

Investigating Crimes that Endanger Public Health

Who We Are

The Office of Criminal Investigations (OCI) investigates crimes involving FDA-regulated products, including foods, drugs, medical devices, and tobacco products.

Office of Inspections and Investigations

Our Mission

To protect the American public by conducting criminal investigations of illegal activities involving FDA-regulated products, arresting those responsible, and referring cases to the Department of Justice for prosecution.

Our Frontline Work

- Over 180 special agents in 6 field offices and 7 resident offices, covering all 50 U.S. States and Territories.
- Obtain and execute arrest and search warrants.
- Investigate and gather evidence related to alleged criminal conduct falling within FDA's jurisdiction.
- Partners with other federal law enforcement agencies to bring to justice those engaged in unlawful activities involving FDA-regulated products.

Our Public Impact

- More than $41 billion recovered from fines, restitutions, and forfeitures in the past 30 years.
- 166 arrests and 142 convictions in Fiscal Year 2024.
- Investigate public health threats facing the American public, such as opioid crisis, counterfeit and adulterated products, contaminated foods, and health fraud.
- Work with international partners to disrupt cross border threats targeting Americans involving FDA-regulated products.
