

JOIN OUR TEAM!

ACCOUNTABILITY • COMMITMENT • COMMUNICATIONS
DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION • INTEGRITY AND RESPECT • QUALITY

At the Food & Drug Administration (FDA), Office of Regulatory Affairs (ORA), you can make a difference in protecting the health of the American people. ORA has an ongoing need for qualified individuals with backgrounds in health-related sciences, engineering, regulatory policy, information technology, and many more!

ORA inspects regulated products and manufacturers of foods, drugs, and medical products, conducts sample analyses of regulated products, and reviews imported products offered for entry into the United States. ORA serves as the eyes and ears of the agency through its network of consumer safety officers and laboratory analysts and occupies virtually all agency field offices and a significant presence in headquarters.

INCENTIVES

While your service will make a significant public health impact, at ORA, employees may also enjoy benefits that include: student loan repayment, paid federal holidays, paid annual leave, sick leave, flexible work from home schedules, affordable healthcare and insurance, an inclusive and diverse culture, reasonable accommodations, merit system principles, attractive retirement programs, mentoring programs, paid training, and professional development tools and resources.

ORA HIGHLY SOUGHT POSITIONS

Consumer Safety Officers

Emergency Response Coordinators

Chemists

Project Specialists

Biologists

Management Analysts

Microbiologists

Program Support Specialists

Criminal Investigators

Recall Coordinators

and many more!

Check www.fda.gov/orajobs for current vacancies

GENERAL TIMEFRAME TO SUBMIT AN APPLICATION

Most job announcements only allow for a limited timeframe of five days and may allow for a limited number of applicants; therefore, it is important for applicants to visit USAjobs regularly for the latest job announcements.

HOW TO FIND JOBS AND APPLY

Visit www.USAjobs.gov/help to learn how to:

