life. I rotated between beef and lamb versions of Grain-Free Acana. Additionally, I mixed in locally made grain-free wet food from a boutique store in my neighborhood. Given that Acana is so far the number one brand implicated, and that the research also is consistently calling out boutique or "exotic" dog foods, I am almost certain that my dog suffered the same fate due to the same reasons being investigated. I am compelled to report this now given all of the information that is coming out in hopes that this may help with the ongoing research.	3.5	Years	Pointing Dog - German Short-haired	Dog	75	Pound

EON-392190	7/1/2019 22:20	4 Health	My dog started having issues breathing 2-3 weeks prior to her death. She would even have labored breathing while she was asleep and she became lethargic and couldn't keep up with us all of a sudden. She then wouldn't eat so I took her to the vet and the vet said her Xray showed a mass or enlarged heart muscle. They didn't know at the time what it was or what caused it. They kept her for observations and wouldn't let us take her back home. She died there 2 days later and never would eat or drink anything. They said her heart just stopped working. This was a couple years ago and she always ate grain free dog food from 4 Health & Taste of the Wild. After reading the article today about the problem with the grain free food, I am certain this was what killed her. She did not have heart worms and came from a great bloodline with no known genetic problems. I still have her xrays of her heart on a disk. I'm so sad that this could have been prevented. I have been feeding my new dog this same food the past two years! No more, I am switching to dog food with grains. I hope she doesn't die from this too and I hope you will convince these dog food manufacturers to stop producing this food and add grain back to the food so other dog owners don't have to go through what we did.	7	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	65	Pound

EON-392161	7/1/2019 17:44	Blue Buffalo Basics grain free fish and potato cat food	In regard to recent reports of heart disease in dogs and cats related to pet food. I owned two Siamese littermates. On (b) (6), at the age of 4 yrs, the cat named (b) (6) experienced acute respiratory distress. Rushed to the vet, (b) (6). Found Heart enlargement and Atrial enlargement. Transferred to (b) (6), under O2 support. No treatment was effective. Cat was euthanized same day. Both cats were being fed Blue Buffalo Basics, grain free, fish and potato formula at the time of (b) (6) death and for the two years previous. The second cat brother was echo scanned by a verinary specialist and found to have heart disease as well. Second cat was switched to a different food for urinary issues. His heart has been scanned yearly since 2016. He has been on Atenolol for his heart for two years. This year his heart showed a slight improvement. The specialist had no explanation for the improvement and had not seen improvement in a cat before. Then I read about the issue with Blue Buffalo grain free being on the list as maybe causing heart disease. I feel this might be the reason my 4 year old cats both acquired heart disease, and why one of them died from cardiomyopathy at the young age of 4 years. While I can not prove this animal food caused his death I am providing this information in hopes that it will help the FDA pin down a cause related to this issue. I have celiac disease, so it is vital that I do not have products in my house that have gluten in them, as it could lead to accidental ingestion. Obviously, they are trying to differentiate between gluten and "wheat gluten" but gluten is gluten, and obviously it is misleading enough for it to end up under the "gluten free" filter on the website, and therefore qualifies as a misbranded item.

EON-392093	7/1/2019 12:24	Acana Regionals Appalachian Ranch Grasslands Meadowland	(b) (6) was a Dachshund/Poodle mix. She was on Acana grain-free dog food for approximately 5 years and Taste of the Wild for about a year before that. We switched to grain-free when we brought our other dog (a Pembroke Welsh Corgi who is now 8 and so far does not seem to be exhibiting signs of DCM) home from the breeder in 2011. Around September of 2016 (b) (6) started sleeping a lot more and becoming out of breath very quickly during walks, she developed a regular cough and was not interested in eating her food any longer so we took her in to the vet who explained that it appeared her heart had inexplicably become enlarged. They believed at that time that she may have suffered from a heart attack or stroke that had gone un-diagnosed but the ensuing result was that she now had DCM. She was then put on several different medications to prolong her life but we were told her activity was to be kept at a minimum for the remainder of her life. Around this time we also switched her food because we had to take the Corgi in to the vet to have emergency surgery due to bladder stones (which also seemed uncharacteristic for the breed). We started feeding them both Honest Kitchen at that time because of his additional need for water. He remains on that food to this day but we believe the Acana to be the original cause of the complications that lead to the DCM. In (b) (6) we found (b) (6) passed out at the top of the stairs and when we picked her up in a blanket to carry her downstairs she began coughing up blood. We rushed her to the vet but she passed away in the car on the way.	9	Years	Dachshund (unspecified)	Dog	18	Pound

EON-392048	7/1/2019 0:48	Dr. Marty Premium Freeze Dried Raw Dog Food Nature's Blend Adult Dog Food	My parents purchased this product, Dr. Marty's Nature's Blend Freeze-Dried Raw Dog Food for their dog; however, she would not touch it. They gave it to me to see if my dog's liked it. At first, they were a bit hesitant, but they tried it. I couldn't believe how atrocious it smelled when I opened the bag, but if they liked it, and it was allegedly formulated by a veterernarian, then I kept giving it to them for approximately 2-3 more days when (b) (6) had this look as I was feeding her that caused me to question if she still liked it. She did eat some of it, but within 5 minutes, she had begun projectile vomiting. I immediately stopped feeding them, both, from that bag. I still have what's left of the bag should you want it for testing. As I stated, the smell is horrific, and it doesn't feel like anything freeze-dried that I've ever felt before now. I've felt much dryer food in every bag of dry dog food that I've ever purchased. It has a moist, squishy feel. If I were to compare it to something, I would state that it seems like it would be the perfect bait for catching catfish due to their appetite for the excessively putrid types of things. After this, things started becoming quite alarming, such as the following: 1. This company would not cancel the order. They were determined the sell would be made, and they shipped the product while charging my parents' for this highly-overpriced product. If it were the quality as advertised, wouldn't it be in high demand and not requiring the selling tactics of someone trying to get rid of something that they knew was no good. 2. I saw the dog food listed on the Better Business Bureau website, and I can honestly state that I've never seen more of an obviously deceptive ploy in the comments about this product. I couldn't help but to wonder if they actually believed that anyone would believe such highly deceptive practices. I knew it was a farce when someone made claims of how great it smelled. That's just an impossibility for anyone to state that what's on the inside of that bag smells good, or tempting. There was a company response to each bogus claim, including that one. The entire set-up wreaked of desperation and horrible story telling. 3. (b) (6) started having health problems shortly after all of this began. The vet thought it was bacterial, and he tried a couple of different prescriptions. It seemed as though her illness was getting worse rapidly. On the morning of (b) (6), we were preparing to take (b) (6) to a different vet for a separate opinion. She had been coughing, drooling, acting very lethargic, having trouble walking, and she didn't want to go outside for anything throughout the night before. She was resting in my bed when I had made all of the arrangements, and we were ready to go. I went to my bedroom with some hope that this vet was going to provide a cause and the treatment options to stop the effects it was taking on her body. When I got to the side of the bed, I realized that my "baby girl" had died. She held on as long as she could, but she just went to sleep and didn't wake up again.	9	Years	Boxer (German Boxer)	Dog	69	Pound

EON-392004	6/30/2019 16:20	Nutro Feed Clean Wholesome Essentials Complete daily nutrition Indoor Senior Farm-Raised Chicken and brown rice recipe	Several months ago, I purchased several bags of NUTRO dry cat food. It was on sale so I purchased maybe 6, 6.5 pound bags of chicken and fish flavors. I had not fed this brand of cat food to my cats in the past. I began to find throw-up piles of the kibble, but did not know which cat or cats this came from. (b) (6) began to loose weight so I began feeding the cats (I had 3), canned food (I had Friskies cans in the cupboard that I fed occasionally for a "treat" and used those cans) about 1 month ago to supplement the dry NUTRO. (b) (6) continued to eat the canned food which I fed them for a month or so (along with the dry NUTRO which I always had available to them via free feeding), then on (b) (6) he went into a very rapid downturn and I had him euthanized on (b) (6). In the back of my mind, i felt the NUTRO food may have been bad. (b) (6) was 8 years old, active, good coat quality etc I do not know if he had other health problems, they were just not visible to me. His weight loss and throwing up (food & bile), looking back, began to the best of my memory, around the time I started feeding them NUTRO. I never thought he would die. The food may just be a coincidence, but I feel compelled to bring my concern forward. I am watching my other 2 cats closely, have totally switched their food and treats. I put the date the problem started as an estimate only, I'm not sure when I purchased the NUTRO, but it was within the last several months. I have an unopened bag of the food and two zip lock baggies of the food I removed from the bowls after (b) (6) death. I did not take (b) (6) to a vet prior to having him euthanized. The vet listed is the vet who euthanized (b) (6). I did contact the vet office with my concern that the food may have been bad. They said they may contact (b) (6) regarding my concern. He had seen the vet in the last two weeks for a pre dental exam and blood work and no heart murmur was detected. So my concern is the only thing that had changed to cause the heart murmur and seizure clusters was the change in diet to raw Answers. I fed him Nature's Domain sweet potato and beef for a few months to a year. My dog, who previously never had weight issues, seemed to lose some weight. At the regular veterinarian check-up, the vet stated my dog had a heart murmur. I was surprised and concerned, since he never had heart problems before. They did further labs and tests and concluded that although he had developed some kind of mild heart condition, he was still healthy overall. I changed his food and returned to his previous dry food with grain. At the next vet check-up, he was fine and no heart murmur was observed. As my dog aged, I again considered that feeding him grain free food would probably be better for him. I switched to Nutro grain free diet and free of gmos. I fed him duck and lentils, venison and sweet potato, chicken, sweet potato and pea. My dog seemed again to lose weight on these formulas, even though he was less active than before. I noticed he seemed to pant more often. At the next veterinarian visit, I was again told he had a heart murmur but this time I thought it might be due to his increased age and I thought the vet was unnecessarily concerned. I kept feeding my dog Nutro grain free and I noticed a steady decline, especially when it came to walking and running. He seemed to get tired with these activities more and more and panted often. In the summer of 2018, when my dog was 15, he suddenly collapsed. He seemed lethargic and his abdomen seemed a bit distended. I was a bit suspicious that perhaps the food was to blame and switched to Purina Beyond with grain and saw some improvement. Later I switched again to Merrick and Taste of the Wild, grain free dog food. My dog began a rapid decline, which I attributed to his old age, with the main symptom of shortness of breath, heart murmur, exercise intolerance and trouble getting up and standing up for some time. My dog passed away while he slept in (b) (6) at the age of 16 years old. Although I know he was very old for his breed, looking back now, I definitely saw a connection between the switch to grain free food and the beginning of a steady decline in his health status, particularly with the appearance of a heart murmur with the switch to grain free food and which he never had before. My Border Collie was in excellent health, with no issues prior to the switch to grain free feed. Even though we all thought it was a natural decline for an ageing dog at the time, looking back and in light of recent developments, I definitely see the link between grain free diet and the beginning of a steady, quick decline. I am submitting this report with that certainty.	12	Years	Collie - Border	Dog	41	Pound

EON-391978	6/30/2019 13:20	Blue Buffalo healthy weight Adult Dry Dog food (chicken and brown rice) Deboned chicken wholesome whole grains healthy fruits and veggies.	(b) (6) Has been on Blue Buffalo dry dog food(chicken & lamb with brown rice) since she was a puppy(11 Months old). We have not switched her food nor changed her food. We have not given her any medications over the years, she was strictly eating this dog food for about 7 1/2 years. By the age of 8, our vet suggested we come off of the food due to gastrointestinal issues and (b) (6) becoming sensitive to the food. (b) (6) was placed on Hills prescription diet food I/D Digestive (turkey flavor) and has been on that for about 1 year now. This year June 16th, 2019 (fathers Day) (b) (6) went for a jog and passed out. The following day i took her into the vet. Blood tests were run on her as well as EKG and ECG. The vet was shocked to discover that (b) (6) had Dilated moderate Cardiomyopathy of the left ventricle. He explained the condition is more common in cats and he has not had any cases recently except for us. I started to question the diagnosis and evaluation because (b) (6) has been an active dog all her life. From the time she arrived in our house at the age of 9 months old until the age of 8. she was a very active, energized, happy, healthy dog. She was getting about 60-90 minutes of exercise a day. She hardly had any treats - only occasionally. She loved going for a nice jog along the beach. Upon (b) (6) passing out and her diagnosis, she was placed on taurine, vetmedin (5mg) - 2x/day and Enalapril(10 mg)-1x/day. The medication has seemed to help her heart work a little bit better, she does not seem to be short of breath as much as she was before. However, she can not walk far and is very limited in her activities now in order to maintain this condition and hopefully help her life expectancy. I knew right off the bat that something was missing because of the research i conducted on this condition as well as the vet. (b) (6) did not have a genetic history of Heart disease and the vet explained that it is more common in cats. All of a sudden as a dog owner of 9 years to receive this information, i was beyond furious. two days later while researching this condition i find out that there is a link between dog food and dilated cardiomyopathy. I find it outrageous that (b) (6) was a healthy chocolate labrador and as soon as she comes off of this Blue buffalo dog food she comes down with this life threatening condition. (b) (6) is due back at the vet in October 2019 to repeat her ECG and check her blood pressure to see where we stand. The most recent blood results that were done June 17th, 2019 showed everything to be normal, her blood pressure was considered to be stable as per the vet. Her right ventricle is mild, but the left is dilated moderately. The dog food was purchased from petco in (b) (6) over the years.	9	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	76	Pound

EON-391958	6/30/2019 9:20	Zignature	We have read a report indicating that research has linked heart issues and even deaths in dogs eating a 'grain free' diet. We have two cocker spaniels that eat Zignature. One has already passed, at the time of his death the vet indicated he had an enlarged heart and ciruclation issues, which is exactly what we read in the article linking these foods and health problems. My other cocker spaniel has had chronic cough issues and the vet has indicated she is also suffering from congestive heart failure. After reading this article and thinking about when we started the food, her health issues started around the time of the food, which we never linked and doctor's were unable to link as a reason. The other cocker spaniel also had declining health issues and looking back, it started around the time of the food. We were encouraged to use the 'grain free' food, being told that our older cocker, the one who has already passed, had skin issues and allergies to grain.
EON-391957	6/30/2019 9:16	Merrick Grain Free Real Texas Beef plus Sweet Potatoes Dry dog food.	In March of 2019 we brought (b) (6) in for a full vet work up and (b) (6). We found he had Cushing. All his blood work and physical exam showed no signs of cancer or any heart related problems. We went with a holistic treatment plan of Adrenal Gold and melatonin from Pet Well-being and changed his food to Merck Grain Free dry food and grain free Milk Bone treats. We did this immediately after the Cushing diagnosis. Mid May we started noticing a few changes, lots of panting AGIAN, after it had stopped with the treatments for the Cushings, lack of energy, more than usually in our 12 year old dog. (b) (6) he was not very active at all, then (b) (6) was the worse, horrible breathing, not eating at all. We brought him the (b) (6). They said it was heart failure and he had a lot of fluid. They would keep him overnight and release the fluid, start him on some cardiac medicine and this should be something we can manage. Well at 9:00 that night they called and said he just stopped breathing and could not revive him. Of course devastation set in for myself, husband and 20 & 17 year old daughter. We are realistic logical people and have owned 2 other boxers so we know all their health risk. We lost our first one to cancer and 2 and one to what we believe was a unknown very sudden cardiac problem at the ages of 9 & 10. Neither of these dogs ate grain free. But (b) (6) lived a very healthy life, never ever a problem. We know he was old and things are expected so while devastated we never questioned his sudden onset of the symptoms and ultimate death from CHF. Definitely not trying to blame anyone either. We just want to submit our story since we just read the report in the relationship between grain free food and cardiac issues. Very interested to know the time study if dogs with no cardiac problems starting GF food and development of cardiac symptoms.	12	Years	Boxer (German Boxer)	Dog	75	Pound

EON-391941	6/30/2019 3:00	4health Grain-Free Beef & Potato Dog Food	We transitioned to a grain free diet for our 5 full blooded toy poodles (parents born 2001, 3 puppies born 2008) in Feb 2014 with 4Health dried food in beef flavor, with potatoes. We fed it to them up until May 2017 (the two potentially effected dogs, the parents had passed by then), and changed to one with corn vs wheat due to availability locally. But the parents who may have been effected were fed it for several months to 3 years. (male about 3 months, female 3 years appx.) One of our little females (all 3 puppies were age 5 at the time and appear now at nearly age 11 and 2 years off grain free to be okay, the two potentially affected parents were both age 13 at this time we started grain free) (with allergies to vaccines and environmental allergies) did a lot better on it than with wheat or rice (ear itching, allergies). All the dogs seemed to love it and have more energy and their coats were shinier. In all appearances they liked it and seemed to thrive on it better than food with wheat. There was no indication at all in any way the food was harming them, if it did. In late March 2014, our oldest male suddenly developed breathing problems at night (gasping, air hunger) and was not himself (he was very perky and normal up until now, and acted like a puppy running around). We took him to the vet and he had severe heart failure with a significant murmur (that may not have been here the year before, unless it was missed). He stabilized on meds (diuretic and antihypertensive) and finally had to be put to sleep by the end of (b) (6). I do not know if it the same type of heart failure reported and believed to potentially be due to this food. Complicating factors, to note: he did also around that time (April 2014) develop a oral-nasal fistula (from a bad tooth, but his heart failure was before that by a few weeks) that came back despite repeated bouts of antibiotics and became antibiotic resistant. They also	13	Years	Poodle - Toy	Dog	9	Pound

			p suspected he had anal cancer from a small spot on it, but did not think it wise to do anything due to his age and condition. (He was not neutered if this helps.) When we had him put to sleep (toy poodle, age 13, 9 lbs) he was so bad off (and he appeared pretty normal but we knew it was time) they had trouble finding a vein (2 or 3 tries) and the IV blew mid procedure and he had to have an emergency heart stick to put him down (which also took 2 tries, from a very good experienced vet). They said his heart was very enlarged and he was in bad shape. In 2015 his mate (then age 15, female 9 lbs, spayed) started overheating and having "spells" when outside where she would fall over, sometimes crying and vocalizing, sometimes semi-unconscious. She would faint briefly. She also developed dementia (confused, lost in the house, incontinent) and blindness. She had a mild heart murmur and was not medicated for it, so we are unsure if she had it or not. But just wanted to include it here if it could help. Her heart beat was irregular at times (a lot of skipped beats) and erratic the last few months of her life (we chose not to medicate due to her overall condition) She literally fell over dead and went peacefully to sleep in my arms within seconds. We did not in any way think his food or hers was related to these issues, but in view of this new finding thought it should be noted in case it was relevant and could help with the outcome and prevent other pets suffering. The 3 puppies now almost age 11 (fed grain free from 2014-2017, now wheat free with corn vs wheat) all seem fine and no murmur or issues. I'm not sure if any of this helps, but in case it could I wanted to contribute. We did strongly believe that all of our pets benefited from the grain free food and seemed to have more energy, at least at first, on it vs wheat, rice or corn (ended up now with corn, least allergic skin wise for one our little ones who doesn't tolerate rice or wheat well). We don't know if these issues are the same type or just age related. y

EON-391934	6/29/2019 23:24	Grain-free dog food	I am a human cardiologist and electrophysiologist (heart rhythm specialist). In humans, grain free/ketogeneic diets are associated with dilated cardiomyopathy and sudden death related to selenium deficiency. In fact, pediatricians who use a grain free/ketogenic diet for seizures in children are advised to screen for cardiomyopathy and to assess selenium levels periodically. My first thought when reading about cardiomyopathy associated with grain-free diets in dogs was whether selenium might be implicated. I see that food was tested prior to the report associating grain free food with canine cardiomyopathy, but that dogs are not being tested for this. I'd humbly suggest assessing selenium levels in dogs affected by grain-free food associated cardiomyopathy.			Mixed (Dog)	Dog

EON-391872	6/29/2019 14:04	Taste of the wild Pacific Stream	Started my dog on taste of the wild pacific stream around the age of two. I properly switched her from her previous dog food to taste of the wild. In the first year I noticed my dog was starting to shed a lot more than usual. I thought maybe she was anxious because I worked a lot and she was left at home most of the day. A few months go by and I notice that when I pour her dog food she would just sit and look at it. She would walk over, sniff it and then walk away uninterested. I know sometimes dogs eating habits can change. They may not eat at all in the morning and eat only at night or vice verse. But this became a pattern. A few months later my dog started randomly throwing up. I mean almost once a week throwing up. Her behavior had changed. She was lethargic, shedding like crazy, wouldn't touch her TOTW pacific stream dog food unless I put wet dog food on it(also taste of the wild brand) took her to the vet and they said everything was fine. She was healthy. But I'm with my dog, I know my dog longer than just a 20 min visit. I knew my dog wasn't healthy. I felt helpless and in hindsight I felt like such an idiot for never considering her dog food to be the source.i went to the pet store and bought her some more dog food(TOTW pacific stream) got home, opened the bag and the food looked rotten. That's was it!!! I did research on TOTW looked for alternative dog food and decided upon royal canin dog food. I did not properly switch her from TOTW to Royal Canin. I just started feeding her the Royal Canin and with in days, days!!!! She stopped shedding, her coat looked healthier, she stopped vomiting, she became more energetic, and whenever I pour the dog food into her bowl she immediately goes to eat it. Just based on my experience and what I've witnessed with TOTW and my dog I'd say it was the dog food. A logical rational person would come to the same conclusion.	3	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	65	Pound

He developed an extremely bad case of pancreatitis in 2017, and I was prescribed a different, low fat food to try to prevent this in the future. During his annual exam in 2019, I chose to have him sedated to complete the full exam, as he does not do well and becomes aggressive during any sort of exam, including grooming. With him being sedated, they were able to see details that they otherwise couldn't, and I was informed via phone call that he had a heart murmur and heart disease; and I was being referred to a cardiologist for heart treatment. Unfortunately I don't have the money to do those follow ups with a specialist, so he is living his best life at our home. I saw the story on the news that dog foods are being linked to heart disease, and found that the food that he ate most of his life was included on this list. I can't help but wonder if it is because of Blue Buffalo that my (b) (6) has these heart problems, (in addition to a history of extreme pancreatitis which resulted in a 4 day inpatient stay at the emergency vet and may hundreds of dollars in care), and that he would be a totally healthy dog if it weren't for them.	9	Years	Terrier - Jack Russell	Dog	17	Pound

EON-391858	6/29/2019 12:32	Zignature Kangaroo Formula Limited Ingredient Formula	My dane having food allergies, was placed on Zignature Kanagroo at roughly 4 months of age (~mid Dec 2018) as part of an elimination diet. It was suspected and later in Early June confirmed that he was allergic to Chicken and Beef, and was not responding well on duck, so the decision was to try a completely novel protein. From this point until the end of his life he was fed that diet, pretty exclusively due to the nature and severity of reaction to other proteins at such a young age. In early May he started to not eat well, nothing particularly wrong just went from inhaling the food as rapidly growing large breeds do, to picking at it. This continued to progress and we thought it was related to his allergies as he was also having skin symptoms. I had a professional conference at this time and he was left with my sister in law who is a canine trainer with Best Retrievers (5/20-5/27). His poor appetite continued to progress during that stay and when we returned. I at first put it down to the change of environment and stress. However his appetite did not pick back up after we returned home and he began to have noticeable weight loss and was down to only eating ~4c a day. He also had started to cough/gag and vomit. I took him to my Vet (b) (6) at that time (b) (6) he was evaluated for his allergies and these GI symptoms. He was down to 112 lbs at this visit. Since he had been at (b) (6) Bordetella was briefly considered/discussed, but he had been vaccinated and was current and out other 2 dogs had no symptoms. He was noted to have a heart murmur on this visit. (b) (6) told me at this time about the link between a grain free diet and cardiac disease. We allergy tested him at this time, treated for GI, and dehydration. I began to home cook for him in addition to his Zignature to encourage him to eat: organic rice &amp; ground venison. The allergy results came back (b) (6). No surprises or answers there- his allergies were not the cause. His symptoms continued to progress, he was waking me up every night coughing, restless, and uncomfortable. On (b) (6) an Ultrasound appointment was made for the earliest available (b) (6) He was recommended more medication to help symptoms and (b) (6) another round of full bloodwork was	9	Months	Great Dane	Dog	120	Pound

			medication to help symptoms and after another round of anti-bloat was pulled and run- CBC &amp; Comp. Those results were back (b) (6) with no particular answers. That afternoon we brought him in and did an x-ray series hoping to see an obstruction. He was down to 107 lbs and barely eating ~2c a day at this point. The x-rays were not definitive and he was given an appetite stimulant and laxatives hoping he had soft (textile?) obstruction. Initially the stimulant helped and he ate more in the next few days than he had in the previous week and had more diarrhea with the laxative effort. We kept the U/S appointment and by (b) (6) he had worsening cough, appetite was tapering back off, and his work of breathing was noticeable at rest. He was 112lbs at that visit. He was then diagnosed with dilated cardiomyopathy at that visit with the ultrasound. He was also found to have ascites in his belly. We were referred to a cardio specialist and I made an appointment that day for their next available (b) (6). We choose the night of (b) (6) to put him down the next day as he was no longer eating at all, barely drinking and vomiting, extremely lethargic, had no interest in anything he previously thought was fun, his ascites continued to grown and I palliatively drained him at home- this gave him no symptom relief. That night taking him outside was the first time I watched his pallor turn gray. Thursday morning his pallor would change with any effort. even at rest in the car he was turning pale and gray. In the Vet's office we had to pick my 9 mo old puppy up to put him on a bed on the floor because he couldn't do on his own. The breed has some genetic predisposition to DCM. I communicated back to the breeder who stated there hadn't been any issues along the line. I just don't want someone else to have to go through this if it can be prevented.

I rushed her back and they were going to admit her. When they went to lay (b) (6) down for a chest x-ray her lungs filled with fluid and she coded. CPR was performed but I gave the okay to stop. EON-391855	6/29/2019 12:24	Zignature Duck limited ingredient formula	We were at home one evening last august and he had gone to nap in on my bed, which was normal. I had fallen asleep on the couch. I woke up to him panting heavily, more heavy than I had ever heard him before. As he aged, it seemed like he was breathing heavier, but he was always up to walk but he would get tired and needed to take a break. He came into the living room to a big pillow we had for them and fell over. Looking back, i believe that's when he had a heart attack. At the time, i went to get him some water and was talking to him. But when he fell over, I started to freak because he wasnt responding to me. I had never seen any signs of any health issues at all. Yes he was old for his age, and maybe it was his time , but he and my other dogs at that point had been on Zignature duck and potato for a good 5 years.	11.5	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	102	Pound

We've fed our dog (b) (6) Acana Meadowland dry food for most of his life. About six months ago he developed a cough and a once extremely active dog slowed down his activity. His breath became shorter and shorter to where he was breathing short even while resting. His cough worsened over time. We took him to the vet on (b) (6) where he was X-Rayed. The X-Ray showed that he had an extremely enlarged heart. The vet had never seen one so enlarged. At that point we decided that we had no choice but to put him down. We just saw the alert about the dog food warning from the FDA. We saw Acana at the top of the warning list. We are very upset knowing that our choice of dog food may have lead to the death of our extremely happy and active dog. We currently have a six year old dog who had been eating Acana also. EON-391821	6/29/2019 2:00	Nutro Grain Free Adult Farm Raised Chicken Lentils & Sweet Potato Dry Dog Food.	Hi! So, after seeing the recent news of the FDA's warning regarding grain-free foods, and sudden onset DCM. I felt it necessary to write this report. Firstly, this news has absolutely gutted me to read...as I now know in my heart this is what claimed our dog's life at the young age of four. (b) (6) was a 4 year old, Old English Sheepdog. He was very active, loving and just overall an amazing friend. The issues started in the middle of night in October 2016. We heard (b) (6) start coughing and initially dismissed it as no big deal. A couple of weeks later, the coughing happened again and this time more and more. We spoke with a vet that told us it was probably just kennel cough or something of that nature, and gave us some medicine. Unfortunately, this was not the case. In the following weeks the cough became accompanied by lethargy, constant diarrhea, and total lack of appetite. He was no longer the fun loving dog he was just a couple of months before this. We took him to three vets, spent thousands of dollars and soon received news that stunned, and floored us -- (b) (6) has developed DCM due to an enlarged heart, and nothing could be done. Due to this diagnosis, and his rapidly declining state. We had to make the hearth wrenching decision to put him to sleep. Honestly, just writing this is bringing back those feeling and reading the FDA warning today had brought all those feeling back. Today, I was able to finally connect the dots -- (b) (6) ate NUTRO grain-free dog food his entire life. I have no doubt that after reading these other stories and now this FDA warning that this caused (b) (6) untimely death. This makes me SO sad, and mad...that I do not have adequate words. If you need any follow up regarding this report. Please feel free to reach out to me. Thank you.	4	Years	Sheepdog - Old English	Dog	65	Pound

EON-391796	6/28/2019 22:28	Acana dog food (multiple types) including freshwater fish and red meat varieties	I fed Acana to my 3 dogs for many years—at least 5, possibly more. A couple of years ago, I was shocked when my vet told me that (b) (6) who was the strongest, most muscular dog I had ever owned, had developed a heart murmur at around age 8. A year or so passed, and she developed congestive heart failure. Not long afterward, my Tibetan Terrier, (b) (6), was diagnosed with a heart murmur and subsequently died from heart failure in May of 2018. He was very old (13 at time of diagnosis), so it's possible that his case was unrelated. Meanwhile, I put (b) (6) on medication, but she had to be euthanized in October of 2018. My vet mentioned that she saw a lot of dogs that had developed my dogs' specific type of heart disease due to eating grain-free dog food. All I know is that I have had dogs all of my life, and I had never had a dog that developed heart disease. And yet suddenly, I had 2 of them. My third dog, (b) (6), is about to turn 7. She ate Acana with (b) (6) and (b) (6), and I'm holding out hope that she won't develop a heart problem.	11	Years	Terrier - Scottish	Dog	30	Pound

EON-391793	6/28/2019 22:20	Acana Grasslands	From approximately the age of 10, was put on a grain free diet, never having any type of heart condition, and was checked by a vet regularly. The food she was specifically fed was Acana (rotated different flavors) but primarily ate The "Grasslands" formula. At approximately 16 years of age, began to have fainting spells. The vet was unable to determine the cause. At age 17, in addition to the fainting spells, began having difficulty breathing. Vet did state she had an issue at that time with "biliary sludge" and began treatment for that with "denamarin". After her 18th birthday, began having even more difficulty breathing. Took her to the emergency room where they asked if she had ever been diagnosed with a heart murmur; I replied no. They stated she had a Grade 2/6 heart murmur. Having never been diagnosed with any type of heart issue prior to this, I am questioning whether or not this is related to the issues being reported regarding DCM and grain free diets.	18	Years	Greyhound - Italian	Dog	11	Pound

Upon multiple vet visits and multiple tests, we came to the conclusion that trail and error, and an elimination diet was our best bet. Starting with novel proteins. Meat such as bison, alligator, duck, fish, any food that he probably wouldn't normally get in his diet. Unfortunately most of those dog foods were also of the grain free variety. Within the last year hes lost over 30lbs due to heart issues after my vet warned me of the grain free issues going on with dogs. He now has developed a heart murmur after having him on several variations of Blue Buffalo, Nature's Recipe, and Natural Balance dog foods. Hes in such poor health, we are on the verge of having to euthanize him. Eventually we sought another vets opinion because the ear infections returned. This vet helped greatly, with cleaning and meds the ear infections cleared although damage occurred to the ear canal. He still had some issues with itching but this vet thought it more likely an allergic response to flea or other bug bites, common for many dogs, even though we didn't have a flea problem I was told the saliva from a flea could cause severe itching. Other than treating the ears our dog had been great health, a couple months before moving out of state we brought him in for routine checkup and vaccinations when she noticed a heart murmur. We had noticed his weight had increased to almost 45lbs so we scheduled an appointment for xrays. Sadly he was diagnosed with an enlarged heart, something that was not present just 1 year prior, that was December 2015. Our vet gave us heart medication to help with fluid but said because the heart enlarged so much so quickly she only gave him a year, and she was right, (b) (6) he collapsed in my husband's arms and passed at only 11 yrs old.	11	Years	Spaniel - Cocker English	Dog	45	Pound

EON-391752	6/28/2019 18:00	Blue Buffalo Basics Limited	I got (b) (6) in 2011 from a breeder just outside of (b) (6) . My uncle is a vet in (b) (6) and did many of her early appointments. In 2015 I moved to (b) (6) The vet in (b) (6) told me that (b) (6) had a heart murmur which had never previously been mentioned to me. In Nov 2018 (b) (6) developed a cough. Despite not having been to the dog park or doggie daycare the initial diagnosis was kennel cough. When the cough did not improve for a week and a half I went to the vet again and was sent to the emergency vet. At the emergency vet I was told that (b) (6) was in congestive heart failure, that she had a tear in her heart and the sac around the heart was filled with fluid. After three days in an oxygen chamber and a multitude of medications (b) (6) had recovered and was released to go home with a follow up appointment a week later. At the follow up appointment a dog cardiologist reviewed (b) (6) files and told me that while she was doing great her heart murmur would never be fixed and she could go into failure again. Her life expectancy was now only 6-12 months. An x-ray was taken at that appointment. Approximately 28 hours later (b) (6) again began to have difficulty breathing and began coughing. I rushed her back to the emergency vet where I was told she was again in congestive heart failure and an x-ray showed fluid filling her lungs. Unfortunately this was not an event that (b) (6) could recover from and 32 hours after being given a clear-ish bill of health and doing great (b) (6) was put to sleep. I cannot say whether her grain free diet played into her condition or whether she had a heart condition her entire life.	7	Years	Spaniel - Field	Dog	53	Pound

EON-391741	6/28/2019 17:32	Merrick's Grain Free Buffalo and Sweet Potato	It was suggested we use Merricks Grain Free dog food when we adopted from a shelter. This was the dog food the foster used so we decided to buy this and give to all of our dogs. This was 5 years ago. We fed strictly Merricks Buffalo and Sweet Potato. When the report came out from the FDA last year that grain free could lead to heart failure, we switched their food and rotated every other month. Earlier this month (b) (6) I came home to (b) (6) panting, unable to catch his breath, and would not lay down even though he was obviously exhausted. I took him to the local vet. They kept him for 4 nights. He was diagnosed with CHF. When I brought him home, he began having seizures. Multiple daily. His last one being 20 minutes long. I rushed him to the vet where we ended up having to make the call that no pet owner ever wants to make. This was on (b) (6).	10	Years	Bulldog	Dog	77	Pound

EON-391735	6/28/2019 17:00	ORIJEN Original Biologically Appropriate Dog Food	I got (b) (6) at age 3 from a farmer who was feeding her Purina. I began feeding her Orijen immediately. At age 7 she was diagnosed with DCM. Around age 9 her heart was in Stage 3 failure so we started seeing a canine cardiologist who put her on Vetmedin. It had wonderful results as prior, I doubt she'd have lived many months. Unfortunately, I continued to feed her Orijen. Just prior to her 12th birthday she started into congestive heart failure and xrays showed her heart was exceeding the capacity of her chest cavity. I put her down on (b) (6) two weeks after her 12th birthday as she was going into respiratory distress, including the 'death rattle'. Border Collies are NOT a breed to have DCM. In addition, although she lived to an average life expectancy of 12, her heart started showing her deterioration around age 8 and putting her on Vetmedin at age 9 seemed to reverse many of the symptoms for a couple years.	7	Years	Collie - Border	Dog	40	Pound

He had a history of ear infections but beyond that he was in great health. He developed a sudden dry cough one evening and the next day we took him to the vet. They first diagnosed him with an upper respiratory infection and put him on antibiotics. He never got better. We took him back to the vet and they ddl xrays and discovered that his heart was enlarged and his kidney function was very low. They kept him for two days to administer iv antibiotics and fluids and he continued to get worse. We brought him home for the weekend and it was terrible. His cough never got better, only worse. He became lethargic and would not eat or drink anything. We knew that he was in bad shape. We finally made the decision to take him to the 24 hour emergency vet and they performed more tests and said he was not doing good at all. His heart had gotten much bigger and his kidneys had started to shut down. We made the decision that night to have him euthanized. All of this happened within 5 days. It was very fast. He had been to the vet for his annual checkup two weeks prior and had been vaccinated against kennel cough, but this was suspected as the cause of his cough. After that was ruled out, he was given antibiotics for possible pneumonia, but the cough progressively got worse over the two weeks. He quit eating and became very lethargic with increased difficulty breathing due to fluid build up in his lungs. He was referred to an emergency clinic where he was given steroids, fluids, and more antibiotics in an isolated oxygen chamber. It was noted that his heart was slightly enlarged, but that this may just be a symptom of his difficulty breathing. He recovered to the extent that he was no longer coughing and was able to be released after 36 hrs. He was given some heart medication as a maintenance drug and sent home. Within a few days, his condition began to deteriorate again. His breathing became very labored and he was rushed back to the emergency vet and placed in to the isolated oxygen chamber again. On January 10, 2019, I took (b) (6) back to the Vet because her cough had gotten much worse. She couldn't sleep at all without coughing. He did an X-Ray to look at her lungs and found her heart was so enlarged, it was alarming. She was immediately started on Furosemide and I was told to get her to a Cardiologist as soon as I could. Or first appointment with the Cardiologist was January 18, 2019. She had her first echocardiogram and was started on Vetmedin, Benazepril, Spironolactone, and a taurine supplement. I had fed my dogs Earthborn Holistic Meadow Feast for 4 years. My regular vet and the cardiologist both felt this was nutritional mediated DCM and told me to change dog foods. I changed immediately. I got the Kirkland brand at first because that is what the Rescue President uses. I then did more research and printed ingredient lists for our next appointment at the cardiologist. Per their recommendation, I have been feeding ProPlan by Purina since. We have had 3 appointments with the cardiologist since she was diagnosed with DCM on January 10, 2019. A follow up echocardiogram on March 15, 2019, she wore a Holter Monitor and spent the night at the emergency clinic 1 night after a fainting incident in April, then another follow up echocardiogram on June 4, 2019 (b) (6) is still on the medicine and we will have another X-Ray in October, 2019.	5	Years	Dalmatian	Dog	45	Pound
EON-391613	6/27/2019 18:00	Purina Beneful Playful Life	I had just bought a bag of beneful from the store ( same food my dogs always eat nothing new. One of my mastiffs immediately refused it I continued to offer it and still refused. This is NOT normal as my dog loves to eat! My other mastiff are it but very slowly then an hour later started vomiting. The vomiting lasted through the night. She was very sick the following day, wouldn't get up or anything. My vet recommended waiting a day to see how she was. The next day (day 2) she got up and drank water but will only lay around. I bought new food and offered it but she will not eat and is moving about very slowly and sleeping a lot. This is out of her character she is a very hyper energetic dog! My other mastiff who refused the food was offered the new food in one bowl and the "bad" food in another and he walked away from the bowl and went right to the new food. I'm worried the bag of beneful I purchased may be contaminated or something. I have NEVER had this happen but we are concerned! I do think she is slowly recovering because she did stand up and drink water today which is an improvement from yesterday. I'm waiting until tomorrow to see if any other changes occur, if not I'll be taking her to her vet.	2	Days	Mastiff	Dog	75	Pound

EON-391591	6/27/2019 15:52	Taste of the wild Sierra mountain grain free dog food	Please read this carefully as I will be going back and forth. On July 31st my Great Dane that was a FEMALE 5 YEAR OLDS started limping bad the next day, 8/1/18 fell down the stairs. I took her to our vet and they suggested hip dysplasia due to her giant breed. Two days later she fell and could no longer walk on her BACK LEFT LEG. Took her back to the vet and did an x Ray, a mass in her LEFT hip socket. That vet wanted 6k to amputate her leg. I found another vet that truly cared for my animals and not my money. My Great Dane got her leg amputated, before surgery they discovered a mass near her heart but said it was not typical with osteosarcoma. Now within this stress process, 2 weeks later after 8/1/18 my Australian cattle started urinating everywhere. He started limping on his LEFT BACK LEG. When taken to the vet, he HAD THE SAME TUMOR/MASS IN THE EXACT SAME SPOT MY GREAT DANE DID. However, he had masses on his lungs. Surgery wasn't an option for him. My Australian cattle deteriorated and I laid him to rest on (b) (6) because he could no longer walk due to this mass. 2 WEEKS AND 1 DAY LATER, my Great Dane collapsed and passed in my back seat as I was rushing her to the emergency vet. I lost both my dogs within two weeks of each other to osteosarcoma. They BOTH ate taste of the wild Sierra mountain grain free dog food. For at least 2 years before this happened. They had ZERO HEALTH PROBLEMS. My Australian cattle was older but no issues and my Great Dane had absolutely no issues. Both were treated with steroids and antibiotics. (b) (6) cough returned approximately 3 weeks later. I took her back to the vet and the vet said that they thought that her cough may have not completely cleared up from the kennel cough. They prescribed a steroid. During the appointment, I told the vet that I had noticed decrease in her appetite since she started coughing again. I took her in for another vet appointment a week later because the coughing and not eating had gotten worse. She had also started panting, seemed uncomfortable, demeanor was not the same, and was not drinking much water. In the time between the August appointment and this September appointment, (b) (6) lost almost 10 lbs. The vet tried to listen to her heart and said he was unable to hear her heart beat because her lungs had filled with fluid. He told me that her heart was failing and that he was surprised at how fast it progressed just in one week. The vet told me that we could try medication, but where she wasn't eating or drinking, he wasn't sure if it would help. I gave my healthy dog 1 chew once daily for 3 days. After day 3 my dog started to whine and cry and vomited the first time she vomited it was pink and white with frothy foam the second time it was green and pink with white frothy foam the third time she vomited up blood . She continued to cry out and whine and vomit throughout the day and was restless, she also became extremely fatigued, lethargic and her eyes became glazed over. She became disoriented. She hardly drank water and would not eat. She slept through the night. The next day she seemed a bit better but didn't eat much food and continued to be lethargic and fatigued. The next day she was constantly having diarrhea but it subsided. That night there was diarrhea all over her bottom and she it was leaking out of her constantly. She refused water and food. We rushed her to the veterinarian. She was diagnosed with a very bad infection due to this product. She is being treated with antibiotics and anti diarrheal medications. We have to bring her back in 3 days if her symptoms do not improve. She also recieved an injection of antibiotics and she has a fever. The veterinarian informed us that she was the second dog he had treated from the exact same product. We have messaged the company and have not heard back yet. Out of my 15 cats, 4 of them (the four oldest ones – 18, 17.5, 16.5, and 16 years old) have kidney disease. I have been buying them Royal Canin Renal Support A dry food for quite some time, but I have recently added Royal Canin Renal Support E canned food (5.8-ounce cans) to their diet. So far, I have purchased two cases of this food, and both cases have had 4 cans each that were damaged and unusable, because the lids are “puffed” which indicates that the food inside is spoiled. I purchased this food from Chewy, but let me state emphatically that it is NOT the fault of Chewy. It is, in my opinion, a quality control problem at the point of manufacture. Both cases themselves have been in perfect shape, as have the shipping boxes. As I’m sure you know, each case has 24 cans in it, 12 stacks of two cans. Not all of the damaged cans have been on the bottom of the case, either, which to me means that the cans were placed inside the case already damaged. The information on the cans is as follows: The four damaged cans in the first case are all exactly the same, with the following information: Best By 12142020 1303 850E1NSC1 13:03 RFRL

Key	Created	Product Name	Description	Age	Age UOM	Breed	Species	Weight	Weight UOM
			The four cans in the second case are almost the same, with a time stamp difference on two of the cans. Here is the information from the four damaged cans in the second case: Two of the cans: BBO 06MAR2021 20 1 910F1NSC02 13:14 RFRL Two of the cans: BBO 06MAR2021 20 1 910F1NSC02 13:45 RFRL I know that Chewy would make this right if I complained to them, but I think it's better that you are made aware of this. I do give my cats other canned pate renal food from a different manufacturer, but they happen to like the Royal Canin pate also. I do not want to keep receiving cases with damaged cans in them. I pay approximately $2.15 per can (plus 10% tax), and I want to be assured that I will not have to keep going through this with every single case I buy. As a matter of fact, I'm asking for you to send me eight "perfect" cans of this food as a replacement. I know that if I complain to Chewy, they have no way to send me just eight cans, but rather would send me a whole case. I do not want that, because all it does is cause them to lose money and drives up prices for the consumers. Also, Chewy does not accept coupons, and I don't believe any veterinary practice will either. And I don't think that any veterinary practice will sell individual cans – just a case of the product. I am not positive about that, but I have no transportation to run all over town to try to find individual cans, nor the time to call around asking. So PLEASE DO NOT SEND COUPONS as a replacement. So please check into this matter, as this is not typical of Royal Canin to be so lax in allowing defective products to be sent out for our precious pets to consume (at least not typical in my experience with your products). If you can't (or won't) send me the eight replacement cans, please send a check:

			(b) (6) Regards, (b) (6) END OF COPIED EMAIL TO ROYAL CANIN My concern is not particularly so much of them not refunding my money, but the fact that they did not even address the issue of my opinion of their lack of quality control before selling the cat food in question. To end up with two cases more than six weeks apart containing defective cans of food is an indication that something is wrong with their production/canning procedures. And not replying to someone who is the "victim" of their lackadaisical procedures is a bad business practice, and leads me to believe that they have something to hide. Please look into this for me. Sincerely, (b) (6)

Purine Kit& Kaboodle Original Tasty Flavors Chicken Liver Turkey Ocean Fish	I purchased a 22lb bag of dry cat food- Purina Kit &amp; Kaboodle Monday, 06/17/2019 at Walmart in (b) (6). When I opened i filled a black plastic bowl and poured it into 2 food bowls. What was left of the crumbs in the bottom of the black plastic bowl looked like "salt". I tasted it and it was salt. Not just a little bit either. Crumbs verses salt were about 50/50. I emptied the content into the old food bag to keep it separate and scooped some more out of the bag. It had what looked like salt on it also. Why would you ever put salt in pet food? EON-390779	6/18/2019 11:56	Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula	I purchased multiple bags of Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula for Amazon.com. My dog was eating this daily, for about 4 months, from the local (b) (6). He never had any adverse reactions to this food in the past, and the base exchange seemed to have sold out of it for a whole so we decided to bulk purchase it on Amazon. After about 3 days of half normal/half runny stools, my dog ended up having serious loose and bloody stools. He had to go to the emergency vet to be seen as he was not acting himself and pooping all over the house. He hasn't gone in the house since he was a puppy. After the vets today we gave him a small portion of chicken and rice and he seemed to have gotten some of his normal attitude back. I then decided to read into reviews and eventually consumer affairs only to find out how it was affecting so many other dogs in the exact same way as mine. I'm not sure as to this date if there has been a formal complaint brought against this company or possibly the mishandling/storage practices of the Amazon warehouses, but I'm certain there is a serious issue with this food and needs to be investigated. Blue buffalo pet foods has had a decent past with only a handful of products with issues like this, so this is why I considered the storage practices from Amazon. The dog food in question was shipped from the Amazon warehouse in (b) (6). Please take a look into this as well as other reviews input on Amazon.com and consumer affairs. Like I said, there are many very similar reviews on both these websites. Thank you for your time and help on this matter.	4.5	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	70	Pound

I decided to switch from the chicken and vegetable recipe to the Just 6 turkey and pea recipe Nutrish brand by Rachel Ray in the in the 12lb bag. It seemed like it would be better for him with the ingredients stated. Since then my dog has been vomiting on an almost daily basis. I didn't want to believe it was his dog food, however after I stopped feeding it to him on Saturday June 15,2019, he has not vomited since. I have saved his vomit that he did twice Friday evening in my fridge. I emptied his food bowl into another baggie and I have the rest of the dog food bag. I want to sent everything to you, especially his 2 vomit bags from Friday, June 14 which are in my fridge. At one point last week, Wednesday, he was so ill, he was shaking completely all night. I knew it was stomach spasms which subsided after he vomited again. After stopping the food Friday evening, he seemed much better finally Sunday. I have never had an issue with Rachel Ray food, which is why I kept feeding it to him even though he was vomiting. My dog was at the vet in In the spring of this year for a urine sample and that was to make sure of no urinary infection because of marking, being he's a male dog. I didn't contact my vet regarding this because I am disabled and only get so much income per month. He initially acted ok besides vomiting and he did continue to like eating the food.  There are feeding instruction on the back of the bag that day it may take 10 days for your dog system to get acclimated. I followed those instructions, however his vomiting would not stop. I almost rushed him to the animal hospital last week Wednesday, when he had the shaking all night, however after he slept toward morning he was fine. It was 2 days later, after he vomited again twice Friday that I stopped feeding him that food. I knew then it had to be from the food. By Sunday, June 16 after I started him on another dog food Saturday he seemed himself again with no vomiting since Friday. I am extremely upset and KNOW the problem is the dog food. Please advise me what to do next. I also plan to take legal action regarding this. EON-390364	6/13/2019 3:12	Purina Busy Beggin' Twist'D Long-Lasting Chew	My dog was fine and acting normal. We had a nice weekend outside in the sun with my other dog. My father had bought these Purina Waggin Tails dog treats as a gift for them. They loved them to the point of obsession. (b) (6) had one and then kept wanting more. I saw no problem giving her a soft treat to chew. Then a few days later, she took a turn for the worse. She was fine in the morning and then all of a sudden was exhibiting, lethargy, loss of appetite and thirst, and her eyes began to not focus. We hoped that she would fight whatever illness she got. At the second day, she just got worse. By the time of the third day, she was severely dehydrated and we took her to the animal hospital at (b) (6). We checked her in and they decided to do some tests after discovering the dehydration. All signs pointed to acute kidney failure with unknown cause. The Vet claimed she was exhibiting the symptoms of renal failure caused by antifreeze poisoning. We had no clue what could have caused those symptoms. The only treatment was long-term high risk dialysis that would only prolong her suffering. We had to come to the decision to put her down. In my grief, I wanted to understand how she could have possibly gone from her happy usual self to dying of severe kidney failure. I decided to retrace our week and what could have changed. Could it have been something she ate outside? Was it some sort of chemical she got into? I cross referenced everything we used and nothing could explain the cause of her condition. Yet in the back of my mind, I remembered we gave her these new treats on Saturday and Sunday. I decided to do some research and was shocked that with the same product and other similar products there were several cases of the same tragic story. One case was a coincidence, then I found more, and 3 became a pattern. By the short time I had been online, I discovered multiple cases that all had the same story as (b) (6). I was enraged. A lot of these cases for the same product were years ago, and yet the product is still being sold to pets everywhere. I am now fearing that my other dog may meet the same fate. She is exhibiting similar symptoms but at a lesser scale. There is no coincidence that she consumed less of the same treat that (b) (6) had. I honestly do not know what I will do if I lose them both to the same illness. I am going to get her checked in the morning. If she is exhibiting the same symptoms that indicate poisoning, then I will have my answer. (b) (6) was a happy, healthy dog that died too soon in her life. She brought joy to everyone she met and didn't deserve to be poisoned. I owe it to her to find out the truth of what happened. The only new thing in their lives was this treat, and it is no coincidence that their health has turned for the worse since consuming them. I still have an extra of the treats. I am not sure if there is a way to have it tested, but if this is what killed my baby girl, then I owe it to the rest of the pet owners out there so their family does not suffer the same fate.	9	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	84	Pound

(b) (6) and his brother (b) (6) are 9-1/2 month old Aussiedoodles. I have fed them Purina Puppy Chow Complete (PPCC) almost exclusively since I adopted them over 8 months ago. It is their preferred food and they have only been fed a couple of other brands during that time. I've never had any health issues or sickness while they were eating PPCC. I keep them on a strict diet and they are not allowed to eat any human food and have been treat free for the past week. On the morning of Monday, June 10th, I purchased a bag of PPCC from Dollar General Store (b) (6). I returned home and fed my boys. Both of them walked away from their bowls although I knew that they had to be quite hungry. A little later, (b) (6) returned to his bowl and ate. (b) (6) refused to eat his. A few hours later (b) (6) threw up. He has never thrown up to my knowledge. However, I did not become concerned, cleaned up the mess and went about my day. I fed them again Monday evening. (b) (6) ate his bowl but again (b) (6) walked away and didn't eat. A few hours later, (b) (6) became violently ill. This time the vomiting was profuse and continued until he had thrown up not only everything in his stomach but all of the bile as well. (b) (6) is a high-energy, non-stop, active dog. He became lethargic and I could tell that something was wrong. I did a complete search of my home and yard to see if I could find anything that he could have gotten in to or eaten. I found nothing (I don't even keep my toilet seats up). Worried about finding the cause of (b) (6) illness, I remained diligent in my efforts to locate the source. I never thought about the PPCC since it was what they had always eaten and there had never been any trouble. I smelled the bag of PPCC and it didn't smell right, sort of rancid I guess. I immediately sealed the bag of PPCC and placed it on a high shelf so the boys could not get to it. I then went and purchased a different brand of food from a different store.	9	Months	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	60	Pound
			About 9 hours after becoming sick, (b) (6) slowly regained his energy and became active again. I fed them the different food and they both devoured it. No problems, no illness, just happy healthy puppies again today. I'm relieved that I seem to have found the culprit. I emailed Purina on the afternoon of the 11th, but have not received a response as of yet. I am very concerned that there is a contaminated batch of PPCC on the market and feel obligated to warn other pet owners who might be feeding this same food to their puppies.

EON-390065	6/10/2019 14:08	Taste of the Wild PREY	On Monday night, (b) (6), (b) (6) couldn't make it back from his nightly walk, had labored breathing, and no appetite. His hind legs were shaking. On Monday morning, (b) (6) was brought in to the (b) (6) in (b) (6) where he underwent general sedation for a hip/knee X-Ray. The thought process was that he had injured a hind leg. Under sedation early on, (b) (6) experienced abnormal heart rate and blood pressure readings as well as gum/ tongue color while being monitored. The vet staff pulled him from sedation, ran a general blood panel (which was unremarkable and otherwise normal - general parameters). The vet then decided to do a chest x-ray and found his heart to be 3x the normal size. That same day, I took him to (b) (6) in (b) (6) for a cardiologist follow up as part of their (b) (6). (b) (6) was diagnosed with dilated cardiomyopathy and right ventricular congestive heart failure from an echo cardiogram preformed by (b) (6). He was prescribed pimobendan and lasix and 1,000 mg of taurine 3x a day. It was the opinion of (b) (6) that (b) (6) had diet- related DCM. The following week, (b) (6) appetite declined severely to the point of syringe feeding. On May 22nd, we brought him back to (b) (6) on the recommendation of the (b) (6) for a kidney panel before his second cardiologist follow up with another cardiologist, (b) (6) on the same day. Unfortunately, (b) (6) died of a fatal arrhythmia at the cardiologist's office (b) (6) after his initial diagnosis of suspected diet-related DCM and right ventricular CHF. The reason (b) (6) was suspected to have diet related DCM was due to his diet. He was on Taste of the Wild PREY, which is a limited ingredient dry food for	4.5	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	29.8	Kilogram

			the last 3.5 years. Before that, he was on Merrick grain-free dog food. After reading information on diet related - DCM, I checked the ingredients on (b) (6) food and lentils was the second ingredient listed. (b) (6) was grain-free his whole life and on a grain-free diet high in lentils for 3.5/4.5 years of his life. His last 2 bags of Taste of the Wild PREY: Bag 1 (consumed up to the time of death): UPC 0-74198-61368-7 Best by 12/Mar/2020 Possible Lot Numbers: 9072080 PDR0301-19 MSH 17:27 Bag 2 (consumed 1.5 months before time of death): UPC 0-74198-61366-3 Best by 08/Mar/2020 Possible Lot Numbers: 9068080 PDB0301-19 JDM 08:09 On a personal note: When I had taken (b) (6) into his initial cardiologist appointment and the vet came back in with the results, my reaction was "you have to have the wrong dog, he's only 4.5 years old!". His response immediately was, "what are you feeding him?" As soon as I said grain-free, he said he had a very belief (b) (6) case was diet-related because he was a mixed breed. We had reached out to Taste of the Wild to ask them if they knew about this and had heard. Their answer was yes. It's a long shot, but please do contact me to follow up bc I want to know if the FDA has plans to more closely monitor dog food companies in the coming future. I believe that this is necessary. These dog food companies have a huge responsibility to do due-diligence on nutrition profiles. The animal space is highly desirable because it's a channel where savvy marketing pays big dividends and it is completely unregulated by a government agency. I don't want to live in a country where basic items like food are subject to the belief that marketing means more than testing. Please call with any additional questions you have. I'm happy to share (b) (6) story and provide as much details as I can to help make a difference. I also want to know how many cases have been reported.

EON-389804	6/6/2019 17:24	Zignature Kangaroo	(b) (6) has been fed a grain free diet majority of his life due to food sensitivities. In February, we were playing in the snow and when we came in the house to warm up, (b) (6) was drooling excessively and pacing. We thought he might get sick so we took him back outside. He just wandered. Came back inside and got him to lay down and I noticed his heart rate was not right...so I felt it and it was like feeling a Rabbits heart rate. we rushed him to his vet and they hooked him up to ecg. His heart rate was jumping from 280-300bpm. We were then advised to rush to the emergency vet. There they monitored him, had him on the ECK and did an xray. The xray showed slight enlargement on the right side. The vet then asked what we were feeding as he was suspect of dcm. He then wanted to run a ProBNP test to see if it came back positive for damage (his numbers were double at 1717). He highly advised/urged us to get to a cardiologist. We went to our teaching school to see the cardiologist there. They ran an echo, ecg, did another exray, drew blood for taurine and Troponin tests. She listened to his heart for a murmur. She could only hear a slight one if in a very quiet room. When she had the results she explained to us that (b) (6) did in fact have DCM. We caught it very early. She is very suspect that this is all related to his diet as there are no known heart disease in his bloodlines (I speak with the breeder daily). We now have since had to switch his diet, we have to give him a taurine supplement as well as Pimobendan for his heart.	7	Years	Weimaraner	Dog	76	Pound

EON-389749	6/6/2019 9:36	Taste of the Wild - Pacific Stream	I had a 2 year old Doberman that was on a grain free diet her entire life. The brand we went with was Taste of the Wild, and it was mostly the Salmon protein. A few months ago she suddenly became ill with constant vomiting and panting. It was a night and weekend so we had plans to take her to the vet Monday morning if it continued, but she was gone 24 hours later. We found her dead on our carpet in a spot she commonly rested. It must have happened quickly because we didn't hear anything and didn't appear to be a struggle. My first thought was she had been poisoned. We took her to a clinic soon after and paid to have a full post mortem examination. Nothing appeared out of the ordinary to the doctor, and there were no signs of bloat or blockage. After ruling those out, we paid to have several toxin and blood tests ran. Everything looked normal and we could then rule out poisoning. The only thing left in the vets opinion was to point to sudden heart failure, most likely DCM. We walked away thinking it was just a rare genetic condition and it was out of our hands, but then I started to see a lot of articles coming out the following weeks on the possible link between grain free and DCM! I believe my dog was a victim of this. Vets everywhere are advising pet owners to stay away from grain free unless absolutely necessary now. It happened to be the hot trend when my dog was a pup and I was pushed into grain free at the pet store, and I believe we lost her way too early because of it. I've voiced my concern on Consumer Affairs to Taste of the Wild already, but am trying to report our case to as many places as I can to help get the word out. Thank you

EON-389634	6/5/2019 3:24	Purina Pro Plan Savor Lamb and Rice	I was looking for a more affordable high-quality brand of dry dog food, so I had decided to make the switch to Purina Pro Plan Savor Lamb and Rice. I started with mixing about 1/4 cup in with 1.5 cups of her regular food (Taste the Wild). I stuck with that for 2 days, and gradually started increasing the amount of Pro Plan for about a week. At first, she seemed to be doing great on her Pro Plan diet. She absolutely LOVED the flavor of the food. After a few days though, she had began vomiting excessively. I took her to my vet, explaining to him that I had transitioned her diet slowly to avoid any digestive disruptions. The vet seemed just as confused as I was, and scheduled a follow-up appointment. I decided to take matters into my own hands and see what I could find out. I was appalled by what I found. There are multiple videos on YouTube made by dog owners that are disgusted after finding maggots in their brand new bags of Purina Pro Plan. I understand that improper food storage could have also be an issue, which is why I decided to test the theory myself, since all of my dog food is kept in air-tight bins in the kitchen cabinet. I started chopping up the meaty pieces of the dog food, and sure enough, I found 4 live maggots and at least a dozen dead ones. No wonder my dog has been so sick. I am very bothered that Purina has not addressed this issue at all, or even acknowledged it.	5	Years	American Pit Bull Terrier	Dog	50	Pound

EON-389492	6/3/2019 17:16	Purina Blue Buffalo Nutro Hills Science Diet	I would like to address the issues concerning Science Diet (Hills), Purina, IAMS, etc. All of these foods (whether grain-in or grain free) contain ingredients not digestible to the domesticated dogs and cats of America. Corn, wheat, soy, by-products, unspecified "meat" meals and by-products, not to mention the various processing plants are disgusting. If the FDA is going to report on a mere 300 cases in four years of DCM caused by foods that are incredibly low quality, or foods that have protein primarily coming from the amount of fillers inside the bag. If you were really doing your jobs, you would focus more on the REAL issues surrounding the pet food industry (i.e. companies like Blue Buffalo and Nestle who pay veterinarians and governmental institutions to report vague information to trusting citizens and have the gall to call it "research"). In my opinion, it would behoove the FDA--specifically the veterinarian sector--to look into the heavily (albeit well done) marketed pet food companies (i.e. Hills, Blue Buffalo, Nutro, etc.) before providing information that misleads pet owners who genuinely care for their pets. Sincerely, A Pet Loving and Concerned Citizen
EON-389387	6/2/2019 21:12	4Health Grainfree Whitefish & Potato Formula	Be aware-this food causes DCM!!! My almost 5 year old black lab has been eating this food her whole life. She has always been healthy and very active until a couple weeks ago she developed a inconsistent cough. We took her into the vet and they took xrays and bloodwork. They came back to show she has a very serious enlarged heart with surrounding fluid. She was referred right away to the emergency vet to see a cardiologist. We spent the night and whole next day there. They did some testing, monitoring, and a echocardiogram. She has been diagnosed with dilated cardiomyopathy and congestive heart failure. Her heart disease is very advanced at this time. They are blaming it on this food which is grain free!! We thought this whole time it was good for her however, studies recently have proved that to be wrong. She is now on 3 medications, 3 supplements and a prescription food. I am devastated! As well as an emotional wreck as my dog means the world to me! Fingers crossed the medications and prescription food will help her heart improve in time and she will be able to live a playful and healthy life she deserves!! Just want to share what I have been going through to make others aware. I don't wish anyone to experience this with their dog. This product and all other grain free food need to be removed from stores. Can provide more Information and her results if it would help resolve this serious matter!!	5	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	80	Pound

EON-389352	6/1/2019 20:20	Zignature grain free duck	Like many Cavaliers he had a heart murmur with the begining of congestive heart failure. It was being controlled with medications. However the thought of the food was never considered. I had started him on Zignature because it was a high quality food without grain. He had an allergy to grain. He loved it and seemed to be doing great on it. Then one day he could not breathe very well. I rushed him to the vet and they did an xray which showed end stage congestive heart failure. It did not occur to me right away until I started thinking about humans with congestive heart failure and I know they must limit their salt. So I started investigating and there was no sodium listed on the label. So doing google searchs I found others who were concerned about the sodium content in the food. On an online blog I found out that the sodium content in Zignature was approximately double that of other dog foods. No wonder he loved it. I know that he was not expected to live too long considering his heart but I think it would benefit other dogs if a pet food manufaturer would have to label the sodium content. I don't know why it is overlooked in pet food. Perhaps sodium is not usually an issue in dogs. However there are many breeds with heart conditions and I feel it would be a benefit. I don't blame the comapny. I just would like to help future dogs that have health issues be aware of what the food contains. All the other ingredients seemed to be high quality that is why I chose it. Its kind of sad I have spent so much time reading bags of dog food picking the right one not realizing the info not on the label was sooooo important.	10	Years	Spaniel - King Charles Cavalier	Dog	23	Pound

I have been buying and feeding my dog with this food for over a year. After I bought last bag of dry & can food, I noticed that my dog is not so excited to eat this anymore. She was sniffing it, spilling some pieces of dry food, sometimes not eating at all. Then she became very ill. She started having very severe bloody diarrhea and vomiting anything she eats. She stopped eating completely. She was sick for two weeks, I never saw her sick so much in her entire life. I took her to vet twice. Veterinarian first was looking for bacterial infection or viral infection. Several medicines later and she was still sick. I put her on rice and chicken diet and try to make her eat again... After two weeks she started recovering and I decided to put her back on Nutro Ultra dry food again. Big mistake. Symptoms came back right away. She vomits all what she eats. I cut her completely from Nutro Ultra food and put her on different dry food. What amazing difference. She is eating very good and she is recovering. I think is something very bad with Nutro Ultra dog food (dry & can food). I do not want anybody else to have this problem and more dogs suffer serious issues. EON-389047	5/29/2019 12:00	Special Kitty Savory Sliced Beef Dinner in Gravy	I had a problem with a can of cat food...Special Kitty "Savory Sliced Beef Dinner in Gravy". (This can was part of a larger case of cans). I always put a spoonful of this in a plastic dish and warm it up by putting it in the microwave for 5 seconds. I then put it on top of my cat's dry food. Last week, I did as I always do and put this in the microwave for the allotted 5 seconds and a huge spark of fire erupted from this spoonful of cat food right away after only 1 to 2 seconds, so I immediately turned off the microwave. It's obvious that there must be metal of some type in this food. This has never happened to me before from any cat food of any kind. I have not tried to feed any more of this to my cat as I fear it is dangerous for her. The numbers on the bottom of the can are as follows: 9002803 A1WBB 0928. I got it from Walmart in (b) (6). I still have the can of food if you would like me to send it to you. Let me know what else you need from me. I am now afraid to buy any more Special Kitty food for my cat.

FAST scan revealed moderate ascites. Patient was referred to (b) (6) for further evaluation. Findings consistent with advanced DMVD with suspect L-CHF and poor contractile function. Considering LA enlargement and severity of MR and AI, we would expect a better systolic function. Pimobendan 10mg BID is recommended. Mild respiratory effort and occasional b-lines vote in favor to L-CHF. There is enough cardiac changes to justify L and R CHF. Since patient is on a BEG diet, it is unclear whether diet is playing a role on decreased contractile function. Recommend transition to a grain-based, low sodium diet and consider Taurine supplementation. Abdominocentesis was performed (5 liters of serous sanguineous fluid) and analysis is recommended. EON-388964	5/28/2019 16:08	Royal Canin Giant Breed Puppy	We received a new bag and as soon as we opened it she would NOT touch the food. Once she got hungry enough she gave in and vomited several hours later. This happened twice. When she was still hungry and did not want the food we made her eggs and rice, which she ate without incident. We received a replacement bag 2 days later (during which time we had no gastrointestinal issues) and the same thing happened with the second bag, with an additional day of diarrhea as well. After checking the identifying information it seems the replacement bag was from the same lot. We cleared her with a vet, who agreed with our assessment and started her on a sensitive digestion food to get her back to normal until we could regroup and decide on another puppy food for the time being.	6	Months	Leonberger	Dog	52	Pound

EON-388937	5/28/2019 13:04	IAMS proactive health small breed adult 1+	I have purchased Iams "healthy weight" dog food and the dogs did well on it before. I switched to senior dog food and they all had blood diarrhea. I stopped that food threw it away and switched them back to Iams healthy weight and no issues. The store was out of Iams healthy weight so I bought them the toy break Iams and after 2 days My dog <sup>(b) (6)</sup> started having diarrhea and throwing up her water. After normal diarrhea stopped bloody diarrhea started. She wouldn't eat but she would drink. I brought her to the vet 24 hours after onset because I realized it's not going away and the told me she was critical condition and to bring her to the hospital. I didn't even make it to the animal hospital and she died in the car. My other dog started having diarrhea but I stopped the food and started him on rice as soon as he started to show symptoms. I believe it's a problem with certain Iams batches of dog food because one time it'll be okay and the next purchase they have blood diarrhea but this time it killed my dog <sup>(b) (6)</sup> .	11	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	7	Pound

Diagnosed with dilated cardiomyopathy phenotype believed to be secondary to nutritionally-mediated DCM. Dog was fed ACANA diet. Taurine levels were within normal limits (Whole blood 280 nmol/ml, plasma 87 nmol/ml). However, after appropriate diet change and taurine/L-carnitine supplementation, serial echocardiography showed significant improvement in cardiac chamber size and left ventricular systolic function. Therefore, we strongly believe this is a case of taurine-responsive dilated cardiomyopathy related to poor diet.	4	Years	Spaniel - King Charles Cavalier	Dog	6.8	Kilogram

EON-388879	5/27/2019 17:16	Earthborne Meadow feast	(b) (6) died on (b) (6) four days after being diagnosed with severe DCM. He was 3.5 years old. (b) (6) showed essentially no symptoms until 2-3 weeks before he died. My husband and I took him to (b) (6) on (b) (6) for a progressive cough. We weren't given a definitive diagnosis at that time, but the vet prescribed a cough suppressant and told us to come back in a week if the cough didn't resolve. Five days later (b) (6) wouldn't eat. On the sixth day he became lethargic and short of breath. We returned to (b) (6) on (b) (6) and a chest x-ray showed (b) (6) had a severely enlarged heart. We were told he was in critical condition and needed to be transferred to an Emergency pet hospital to see a cardiologist. We immediately took (b) (6) to (b) (6), and an echocardiogram showed severe DCM with congestive heart failure. We spent the next four days giving (b) (6) around-the-clock medications but his symptoms continued to get worse. We returned to (b) (6) and due to the advanced nature of his DCM, euthanasia was recommended and he passed away that morning. The vet discussed with us that (b) (6) was "not the normal breed or age for the onset of DCM". (b) (6) was fed Earthborn Meadowfeast with Lamb every day since early 2015. At the time, we were unaware of the link between this food and diet-related DCM. We continued to feed this food to our other lab (b) (6) (unrelated to (b) (6)), who now also has DCM and I have submitted an additional report regarding his case. Given all of the recent findings regarding diet and DCM, as well as a second dog in our household being affected while on the same food, we were encouraged to file a report for both of our dogs.	3.5	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	57	Pound

EON-388877	5/27/2019 15:48	Earthborne Meadow Feast	(b) (6) was adopted at 10 months old and has been a very active dog his entire life. Within the last 6-12 months he has started to show signs of activity intolerance, taking a noticeably longer time to recover after strenuous activity at the dog park. In September of 2018, (b) (6) was taken for his annual dental cleaning. Prior to being put under anesthesia, the vet heard a heart murmur during his physical exam. The vet called to notify me of this new finding and recommended a pro-BNP blood test and cardiology consult. The pro-BNP test came back significantly elevated at 3,327 pmol/L, indicating cardiac dysfunction. (b) (6) was able to see a cardiologist on 10/23/18 and an echocardiogram confirmed severe dilated cardiomyopathy with a fraction shortening of 10% and moderate regurgitation of the mitral and tricuspid valves. This was a surprising diagnosis, as labs are not known to be a breed of dog prone to this disease. Additionally, we had another lab mix named (b) (6) (unrelated to (b) (6)) die of dilated cardiomyopathy the previous year on (b) (6) at 3.5 years old. Both dogs were fed Earthborn Meadowfeast since early 2015. This information led the cardiologist to suspect diet as the cause of both of our dogs' dilated cardiomyopathy. (b) (6) now requires approximately $200-$300 worth of medications every month to support the pumping ability of his heart, and is only allowed to go on controlled leash walks due to activity intolerance.	7	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	60	Pound

When we finally got her to move, she got up and walked extremely slowly to her cushion where she remained unresponsive. She barely moved for days; we had to force feed and carry her up and down the stairs. It was a drastic change from this usually very active and energetic dog, even at her age. When I consulted the vet, I was told she might have been poisoned. She had an elevated enzyme level at 1,900 compared to last year which was at 200. EON-388652	5/23/2019 23:20	The Taste of Wild	My dog has been raised on Taste of Wild.. It was suggested to continue use once we owned her and received her from the breeder. The breeder had suggested to us to use any of the Taste of the Wild Puppy Formula. Shortly after we brought her home we started experiencing she was having stomach issues. We were concerned when she started having uncontrollable diarrhea and vomiting weekly. We contacted the breeder with hopes of answers but she swore by the dog food. We had not changed anything in her diet. We continued the 50 lb bag until it was finished but the intestinal symptoms persisted. We continued this formula until she turned a year old when we slowly weaned her off of the puppy formula and changed her to the Venison.. Once she started this flavor her symptoms became so much worse.. One day I came home to find her laying in a puddle of her own feces and vomit with visible blood in her fluids. She was too weak to move... The bleeding continued in her stool. Occasionally when she would use the restroom it was only blood that would come out. At this point in time it had been months and I was very concerned. She was starting to lose weight. I called the breeder and asked her for help due to her experience. She was questioning the food but wanted to bring her to her regular vet for all of her animals. They suspected Parvo was the reasoning for my ill animal but all tests came back with her otherwise being "healthy". Our pet was stable at this time for the most part. We decided to change from Venison to Bison.. Symptoms were very bad and continued as you can imagine. Our most recent change was gradually onto the Pacific Stream Salmon and then the dermatitis began. Her underbelly, legs, back.. in every area broke out in hives, welts, boils and very dry patches causing my dog to be in a constant state of itching and pain. I started using a "hot spot" vet recommended spray on her to see if her rash would get better... It has not. Her itching has caused her so much discomfort she has now removed 80% of her hair from her back and her legs. I have always been very confident about the food being the cause to my dog illness but I did not have proof and wanted to keep trying other options. I have been told that this is the best dog food brand by many people but after reading similar health concern stories online. I began to reconsider my original hunch. I am very worried for my pet's health. She was once a very healthy animal and he has declined for almost a year now. I very much believe it is from this dog food. She does not receive any other food other than Taste of Wild. I do not provide her with treats due to my belief that she has had a sensitive stomach.. For an animal to be defecating blood is more than a sensitive stomach. I am lucky to still have my animal and I am glad that she has not succumbed to her illness caused by this. I felt it was completely necessary to report this food. This brand needs to be tested and monitored closely. Something is wrong.	18	Months	Shepherd Dog - German	Dog	60	Pound

I syringe fed him some Friskies canned food and he seemed to really like it. Around 7pm I tried to give him some water and he could not even swallow; he seemed almost comatose. When I picked him up from his bed at 9pm he screeched, bit his own paw and immediately died with his mouth open. Frothy water came out of his mouth just like (b) (6) was in a bedroom where he could get around safely if he wanted to. With CH, he needed carpet and often tipped over. I usually helped stand him up to eat and drink a few times each day, and also laid him in his	8	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	12	Pound

			litter box. In the two days prior to his death, I noticed he did not want to stand at his bowls and assumed he had done it on his own as he could do and did often. He did not urinate that morning as he should have however. (b) (6) always ate Royal Canin prescription s/o dry food as he had a blockage when he was young. His blockage was due to the fact that he had not been drinking enough on his own or using the litter box, I started helping him thereafter. Just to be safe, he stayed on prescription food. Three months prior to his death, I had begun to mix in Iams non-prescription urinary cat food, just a tiny bit. At his death I was mixing in one-third Iams and two-thirds Royal Canin. My other two cats with prior blockages tolerated the mixture just fine. (b) (6) never ate the canned Friskies or regular Iams. (b) (6) also never came into contact with (b) (6). (b) (6), deceased at age 8 years. (b) (6) was believed to have idiopathic cystitis almost his whole life. (b) (6) had his own room with 3 other cats to have a nice quite stress-free environment. (b) (6) never came into contact with (b) (6) or (b) (6). (b) (6) was fed Royal Canin s/o also, with the Iams non-pres. urinary food mixed in for approx. 3 months just like (b) (6). (b) (6) never had Friskies canned food, just Royal Canin canned food. On May 13th, I noticed (b) (6) in the litter box too often and took him to the vet where he was x-rayed, given antacids for vomiting, lactulose to empty his digestive tract, and IV fluids. He stayed overnight at the vet. I took him home (b) (6) and kept him isolated to monitor him. He ate one-half can Purina U/R food Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Tuesday, he had nothing but blood instead of urine dripping from his penis. I began fluids and his urine was bloody but seemed to improve the next day. He leaked on his bed a few times where I could see the color. He still dribbled urine, but not a sufficient amount and too often. I was hopeful with fluids he would improve. He vomited Thursday, could not keep even water down. I tried famotidine, even a drop of Pedialyte, everything came back up. Friday the vomiting slowed and I was

			hopeful he would eat. He did not eat Friday or Saturday. No vet is open Saturday after noon or any time Sunday so I continued his penicillin and fluids and hoped Monday to get him to the vet again. Sunday night he rapidly declined; the fluids built up around his abdomen, lungs and heart. By midnight he couldn't even meow, just laid in one spot not moving and barely breathing and in extreme pain. His lungs and heart sounded exactly like (b) (6) before he died, slow and labored. (b) (6), I took him to the vet at 8am and had him euthanized. He was almost dead at that point, unable to move and barely breathing. I am certain each of my cats died from kidney failure due to the lams non-prescription urinary cat food. It is the only common denominator in each of my cat's that has passed away. I began giving (b) (6) and (b) (6) this lams in February, my first bag was received February 9, 2019. Due to being shipped 4 bags in April by accident by chewy.com, I was also mixing this into the rest of my cats' food and now hoping no more pass away. There is no advance warning of the kidney failure other than they did not eat or drink as much the couple days before. However, I am certain that the lams must have started the decline in their kidney function long before, I just could not see it. Once the illness starts to show some effects on the cat, they are dead within 12 hours from pulmonary edema caused by kidney failure. I have 3 full unopen bags of the lams urinary, and one-half that was being fed at their deaths. This does not mean, however, that a prior bag caused the deaths. The serial number on the open bag is gone as lams prints this at the top and when a bag is opened it gets cut off and is gone with the trash. Other "illnesses" I have noticed: Last fall, prior to purchasing the lams non-prescription urinary cat food, while feeding the orange bag original lams, my cats began vomiting profusely everywhere. For two weeks this happened. I took the lams away, gave them Purina cat chow and the vomiting ceased almost immediately. I started using the lams again because I thought this was a one-time occurrence and surely the food couldn't be toxic. However, prior to the recent deaths of my three beloved cats, some of them started vomiting again. Two of my cats who did this the most often are small females and the food may have affected them worse being so small. I have since taken away the lams, replaced it with Purina, and the vomiting has stopped. This is not to say I won't have more deaths because the lams may have affected some of my other cats' kidneys as well and they just haven't yet succumbed to the damage.

EON-388464	5/22/2019 0:28	Answers Pet Food	Issue 1: Answers Pet Food is a fermented raw diet for dogs and cats. It has not been formulated to fit nutritional guidelines as per AAFCO. The company does not do legitimate research or feeding trials. There is no way to ensure any of the values found in their product guide (i.e., guaranteed analysis), because fermented products continue to ferment when they are in a sealed package, so the structural and chemical properties of the product will change, even when the product is refrigerated. Their full product guide is not online because the company is fully aware they are not allowed to advertise their full selection without getting the FDA's attention. Billy Hoekman, the company's "nutrition expert" (who has no formal education or legitimate nutrition training, and is NOT a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine) verbally admitted this during an Answers Pet Food informational meeting I attended on Saturday 4 May 2019 in Columbia, MO. Issue 2: Answers Pet Food makes explicit drug claims for their products in their "Health Guide," which can only be obtained if you email them and ask for it. Again, they are aware they are skirting the FDA's policies on this. They do not do research and do not conduct legitimate feeding trials (Bill Hoekman verbally confirmed this as well at the meeting). Issue 3: Not as pressing of a concern, but the company also makes many questionable statements about the ingredients and makeup of their products (i.e., misleading information and marketing tactics). None of the "benefits" of their products have ever been proven, but they are still making these claims. I am unsure if the FDA has any say in this, but it's concerning to me because pet owners soak it in without understanding that it's not true.

EON-388463	5/21/2019 23:24	Kirkland Signature Nature's Domain Salmon Meal and Sweet Potato Dog Food	My 7 year old Lhasa Apso/ Terrier dog has been on Kirkland Signature Nature's Domain Salmon Meal and Sweet Potato Dog Food for the past 4 years. He has never had any problems with the food and has done really well on it. However, I recently purchased a new bag of this food from Costco, and on either the evening of 5/12/19 or the morning of 5/13/19, I began to feed him from this new bag. The very next day on 5/14/19, I noticed copious amounts of white mucus covering his stool which was the first time he has ever had this issue. Periodically, my dog has a small amount of clear mucus on his stool which the veterinarian has deemed completely normal; however, I have never seen large amounts of white mucus until starting this new bag of Kirkland dog food. I continued to feed him this kibble on 5/14/19 (morning and night) and 5/15/19 (morning only), and all stool droppings from 5/14/19 through 5/17/19 (including the morning of 5/17/19) had white mucus again. My dog relieves himself twice a day. The evening of 5/15/19, I purchased a new bag of the same dog food from Costco, believing the existing bag of food at home was tainted and causing the white mucus. I fed my dog the newly purchased food on 5/15/19 (evening), and his stool slowly returned to normal and the white mucus was no longer present in the 5/17/19 (afternoon) stool dropping. Obviously, it took a few days for his system to pass the tainted food because white mucus still appeared on his feces 5/16/19 (morning and afternoon) and 5/17/19 (morning). I am reporting this incident to the FDA as I believe the quality control on Kirkland's Nature's Domain Dog Food is severely lacking presently. This is the second time my dog has had an adverse reaction due to starting a new bag of Kirkland's Nature's Domain Salmon Meal and Sweet Potato dog food. It appears that there is significant variability between

There are many case reports of this issue on the Costco website (https://www.costco.com/Kirkland-Signature-Nature's-Domain-Salmon-Meal-&amp;-Sweet-Potato-Dog-Food-35-lb.-.product.100215967.html) as well as consumer reports (https://www.consumeraffairs.com/pets/kirkland_pet_food.html) of dogs having been on the Kirkland food for many years without any problems. However, once a newly purchased bag of the same food is introduced, the dog experiences vomiting, diarrhea, or other gastrointestinal issues. I kindly ask that you investigate, and address this matter to prevent innocent and healthy dogs from being harmed. Thank you for your time and attention.

EON-388258	5/20/2019 11:48	Friskies Pate (varieties)	Our shelter houses about 150 cats, so naturally we see a lot of food vomit and hairball-related vomit. Most of our adult cats are fed Friskies wet food because we are a non-profit and it is cheap. We try to stay up to date with recalls and complaints and have noticed (April+May) a lot of complaints from consumers saying that their cats (even the ones that have been doing fine on Friskies for years) have suddenly started vomiting and having diarrhea. It looks like batches 1157 and 1159, including some double stamped cans (which we have a LOT of) were the possible culprit. Even when reaching out directly to Friskies to address these concerns, they provide the standard response of "there are no quality issues with any of our products." We want to make sure we take the necessary precautions when serving this food to our cats. Some batch numbers also have different expiration dates, which might be normal, but I'm not sure. Any sort of information or actions you may have taken would be appreciated. We are now keeping an active lot of vomiting instances as of last week.			Domestic (unspecified)	Cat

EON-388096	5/17/2019 22:20	Evolve Lamb Formula Dog Food	I opened a can of Evolve Lamb Formula Dog Food on 3/29/19. There were what appeared to be black chunks/pieces in the food. I also found a small fiber, which I didn't think much of. I slowly went through the entire can and the black was completely throughout. Like chunks of motor oil EVERYWHERE. The largest black "piece" I found was approximately 1/4 inch in size. I felt the "pieces" and they were not hard. I guess it could be described as the same consistency of the food. Just mush. I then found another "fiber" approximately 1/4 in length. It appeared to be plastic. I immediately called Evolve (made by Sunshine Mills with an address in Alabama but they had closed at 3pm. So I emailed evolvepetfood.com. I still have not received a response. I did take numerous pictures in hopes I could email them to Evolve but I did not have the option. This food was not expired and was stored at room temperature as it is in the store. (Once I open a can, a cover is put on &amp; it gets stored in the refrigerator). Stamped on the bottom of this can was Sep 7 21 TELDS1 04:58. I did not throw the food out right away in hopes that I would hear back from Evolve. It has since been thrown out. I now have 5 additional cans of food with the same issue. 2 of them are open, as I had to check the contents. They are in my refrigerator. The other 3 are sealed...I didn't bother opening them because they all have the same Date, Code &amp; Time Stamps (Times are minutes apart) printed on the bottom. I purchased all 6 cans of this food at (b) (6) located at (b) (6) They were purchased on different dates. I have receipts for 4 dates. I'm not positive which dates apply to each can. 4 Lamb were purchased on 2/10/19, 1 on 2/23/19, 3 on 3/13/19 and 2 on 4/20/19. I am absolutely positive that 2 of them were purchased on 4/20/19. I did email Evolve again from their website but have not heard back to this day. There have been instances in the past where the Lamb Formula had a white appearance throughout the whole can. Those were tossed too. Disgusted with the Lamb Formula. It's scary to think some dogs may be eating this. Who knows what it is. It's really really bad.

Following feeding, our parrot began to breath heavy and lost her voice (~March 27th, 2019). As far as we can tell, the only difference in our bird's routine was this new bag of food, but we cannot be certain the food caused the illness. We made an appointment with (b) (6) (b) (6) completed gram stain test for droppings and a CBC panel plus Aspergillus test (April 4). We were sent home with a general antifungal/bacterial and bronchial dilator. At this point, we switched our bird to Roudybush bird food. Within one week, we received the blood test results, which showed negative for Aspergillus and within normal range for CBC. Gram stain test didn't show anything significantly worrisome. However, our bird's health continued to decline and she began to have trouble defecating. We returned to (b) (6) on April 10 for a follow-up visit. During this appointment, we had our bird x-rayed. Upon x-raying, the vet found 4-6 pieces of metal in our bird's gut (see radiograph). Our bird was then prescribed DMSA, a chelator for the metal, and psyllium to help pass the metal. We saw some improvement in her health and started to feed Harrison's Bird Foods again. Our bird then declined in her ability to pass feces, ~1 week into starting her on DMSA. During a follow-up appointment in (b) (6) we completed another x-ray, which showed a lower number of metal pieces (2 pieces) in her gut (b) (6). The ability to pass feces was attributed to pain in passing the metal particles. (b) (6) we found our bird at the bottom of the cage and hardly breathing. We took her to (b) (6) where she was given oxygen/heat and another x-ray was taken (3rd x-ray). In this 3rd x-ray, more than 2 metal pieces were present in her gut, perhaps smaller than those seen on May 7th. She was then administered another chelator. Our bird was unable to make it through the day, likely due to metal toxicity. She passed on (b) (6).	17	Years		Other Birds	81	Gram

EON-387785	5/15/2019 10:04	Hill's Science Diet Hairball Control Adult 1-6 Savory Chicken Entree	I found foreign material--what appears to be part of a rubber tube that has been torn from the rest of the tube--in a can of Hill's Science Diet Hairball Control Adult 1-6 Savory Chicken Entree. It came from a case with a best before date of 09/2020. Every morning, I split a can between two small glass dishes with lids for my two cats. This morning when picking the dishes back up to refrigerate leftovers, I noticed one cat had eaten around or bit a piece off of something that was buried in the food. I washed it off to get a better look, and it appears to be a rubber hose or tube of some sort. Of course, I am very concerned that my cat may have swallowed part of it or ingested some other foreign material today or when ingesting other cans of your food. I cannot remember if I bought this case from Petsmart in (b) (6), or Feeder's Supply in (b) (6), as I shop at both places.

EON-387749	5/14/2019 16:44	Purina Puppy Chow Healthy Start Nutrition Tender & Crunchy With Real Beef & Rice	We ususally order dog food through Chewy. We ran out about a week before our Automatic Shipment was due so I stopped in at a local Wal Mart and purchased a bag of Purina Puppy Chow Sunday evening, May 12th. I went home and fed it to our female Saint who is lactating, all 8 of her puppies ( 4 weeks old), and our male Saint. Every one of them began vomiting that night. Our male Saint has been vomiting since that night. It is now Tuesday and he is still vomiting off and on. He has vomited roughly 12 times. Our female Saint ate more of the dog food as she is lactating and has a higher caloric need. She has been vomiting since Sunday night as well and has vomited around 30 times since then. All of the puppies ate some of the dry food, they are still depending mostly on their mother for nutrients. They also have vomited but only about once or twice each. I called Purina yesterday and let them know of the issues with our dogs. They offered me coupons and said they would forward the information to their Quality Control. I asked them what they were going to do for my dogs since I would have to at least take my female to the vet because she was severely dehydrated. I was told to consult with my vet. I told the company representative that it was their dog food that made our dogs sick and that I had no idea how much it was going to cost for the vet bill. I was told that he didn't know how to answer that. I told him that I wanted him to find out. He put me on hold and then eventually the company survey started playing so he basically hung up on me. We did take (b) (6), our female to the vet and the vet told us it was most likely caused by contaminated dog food. She was injected with fluids because of her dehydrated state, and prescribed 3 different medications. Our vet told us to watch her and the other dogs and bring her back in if the vomiting continued as often as it had been. We were also told to bring in the other dogs if their vomiting increased. Just the 2 hours she was at the vet's office she had vomited 3 times. I am not exaggerating the number of times she has vomited. We did not take our male in as he hasn't vomited as often as our female and he has managed to keep some water down. We also started heart meds including taurine supplementation. (b) (6) had a severe cardiac arrhythmia episode caused by her DCM, December 24, 2018 and went back into the emergency hospital. A heart arrhythmia drug was added to her regimen. She has know made it 1 year after being diagnosed with DCM. She has made huge improvements with diet change and medications. She just had a follow up Echo and EKG on 5/13/19. There is no sign of heart arrhythmia and her F/S and Ejection numbers were the best they have been since diagnosis. We are unsure if her DCM was caused by diet, but our vert specialist and cardiologist feel there is a good chance it was caused by her diet of grain free food.	11	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	78	Pound

EON-387471	5/11/2019 12:16	Rachel Ray Nutrish Real Chicken and Veggie recipe	Wednesday Night, I bought a bag of Rachel Ray Nutrish and gave it to my dog Thursday morning. On Thursday night when I came home from work, he had urinated in his cage and the has not done that since he was a puppy. Friday morning, I gave him another bowl. I worked from home on Friday and he was very needy all of a sudden. Friday night (early Saturday) he started having multiple seizures. I called my vet. When they called me back, they told me about an emergency vet service across town. I took him to the emergency room after he had another seizure. On the way over he had another and this time he pooped all over himself. They started an IV to give fluids. They kept him in the back for a while and ran blood tests. Whey they came back, they said his liver and electrolytes were dangerously low. They wanted to him overnight and I told them I would watch him and to just tell me what to do. We went home with the catheter still in his leg just in case I had to come back. They gave me Keppra for the seizures, but said it was not epilepsy, but it would stop the seizures. He had a small one by the time I was giving him his second dose at 2 am Sunday morning, but that was it. He started eating the people food diet they gave me at the ER. Monday he ate people food, but his ability to walk diminished. I had to teach him how to take the stairs again. I called the vet to make a follow up. She called back Wednesday and we set up an appointment for Friday. I wrote down everything since so much was happening (mobility problems, sniffing a lot, not responding quickly, refusing to eating, only drinking water and losing weight). I bathed him everyday due to his urinating on himself repeatedly. When I was at the ER, she said it was poop in his vomit. He ate no poop because I watched him closely and all of his stools were orange and runny. That morning before his vet appointment, I went to the car dealer and came back to my dog soaked in foul smelling urine. I picked him up and he felt so light. Got him to the vet and I told them that I noticed blood on the rag and his hair was falling out. The assistant thought it was a hot spot until she notice it was all sores and blood under his hair in about 70% of his body. The vet did a anal test and blood was all over the glove. I asked him like I asked at the ER could dog food do this because (b) (6) started this strangeness after eating on Thursday. He asked the kind of food and said it is possible. My dog's eyes were almost like pen points. The vet said we could try to chase this thing whatever it was, but I knew he was trying to spare my emotions. I asked if I would have to put him down, he told me it was up to me, but all he could do was try to figure it out and possibly give antibiotics and tasty food, etc. I opted to put him down because he had suffered for over a week and it was not getting better and it was a new symptom everyday. It is no doubt in my mind that (b) (6) organs were all shutting down that Saturday and continuously progressed (liver, bowels, bladder, muscles, etc.).	3	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	48	Pound

So there are several thing i need to report. 1. They are prescribing expired drugs to animals and i brought it to their attention and I was pulling all the expired drugs out of the pharmacy and taking them to the manager daily, but there still are expired drugs being scripted out daily. One of the Drs hollared at me ((b) (6) one day saying i needed to leave the medications alone and that they are still good even though they are expired. And she made comments on a daily basis when she needed a medication to give to a client and we was out. She would say in front of the techs there that o they have been pulled off the shelf by someone who doesn't know what she is doing . 2. We compounded drugs everyday all day and not in the proper sanitary ways. Anyone could do it and not wear gloves or be in a specific well ventilated sanitary spot. None of that mattered they do not care. 3. The xray machines/table is open to the treatment area so everyone is being exposed to radiation that is in the treatment area including the clients they let walk thru and back there. The individual radiation badges that belong to all the techs and Drs are hanging beside the xray table and thats where they stay all the time never moved even when someone is taking a xay they never grab their badge. Mater of fact im the one that told the manager that we needed badges not everyone had one so she did get everyone a badge but left them hanging right beside the xray table, also they dont use the xray gloves at all never and the techs and drs put thier hands in the xrays alot of the time just to get the image of the pet. I could no longer work there and be exposed to this unhealthy enviorment and be invloved in the expired drugs being scripted out. (b) (6) also stared marking out the expiration date if it was expired like the stongid t bottle was one that might still be there if yall get someone there asap pull the stongit t and look she marked out the expiered date and put her own..... this has been going on since i started

EON-387431	5/10/2019 18:40	Merrick Purrfect Bistro Chicken Pate	Upon opening the can of food there was a momentary smell of something spoiled. The smell dissipated within seconds so I fed the cat the food. She usually really likes this food, but didn't finish her bowl that morning. I opened another can the next morning and the smell was a little worse, but again dissipated fairly quickly. The cat ate a small amount, but refused the rest of the bowl. I have now taken both to the vet and one of them was hospitalized for 2 days and the other was luckily sent home with medications. The vet, myself and my fiancé have all narrowed it down to the food because it is not a virus and they are both sick with throwing up, diarrhea and sever dehydration which started Monday after we got a new bag of the Beneful Originals Beef Saturday. This is very upsetting, and I plan to report this to the FDA as well and I will provide pictures of what has occurred. He was sedated with midazolam and phenobarbital overnight. Labwork at the time of presentation included blood tests showing a moderately elevated blood glucose which at the time was attributed to stress response. The following day after further questioning of the owner, she described PU/PD of several months duration, so diabetes was suspected. A urine sample was collected. The dog was heavily glucosuric. A blood glucose was rechecked at that time, the dog was normoglycemic. Again after further questioning, the dog had eaten 'Golden Rewards' chicken and duck jerky several times a week for several years. It was reported that this was the dog's favorite treat. The dog's neurologic status never improved significantly, he continued to require phenobarbital to control facial seizures and even then they continued to occur. Over the initial 36hrs, he also developed a progressive loss of conscious proprioception in all 4 limbs and was unable to stand or sit. In the following 24hrs he lost deep pain sensation in his hind limbs. His vet said, we can stay on it but we decided to investigate other options and started the transition to Farmina chicken in October 2018. He injured his leg in August and we went to the orthopedic vet in October 2018. The orthopedic vet thought she heard a murmur and off to the Cardiologist. He did take episodic NSAIDs for his injury from August 2018 through May 2019. A very focal murmur was noted on echo but the major concern was the left ventricle-enlarged, decreased function and decreased cardiac output. The findings could be consistent with early DCM We continued the transition and then added the recommended Taurine of 1000 mg twice daily and 1250 mg L-Carnatine 2-3 times a day. We returned to Cardiology 5/6/19 for a repeat echocardiogram. The echo revealed normal left atrium dimensions, mild (but improved) left ventricle enlargement. The myocardial function returned to normal parameters for both the left ventricle and cardiac output. The assessment statement suggests diet has played a role in his cardiac health. Our vet noticed a new heart murmur that had not been previously detected and did an xray which showed a very enlarged heart. He ordered a cardiologist consult and an EKG which was done on May 2, and showed advanced DCM. The vet will be drawing blood for a taurine test on May 3 and he has been prescribed 3 heart medications and his food has been changed to a non-grain free version. In reading an article at http://vetnutrition.tufts.edu/2018/06/a-broken-heart-risk-of-heart-disease-in-boutique-or-grain-free-diets-and-exotic-ingredients/ it suggested reporting it to the FDA in hopes of helping find a cause. Our vet is (b) (6)	11.5	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	90	Pound

EON-386760	5/3/2019 15:36	Pedigree High Protein	Opened new bag of Pedigree High Protein Beef and Lamb dog food on ~ (b) (6). All 6 of the dogs ate the food, 3 had to be euthanized, 1 was hospitalized for 3 day and recovered. On (b) (6), (b) (6) stopped eating food and only wanted water (extreme thirst); he was lethargic, laid down in his crate, and unstable when walking. His condition plummeted on (b) (6) afternoon into the evening, and he was rushed to the animal emergency at which time he had to be humanely euthanized at ~12:01 am on (b) (6). On (b) (6), (2) more dogs, (b) (6) and (b) (6) stopped eating and only wanted water (also extreme thirst). Both were also became lethargic, wanted to just lay down, and were unstable when walking. Both dog's condition also began to plummet significantly Saturday evening into Sunday morning. At approximately 4:30 am (b) (6) both dogs were rushed to a different emergency facility, where both dogs also had to be humanely euthanized at ~6:00 am because they were violently ill. Upon returning home from euthanizing the 2nd and 3rd dog, a 4th dog, (b) (6), rapidly deteriorated in a matter of 2-3 hours. Over those few hours, he began to exhibit similar symptoms as the other (3) that were euthanized. At that point (~9:30 or 10 am), he was also rushed to the 2nd emergency facility to the same vet that had euthanized (b) (6) and (b) (6). His Sodium levels, and RBC count were excessively high (along with some other numbers). He remained in the hospital until the evening of (b) (6). Dogs 5 and 6, (b) (6) and (b) (6) did not exhibit any symptoms, although both eat significantly less food, Atlas did vomit the food at least once within 1 minute of eating. Symptoms exhibited among all (4) dogs were eerily similar, yet slightly varied.	14.5	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog	70	Pound

I purchased Rachael Ray Nutrish Peak Wetlands Reecipe with real chicken and duck in hearty gravy for my cat at Pet Smart in (b) (6). The item is the 2 ounce single serving. Best by date is September 12, 2019. The code underneath the date is PT8052B WC29. UPC Code is 71190 00193. The item broke open in the bag. When I went to put it away, there were live white worms crawling in the bag and in the cat food. They were about .5 inches in size. I took a video on my phone of them. Reported it to the store and the distributor on the back of the can. Answorth Pet Nutrition, LLC Meadville, PA 16335 to their medical hot line as it was past business hours.

EON-386611	5/2/2019 10:32	BLUE Sensitive Stomach Chicken & Brown Rice Recipe for Adult Cats	To whom it may concern, (b) (6) has always been a picky eater. Even worse, she refuses to chew her food, often swallowing it whole. Many brands of pet food produce kibbles that are too large for her to comfortably eat. When we discovered the small kibble size of Blue Buffalo's Sensitive Stomach formula, we were excited to try it. (b) (6) seemed to love the taste. Aside from the occasional can of wet food every 2-3 months we give her as a treat, (b) (6) diet was completely switched to BLUE Sensitive Stomach. When (b) (6) first got sick, we suspected a UTI. Although we are meticulous about her litterbox, and can even be considered overbearing pet parents, pets get sick sometimes. It wasn't until our veterinarian started asking us more questions about her diet that we ever suspected her food could be causing her to get sick. Crystals were discovered in her urine and a grade 3 heart murmur was heard upon examination. Before this emergency, (b) (6) had never exhibited any signs of illness. We treated her symptoms and switched her food. After two and a half weeks, she was back to her normal self. The heart murmur is still present but is a grade 2. Now, months later, we have noticed an increase in her energy. We are extremely upset that Blue Buffalo, a company that markets itself on	5	Years	Domestic Longhair	Cat	7	Pound

			being a healthy choice of diet, caused our cat to become sick. If our vet had not experienced this with other patients, we would not have known to switch her diet. It is suspected that an excessive amount of calcium in the food over time caused the crystals in (b) (6) urine. At the very least, we would like to be reimbursed for (b) (6) medical bills ($1,389.07, this has been submitted to BLUE Buffalo for review) and for BLUE Sensitive Stomach to undergo thorough testing procedures to ensure that this does not happen to another family. Please see the attached documents relating to bills, exams, and lab testing. Thank you, (b) (6)

EON-386604	5/2/2019 9:20	Merrick Grain Free Wingaling	I purchased a can of Merrick Wingaling dog food for the first time yesterday. I opened the can and was dishing it into my dog's bowl. I saw a big chunk of white chicken meat that I looked different than the other meat in the can. It was large so I wanted to break it up before putting it into my dog's bowl. When I broke it up there was a 2" chicken bone in the middle of the meat. If I hadn't broken up the piece of chicken, my dog could have choked on the bone. The bone looked like the larger of the two bones you usually find in a chicken wing. I will take a picture of it and add it but don't know how to do that with this report.
