Dear Valued Customer,

After careful consideration and evaluation of market dynamics, we regret to announce the discontinuation of two products from our portfolio. This decision was not made lightly and comes as a result of declining demand and sales for the products listed below.

Despite our efforts to maintain their availability, the decreasing number of procedures for which these products are used has made it economically non-viable for us to continue production. We understand the impact this may have on your practice or institution, and we sincerely apologize for any inconvenience.
