Inventory Management Update for Pfizer Hospital Rocky Mount Products

Dear Customer,

On September 25, 2023, Pfizer announced that it had restarted the majority of its manufacturing lines at the Rocky Mount, North Carolina facility following severe damage from a tornado that occurred on July 19. Following restart, Pfizer is now in an improved supply position on select Rocky Mount presentations. As a result, Pfizer will be making several adjustments to the presentations included in our emergency order process—originally put in place to manage inventory on a small subset of Rocky Mount presentations of high medical need—to reflect their improved supply status.

Specifically, the presentations listed in Table 1 below will be added to the emergency order process. Supply of these presentations was previously depleted and, with new releases anticipated, we believe incorporating these presentations into the emergency order process is the most responsible approach to enable equitable distribution during the period in which product releases have restarted, but there is not yet sufficient inventory to adequately support full market demand.
