EON-616016	6/29/2025 15:04	Friskies Seafood Sensations	Involves two cats with the same symptoms. This has been going on for about 3 days, but today with one cat it became distinct and there was no other food out. I think it is a toxic contamination, perhaps mold on corn, in the dry cat food. Back legs become weak and wobbly, and it lasts about an hour.			Maine Coon	Cat

EON-616009	6/29/2025 11:52	PetKind Lamb & Lamb Tripe Formula	My 3-year-old spayed female pug was diagnosed with dilated cardiomyopathy (DCM) after showing signs of abnormal breathing. Following X-ray and echocardiographic examinations, the diagnosis was made based on the opinions of both the primary veterinarian and a cardiology specialist. While the exact cause has not yet been definitively confirmed, her diet history suggests a high possibility of nutritional DCM. From around one year of age until recently, she had been fed a grain-free diet containing legumes such as peas and lentils — specifically, Petkind's Lamb Formula. Currently, she has been switched to a therapeutic grain-inclusive diet and has begun oral heart medications along with taurine supplementation. Her condition is under close observation, and we are carefully monitoring her progress. Her littermate was also fed Petkind until about one year of age, but was then transitioned to a urinary care formula. As of now, no cardiac abnormalities have been observed. Neither dog has any known genetic predisposition to heart disease. I believe this case should be considered as a potential example of food-associated DCM.	3	Years	Pug	Dog	6.4	Kilogram
EON-616007	6/29/2025 11:32	Authority's Everyday Health Puppy Dry Dog Food- Chicken & Rice	I found nail screws inside the 30 pound bag of Authority Puppy Food. That bag has only been opened and used by me, and I have scooped up 3 nails already and the bag is not even half used. The first nail I saw was in my puppy's plate yesterday after she ate, and I thought she had found it somewhere in the room. But today, when I was going to feed her, I scooped up the food with another nail screw between the pellets. I took it out, looked in the bag and saw another nail screw inside. My puppy hasn't shown any signs of swallowing one, but I'm afraid there could be more nail screws inside.

EON-615967	6/28/2025 11:08	Wholehearted Grain Free All Life Stages Beef & Pea Formula Dry Dog Food	(b) (6) is half german shepherd, quarter pit bull, quarter chow. Has been on Wholehearted Grain-Free Beef & Pea dry kibble his whole life based on personal recommendation we were given when we first got him as a puppy. First noticed symptom was dry cough ((b) (6), (b) (6) was 2 years and 11 months) which about 1-2 weeks later became increased in frequency and productive. Possible he also had bloating, as he is underweight after having fluid drained, the fluid might have previously given the appearance of a healthy weight. Was taken to vet for cough and given antibiotics and allergy medication. When cough became productive, was kept solely on antibiotics. Over this course of time (b) (6) became less interested in food, becoming nearly anorexic after about one week with productive cough. Was taken to vet that day (had previously eaten other dogs' kibble, this was the point he stopped that), and X-rays revealed his heart was twice the size it should be and a large amount of fluid in abdomen. Was hospitalized, had fluids drained, was treated and put on medication. Is currently being monitored at home.	2	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	60	Pound
EON-615959	6/28/2025 1:40	rachel ray nutrish salmon and brown rice dry food, Rachel Ray Nutrish natural food for cats ocean lovers variety pack. Rachel Ray Nutrish natural food for cats chicken lovers	My one year-old cats have been on this food for about two weeks. The third shipment of the food was due to come in tomorrow, July 28, 2025. I noticed on July 26, 2025 late night my female was acting weird. she wasn't moving and she was extremely bloated. I kept an eye on her. She was still moving around at that point July 27, 2025 when I returned home from work, she would take a step and then just lay down. Her stomach is completely hard all the way around there is no give, and she just doesn't feel well. She's not eating and she's not moving a lot. My boy I noticed symptoms on him this evening which is July 27, 2025. He was very lethargic acting.	1	Years	Domestic Longhair	Cat	14	Pound

EON-615877	6/26/2025 19:24	Ol' Roy Complete Nutrition Small Bites Dry Dog Food Chicken & Rice Flavor	I purchased a bag of Old Roy dry dog food from Walmart. Within 24 hours of eating it, my first dog, (b) (6) began vomiting repeatedly, drooling, acting confused, and hiding under furniture. She seemed scared of me and withdrawn, like she was trapped in her own head. She laid by the front door for hours at a time like she wanted to leave the house. She completely lost interest in food, and even the smell of it made her nauseated. The symptoms came and went in waves, and it was a total shift from her normal behavior. We took (b) (6) to the vet and paid $300 for the visit. The vet ruled out parvovirus and other infections but said it was likely "something she ate." No further diagnostics or treatment plan was offered. Now, five days later, (b) (6) is just beginning to pull out of it. She's still recovering, but there's been slow improvement since we stopped feeding the Old Roy food and switched to a bland diet. However, two days after (b) (6) got sick, our second dog, (b) (6) who had also eaten the same food, began going through the exact same progression: vomiting, drooling, lethargy, food aversion, and hiding. He's currently two days into it and getting worse, but we can't afford to take him to the vet like we did with (b) (6) and I personally bottle fed (b) (6) at 3 1/2 weeks old I nursed him feeding him every hour on the hour because his mom stopped feeding him. When he came to me he couldnt walk all he could do is scoot in circles. I didnt plan to get him my daughter brought him to me because she didnt know what to do and knew i had experience in it. He is part of my family and I cant help him. So I hope something comes out of this report. There was no diarrhea in either dog. The symptoms appeared both gastrointestinal and neurological, with fear-based behaviors, confusion, and sudden personality changes. The only common factor between them was the Old Roy food. I believe this food may be contaminated—potentially with mold toxins or harmful chemicals—and I'm reporting this in hopes of preventing harm to other pets.
EON-615876	6/26/2025 19:04	Purina ONE SmartBlend Large Breed Chicken Flavor Natural Dry Dog Food - 31.1lbs	I am writing to express my concern regarding a recent purchase I made on June 20, 2025, of Purina ONE SmartBlend Large Breed Chicken Flavor Natural Dry Dog Food – 31.1 lbs. Upon opening the bag today, I discovered that the contents were entirely covered in mold. The kibble appeared gray throughout, indicating significant contamination. Upon inspecting the packaging for a sell-by or expiration date, I located a production date of August 7, 2023. This suggests that the product has remained on the shelf for nearly two years, well beyond what would be considered an acceptable timeframe for dry dog food. The batch number listed appears to be 71965883, although it is partially obscured and may be difficult to read accurately. This item was purchased at the following location: Target (b) (6) I do have photos if needed.
EON-615867	6/26/2025 16:44	Beneful brand dog food IncrediBites just for small dogs	I opened a can of Beneful IncrediBites from Purina. It had a pull tab. And when I broke the seal, it exploded. Pet food flew out. When I inadvertently turned the can to the side, nasty white liquid ran out. The smell was horrible. I put the can in a plastic bag and placed it on top of the outdoor trash can. Ants very quickly began gathering on the bag. So I put the bag in a sealed plastic bag. The bag will not be disposed of until Tuesday morning (July 1). I still have the two unopened cans in the three-can box. I will put them in the garage until I hear back from you to see if you want them. Cans were purchased June 18. Opened on June 24. Expiration date on cans says "2027"
EON-615842	6/26/2025 14:04	Fresh Pet Small Bites Beef & Egg Recipe with Green Bean & Sweet Potatoes	Owner reported to CVM/CCC the following: On 6/25/25 owner opened a new sealed bag of Fresh Pet Small Bites and discovered it was full of white and green clumps of moldy food. The bag was newly purchased (6/24/25) and well sealed, with no tears, holes or rips. Owner notified Fresh Pet and Walmart.
EON-615783	6/25/2025 21:32	Purina One True Instinct High Protien	I have 3 dogs so I tend to go through dog food. I decided to stock up on different brands of large bags of dog food. I opened a new bag of Purina dog chow that had been stored for a month, only to be met with web like nests inside and a bunch of bugs crawling around inside. Needless to say, I can't give my dog that food so it's a waste of a 30lb bag. I was startled to see how many bugs had grown inside the bag of Purina dog food. It makes me concerned about how many of their bags have bug larvae inside and that I might have fed my dog since he's been eating Purina for 7 years now.
EON-615780	6/25/2025 20:20	Salmon Chanted Evening Stew	I fed my cats their usual dinner which was a single can of canned wet food, divided up into fourths. All four of my cats started vomiting within 5-20 minutes of eating dinner. My cats seemed fine afterwards but it is highly unusual for my cats to vomit anything up, let alone all 4 of them vomiting nearly simultaneously.			Domestic Shorthair	Cat

EON-615772	6/25/2025 17:00	A Strong Heart For your Pets Brand Cutsin Gravy with Beef	On July 23, 2025, I received a shipment of dog food from Amazon consisting of a case of 12 cans. Upon opening the package this morning, I immediately noticed that one of the cans appeared abnormal—it was noticeably taller and bulging at both ends, indicating a possible issue with internal pressure or contamination. I promptly attempted to contact the manufacturer and left a message with their customer support requesting an immediate call back. I also reached out to Amazon; however, their automated system was only able to issue a refund and did not provide a way to escalate this serious matter. Given the potential risk to animal health, I am extremely concerned that this may indicate a broader contamination issue affecting the entire batch. Out of an abundance of caution and care for the safety of our pets, I believe this matter warrants urgent investigation and may necessitate a product recall.

EON-615737	6/25/2025 12:52	Zuke's Mini Naturals	I opened a new bag of Zuke's Mini Naturals and gave them to both of my dogs (b) (6) and (b) (6) over the course of Memorial Day weekend (May 24-26). Both dogs started eating grass and vomiting on May 24 after consuming the Zuke's treats. They both vomited on and off all weekend. No other dietary or medication changes occurred during this time. I stopped the treats and gave the dogs a bland diet for a week which resolved the vomiting. The Zuke's were given to the dogs again on June 1, and both dogs started vomiting again, and this lasted for 3-4 days. I put both dogs on a bland diet again for a week, and the vomiting stopped. I stopped giving the dogs the Zuke's treats, and they have been fine since. I think this is a bad lot number (I purchased 4 bags at once, and they all had the same lot number), and I still have the bags. Lot # 4067UP1013 10:38.	10	Years	Dachshund (unspecified)	Dog	12	Pound
EON-615735	6/25/2025 12:48	Purina One True Instincts With a Blend of Real Turkey and Venison	Owner called CVM Complaint line and provided the following information: (b) (6) – Owner took all 5 dogs to their vet for boarding, with a new, sealed bag of Purina One, True Instincts Turkey & Venison. The bag appeared intact and did not have any holes/rips/stains. Product delivered from Amazon. (b) (6) 16 yr. old 35lb., F. Lab/Border Collie mix. Spayed, UTD on vac. OK health for age, recent vet visit. (b) (6) 10 yr. old, 100lb., F. Huskie, Spayed, UTD on vac. Good health, recent vet visit.. (b) (6) 3 yr. old M. Great Dane, neutered, UTD on vac. Excellent health, recent vet visit. (b) (6) 4 yr. old F, Great Dane, Spayed, UTD on vac. Excellent health, recent vet visit. (b) (6) Unknown, not reported. (b) (6) – Dogs and remaining food picked up from boarding. By the evening of (b) (6) – (b) (6) started vomiting, mucus. Continued vomiting (b) (6) (b) (6) 7 a.m. (b) (6) appeared to be in respiratory distress. Owners regular vet was not available until later in the day, so (b) (6) was taken to the emergency vet ((b) (6)). (b) (6) presented in severe respiratory distress with stridor suggestive of laryngeal paralysis. Significant muscle wasting and cachexia present. History of vomiting for past three nights with possible aspiration. Given advanced age, severe debilitation, and respiratory compromise, prognosis extremely poor. Euthanasia. (b) (6) – (b) (6) vomiting, lethargic. (b) (6) – (b) (6) taken to Vet. Diagnosed with fever 105.4 deg., dehydration, vomiting, lethargy. Hospitalized, fluids, labs, meds for vomiting. (b) (6) – (b) (6) temp at 108.2 deg. Family notified to come say goodbye, within ½ hour (b) (6) passed in hospital before family could arrive. (b) (6) – (b) (6) developed vomiting. EON-615730	6/25/2025 12:28	Purina cat Chow complete with salmon	I purchased a bag of cat food that had large wood pieces and small pieces of splintered wood. I noticed this while I was dumping the bag of cat food into a separate container that I keep that can be sealed for their food. If I hadn't noticed this, my cats would have been exposed to serious toxins, from the treated wood, even straight up poisoning. They could have gotten splinters in their mouths, their throats, all the way down to when they poop it out, and their buttholes. For a cat to eat splintered wood, it can cause serious digestive problems, it can cause internal bleeding, and death. Usually it results in having to have some sort of a surgery or procedure or even putting your animal down.

EON-615580	6/23/2025 22:48	Purina Pro Plan sensitive skin and stomach salmon and rice	On May 9, 2025 we received 2 40lb bags of Purina Pro Plan adult sensitive skin & stomach salmon & rice formula dog food. This was purchased from a third party on the Walmart site by the name of Guja Limited. We started noticing bugs around May 23, 2025. When we went to open the dog food bag on June 9, 2025, we realized where the weevils were coming from. The bag was infested with weevils. We placed both bags in the garage and informed the seller that we were sold 2 bags of weevil infested dog food. The seller has refused to believe us and has accused us of lying. Our concern is that there may be more purina dog food bags being sold with weevils. Our food pantry did not get infested because we store our dry goods in glass jars.

EON-615467	6/23/2025 2:24	Purina Beneful Originals	We started a new bag of Beneful dog food, several days in to the bag our yellow lab/husky mixed dog began having diarrhea and stopped eating. She continued to have diarrhea for five days. After about 3 days it was just brownish water coming out of her, then she would continue trying to go.. but nothing was coming out. We had stopped the Beneful, on day 1, but on day 3 when we thought she was better we gave her a cup. She ate it right down in the morning, then about 8 hours later started the diarrhea again. After five days she was very dehydrated and tired. On day 6 we started her on home cooked dog food. She has now recovered we believe. It has been one week since the last diarrhea and her stools are back to normal and strength is almost recovered. The dog food bag does not have an "expiration date"; it has a "purge date" of 3/10/2025- but we purchased the bag from Target on 5/11/2025 in a "pick-up" order at the door.	7	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog	60	Pound

EON-615439	6/21/2025 19:56	4 Health Salmon & Potato Formula FOOD FOR ADULT DOGS	Bought a bag of 4 Health Salmon and Potato from tractor supply on Thursday, June 19, 2025. We have been feeding all 3 of our dogs this exact flavor and brand for over 6 months and never had an issue. I fed my dogs like normal, thursday evening. By friday morning, one of my dogs, ((b) (6)) is throwing up, having severe diarrhea. Later that night she is dripping large amounts of blood out of her rectum, and throwing up and continuously have bloody diarrhea. We end up rushing her to the Emergency Vet, it is around 3AM Saturday, June 21st at this point. and $1,023.10 later, we find out the food was no good and gave her severe stomach issues that she now has to take 6 different medications for and hoping the at home medications work, if they don't work then she'll have to be hospitalized. I brought the bag back to tractor supply and explained everything that happened, they offered to replace the bag. which I didn't do because i don't want another bag to be bad and get any more of my dogs sick.	4	Years	Poodle (unspecified)	Dog	52	Pound

EON-615386	6/20/2025 13:00	Chicken Cuisine 14 x 350g bags Beef Mash 14 x 350g bags	My dog has experienced three separate incidents of severe vomiting and diarrhea after consuming NOM NOM fresh meals. I purchased a meal plan that included both beef and chicken recipes. My dog is not allergic to any of the ingredients listed in the meals and has previously consumed similar ingredients from other brands without issue. Importantly, she does not react to every NOM NOM meal, only specific packages, which strongly suggests a problem with inconsistent product quality, packaging integrity, or temperature control during delivery. Each incident occurred shortly after consumption of NOM NOM meals, and symptoms resolved only after stopping the food. I am concerned about possible spoilage, contamination, or packaging failure. Due to the risk to my pet's health, I have discontinued use of the product. NOM NOM customer service has refused a refund and has not taken accountability for the issue.	4	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	25	Pound
EON-615314	6/19/2025 4:48	Koowill Inc. Groovies Cat Dental Treats	I'm writing with a serious concern regarding your Groovies Cat Dental Treats, which I purchased around June 1st, 2025, from PetSmart. I gave the treats to my 20-year-old senior cat, and within just a few uses, I discovered that he had lost a large tooth. This was extremely distressing, especially since he has not had any prior dental issues, and the only recent change in his routine was the introduction of your product. EON-615313	6/19/2025 4:36	Blue Buffalo Wilderness Rocky Mountain Recipe with Red Meat and Antioxidant-Rich LifeSource Bits (Puppy)	I recently bought a 22 pound bag of Blue Buffalo Wilderness Rocky Mountain recipe with red meat (puppy). I could not understand why my dogs would not eat all of their food: they usually eat other Blue Buffalo products with no hesitation. I thought they were not feeling well and proceeded to get the bowls of uneaten food to bag. Then, I saw the kibble "move". I swirled the bowl around, and out came WORMS!!! Their bowls of food had contained worms in the kibble! I was so mad, that I took the bag back to the store where I bought it from. They refunded me and said that I was not the first person to return the food because of worms and/or beetles!!! They recommended sending an email to Blue Buffalo, etc. Said their other customer also took their dog to the vet to get checked. I did not know what kind of worms were in the kibble, so I took a baggie to my dogs' vet. I wanted to make sure my dogs would not get sick or worse. The vet said to throw out the food - was not 100% certain what kind of worms were in the bag and to watch the dogs carefully the next few days. He ate a mix of their Turkey, Chicken, and Beef recipes, and had no prior health issues, no access to table scraps, trash, or dietary indiscretion. On June 1, 2025, he began vomiting, became lethargic, stopped eating, and showed signs of abdominal pain (prayer pose). He was diagnosed with pancreatitis by my veterinarian, (b) (6), and placed on prescription gastrointestinal food. His symptoms began to improve only after discontinuing The Farmer's Dog food. I've spent $751 in vet bills so far. I've also spoken with multiple other dog owners who experienced nearly identical issues after feeding this product. EON-614978	6/13/2025 12:20	Happy Howl Lamb Delight 100% Human-Grade Wet Dog Food 14.6-oz box pack of 3	I am filing a complaint regarding a commercially sold pet food called Happy Howl Dog Food. This product contains ingredients that raise serious safety and nutritional concerns for canine health: Oregano – A known toxic herb to dogs in certain forms and concentrations (especially essential oil or extract). The company does not clarify how this ingredient is used or at what dosage. Flour and canola oil – Low-quality filler and oil not considered ideal for canine nutrition and rarely found in premium dog food. I raised these concerns via the company's public Instagram page in a respectful and fact-based comment, and my account was promptly blocked by the company. Rather than responding to a genuine consumer safety inquiry, they chose to hide the feedback, suggesting a lack of transparency and potentially deceptive behavior. As a licensed attorney, I believe this warrants investigation under FDA regulations for: Potentially unsafe formulation Failure to provide full ingredient transparency Blocking public complaints that raise animal safety concerns This company's practices may mislead pet owners into believing the product is vet-approved or safe, when that has not been established. Given the inclusion of a potentially toxic ingredient, I urge the FDA to investigate this product's safety and labeling for compliance with federal pet food regulations.

Next day still lethargic, distended belly, not passing feces, refusal to eat and starting to become dehydrated. Took him to the vet again. Gave him sub Q fluids and pain meds and sent him home. Next morning painful belly to the touch, and extremely lethargic overall very sick. Rushed to the emergency vet. Diagnosed with a stomach blockage going into the small intestine. Emergency surgery preformed. They pulled out the Northwestern Dogfood and what appeared to be dirt, however he hadn't had access to dirt. We have the blockage saved and frozen. After surgery when waking him up his airway swelled and they could not get it secured. They had to do 2 separate surgeries to try to open his airway both unsuccessful. He remained sedated for 2 days to maintain his airway. The 3 surgery would have been a tracheotomy. He had been through so much and we were now in $24,000 in vet bills. They have no prior health issues. The morning before we noticed a ton of puke on the ground and thought it was just a hair ball (never happens). But now we know they were getting sick after we fed them the Tiki cans. They now won't eat or even go near the tiki cans, they know something is off. I looked it up on Tik Tok to see if anyone was experiencing this as well and I found a couple videos about the exact same issue. I had no idea Tiki was bought out by a new company. I think this is why they are getting sick now.	4	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	14	Pound

EON-614685	6/10/2025 7:44	Tiki Cat Born Carnivore Indoor Health Chicken & Turkey Meal Dry Cat Food	Within a day of opening the new bag of cat food all five of my cats began vomiting excessively and having severe diarrhea. They couldn't even hold it and were having diarrhea all over the house. This is not a normal occurrence and has never happened before. My cats are strictly indoor and vaccinated. They are never exposed to feral cats. My cats were at sever risk of dehydration because of this. Also, I can't afford to take five cats to the vet all at once over this.	3	Years	Sphynx	Cat	7	Pound

EON-614625	6/9/2025 13:40	Purina ONE SmartBlend Healthy Weight Formula Dry Dog Food	To Whom It May Concern, I am writing as a very concerned and heartbroken dog mom to report a serious issue with a bag of Purina Weight Management Dry Dog Food that I purchased recently. I ordered the food through curbside pickup from Target, and upon arriving home, I opened the bag to top off my dogs' food container like I always do. As soon as I opened the bag, I was overwhelmed by a foul, rotten odor. At first, I genuinely thought there was a dead animal inside—it was that bad. When I looked inside, I was absolutely horrified. The food was crawling with worms, filled with dirt, and infested with moths and webbing throughout the kibble. It was clearly contaminated and spoiled far beyond anything remotely acceptable. This isn't just a quality issue—it's a health hazard. My dogs are my children. Feeding them something this unsafe could result in serious illness or even death. I am beyond upset, and honestly shaken. I work hard to ensure my pets get the best care, and I trusted this product and the brand. Now I am terrified at what might have happened had I not caught it in time. This situation demands immediate attention. The presence of worms and moths points to contamination somewhere in the manufacturing or storage process, and it's unacceptable for this product to be reaching pet owners' homes in this condition. I strongly urge the FDA to investigate this batch of Purina Weight Management Dry Dog Food, track where this breakdown occurred, and take swift action to prevent this from happening again. We rely on your oversight to keep our pets safe. Please take this complaint seriously and do whatever it takes to make sure other pets aren't put at risk. Thank you for your time and attention to this matter. Sincerely, A Concerned Dog Mom

EON-614592	6/9/2025 10:24	KIRKLAND NATURES DOMAIN SALMON AND SWEET POTATO FORMULA FOOD FOR DOGS	We discovered active mold on several pieces of food from the bag we recently purchased. We have been using the same brand and formula for many years without issue, so this was alarming. Our dog experienced excessive diarrhea for several days, which we now believe may be related to the contaminated food. The moldy pieces were not immediately visible, as most of them were buried within the middle layers of the bag. We only noticed the issue after using the bag more frequently and digging deeper into it.	6	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	85	Pound

EON-614405	6/6/2025 9:24	Hills Prescription Diet food sensitivities Z/D Hydrolyzed chicken flavor	Hills pet has changed the ZD prescription diet canned dog food to a new formula without notification to consumers. They have a Facebook site, and a website where they could have made announcements. I received my auto-ship yesterday & noticed a change to the label & when I opened the can the dog food was a different texture & color. followed up to see if other owners had noticed the change only to find multiple comments detailing dogs becoming terribly sick wretching and a horrible smell in their homes from the food. Hill's Pet Nutrition didn't have the decency to inform their customers. What are the changes made ? Including an 'active biome plus multi benefits bundle' which includes prebiotics and antioxidants..... those familiar with prebiotics know that they can in some instances wreak havoc with a digestive system. I contacted Hill's directly & the response I received was they apologize for any frustrations..... hills should be held responsible & this new improved formula needs to be removed and the "original" formula returned.

There were no new changes environmentally or food wise except the new bag of dog food. Not realizing it was the food causing the issue, I had switched my other dog (b) (6) (pitbull) to the food on Tuesday (6/3) and he had since had excessive diarrhea and this was the only change to his diet as he was on a different food previously.

EON-614328	6/5/2025 8:08	Purina Friskies Seafood Favorites Wet Cat Food Variety Pack 5.5-oz can case of 32	I purchased Purina Friskies Seafood Favorites Wet Cat Food Variety Pack, 5.5-oz can, case of 32 from Chewy.com. Upon opening 2 of the 3 boxes, there were 3 cans in one box, and 5 in the second that were damaged and leaking. The cat food was rancid and emitting a foul odor. The boxes were in perfect shape, no dings, dents, rips, tears, etc and the damaged cans were not located on the outer edges of the packaging. All of this info leads me to believe that these cans were packaged this way from the packing plant. Pet food has doubled/tripled in price in the past few years, so having to throw away several cans of food is wasteful and expensive.

EON-614319	6/5/2025 7:52	Zignature Duck Formula Limited Ingredient Formula	On May 22, 2025 I opened a new can of dog food (Zignature Duck Formula) and as I scooped out the food for my dog I saw a sizable Black Ball/Lump in the food. It was Definitely a FOREIGN OBJECT. I have been feeding my dog this same Duck food (light brown in color) for a year and never saw this in the food before. It appeared to be a Round Moldy Lump, a little bigger in Diameter than 1/4 inch and it was all clumped together in a ball shape, approximately the size of my Dog's eyeball. I took out the Foreign Object and put it in a clean plastic bag and refrigerated it in the event Zignature or Pets Global wanted me to mail it to them. I didn't feel the can of food was safe for my dog and I didn't feed it to him - he is my (b) (6), he has saved my life (b) (6) so far and I rely on him 24/7 - I didn't want him sick from that Foreign Object. Then I immediately notified via email the Zignature and Pets Global Companies that same day on 05/22/2025 about this Foreign Object but their Representative named (b) (6) treated this like IT'S NO BIG DEAL! (b) (6) emailed me on 05/22/2025 stating "it's just Alfalfa meal... And we've had no complaints or problems with that batch." That left me questioning this problem even more because Alfalfa is light brown or green, not BLACK. I wrote him back asking more questions about this Foreign Object because I questioned the validity of his answer of "Alfalfa meal" and (b) (6) said he'd "check with Quality Control" on May 28, 2025 and get back to me BUT HE HASN'T - he never contacted me again. I went to the Pet Store to get a different brand of food for my dog and told the Pet Store about the Foreign Object problem and they said they'd speak to the Zignature Field Rep. I have not heard from Zignature since 05/28/2025.

EON-614235	6/4/2025 8:32	Native Pet Omega Oil	I purchased Native Pet Omega Oil fish supplement for my dog, considering the manufacturer indicates its perfect for all pets, ages and breeds. The company claimed it was beneficial for skin and coat. Within 1 day of spraying the recommended dose on my dog's food, she starting bleeding from her nose. I continued to give this oil to her, because I never imagined this would cause her harm. After 2 days of her nose bleeding, I noticed she also started developing purple bruising on her belly. I ended up taking her to an emergency animal hospital, where she has remained for 2 days now, costing $4,000 (minimum). The vet told me sometimes this disease is spontaneous, but also made sure to write down any new shots, supplements or vitamins she was taking. I told him she has not received any shots or medications, but she started this Native Pet Fish Oil 1 day prior to the bleeding. He told me while its not super common (from his experience) it is ABSOLUTELY possible that this caused her injuries. He told me to stop using the oil indefinitely. After researching on my own, I discovered that fish oil can cause spontaneous bleeding in dogs due to the oil's ability to disrupt platelet function. There is more than enough research out there that suggests this causes injury, and Native Pet does not list any potential side effects on their advertisement or labeling for their oil. I purchased this particular product on Amazon, and I printed the advertisement for this sale, and there are no listed potential side effects or warnings. I believe this caused my dogs injuries, and she is still fighting for her life in the ICU at the vet clinic. I need other people to be warned about this, and this product to be taken off the shelves. I also read 100's of other reviews of this same product on Amazon, and hundreds of other dogs were suddenly ill, lethargic and injured after consuming this.	11	Years	Pug	Dog	25	Pound

EON-614077	6/2/2025 10:52	Amazon Basics Dog Hip & Joint Chewable Tablets (on caps) WAG Probiotic Supplement (on bottles)	I purchased a pet supplement, Amazon Basics Dog Hip & Joint Chewable Tablets (120 Count, Duck Flavored), from Amazon.com (Order #112-3086840-6611427) on 29 May 2025. The product is mislabeled: I received two bottles, and both have caps labeled "Joint Supplement" (Amazon Basics Dog Hip & Joint Chewable Tablets), but the bottles are labeled "Probiotic" (WAG Probiotic Supplement). This double labeling in both bottles suggests a batch or lot issue and poses a serious safety risk for my dogs, who need joint support due to their joint issues, not probiotics. Administering the wrong supplement could harm their health and worsen their condition. Any person can think one of the labels is the right one and administer the product to their pets with bad consequences. Amazon confirmed that Amazon Basics is the manufacturer but dismisses the problem, refusing to take responsibility, refund, or replace the product, citing a freight forwarder policy (https://www.amazon.com/gp/help/customer/display.html?nodeId=G201910550). As the manufacturer and distributor of supplements, Amazon's lack of accountability is concerning and should be investigated. I can provide photos of the mislabeled bottles to show the discrepancy between the caps and bottle labels, as well as my purchase confirmation. I request an investigation into this safety defect to protect other pet owners from potential harm.

I took him to the vet to see his Veterinarian named (b) (6) at (b) (6). She asked me what kind of what was (b) (6) (my dog) eating. I told her that (b) (6) was eating Whole Paws, Grain-Free Dry Adult Dog Food, Ocean-Caught Whitefish & Sweet Potato Recipe. Heres is the link to the food: https://www.wholefoodsmarket.com/product/whole-paws-whitefish-sweet-potato-recipe-dog-food-64-oz-b07yfcgdg1l & the Dr asked me if the food had grains and/or beans. I told her no grains in the food and than its had PEAS, & GARBANZO BEANS as the 4th and 5th ingredient. The Dr said that in small dogs though DCM is rare she seem worried and suggested blood work for my (b) (6) Dog. So we drew (b) (6) blood and checked for DCM (AKA) Dilated cardiomyopathy (DCM). Sadly, my sweet baby doggie was diagnosed with DCM because he levels of Cardiopet proBNP from his blood draw are 1,105 when they should be below 900. The work up stated that, "Cardiopet proBNP 901 - 1500 pmol/L Abnormal. NT-proBNP concentration is compatible with increased stretch and stress on the myocardium. Clinically significant heart disease is likely at this time. SO now we are getting Additional diagnostics including thoracic radiographs, electrocardiogram and echocardiogram are recommended to diagnose and assess severity of cardiac disease and we are getting Taurine levels checked. I am also meeting with (b) (6) Board Certified Veterinary Nutritionist who went to (b) (6). I was told by (b) (6) vets to report Whole Paws, Grain-Free Dry Adult Dog Food, Ocean-Caught Whitefish & Sweet Potato Recipe that (b) (6) has been eating for three years which has beans and peas way up on the ingredient list. These need to be removed and whole foods needs to stop killing dogs. This is horrifically irresponsible to say the least. Please help me and meg dog. They both had x-rays, blood work, and my chihuahua had an ultrasound in addition to confirm the diagnosis. I have been feeding grain free 4Health Sensitive Skin since 2021 to all 3 of my dogs. After we took her to the vet to run tests and all tests came back normal. The vet provided a special easy digestive food and once we started feeding her that, she stopped throwing up. Before we figured out the cause, we tried giving the food to our second cat, who immediately threw up after eating the food. We also happened to have family with another cat staying with us for a few days. They reported that their cat had thrown up after being over and it is a young cat who has never thrown up. This cat had eaten a few times from our cats dishes. As soon as we removed this type of cat food from all their diets, they were all fine.	11	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	12	Pound

EON-613775	5/29/2025 8:44	Purina Beneful Healthy Weight	I purchased a 48-pound bag of "Beneful Healthy Weight" dog food on March 22, 2025, from Sam's Club in (b) (6). I didn't give it to the dogs right away as I had enough of their usual food to last a few weeks. I have purchased this same Beneful product in the past and would gradually mix it with their current food so they wouldn't experience any sudden change. Sometime towards the end of April I started mixing the Beneful with their regular food. This process usually lasted about a week so around the first week in May the dogs had just Beneful. I noticed they didn't take to it as they normally do but they would eventually eat it. Both dogs started having stomach issues; they would eat grass all the time and you could hear a lot of stomach noises. On May 7th we came home from a medical appointment for my wife and one of the dogs had had diarrhea. I wasn't sure which one at the time. I noticed they both had diarrhea when going outside. On May 9th, (b) (6) had a bloody discharge, but I wasn't sure if it was vomit or diarrhea. It was quite a bit of fluid and blood, so I took her to the vet. I knew it was from (b) (6) as her bottom was bloody. She had IV fluids, bloodwork and other medications while there. She was sent home with several prescriptions and both dogs were given a diet of rice and boiled chicken. On May 10th, after (b) (6) started vomiting blood so we returned to the vet where she was given more IV fluids, medicines and xrays. She was again sent home and continued on the rice & chicken diet for about 2 weeks before she finally improved. The other dog, (b) (6) did not get as sick but had diarrhea for about a week. Both dogs are back to normal as of today May 28th. The vet could only say that the problem was something the dogs ate. As I hadn't seen anything in the yard that could have caused their issues, I assumed it was the Beneful. They do not roam and are confined to the yard or the house. I contacted Purina to let them know and all they have done so far is send me some coupons. I thought they should at least ask for some of the food to be tested so it could be ruled out.	9	Years	Black Mouth Cur	Dog	47	Pound
EON-613774	5/29/2025 8:44	Milo's Kitchen Chicken Meatballs	We gave our dog (b) (6) Milo's Kitchen Chicken Meatballs that we bought from Amazon. On Amazon- the product label did not list "garlic and onion extract". After giving (b) (6) the treats he developed severe diarrhea, uncontrollably for 48-72 hours. We went to the vet and it cost us $1000 to get negative Xrays for obstruction but there was intestinal inflammation noted and negative fecal test. We discovered these treats have garlic and onion by looking at the bag and therefore our vet told us to not give anymore as this is toxic to dogs. Gave one treat - severe diarrhea the next day on 5/22/2025. Lethargic and with no appetite. Restricted to water only until recovered. Was fine after that. 6 days later, thinking that my dog got a little stomach bug or digestion problem unrelated to the treat, I gave him one treat the evening of 5/26/2025. By the late morning of 5/27/2025 he had severe diarrhea, vomited once, and was lethargic. This lasted for 24 hours. He previously consumed a bag of these treats in a one month period, the month prior, with no issues, which leads me to believe this may be a potentially bad batch.	13	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	20	Pound
EON-613772	5/29/2025 8:40	Evolve Classic Beef Barley & Bison Dog Food and Evolve Classic Lamb and Brown Rice	Without obvious notification to consumers, Evolve Dog Food manufactured by Sunshine Mills added chicken meal, chicken flavor, and chicken fat to their Beef/Barely and Lamb/Rice formulas. These formulas did not disclose chicken on their ingredients lists previously. My dog has a severe chicken allergy, which is why I began feeding him these chicken-free options a couple years ago. Recently, he suddenly he fell ill - vomiting, panting, lethargic, developed an infection in his anal gland, and had huge hives and welts around his face and eyes. After multiple trips to the vet, we couldn't figure out the root of the problem. Until the dog food bag caught my eye and I noticed chicken on the label. I checked a previous bag I had purchased of the same exact food, and chicken was absent from the label. Somewhere between my former and most current dog food purchase, Sunshine Mills began manufacturing my tried and true dog food with chicken, and did not disclose this with any type of warning on the bag. I understand that as the consumer, reviewing food ingredients is my responsibility. But I had done ample research and determined that these beef/barley and lamb/rice options did NOT include chicken previously. The change of adding chicken to a formula that previously did not contain chicken should have been blatantly obvious to the consumer, but it was not. I am furious. My dog could have been killed. I don't want anyone else to experience such treacherous and dangerous business practices by this company.	10	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	70	Pound

EON-613659	5/28/2025 8:36	Pet Chicken Nibbles	Slowly over the past 4 months since January 23, 2025, (b) (6) has lost the use of his back legs. He has continued to decline to where now in the past few days, he falls down due to the loss of his legs. He can barely stand or walk to go to the bathroom and he whimpers in pain all of the time. After months of testing, multiple Vet specialists and not knowing what was wrong, it came back that he has kidney and liver issues. Last week, the vet determined that he has acquired Fanconi Syndrome from taking the Chicken treats - Pet Chicken Nibbles. He has taken these for 4 years. I purchase them from Amazon. We stopped giving them these treats after our vet visit last week not knowing that this treat was causing permanent damage to his kidneys. Today, I am hoping to get a treatment plan once the blood work is in from the Vet in hopes to turn his pain around so that he can hopefully, live a pain-free life, but unfortunately, there is no cure so he may or may not ever be back to normal and his life expectancy is not for certain. It's a shame that these treats are allowed on the market. Had I known, I would still have a healthy puppy and more money in my pocket from all of these vet bills.	4	Years	Terrier - Yorkshire	Dog	5	Pound

EON-613505	5/25/2025 19:12	Purina Pro Plan Sport Performance All Life Stages High-Protein 30/20 Chicken & Rice Formula Dry Dog	In April 2025 I purchased a 37lb bag of Purina Pro Plan 30/20 Chicken and Rice formula from PETCO in (b) (6). Once home I immediately transferred the food from the bag and into an airtight food container. After a few days we noticed moth's on the inside of our food container. I bagged the food up and returned it to PETCO for a refund. After cleaning and disinfecting the inside of our airtight food container, I went Pet Supplies Plus and bought a 37lbs bag of the same Purina Pro Plan 30/20 Chicken and Rice Formula. After a week in the container we again noticed moth's inside the container. I was able to kill the moth and identified it as a Meal Moth. I have returned this food to the store for another refund. Bottom line is that I purchased two separate bags from 2 different vendors and both of the bags of Purina had Meal Moth's in them.
EON-613492	5/25/2025 11:52	Crave™ High Protein Indoor Adult Dry Cat Food - Grain Free Chicken & Salmon	We have been feeding out cats the same brand/flavour of cat food for months/years (for our older cat). We received a new bag of Crave Protein Chicken & Salmon Indoor Adult Grain-Free Dry Cat Food, noticed the packaging style changes, but fed to them as usual. After a day or so, the oldest cat (~5) stopped eating it, then the younger cat, (b) (6) stopped eating it. We noticed there was no LOT number or expiration and reported to Chewy.com where we made the purchase with a replacement shipped out. Activity levels seemed mostly normal for both cats, but they refused to eat their usual food for several days. (b) (6) had issues holding down canned food alternatives, or even a fresh replacement of Crave Protein Chicken (no Salmon) that came in the same style bag as older batches we would receive. The older cat was able to eat small amounts here and there and held most of it down. We took (b) (6) to the vet because she has not eaten/held down food for ~3+ days and was losing weight. The vet prescribed Cerenia, and Pro-Pectalin, and provided a Cerenia injection at the time of the visit stating she should be able to eat in a few hours and said she will be okay. She tried early evening and threw up, but in the late evening, eventually held a little bit down. With the medication, she seemed to slowly begin to hold food down and became more comfortable. We did receive a replacement, again the same new bag style, but this time it had an appropriate LOT # and expiration date. Both cats tried the newer bag of Crave Protein Chicken and Salmon, then after a few days began refusing to eat again. We have since switched foods outside of Crave Cat Food and are trying to find one that both cats can enjoy with no gastric issues that meets their food intake needs. The (b) (6) used to be a very polite eater next to the older cat, but now she has become more aggressive about food.	1	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	8.2	Pound

EON-613489	5/25/2025 10:32	ACANA Heritage Red Meat and Grains	Approximately 2 weeks ago my dog, (b) (6) started to experience digestive issues including on and off diarrhea. We were using ACANA Heritage Red Meat and Grains. I switched him to a bland whole food diet and small amounts of raw food. After about a week his symptoms improved. I then added 1/4 of a cup of kibble with his whole food diet and the following morning my dog got extremely sick, 3/22/25. He was vomiting and diarrhea blood all over himself and his crate. I immediately brought him to the urgent care vet where they diagnosed him with Hemorrhagic gastroenteritis (HGE), also known as acute hemorrhagic diarrhea syndrome (AHDS). This is a sudden and potentially life-threatening condition in dogs characterized by severe bloody diarrhea and vomiting, leading to severe dehydration, lack of energy and more. EON-613407	5/23/2025 12:48	Primal Pet Food Kibble in the Raw Puppy formula	My 3.5 month old puppy as well as my cat both became ill from eating Primal Pet Food Kibble in the Raw Puppy formula. My cat took some kibbles from my puppy's dish and not too long after started vomiting multiple times. He has recovered after a few days. My puppy has been having diarrhea for about 6 days. We've been feeding him probiotics and bland diet to no avail. We've finally contacted his vet and he's now on prescription probiotics. My puppy has lost weight which I'm afraid could hamper his growth during this rapid development phase. I'm unable to read the full lot number. Complaint: Petco sells expired Hills Science Diet Onc Care wet food for cats with cancer. It is only available through their warehouse and 3 separate shipments were all expired. They said warehouses can't check dates. You can't reach corporate, or press office to discuss. Numbers are invalid online. Hills Science Diet said not to use and discard because the expiration date is one and a half years AFTER it is shipped. I also tried Pet Smart stores locally and they were all outdated. I have 3 female dogs (1 Boston and 2 french bulldogs) The females all eat True Instinct. They began throwing up; diarrhea and not playing. I took them to the vet and had blood work done on the female most affected. She had elevated pancreas numbers and the vet is concerned that it's the dog food since the girls all eat it. Also, all the dogs were in fine health prior to me opening the new bag of food. My vet wanted me to report this to see if there is any other reports. The bag said "Best by Oct 2026 50991082 0428 L17-82". The dogs began getting sick the day after I opened the bag of food. There was only some dehydration concerns on my dog's blood work. EON-613380	5/23/2025 8:40	Victor Classic Hi-Pro Plus Dry Dog Food	Hi, I purchased a bag of dog kibble from Mid America Pet Food's brand Victor, and upon opening the bag I noticed that there was a ton of hair baked into the kibble and all over the inside of the bag. I then contacted the retailer for a replacement. When I received the replacement bag it had the same lot number and best by date. I opened the second bag and had the same problem of hair in the kibble and all over the bag. From there I contacted Victor, who never responded. After that I contacted MAPF who responded to the email saying it was normal for meat meal to contain hide and/or hair. I responded saying that meat meal should not contain either of those, and that it went against AAFCO standards if it did. I also told them that if it had been a small or negligible amount of hair, that I could fully understand that. They would no longer respond to an email and the plant supervisor called me stating that in the winter it's hard to remove all the hair from the cattle. I don't believe the hide was in the kibble by accident. I feel as if an investigation of this company should take place to determine if this is an ongoing problem or a fluke. Based upon my discussion with the plant supervisor I have the impression that this is an accepted practice at their manufacturing facility.

EON-613376	5/23/2025 8:28	Instinct Raw Meals Chicken Freeze Dried	Letter written regarding the incident, no reply, investigation or accountability... May 7, 2025 Beau Mainous Instinct Raw Pet Food 55 West Port Plaza Dr, Suite #200 Saint Louis, MO 63146 RE: E Coli Contamination Dear Mr. Mainous, Upon being dismissed by your customer service department and my emails blatantly ignored after bringing to their attention my cat (b) (6) exposure to E coli after eating Instincts Freeze-Dried Raw Meals, I feel compelled to notify you, as the new CEO of Instinct Pet Food, as well as the vendors where we purchase our pet's foods. After a grossly negligent and inaccurate review of (b) (6) medical records I was told, "nowhere in the records does any veterinarian make this claim". Well, I'm including nine pages from (b) (6) and (b) (6) reports that concludes, (b) (6) had Gram Negative Organisms identified as Escherichia Coli. Furthermore, our other cat, during the same time (b) (6) was hospitalized, suffered from several days of vomiting, the contents, strictly Instinct Freeze-Dried Raw Meals. Doubtful a coincidence. While in the care of (b) (6) vet at (b) (6) he was treated with two types of antibiotics for bacteria in his urine, E coli. He continued on these antibiotics while at (b) (6), as well as another week after returning home. Once home, and with the assistance of the antibiotics and additional medication, his condition began to improve, he started peeing on his own and has thankfully been on the mend.	12	Years	Russian	Cat	11	Pound
			We began purchasing Instinct Freeze-Dried Raw Meals as a treat for our two boys in December 2024, not as a meal, in addition to pill pockets and Tiki Cat Chicken Consommé, both of which they had been eating for several years now. The only recent change in their diet, the addition of Instinct Freeze-Dried Raw Meals starting December 2024. The reference in (b) (6) report stated (b) (6) ate only Tiki Cat was for dietary purposes during his stay at (b) (6) per our instructions. He was there for a life-threatening bladder distention, not to eat treats. We then purchased additional Instinct Raw Food at Petco in January and in March through Chewy where the majority of our food is purchased. Making claim that (b) (6) bladder issues were due to seizures from his epilepsy, which has been controlled with medication since he was two, and crystals in his urine, from two years prior, when the report clearly states there were no crystals found in his urine, or blockage of any sort, is simply irresponsible. Had either been the case, these facilities would not have been able to insert a catheter into (b) (6) draining his bladder and ultimately saving his life. A substantial amount of testing, roughly $15K, was conducted on (b) (6) including urinalyses, labs, x-rays, ultrasound, MRI and a neurological exam. The only findings, Gram Negative Organisms identified as Escherichia Coli. We now continue to pay nearly $300 per month for the medications to assist (b) (6) to urinate and will continue to do so until deemed safe by our veterinarian. (b) (6) along with our entire family, was traumatized by this experience. Confined to a 2 x 4 cage for ten days the poor guy was glued to us for over a week once home. We drove daily nearly forty minutes one way to visit and encourage (b) (6) to stay with us and be well. My husband and I both suffered a loss in wages during this ordeal while we tried to make sense of an extremely difficult situation. Our pain and suffering were further exasperated when your customer service department placed the onus on us to test your product. A product deemed safe, yet warns on the labels, "wash your hands and bowls before and after serving".

			Denying the possibility that Instinct Raw Pet Food contaminated (b) (6) and refusal to further investigate this situation is unacceptable. The raw food should be removed from the shelves and consumers made aware that this food could contaminate their pets as it did ours. We nearly had to put this sweet, beautiful creature down which was gut wrenching and heartbreaking. A civil lawsuit will not make up for that fact but it will ensure that other families will be spared from such a tragic and stressful experience. EON-613296	5/22/2025 8:16	Purina ONE +Plus Large Breed Adult Formula Dry Dog Food	In early April I began feeding my dog from a new bag of food - the same food they have given since they became an adult. Within several days I noticed severe diarrhea and extremely soft stools being discharged. On a few occasions there was significant mucous present and fewer occasions I observed fresh blood. This continued for about one week at which point I began feeding her boiled chicken and rice and after several days of continued challenges with her feces she went to the vet. Following the vet appointment I continued feeding her boiled chicken and rice for another week, along with a Purina probiotic supplement as well as a prescribed medication. After about 4 days of this diet and medication symptoms began to improve at which point we re-established her diet (gradually of course) back to her kibble. She has been eating a full kibble diet for the past 4-5 days and over the past 2 days I observed very soft feces from her. I have not observed any mucous or blood in the past 2 days. At this point, I don't know what else could be going on besides something with her current batch of food.	18	Months	Retriever - Golden	Dog	51	Pound

I informed them (b) (6) she passed three hours after her vet appt. On (b) (6) She was diagnosed with food poisoning. She was given an IV, a shot for nausea, all her vitals were strong but she was dehydrated. She had started pooping straight blood. When my order arrives, i wrote the costumer service to get the complete nutritional analysis guaranteed (wich i always do when i try a new food). They told me that the only guaranteed analysis is the informations on the bag : protein, fat, fiber, moisture, leucine, calcium, Iron, vitamine A and omega 3. I ask back, what about the phosphorus level and all other essential nutrients that should be tested to guarantee the safety of the food (to avoid deficiencies or excess) ? They respond to me by phone AND by email that nothing else has been tested but that their food is formulated anyway to meet the nutritional levels established by the AAFCO Dog Food Nutrient profiles for adult maintenance. And also that they are FDA approve. How is it possible ? I am very concern about this. I buy this food on the base that Dr Marty is a renowned veterinarian in the USA and also cesar Millan, who promote this food too. In their advertisements, they claim that this food is a game changer in our pet's healt and that it can even improve the longevity of our dogs. On wich basis can they assert this? All people don't have the knowledge to properly evaluate the quality of what they buy, especially concerning their dodfood. They will trust eyes closed a renowned veterinarian as Dr Marty. I believe that this product could possibly be harmful to our dogs on a long term, not knowing wich levels of nutrients it contains.

EON-613028	5/19/2025 12:52	Milos Kitchen Homestyle Dog Treats Beef Sausage Slices With Rice	After a recommendation from the vet tech from my mother's dog veterinarian office, she told me to check the ingredients from a new dog treat to see if there could be an ingredient that is harmful. The dog recent;y had an annual check up and there were no concerns related to her digestive system which would cause vomiting. She identified that there seemed to be bile in the vomit. Sure enough, I have identified two substances in the dog treat sold on Amazon that are toxic to dogs. My mother (the owner of (b) (6) purchased Milos Kitchen homestyle dog treats Beef Sausage Slices With Rice last week... She began throwing up after a few days and my mother did not make the connection that i might be the new dog treats. I am visiting her my dog also developed diarrhea after consuming the treats. The nature of her yellow vomit prompted me to content the veterinarian as described above. The ingredients list garlic powder and onion extract. Both are toxic to dogs even in small amounts even cooked. Here for example is what the American Kennel Club (AKA) says about onion, below. Note that AKC says even PROCESSED POWEDERS are toxic. The AKC by the way says some thing very similar about garlic, but I am only including onion here to avoid repetition: "Onions are toxic to dogs and should not be given to them under any circumstances, according to the American Kennel Club (AKC). The AKC and other sources like Purina and PetMD state that onions can cause damage to a dog's red blood cells, leading to hemolytic anemia, a serious condition. Onions contain compounds called disulfides and thiosulfates that can oxidize and damage a dog's red blood cells. This damage can lead to hemolytic anemia, where red blood cells are prematurely destroyed, reducing their ability to carry oxygen. Symptoms of onion poisoning in dogs can include vomiting, diarrhea, lethargy, weakness, pale gums, and increased respiratory rate. All parts of the onion plant, including the bulb, leaves, juice, and processed powders, are toxic. Even small amounts of onions can be dangerous, especially for smaller dogs. It's crucial to avoid feeding dogs any form of onion, including raw, cooked, or processed onions. This is for onions... Garlic also has this impact. The Milos Kitchen Product has BOTH, and no warnings.	12	Years	Unknown	Dog	22	Pound
			Also it CLAIMs to have nothing artificial, and yet the 4th main ingredient is propylene glycol, a substance safe for humans but toxic for dogs, and which is a synthetic ingredient made from petroleum (not natural) . Here is what the AKC says: "Propylene glycol - even in small amounts - can cause poisoning in dogs. When a dog ingests propylene glycol, it can lead to lactic acidosis, which can damage the liver and kidneys. Symptoms of propylene glycol poisoning can include central nervous system depression, weakness, ataxia, seizures, vomiting, anemia, hypernatremia, and increased thirst and urination. If you suspect your dog has ingested propylene glycol, contact your veterinarian or a pet poison control center immediately. There is more propylene glycol in this product than there is RICE. That is quite a bit. Why are there THREE substances toxic to dogs in this dog treat? I have photos of the bright yellow vomit. *My concern is about the fact that these ingredients are present, both for our dogs and ANY dogs whose owners might not know or might not check the ingredients. So it has less to do with my dof currently throwing up or the vet visit, but because there are THREE KNOWN TOXINS in these treats. Thank you for helping!!

EON-612810	5/16/2025 8:00	Nulo Medal Series	I had purchased a couple cans of Nulo brand dog food within the past week, all cans looked normal from what I can remember. Tonight I had went to feed my dog & noticed a can looked dented, did not seem on the verge of exploding at all, more so as if I or my partner had dropped it. I then opened it to continue feeding my dog & it had exploded in my kitchen, extremely foul smell that took over my entire apartment, I have never smelled anything like this before. This was extremely terrifying as we then went to the internet to look more into this. We came across multiple searches explaining that this was due to Botulism which we have never heard of before. It seems this is hazardous to even humans & seeing as it had exploded infront of me, we are very worried.

EON-612749	5/15/2025 8:24	Friskies Indoor Pate Chicken Dinner with garden greens	Good day, My cat, (b) (6) has been eating Friskies "Indoor Classic Pate Chicken Dinner" for the past three years without any adverse reactions. Despite being overweight, he has otherwise been in good health. However, approximately one to two weeks ago, I began feeding him from a new batch of this food. Within a few days, he began experiencing episodes of vomiting. Initially, I did not associate them with the food and attributed it to possible overeating, hairballs, or having ingested a housefly or other foreign object. Over the weekend of (b) (6), (b) (6) vomited twice each day. On the evening of May 12, 2025, he had a particularly concerning episode in which he vomited a little blood, followed by vomiting some foam. His condition appeared to worsen rapidly — he clearly unwell. I immediately contacted a local veterinary clinic and secured an appointment for the following day. In the meantime, upon advice from the clinic, I withheld all food and provided only clear fluids. By the time of the vet visit, (b) (6) showed some signs of improvement, but he also passed stool that contained traces of blood. The veterinarian diagnosed him with gastroenteritis. While he is currently in recovery, the full extent of the damage to his health is still unknown. While waiting for the vet appointment, I inspected several cans from the new batch of Friskies food. I noticed that the smell and appearance were significantly different from what I have observed in the past. The odor was unpleasant—not exactly rancid, but notably unlike the typical smell of this product. The texture was looser than usual, and there were white bits present in the food that I have never seen before. In previous batches, the appearance of the food closely matched the image on the product label, which was not the case with this new batch. Given the sudden onset of symptoms following the opening of the new batch, the abnormal smell and appearance of the food, and the veterinarian's diagnosis, I have discontinued use of this product immediately.	5	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	23	Pound
			I am submitting this report in the interest of pet safety. I respectfully urge the FDA to investigate this matter and determine whether this batch of Friskies "Indoor Classic Pate Chicken Dinner" poses a health risk to other pets. Thank you in advance!

EON-612672	5/14/2025 8:12	Temptations Seafood Medley Flavor	through a group discussing cat treats that their cats will eat when their appetite is off, a member noticed the ingredient Red #40 in Temptations Seafood Medley dry cat treats. This coloring is prohibited in human foods because of the known health issues it causes, yet the Mars company is adding it to cat treats. Once this was made known to the group, dozens of pet owners in the group commented they were unaware of that and they had been feeding it to their cats, myself included. There is NO NEED to add artificial color to pet food as color will not make a difference to a pet. And any artificial food coloring, especially Red #40, should be banned from pet foods as they can add to the pet's health issues. Members of the group are contacting the company and will not longer purchase the treats with artificial coloring in them and will notify other pet owners they know as well.
EON-612671	5/14/2025 7:56	Hills Prescription Diet Digestive Care Sante Digestive/Cuidado Digestivo i/d stress Veterinarian Recommended (repeated in French) (repeated in Spanish) this also includes small i/d canned food	Good Morning. I'm emailing to inform you of my recent situation and to urge you to investigate the matter. On April 27,2025, My dog (a 4 year old bloodhound; female; (b) (6)) began to regurgitate some food. She was on Hill Prescription i/d dry food with the stew i/d as a topper, newly introducing ground i/d as a different topper. We were concerned, but decided to keep an eye on her. On the evening of April 28th,2025, she vomited up her entire intake of food for the day. Our concern increased as we continued to monitor. In addition, her stools would go from normal to soft and then back to normal the week prior. The morning of the 29th, she ate breakfast and immediately threw it up. We made a same day appointment with her normal vet. (b) (6) underwent three appointments that consisted of, 2 x rays, an exam, a pancreas test, 2 heavy sedations, fluids, and an ultrasound. During these two trying days, we noticed that (b) (6) would turn her head and not eat a single kibble of her own food, but still had an appetite for my mother's dog's food and her own treats. While researching I learned that in 2019 there was a recall on a variety of Hill Science/ Hill Prescription food, both canned and dry. Consequently, we gradually introduced another brand of dry food. After changing her food, we noticed the vomiting ended, her demeanor was better, and her diarrhea cleared up. She is doing well. I urge you to look further into this situation for the health and safety of your clients/ customers. Feel free to reach out with any questions. Below are the sites I used for information and the type of food she ate. Thank you for taking this matter seriously and for caring for the health and wellbeing of animals around the world.	4	Years	Bloodhound	Dog	109	Pound

She was given a variety of different medications and put on a bland boiled chicken and rice diet. Now, my other dog (b) (6) 10, Dutch shepherd mix is now exhibiting nausea, diarrhea, and lethargy. Both dogs have been on Purina Dog Chow (chicken and rice) diet for several years. This illness started when I opened a new batch of food. I no longer have the bag to obtain the lot number but it was an 18.5lb bag purchased from Walmart- (b) (6) between April 26-30, 2025. EON-612621	5/13/2025 9:56	Little Hunter Raw Lamb Recipe	The dog food brand Little Hunter advertises their dog food as gluten free but it is not. It contains brewer's yeast, which usually contains gluten. To confirm the source of the brewer's yeast, I contacted the manufacturer and they confirmed it is not always sourced from beets. This was their response below. They claim it is usually (but not always) sourced from beets, and that when it is derived from the brewing process (not if) it goes through a process to remove the gluten. No such process exists for brewer's yeast. This product should not be allowed to be labeled gluten free. It could cause hard to a pet with a genuine gluten sensitivity, or a human who purchased gluten free food for their dog in an attempt to limit their exposure to gluten. This was the case for me. I am highly sensitive to gluten and don't bring it in my house. I was very disappointed to learn this product was not actually gluten free. "Thanks for reaching out! Brewer's yeast can be a source of confusion when it comes to gluten, but the brewer's yeast we use in Little Hunter recipes is gluten-free. ?It's a deactivated yeast that's typically grown on sugar beets, not barley or other gluten-containing grains. Even when it is derived from brewing processes, it goes through a purification step that removes gluten proteins, making it safe for dogs with gluten sensitivities. As we're passionate about providing pups with top-notch nutrition, you'll never find artificial fillers, added antibiotics, flavorings, grain, gluten, synthetic vitamins, or rendered by-products in our meals."

Within a couple of days she was puking, lethargic and diarrhea. She was excessively drooling. This lasted about four days. She slept the majority of the time when she wasn't vomiting. It had not occurred to me to look up to see if there had been a recall until about the fourth day. I found conflicting information online about a recall regarding salmonella. I immediately purchased new dogfood (a different brand that she likes, I rotate three different dogfoods because she likes variety). I read online to fed her smaller portions. I cleaned her food bowl, water bowl and dog food bin and bagged the dogfood in a trash bags. She stopped vomiting that day. It took about two days before she stopped acting lethargic and not passed out on her dog bed. She finally got to a point to where she was back to herself. (b) (6) has never reacted to the dogfood that I have bought before. It has nothing to do with switching between foods for variety as I have done this for years. I wrote to Purina to ask what I should do about the dogfood and a recall. They told me there was not a recall. I gave them date of purchase and the store location. When I buy dogfood i empty the bag into a dogfood bin and throw the bag away...so I had no information on lot number. He eats 6 meals a day (1/2 of a 3oz can 4 hours a part as this helps stimulate the pancreas and help regulate sugar). Within 12 hours of the first meal on 5/3 he was exhibiting refusal to eat and diarrhea. This continued for 3 days, closely monitored by myself. Additionally I consulted with vet staff at my facility. On 5/6 (3 days later) (b) (6) vomited. Refusal to eat, diarrhea, and vomiting are symptoms of hypoglycemia, liver failure, and pancreatitis. I ruled out hypoglycemia with a glucometer as I track his sugar daily and testing is quick. His sugar was 253mg/dL ruling out low blood sugar (below 80mg/dL). In fact he was quite high. That left pancreatitis or liver failure. I contacted a vet who informed me that to her it sounded like QUOTE "he ate something he shouldn't have." I immediately discontinued use of product and now 48 hours later all 3 symptoms have resolved. Refusal to eat and vomiting were resolved in 24 hours, diarrhea was resolved in 36, and now a whole 2 days later he is behaving normally.	12	Years	Domestic (unspecified)	Cat	16.34		Pound

EON-612187	5/6/2025 16:16	The Farmer's Dog Turkey Recipe	My dog had been on the Farmer's Dog turkey recipe for approximately 3 years. We chose this one as it was the leanest option. Gradually his liver enzymes started to get elevated, the vet initially stated that this was not a concern and normal due to his age. However a month ago he started to have GI issues and loose, mucousy stools. His blood panel showed significantly elevated liver enzymes (700s) and abnormal cPLI and was diagnosed with pancreatitis. His GI issues have already subsided after stopping Farmer's Dog. Upon further researching the food, there are hundreds maybe even thousands of similar stories of owners reporting their dogs getting pancreatitis from the food. The Farmer's Dog is not transparent about the significantly high dry matter fat content in their food, with recipes over 40% dry matter fat.	9	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	20	Pound

EON-611922	5/2/2025 8:08	Rachael Ray Nutrish Natural Cat Food for Cats with added vitamins minerals & taurine. Chicken Purrcata shredded white mean chicken in sauce	I purchased Nutrish Chicken Purrcata a month or 2 ago and I purchased it again recently and it has liver in it. There is another meal called Chicken and Liver that has liver cubes in it my cat doesn't like, which now shows up in the Chicken Purrcata and there is a lot in there so half the food my cat doesn't eat. I bought 4 cases of this stuff since it wasn't supposed to have liver. I went to the Nutrish website and saw a lot of review from other people also complaining about the liver in it. I contacted Nutrish and told them about the liver, asking if they could either remove the liver from the recipe or list it as an ingredient. Liver is high in Vitamin A and too can cause vitamin toxicity in cats, which is why I think it should be disclosed for cats on special diets. Nutrish responded stating they don't put liver in it and asked me why I think there is liver in it. I sent them links to the reviews of other people commenting about the liver (or mentioned blocks or brown cubes in it) and told them it's because I saw it in there and it's on all of the ones I have opened so far. I am still waiting for a follow up response, but I just wanted to also report it so they can hopefully correct this issue.

She continued to have diarrhea for three more days where it finally resolved. We eased her back on her normal food and waited to give her treats even. On Sunday April 27th, we had given her a food topper at her evening meal. She vomited all the previous and good contents the next morning and then vomited up her breakfast after she ate it and continued to vomited every few hours all day. The vomiting finally slowed that night after she started vomiting blood. Tuesday morning she past vomited at 6 am and had only a small bit of diarrhea because there was nothing in her system. EON-611745	4/30/2025 10:16	Purina beneful originals	Dear FDA Pet Food Complaint Center, I am submitting this formal complaint regarding two separate products under the Beneful brand (Nestlé Purina PetCare Company): 1. Beneful Beef Recipe – Lot Number: LN-0913-0053-P901 2. Beneful Salmon Recipe – Lot Number: LN-0913-0046-P17 These products were fed to 4 healthy 9-week-old Cane Corso puppies on (b) (6) . Following ingestion of these foods: • All 4 puppies became sick within 24–72 hours of eating the food. • Clinical symptoms included: • Violent vomiting • Extremely foul-smelling diarrhea • Progressive weakness • Collapse resembling septic shock or toxic organ failure • Despite aggressive veterinary care: • 3 of the 4 puppies died • 1 surviving puppy is now in recovery after receiving antibiotics, hydration, activated charcoal and electrolytes Veterinary Diagnostics Ruled Out: • Parvovirus (SNAP test – Negative) • Intestinal parasites (Fecal flotation – Negative) Food Safety Testing in Progress: • Two food samples from the lots listed above are currently undergoing laboratory testing for: • Bacterial contamination: Salmonella, Campylobacter, Clostridium, E. coli • Mycotoxins: Aflatoxin, Ochratoxin, and fungal toxins	9	Weeks	Mastiff	Dog	25	Pound
			Environmental poisoning has been ruled out. Given the timing, symptoms, and recovery with sepsis-like treatment protocols, foodborne illness or mold toxin exposure is strongly suspected. It is important to note that the onset of symptoms occurred between 24 and 72 hours after consumption of the Beneful products. This window is consistent with established veterinary timelines for bacterial foodborne illness (e.g., Salmonella spp., Clostridium perfringens) and mold toxin exposure (e.g., aflatoxins), which typically present within 6–96 hours depending on dose and host susceptibility. The staggered nature of symptom severity among the four puppies is medically explainable by differing levels of exposure and variation in individual immune responses. Requested Actions: • Immediate FDA investigation into the above-listed Beneful lot numbers • Testing for bacterial and fungal contamination within those batches • Transparency on whether similar complaints have been submitted • Assistance and documentation support for further actions, if applicable I will forward diagnostic laboratory and necropsy results as soon as they become available. Sincerely, (b) (6)

By the first week of April they both had distended abdomens and little to no BM. I purchased psyllium fiber husk capsules from Walmart. This was April 8th. On April 11th I purchased Miralax and gave them that. By April 13th they still didn't go. I had to get an Uber to the emergency Vet 25 miles away from me. $800 to just see the Vet. (b) (6) was clear upon palpitations because getting into the carrier scared her enough to go along with the fiber and laxative. (b) (6) had obstipation bordering on Mega Colon. She was given an enema which produced zero results. I followed up the next day with her Veterinarian. She needed manual removal of impaction and multiple enemas. This has been a nightmare. I'm wiped out of my retirement fund. We are going to be homeless and we suffered.	3	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	7	Pound

EON-611523	4/27/2025 20:44	Taste of the Wild PREY a limited ingredient Diet	Our adopted 3 year old Cattle Dog mix (b) (6) had been with us for two years. We had a 13 year old Labrador who was Fairly inactive. He was eating a diet of Prey Call of the wild Limited Ingredient dry dog food. He had had GI problems and was switched to this food and he was doing well. We fed this to (b) (6) the entire time we had her. At almost exactly 2 years after getting her, she had to be euthanized due to heart failure. This was on (b) (6). She was an active dog who ran and hiked daily. She was DNA tested at 65% Australian Cattle Dog. Our vet thought it was super rare congenital heart problem that she says vets rarely see. No post mortem was performed on (b) (6). Her X-Rays showed a heart with thin walls and was four times it's expected size. On May 30th, 2023 we rescued a one year old pure bred Australian Cattle Dog (b) (6). She was strong and got a clean bill of health from our vet. She also began the same food (Prey Limited Ingredient by Call of the Wild) the day we brought her home. She ran daily and was very active. We take the health and well being of our pets very seriously, and the loss of (b) (6) had us even more hypervigilant. (b) (6) was up to date on check ups and vaccines. She developed a shortness of breath on (b) (6), and we attributed it to seasonal spring allergies. On (b) (6), her breathing became labored and her heart rate skyrocketed. We took her immediately to our vet, and she presented an identical heart failure as (b) (6). Dilated Cardio Myopathy. Our vet confirmed this with x-rays and ultrasound. We could not save her and she was euthanized that evening. Our vet was in shock that two dogs from our home presented the same deadly diagnosis almost exactly (b) (6). We had each of the dogs for almost exactly two years before losing them to the DCM. Both had identical diets. Our Labrador at the same food and lived to be 15 years old. He passed from old age in (b) (6). Our vet did an autopsy on (b) (6) and sent in tissue samples for pathology screening. We are awaiting the results now. Our close friend who is an MD knew both dogs well, and worked with a Veterinarian in her family to try to figure out a possible cause of this loss of two healthy dogs. She pointed us to the research about limited ingredient dog food, and specifically Prey Limited Ingredient food being a possible cause of DCM. It makes sense for our two super active dogs because we have ruled out all other causes besides horrible luck. EON-611496	4/27/2025 6:56	Purina ONE +Plus Healthy Weight High-Protein Formula	Purchased a bag of Purina ONE +Plus High Protein Healthy Weight Dry Dog Food from local Target on Thur April 10. Opened the bag on Sat April 12 and fed my dog on schedule. Sunday early morning she was vomiting and had diarrhea. She did not show interest in food the rest of the day. We assumed she ate something in the yard and fed her again on Mon April 14. We left for vacation and she was sick again on April 15 and again April 16. We put her on a modified diet of boiled chicken and rice until we could get home to the vet. She did not get sick again until we fed her another cup of the dry dog food at home on April 19. We have determined it is directly related to this specific bag of food. We threw away the bag so we only have the UPC and the first 8 numbers of the manufacturing code.	9	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	50	Pound
EON-611494	4/27/2025 6:52	Golden Rewards Premium Dog Treats Chicken Jerky	I reported this (b) (6) but I did not create account which makes me unable to check on status the FDA ICSR ID is 2175312. (b) (6) had consumed these treats for about 4 months prior to becoming ill. When we took her to the vet he did some blood work which showed her Creatinine level at 11.1 and BUN 89 which technically put her in renal failure. The vet said she had Chronic Kidney disease. She saw the vet on (b) (6), and had to be euthanized (b) (6). She had the classic symptoms-anorexia, weight loss, lethargy and vomiting. After (b) (6) passing, I did some research and discovered chicken jerky treats had been known to cause CKD. The package touts the treats as healthy with 3 ingredients-chicken, salt and glycerin. If these treats were the silent killer that took the life of our beloved dog they should be pulled from the shelves. EON-611326	4/24/2025 10:52	Slow Cooked Chicken Dish With Carrots- Ollie	(b) (6) began vomiting the night before last, and vomited twice last night. She paced throughout the night, appearing uncomfortable. She is known to eat any feces she can find. As of today, she is not eating at all, but continues to vomit anything remaining in her stomach. She is drinking more water than usual, appears droopy, and is not acting like herself. She typically defecates during evening walks, but has not defecated for the past two evenings. Last night, she was observed assuming the position to defecate, but it was too dark to confirm if she did. The owner has two dogs, and is uncertain which one is defecating. There are no coughing or sneezing signs (no CS). She is drinking a lot and has had decreased appetite for the past week, with complete anorexia starting yesterday. The owner notes she is vomiting a lot. (b) (6) diet consists of Ollie dog food – 1 cup baked and 1/4 package fresh per feeding. The fresh portion is kept frozen until opened, and a package may remain frozen for 2–3 weeks before use. She has been on this diet for a long time. Her treats include Cheerios, rabbit feces, and horse feces. She is not on any medications. Additionally, the owner noticed increased itching 3–4 days ago. EON-611323	4/24/2025 10:48	Purina Pro Plan Veterinary Diets Dental Bites Feline Treats	I gave all 3 of my cats (ALL male & neutered, 2 Domestic Shorthair, 1 Domestic Mediumhair) 7 treats each on March 27th evening. All of them are well over 5lbs in weight, the package feeding instructions say to feed 17 treats daily if the cat is over 5lbs. The product is Purina Pro Plan Veterinary Diets Dental Bites Feline. Below is a timeline of what my 3 cats symptoms were: (for easier symptom tracking I will be calling my cats - Cat1, Cat2, and Cat3) 3/25/25 - I received these treats for free at a Purina sponsored event through the veterinary school I attend. The treats came straight home with me and went into a kitchen cabinet that same evening. 3/27/25 - Fed all 3 of my cats 7 treats each in the evening. By the end of that evening Cat1 was acting lethargic, threw up 3 times (1 consisted of partially digested food, the other 2 were foamy bile), and at bed time Cat1 was not interested in water or food. 3/28/25 - Cat1: Throughout the day Cat1 threw up 3 more times (same consistencies as the evening prior), was not super interested in food or normal treats, ate a little food and drank a little water, and was not as playful. He also had some diarrhea that evening. Cat2: Started fine in the morning and by the early afternoon threw up what looked like all of his food from that morning and the evening prior. He threw up around 14 times that afternoon & evening, consistency started as partially digested & undigested food with a very dark tinge to it, consistency then was dark brown liquid for a few more throw ups, then he kept trying to drink water and was then only throwing up what he had drank in water or just foamy bile liquid. He also was not very interested in treats, but ate a little of bland wet food for dinner. He was also not as playful that day. Litterbox habits were not noted. Cat 3: threw up one time, almost seemed as if was from scarfing down food to fast because it was all undigested. He was his normal self outside of the one throw up incident.	3	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	10	Pound
			3/29/25 - Cat1: Was back to almost normal, still a little weary of food but ate a good portion of normal amount, no other abnormalities noted. Cat2: Threw up a few more times, seemed a little lethargic, kept trying to eat a little food and drink water, Litterbox habits were not noted. Cat3: Threw up again, seemed a little off, but was back to normal by the evening. 3/30/25 - Cat1: Was back to normal. Cat2: Threw up one more time, otherwise was back to normal. Cat3: Threw up again, was completely normal otherwise. All cats are now back to normal and were never given the treats again. I have kept the package with the treats, sealed. I will keep incase you contact me and would like me to send them in.

EON-611322	4/24/2025 10:44	Stella & Chewy's Dinner Patties Chewy's Chicken Pedigree Complete Nutrition Adult Roasted Chicken and Rice	Can this information be reviewed? Per an article in truthaboutpetfood.com, there was a piece that showed the following per a consumer's report testing on random dog foods. Consumer Reports recently published results of a large pet food testing project they performed. The pet foods were purchased between December 2023 and May 2024, and were tested in April and May 2024. Consumer Reports provides testing results of protein, fat and fiber content, as well as copper and vitamin D levels. The organization also tested pet foods for Salmonella, Listeria and some mycotoxins – but those results were not provided. They did report that two raw pet foods tested positive for Listeria – Raw Bistro and Viva Raw – but again, they did not provide those results. In 58 pet foods: protein content ranged from 22 to 61.8%. fat ranged from 9.6 to 54.3%. fiber ranged from 0.6 to 5.6%. copper levels ranged from 10.1 to 61.8 mg/kg. vitamin D levels ranged from 252 to 14,283 IU/kg. Both the lowest and the highest level of vitamin D pet foods were out of compliance. Stella & Chewy's Dinner Patties Chewy's Chicken tested approximately 50% below the required minimum of vitamin D (500 IU/kg required minimum). Pedigree Complete Nutrition Adult Roasted Chicken, Rice & Vegetable Flavor tested significantly above required maximum of vitamin D. Regulations state 3,000 IU/kg is maximum allowed level of vitamin D in dog food, this Pedigree dog food tested more than four times higher than maximum (at 14,283 IU/kg).
			Excess vitamin D can be deadly. In a 2019 Warning Letter to Hill's Pet Food regarding excess vitamin D, the FDA stated: "According to the scientific literature, concentrations of vitamin D in dog food above 4,000 IU/kg dry matter cause signs of vitamin D toxicosis, with severity of signs increasing with increasing concentrations of the vitamin. Although vitamin D is an essential nutrient that allows dogs to regulate the balance and retention of calcium and phosphorus, when high levels of vitamin D are consumed, excessive amounts are not excreted but are stored in fat tissue and the liver. The adverse health consequences from consuming excessive levels of vitamin D can lead to kidney failure and even death." While this testing by Consumer Reports is appreciated, it is concerning that the organization did not seem to report the excess vitamin D result of Pedigree Dog Food to FDA. The organization did report the Listeria results in raw pet food to FDA; "We notified the FDA of our findings." BUT...they did NOT make the same statement of reporting regarding a potentially deadly level of vitamin D in the Pedigree dog food. Why? We hope this is an oversight by Consumer Reports, and the Pedigree Dog Food excess vitamin D levels will be reported to FDA. EON-611276	4/23/2025 15:28	GO! Solutions Sensitivities Limited Ingredient Grain-Free Salmon	(b) (6) was diagnosed with severe dilated cardiomyopathy in April of 2024. After feeding my dog for a few days I noticed she was acting lethargic, weak, and not her normal self and wouldn't eat. I started to investigate. I started with looking at the food I feed her and sure enough I found maggots. I immediately called the manufacture and informed them of the situation with the numbers on the packaging I purchased it from. I told them I may need to seek medical treatment for my dog if she didn't get better. After ten days of illness I decided I'm not going to wait anymore. I took her to the vet and the findings went along with her eating spoiled/not good food. I reached out to them to cover the medical expenses and they're refusing when it's obvious they're at fault.

EON-611143	4/22/2025 10:20	HILLS PRESCRIPTION DIET GASTROINTESTINAL BIOME	Every case of the GI Biome I was purchasing had issues with consistency, mainly excess liquid to the point I have been straining the food through a sieve to get the mucous like whitish liquid out and get enough of the food to feed him. During this time, the GI issues were continuing. I have had two vet appointments for bloody stool. They checked his stool and ruled out any giardhia or other issues and 'shrugged their shoulders'. This morning, while straining the GI BIOME Prescription food, I found a foreign object in one of the cans I strained. It is a hard wax like material, oval in shape but rough, not perfectly round, about the size of a golf ball. Serious Choking Hazard and possible toxic. I have another vet appointment this Friday...soonest vet can see me, (b) (6) rectum is red and swollen and he is now whimpering when he defecates. In addition, the other dog, (b) (6) has to be coaxed with treats to continue eating this food. I am worried that this food has made his GI issues worse. They certainly haven't gotten better. Against the vet's recommendations, I obtained a prescription dog food from Farmina. I am still waiting for it to be delivered. I have reported the many problems with the Hills GI Biome to Hills and My Vet. I believe my Vet may be receiving incentives to prescribe this food as she does not want to prescribe the Farmina which has much better quality control and overall reviews from Pet owners. I am very concerned that the Hills GI Biome has made my dog's GI problems worse and could potentially be a hazard to other pet owners given the foreign object I found this morning. I am saving this foreign object if it can be tested for toxicity.	8	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	24	Pound

He has generally been healthy, and this formula has worked well for him. The symptoms began shortly after we opened a new bag of the same product and have progressed over a 3-week span, worsening and improving in direct correlation with the reintroduction of this kibble. Initially, he developed diarrhea but was still eating and drinking normally. We removed the kibble and placed him on a bland diet (boiled chicken and pumpkin), which improved his condition. After gradually reintroducing the kibble, his symptoms returned, including diarrhea, mucous in the stool, and eventual refusal to drink water. We again stopped the kibble and switched to prescription wet food and bland diet, and his condition improved once more. However, on two separate occasions, after reintroducing the kibble, he experienced sudden collapse episodes. During these events, he appeared to be attempting to vomit, became stiff, collapsed, and urinated involuntarily. Both episodes required emergency veterinary care. Bloodwork and urinalysis showed no real concerns, no parasites were found in his stool. Despite extensive testing, no definitive medical cause could be identified—leading our vet to consider the food as a potential trigger. Because the pattern of symptoms and escalation directly correspond to consumption of food from this particular bag, I am concerned that the product may be contaminated—potentially with harmful bacteria like E. coli or Salmonella, though no testing has yet confirmed this. Let me first say, I love this cat food for my cat, Weruva BFF OMG Gravy cat food. It took a while to find a brand my cat likes and he loves this one so I don't report this lightly. But yesterday we fed him a full 2.8 oz can of Weruva OMG Gravy, Tuna and Duck flavored and about an hour later, he was making sounds we have never heard him make before, yowling cries, and appearing as though he was going to throw up. He appeared to be having trouble breathing and you could see his stomach contracting quickly. His tongue was also dark. He was breathing about 90 breaths per minute. He finally threw up and also pooped. After that he dry heaved again several times before finally calming down a little bit. But he was entirely withdrawn and didn't want to move all day. It wasn't until about 9PM that he finally moved from where he was hiding and seemed to want to eat something. He has thrown up before but usually just hair balls, no food, and he always pretty much runs around again afterwards very quickly. We have never seen him be like this before. We didn't take him to a vet because he started to get better by the end of the day, but it seemed pretty clear to us he had food poisoning. EON-611046	4/20/2025 23:24	Royal Canin Breed Health Nutrition Cavalier King Charles Adult Dry Dog Food 10-lb bag	We have used the same product - Dry dog food formulated for Cavalier King Charles Spaniel breed - since 2016. It was consistent in color, smell, size, textures, and I assume taste since then. However, there has been a drastic change in product, despite purchasing from same distributor (Chewy). The difference has increased over time, beginning in or around late 2022- 2023. The issue has compounded to the point that my dog would rather starve than eat the formerly delicious and nutritious food. The color change is stark and undeniable. There is something very wrong with this new food claimed to be the same as the former. Either manufacturer change, significant reduction in materials used to creat food or fraudulent use of former packaging while the product therein does not match what used to be in same packaging. Cavaliers, by their former in breeding, are born with numerous health issues. Thus the reason why their owners would pay suc a hefty price for the food they eat. What claims to be Royal Canine "Cavalier King Charles dry dog food" since 2023 is no longer the same product that has been marketed as such since 2016 or earlier. Please investigate.

EON-611003	4/19/2025 23:00	Pedigree tender bites for small dogs	We had 3 dogs affected, two of them Yorkshires and the other a border collie. After eating the pedigree dog food, they all had bloody diarrhea and continuous vomiting. While our border collie and one of our Yorkshires eventually recovered, our other Yorkshire only got worse. She became lethargic and we had to syringe water to her. While this was happening, it was night and all the vets were closed. We woke up the next morning to find her dead, having bled out the anus. We believe after all the diarrhea, she contracted parvo and it was too late for us to do anything. This was in (b) (6). Now today, April 18th, I am receiving word from my mother (dog owner) that our other Yorkshire is being rushed to the vet under the exact same conditions our late Yorkshire was. We have no clue if it's too late for her as well and are terrified. My mom found out many people have had the exact same thing happen to many of their dogs as well, and you can see many reviews here https://www.consumeraffairs.com/pets/pedigree.html . I have no clue if there have been previous reports but I feel the need to report this, considering my dogs are not the only ones affected.			Terrier - Yorkshire	Dog

EON-610949	4/18/2025 14:48	Hartz Groomer's Best Cat Shampoo Fresh Scent Helps reduce hairballs Hairball control	On (b) (6) around 5PM EST I took (b) (6) to the bathroom to give him his first bath since we had him. A few days before that my wife picked up Hartz Hairball Control for "CATS" and that is what I used. He wasn't even a year old yet, he was getting close but wasn't quite 1 yet. I adopted (b) (6) from our local Humane society. He was always energetic, playful, and loving. That day of (b) (6) around 9:30 PM My wife and I was getting around to go to bed. I walked past the bedroom and seen (b) (6) laying on the floor. Here I thought he was just relaxing. I do what I always go to do which is walk up to him and pet him. This time was different, This time he didn't look up to see who was coming, This time I didn't get a reaction out of him as soon as I touched him, and this time his body was instead of being relaxed was still and not warm to the touch. That is when it hit me that (b) (6) had passed away. He was up to date on everything and healthy. He was so young and full of life. I honestly have no idea why I am even making this report. I joined a group called Hartz Victims and I know people have reported Hartz to the FDA, to the BBB, and reached out to Hartz and nothing comes about it. So many people losing loved ones, Animals are part of the family to us as animal owners anyways. Hartz took that away from me. I now no longer have someone that comes wakes me up randomly in the middle of the night for me to pet him, no one to come and jump on my lap when I am sitting at my computer or on the couch, I now don't have someone that I have to prevent from eating the other cats wet food after he already gulped his down, I now don't have anyone to play with the hanging mouse toy from the door way because out of the two cats he was the playful one, most of all I now don't have a missing part of my heart because it feels so empty in side now that he is gone. He use to do this thing that I hated and I mean really hated when he was alive. He would get in one of his playful moods while I am petting him, and he would bite my skin almost like a pinch. Then he would jerk his head back and forth like he was trying to tear my skin. He never did but it always hurt a little. I would do anything to have (b) (6) pulling at my skin again. Yet I wont see justice, Hartz will continue to kill animals. This report will probably be reviewed and dismissed with no result, and ill just sit here with a broken empty heart waiting for me to recover. Waiting until I finally give up and decide that I explored all options. Please I am begging you... PLEASE HELP ME GET JUSTICE FOR (b) (6)	10	Months	Crossbred Feline/cat	Cat	10	Pound

(b) (6) my dog, has had these treats in the past without any problems. I opened this new package approximately 1-2 weeks prior to the incident and gave (b) (6) approximately 5-6 of these treats before she went into her crate for the night. Leading up to this, (b) (6) had received a few of these treats intermittently on certain days. On some of these following days, I noticed she had vomited a small amount of stomach fluid in her crate overnight, which I initially did not associate with the treats. However, on the morning of April 10th, after another episode of severe vomiting, the veterinarian at (b) (6) asked if (b) (6) had eaten anything new. This prompted me to reconsider the Zuke's treats. While they were not a new product for her, this was a newly opened package, and the timing seemed to align with the onset of symptoms. However, just recently, a company registered in Canada shipped a significant amount of pet canned foods (Germany Brands: Catz Finefoods, Granatapet) to some retailers in the US (especially California) for reselling. The shipment size is thousands of cans (but might be shipped in separate boxes on different days). Some potential locations they are sending the products to are: Southern California, and Northern California (Fremont, Newark). I have confirmed with Granatapet and they said they didn't register their products with the FDA because their products don't comply with US standards. I am confused now. Are there any changes to the policy that canned foods don't need SID/ICE numbers to be imported to the US? If the policy stays the same, how do they manage to do such big commercial shipments to the US without the proper documentation? Also, are people allowed to resell those products without SID/ICE in the US? Thank you for your time! Best, (b) (6)

EON-610594	4/14/2025 13:12	Wynwood Dog Food Co. Turkey + Sweet Potato, Wynwood Dog Food Co. Low Fat Renal Chicken + Rice	I'm writing to provide additional information regarding a report I submitted as a guest on April 11, 2025, through the Safety Reporting Portal. Unfortunately, I did not take down the full report key, but I noted down part of it as: 9061AB10-6D1. I also recorded a report ID: 444984(l). The report was regarding foreign object(s) found in a pet food product from Wynwood Dog Food Inc. Incident 1 - October 2024 (Turkey + Sweet Potato) While heating the food in the microwave, I smelled burning. Upon inspecting the food, I found a metallic piece embedded in the meal, resembling a part of a stainless steel scrubber. I immediately contacted Wynwood and provided a photo of the object. They responded apologetically and asked for the batch code, which I provided (EXP DD 09/2025). They assured me that they take quality control seriously and that all meals are tested for foreign objects, including through metal detection. Incident 2 - December 2024 (Low Fat Renal: Chicken + Rice) I microwaved the food for about 10 seconds when I witnessed a flash of fire inside the microwave. While I didn't find a visible object, the food had burn marks on the rice, and the incident clearly suggested contamination or a reaction to something in the food. When I reported this, Wynwood responded by suggesting that minerals in the diet may cause microwave arcing and advised me to use an oven instead. However, this explanation felt insufficient, especially since I've used microwaves with other pet foods and have never seen this happen. I shared my concern that this may still be due to metallic contamination or a flaw in their process. They reiterated their quality control practices—daily machine calibration, use of metal detectors, batch separation, stainless steel cookware, etc.—and stated that while rare, no system is perfect.
			Incident 3 - March 3, 2025 (Turkey + Sweet Potato) I opened a new pouch and immediately saw a shiny foreign object sitting on top of the food. I took photos and videos and contacted the company again, explaining that this was now the third time this has happened. I expressed that I no longer trusted the safety of their food and asked for a refund. Despite repeated reassurances and a detailed explanation of their safety protocols, I have now experienced three serious quality control issues across multiple batches and orders. Each time I reported it in good faith, and each time I was assured they were taking it seriously. But the problem happened again, which makes me question whether proper action was taken or whether the issue is larger than they are acknowledging. I'm submitting this report because I'm deeply concerned about the safety of their products and how it may affect other pet owners who may not spot these issues before feeding.

Low Fat Renal: Chicken + Rice Recipe	I'm reporting a recurring safety issue with Wynwood Dog Food Co. products. I have experienced three separate incidents, across different orders and batches, where I discovered potential foreign objects in the food: Incident 1 – Oct 2024 (Order #WYN155646) Batch Code: EXP DD 09/2025 While heating the Turkey + Sweet Potato meal, I noticed a burnt smell and discovered a metallic fragment resembling part of a stainless steel scrubber embedded in the food. Incident 2 – Dec 2024 (Order #WYN161742) Batch Code: EXP EB 09/2025 While heating the Low Fat Renal: Chicken + Rice meal, there was a visible flash of fire in the microwave. Burn marks appeared on the rice. While no object was found, the incident raised concerns about possible metal contamination. The manufacturer claimed minerals may have caused the arcing, but I've never experienced this with other pet foods. Incident 3 – March 2025 Batch Code: EXP CC 01/2026 Upon opening a new pouch of Turkey + Sweet Potato, I immediately saw a shiny foreign object sitting on top of the food. He has not shown any signs of concern until March 2025 and I brought him into the vet for heavy breathing, coughing, gagging, and dry heaving. After an x-ray it was determined he has an enlarged heart and a heart murmur. In April 2025, he was seen by a cardiologist and after a physical exam and echocardiogram, he was diagnosed with Dilated Cardiomyopathy (DCM): suspect secondary to non-traditional diet and Congestive Heart Failure (CHF). The cardiologist notes state: "Today's echocardiogram shows evidence of severe heart enlargement and reduced heart function consistent with dilated cardiomyopathy which has caused an episode of congestive heart failure (fluid accumulation). What I believe I got was the Adult (non-indoor) variety. Once by accident I got the non-indoor. The sizes are very different. What I got as Indoor looked just like the non-indoor. I sent pics to Hills and they sent an incredibly detailed song and dance that doesn't pass the smell test. I will attach it with pictures. I have been feeding the indoor to my cats for the past 6 years and the sizes have never varied in a noticeable way. The next bag I opened was back to 'normal'. I simply think they mixed up the product and won't acknowledge or do anything about. Worn out dies as an excuse is ridiculous given the size difference. I head out to a call my son calls and asks if he cal let her out the kennel, I replied that's fine I just needed to get out the house before she got released out the kennel so after playing getting her belly full with a half a bowl about 1cup and half he lets her out and she climbs in chair in his room for a nap before daek when we go hunting, upon my return about 1.5hrs prior to dark I'm making my way out the truck and towards the house when my son opens the back door and nudges her out and coaching her he says dad she just woke up and darted towards the door and threw up, so Ive tried to get her out here. When I see her she is dry heaving and pooping at the same time I immediately hollers get vet on line and get in car as I scooped her up we're 8 total from the vet upon arriving the emergency vet arrives about 2 minutes behind up and by this time she is hardly responsive, we pull blood X rays get her on fluids and it seems to liven her up a little after 2 hours of keeping her alert well they want to keep her overnight. EON-610262	4/8/2025 11:04	Greenies Pill Pockets	I'm writing to you as a concerned citizen and pet owner. I purchased a bag of Greenies Pill Pockets on November 16th 2024 to help administer medication to my dog when needed. The bag was stored in a cool, dry place and kept sealed with the built-in zipper. The Best By date is marked as September 4, 2025. When I opened the bag on April 8, 2025, I found visible mold growing on the treats. While I caught it before giving one to my dog, I'm worried about the potential risk this could pose to other pets. The packaging does not include any "use within X days after opening" instructions, which seems especially important for a soft, moist product that can spoil. I'm reporting this issue so your department is aware of a possible labeling or quality concern. I have attached photos to this report and am happy to provide additional photos or details if needed. Thank you for your time.

EON-610080	4/5/2025 9:40	MON2SUN Chicken wrapped vegetable bone (Amazon.com ASIN code - B0BBMN2W4D)	Bottomline - patient is suspected of having acquired Fanconi syndrome secondary to Mon2sun pet jerky treats. Presented on 2/28/25 for abnormal breathing and abdominal distension. On exam, patient was tachypneic, tachycardic, pulmonary crackles, suspected tracheal collapse, and mild abdominal distension suspected secondary to aerophagia. CBC/Chem - mild neutrophilic leukocytosis; mild azotemia (BUN 33, Crea 1.9) and mildly elevated ALP; urinalysis - 1.040 with proteinuria, glucosuria and mild hematuria. Urine culture and Lepto screening was negative. Cystatin B level was high. Abdominal and thoracic radiographs were concerning for hepatosplenomegaly, multiple urinary stones, and possible pneumonia in right middle lung. Hospitalized on IV fluids, oxygen, Unasyn, Cerenia, sildenafil, and ondansetron. On 3/2, recheck UA - 1.035 with persistent but improved proteinuria and glucosuria. BUN had normalized and creatinine improved to high normal (1.3 mg/dL). Discharged to home care that day with Entyce, ondansetron, Clavamox, & sildenafil. Referred to Internal Medicine due to concern about kidney disease. On 3/18/25, had initial consult with internal medicine. Client noted several year history of feeding Mon2sun jerky treats acquired from Amazon.com. Abdominal ultrasound revealed bilateral moderate chronic nephropathy, mild nephrolithiasis and mild right renal peri-diverticular mineralization; Mild/moderate sand sized cystic calculi; diffuse non-specific hepatopathy. Recheck lab work revealed mildly elevated ALP (712 U/L) and SDMA 14.4. Remainder of renal parameters were normal. Urinalysis revealed persistent proteinuria (UPC 0.9) and glucosuria. Cystatin B remained elevated (991). A Fanconi screening panel was submitted and results confirmed Fanconi Syndrome (positive cystine, severe amino aciduria, small lactate, moderate glucose). Recheck on 4/1 - patient is clinically well. Venous blood gas and renal values (BUN, Creat) normal. Blood bicarbonate and potassium are normal. Has persistent proteinuria (UPC 1.0) and glucosuria.	9	Years	Terrier - Norfolk	Dog	8.18	Kilogram

EON-610041	4/4/2025 13:12	Primal Pet Foods Inc. Frozen Raw Patties	Primal Pet food changed the packaging of their Dog frozen Patties in February 2025. They led consumers to believe the recipes did not change by claiming "New Look Same Primal Quality" on the front of the package. My dog has been ill since March 11, 2025 - shortly after the "simple packaging" change. Dog had uncontrollable diarrhea and muscle weakness, so I changed his diet temporarily to a bland diet to help gut. After bland diet resolved diarrhea, I reintroduced Primal Patties to dog diet. Diarrhea returned with reintroduction of Primal Patties. After 3 weeks of back and forth treatment with veterinarians, doctors say he is eating something bad making him incredibly ill. Upon further research, I found that Primal changed their ingredients without informing consumers - removing essential pre and probiotics that was present in their old formula. My dog is still ill as of 4/3/25. The pet store I purchased Primal from informed me that several other customers dogs have been experiencing similar symptoms with the new "package" change.	5	Years	Siberian Husky	Dog	62	Pound

While she occasionally vomits from eating too fast, I decided to switch her to the Chicken & Salmon recipe as a precaution, while my other dog, (b) (6), continued eating the Lamb recipe. March 25, 2025 - (b) (6) had a minor poop accident in the house around 2 PM. Later that evening, at 5 PM, she vomited undigested food from breakfast and subsequently had two explosive episodes of diarrhea. At this point, I suspected she might have eaten something she shouldn't have, but I hoped it would pass. As the evening progressed, she continued vomiting and developed worsening diarrhea. By 9 PM, she refused dinner (which is completely abnormal for her). Around 1-2 AM, she was needing to go outside every 30-60 minutes, with worsening diarrhea that soon turned into pure blood. March 26, 2025, 7:45 AM - I contacted our veterinary clinic, which instructed us to take (b) (6) to (b) (6) immediately. By this time, she was extremely weak and lethargic. She could barely stand and had to be carried to the car. Medical Findings and Diagnosis: At (b) (6) (b) (6) was admitted in critical condition. She was diagnosed with Acute Hemorrhagic Diarrhea Syndrome (AHDS) and required intensive care for three days and two nights under constant monitoring. EON-609625	3/30/2025 3:44	Wellness Core grain free Small Breed	For two day in a row, my dog became sick after eating their newly purchased food. We did not correlate the sickness and the food until the 2nd day. The first day, my dog vomitted 2x. Did not eat for the rest of the day and night. Dog regained its strength. The next day in the evening, i made my dog a fresh bowl of the same wellness dog food. Within 30-45 mins my dog collapsed, drooled, disoriented, and dry vomitted. I rushed her to the emergency room, she had extreme low blood pressure, really low blood pressure and low body temperature. Within an 1hour she coded 2-3 times and passed away.

EON-609530	3/28/2025 11:04	Nutro Natures Choice Chicken and Brown Rice Recipe Large Breed	Purchased Nutro Natures Choice Chicken and Brown Rice Large Breed 22lb bag of food in January from our local Meijer grocery store. (b) (6) has eaten this food for over 3 years now. He developed constant vomiting. He could not keep any food down at all. He was seen at an emergency vet in late January where they found nothing wrong. He was given acid meds to help with vomiting. These did nothing for him. We put him on a rice and pumpkin diet for a few weeks and then reintroduced the dry kibble. He again started vomiting several times a day. He was seen at his local vet in February and given anit-nausea meds to help settle his system. We again put him on a bland rice diet and have switched him to a beef kibble. Symptoms have started to improve. I have two little dogs, a Toy Fox Terrier, 6 yrs, female, spayed and a Chihuahua, 10 yrs, male, neutered. They both eat Nutro Natures Choice Chicken and Brown Rice small breed kibble. In an effort to not waste the 22lb bag of food we just purchased. I fed them both the large breed bag we purchased for (b) (6) (it's the same recipe, just one is smaller kibble and one is larger pieces of kibble). Both little dogs vomited this morning after eating the Nutro Natures Recipe Chicken and Brown Rice Large Breed kibble. I'm convinced the bag of food is the culprit.	7	Years	Mastiff	Dog	141	Pound

EON-609449	3/27/2025 14:16	NexGard Plus Chewables for dogs 66.1-132 lbs.	On (b) (6), (b) (6) experienced his first observed seizure at 8 PM. Though we did not witness the event, he emerged from a hallway with foam around his mouth, disoriented behavior, and growling, which was highly unusual for him. He recovered but remained lethargic. On (b) (6), he had two more seizures—one at 2 AM and another at 1 PM. We sought emergency care at (b) (6) but were turned away due to capacity, so we went to (b) (6), where he was prescribed Levetiracetam. Despite the medication and a follow up with his vet, (b) (6) condition continued to deteriorate. He became increasingly disoriented, weak, and unsteady on his feet. Over the following days, (b) (6) mobility declined further. By (b) (6) he could no longer walk properly. He became non-responsive, stopped eating and drinking, urinated indoors (which was abnormal for him), and moaned in distress. By (b) (6), (b) (6) was in critical condition, and we had to make the heartbreaking decision to euthanize him. Suspected Drug Reaction: I strongly suspect NexGard contributed to (b) (6) neurological decline. Isoxazolines, the active ingredient in NexGard, have been linked to seizures and other neurological effects in dogs. Given that he had no prior history of seizures or neurological issues, I believe prolonged exposure to NexGard compromised his nervous system.	9	Years	Bulldog - American	Dog	105	Pound

EON-609353	3/26/2025 15:32	Royal Canin Renal Support D	(b) (6) vomited and began having liquid, projectile diarrhea on (b) (6) and completely lost his appetite. These symptoms lasted for 5 days. He was eventually hospitalized on (b) (6) after multiple vet visits failed to get the situation under control. We brought him home from the hospital on (b) (6). The hospital did not test his feces, despite our requests that they do so, but his diarrhea finally stopped by the time he came home. No vet ever made a conclusive diagnosis about what caused this acute episode. We requested all kinds of tests, including ones that would indicate food poisoning, but the vets insisted they weren't necessary and were treating this as a likely progression of his IBD, which had been diagnosed amid that week's vet visits. At no point in his nearly 11 years had (b) (6) had gastrointestinal problems even remotely as severe or persistent as this. (b) (6) appetite was shot even after he came home, and it was nearly impossible to feed him anything. On a (b) (6) follow-up, we learned that his organs were so severely damaged by this episode that he could not recover. We had to have him euthanized that day. We loved him dearly and are devastated by this loss. The night (b) (6) first came home from the hospital, (b) (6) our other cat, (b) (6), vomited and began having projectile diarrhea. (b) (6) had never had any symptoms like this in his 10 years, except when he was 6 months old and had a bacterial infection at the time. (b) (6) diarrhea persisted for 7 days straight and he almost completely lost his appetite. He had always had a very strong appetite, so this was alarming. He also had multiple vet and hospital visits over that time. Again, the vets and hospital refused to test his feces for reasons that were never entirely clear to us. Finally after his symptoms suddenly stopped on (b) (6), we convinced them to test his feces. Even in his (finally normal) feces, they found a Clostridium infection. (b) (6) went on antibiotics and seemed to clear the infection, only for it to come back the week of (b) (6). It has been on again off again since then, and we will likely have to put him on aggressive long-term antibiotics to clear it. We have spent around $15,000 in the last two months to either keep these cats alive, or tragically in the case of (b) (6) have him euthanized humanely.	11	Years	Domestic Longhair	Cat	10	Pound
			Why do we strongly suspect it's the Royal Canin Renal Support D? 1. Both of them had eaten cans from the same batch before vomiting, and then beginning to diarrhea. 2. (b) (6) had had a few episodes from this batch of food where he smelled it and refused to eat (a very rare occurrence for him) -- we threw out those plates of food and fed him something else on those occasions. 3. (b) (6) had had a 1-night diarrhea episode in late December after having eaten this food. We didn't make a connection at the time, only in retrospect. 4. While (b) (6) had had some chronic issues and appetite problems, (b) (6) never did. And yet he got violently ill in the same unprecedented way as (b) (6) within days. We ruled out as many things as we possibly could, and one of the only remaining things they had in common was having both eaten food from the same batch. 5. We raised the possibility that the (b) (6) could have caught a virus or other contagion at the vet and transmitted it to (b) (6). The vet vehemently denied this possibility and insisted they hadn't seen similar symptoms going around. We are devastated that the vets didn't take our concerns seriously and test them more thoroughly at the onset of these illnesses so that we could have better idea of what caused this. Every vet we talked to said some version of this, almost as if reading off a script: "Food poisoning is rare, and Royal Canin is a good brand." All I can say to that is: Maybe it's less rare than you think -- your refusal to test for it is certainly tipping the scales though. My wife and I are 1000% sure both cats were struck with a pathogen -- even given (b) (6) chronic issues, neither cat had ever experienced anything so violent, persistent and unsolvable prior to this, and both experienced this at the same time. (b) (6) underlying issues were simply the reason he could not survive this acute illness, and were not the cause of this illness.

I purchased Taste of the Wild Pacific Stream puppy food for him. He ate an entire cup of it around 7 pm. That night, he vomited 6 times from 12am to 6am to the point he was vomiting bile. The next day, he wouldn't go NEAR the Taste of the Wild food, but was hungry and would happily eat other things (his old food and chicken and rice). I am certain the food was what caused him to vomit.	10	Months	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	65	Pound

EON-608508	3/19/2025 16:52	The Farmer's Dog Beef	He's had (all 3 of my dogs) anxiety, diarrhea, severe weight loss for many days on & off (on & off for the diarrhea, anxiety almost all the time, weight loss ongoing). They all eat the farmer's dog food. The farmer's dog emailed me Saturday, 3/15 to throw away all beef packs of food (26 in total) that my dogs have been eating and I haven't been given much of an explanation why, other than they noticed that the food missed a process check before shipping and said it was a moisture content that was off. I'm having a hard time believing that's true, since all of my dogs have been very ill recently and can't believe they would have you discard very expensive food for moisture. I have kept several food packs, in hopes of testing to hopefully get it tested and hopefully get to the bottom of all of my dogs illness before more decline. EON-608137	3/16/2025 18:52	ORIJEN BEEF RECIPE Stew with shredded beef and eggs	I am writing because I believe I have a contaminated can of wet dog food. We have been using ORIJEN food for almost 3 years. One of my dogs eats the dry food along with wet, my second dog eats just the wet food as a topper and my third dog does not eat orijen food as she is on a strict allergy diet. On Friday, 3/14/25 - I opened a new can of wet food. I fed it in the morning as a topper to 2 of my 3 dogs (one 51 lbs, one 20 lbs). Into the day my 20 lb Frenchie began vomiting (very unusual). Through the day he proceeded to vomit 5+ more times. We went into (b) (6). Because Urgent care needed to close, we only did radiographs not bloodwork at this time. Once I returned home Friday evening, my 51 lb Husky vomited (also abnormal). We went to bed and woke up Saturday morning to my husky having thrown up 4 more piles in the night. He continued to vomit and began vomiting up blood. We went back to Urgent care and I brought my frenchie back at their request for bloodwork. Both dogs received radiographs to rule out foreign bodies and blood work as well as fluids and anti nausea medication. The veterinarian could not find any medical reason for them both to fall ill. The only correlation was the new can of dog food that they both ate and my third dog did not and she had zero signs of illness. It was ORIJEN BEEF RECIPE.	11	Years	Bulldog - French	Dog	20	Pound

EON-608008	3/14/2025 10:48	Nestle Purina Beneful healthy weight	(b) (6) hadn't been able to keep her food down for about a week. Then I noticed her stool was very runny and sticky so we took her to "(b) (6)" located at (b) (6). They did an Xray on her and told us that they didn't find anything wrong and just gave her an antinausea shot. That visit cost around $380. Over the next few days she wasn't vomiting anymore but her stool was still very runny and sticky. So we tried to call (b) (6) again in the afternoon of 3/12/2025 to have them check the Xrays again and they said that they would call us back, which they never did. So the morning of 3/13/2025 we decided to take her to another vet "(b) (6)" located at (b) (6). They did there own Xray and found that the connection between her stomach and intestines was almost completely closed off due to inflammation and diagnosed her with having stomach cancer. That visit cost over $700. They prescribed her some medicine to help her with digestion. So now I'm probably going to have to have my dog who i care so deeply for put down, and I have no idea how I'm even going to afford the veterinary bills I've gotten just for them to tell me that she is going to die in one of the worst ways possible unless I come up with even more money to get her a lethal injection.	7	Years	Pit Bull	Dog	60	Pound
EON-608007	3/14/2025 10:44	Purina One Plus indoor advantage with real turkey #1 ingredient	I bought cat food Friday March 7th, that evening he got his first bowl of the food that I had bought which is the same food he has been eating for years. Late Friday night into early Saturday morning he started throwing up and threw up all the way until Monday morning over 20 times of throwing up. I work all weekend long so I didn't know anything was happening until Saturday evening so I kept an eye on him and then Sunday evening I took his food away because something in my brain was just linking that to what was going on. Monday morning I called the vet they were able to get him in Tuesday afternoon he had thrown up one more time Tuesday morning but nothing after that and after I took his food away between that time and his appointment on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 all he had was a total of one can of Purina wet cat food. When I took him to the vet they did an x-ray and everything else which came out to a total of a $220 vet bill just to find out the only thing that's wrong with him is the fact that his intestines are inflamed which is caused by eating something bad basically. Since I've gotten him home Tuesday afternoon giving him the stuff that helps ease inflammation he is now back to his normal self, I just have to continue to give him powder for his food that will help his intestines for the next few days. I still have him on canned food right now I'm going to ease him back into hard food, I bought another bag of Purina One but instead of it being the indoor advantage I bought the sensitive stomach and skin. I have not given him any more of that food out of the bag I have kept the bag and the food so whatever needs to happen if I need to send the bag back and get the food tested or what it can be done.	10	Years	Domestic (unspecified)	Cat	16	Pound

Over the following days, he began to become more lethargic and demonstrated a decrease in appetite. He was taken to the (b) (6) on March 5 as he was not getting better. The vet examined him and diagnosed him initially with kennel cough and prescribed doxycycline as an antibiotic. After five days of no improvement, we took him back to the vet on March 10, 2025. Chest and abdomen x-rays demonstrated enlarged heart, liver, and spleen, with consolidation in his lungs. He was transferred urgently to (b) (6) and admitted into the ICU. He required high flow oxygen and diuretics to stabilize his breathing and underwent a cardiology consult with echocardiogram. The echo diagnosed him with advanced dilated cardiomyopathy. The critical care vet attributed this to his diet. He has been consuming Simply Nourish - large breed, salmon & sweet potato, which is a grain-free kibble. It was never discussed with us that grain-free diets can lead to DCM in some dogs. EON-607864	3/12/2025 10:56	Pure Balance chicken & brown rice recipe	I had 2 dogs. One is a blue heeler mix and 1 year old. The other was a St. Bernard and pitbull mix and he was just six months old. Neither had pre existing health problems and are young and healthy. I bought a new bag of pure balance chicken and brown rice. Both of my dogs seemed extremely skeptical but I thought maybe they just weren't used to the new flavor. My oldest dog only at about a quarter of a bowl from this bag and my youngest ate about a bowl and a half total but he was much more knit picky with it and only ate a little at a time. He typically would eat a whole bowl in a sitting as he was a growing boy. I purchased this bag on (b) (6) . On (b) (6) I opened the bag and served my dogs a bowl of this food. On (b) (6) my oldest dog began throwing up and it gradually got worse and she was vomiting blood and her stool was also blood. She began to become very confused and lethargic and would not eat. Then my youngest began to get sick On (b) (6) (b) (6) we went to the vet and parvo and worms were ruled out by the vet. After 5 days of no eating and bloody stools and vomiting, the same day as the vet visit my oldest dog ate for the first time and showed signs of improvement. My youngest however, after only 2 days of having the same symptoms bled out and died on my bathroom floor. I called the vet the next morning and he suggested with how my pup had died(bleeding internally and from the anus) and parvo and worms being ruled it it seems to be a toxin or poison issue. As an experiment I tried to give my oldest dog that is now herself again some of this food and she would not even sniff it then I went and grabbed a bag of kibbles and bits and she would eat it immediately. My dogs are indoor dogs that stay on a chain outside to go potty and come back inside once they're done. I have small children so there is no access to toxins in the house or yard. The only different thing was that new bag of food that my youngest ate much more of.

That evening, I fed my first dog, and a few hours later, I noticed alarming symptoms. She appeared completely disoriented, flinching when approached, and unable to maintain her balance. Concerned, I took her to the emergency vet, where they conducted a drug test (which was negative) and ran bloodwork. She was sent home for monitoring, as no immediate cause was found. On March 11, 2025, I fed both of my dogs. My husky, who was sick the previous night, refused to eat. However, my second dog did eat the food—and is now displaying the exact same symptoms as my first dog. The only common factor between them is the new bag of dog food. Given these concerning reactions, I believe this batch may be contaminated or causing adverse effects. Please advise on the next steps for investigation. EON-607748	3/10/2025 18:48	Blue Buffalo Tastefuls	Hello! I'm reaching out with a concern regarding Blue Buffalo's line of Tastefuls wet cat food. On February 26th, 2025, we ordered 2 packs of the Tastefuls Natural Tender Morsels (Chicken Entrée, 5.5-oz cans, 24 cans in each pack) from the Blue Buffalo Amazon storefront. We have 3 cats, and we've been consistently feeding them Blue Buffalo Tastefuls for a few years now. Each of our cats eat half of a 5.5-oz can in the morning and evening. We finished the first pack and opened the second on the evening of March 8th, 2025, only using one of the new cans for their dinner. The following morning on March 9th around 10:30 - 11 AM EST, we woke up to find that one of our cats (b) (6) (4-year-old female) had been very sick throughout the night while we slept. There were several piles of throw up around our apartment, with 2-3 of them being half-digested food and the others being foam and bile. We cleaned everything up, checked on her, and proceeded to try and feed them breakfast. (b) (6) had no interest in eating, and the other two did not finish eating their food. This was unusual, as our youngest cat is very food motivated, and she only took a couple of bites. About 5 - 10 minutes, our youngest cat also threw up. There was thankfully no further vomiting from either of our 2 healthy cats, but they were clearly very wary and uninterested in the food. We ended up feeding them dry food instead. (b) (6) refused all food and continued to vomit up more bile throughout the day, and the vomit was coming up a pinkish red color with flecks of blood from 12 - 4 PM EST. At this point, we decided to take her to an ER vet and make sure she hadn't ingested something toxic. She went through several tests and had x-rays of her abdomen taken, all of which came up clean. Her test results were all normal and healthy, and her stomach was empty. The vet also confirmed from his findings that it likely had something to do with the food. She was given fluids and an anti-nausea injection before being sent home. If you have any questions, you can reach me at (b) (6) or via phone at (b) (6). I would be more than happy to discuss this further, and I want to make sure no other kitties out there get sick like ours did. I have also reported this to Blue Buffalo and provided photos of the cat food cans and pallet. Thank you in advance!	4	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	9	Pound

EON-607745	3/10/2025 18:44	4health Jerky Wraps duck and sweet potato recipe	I believe (b) (6) became sick from eating duck and sweet potato recipe jerky wraps. The brand is 4 Health (product of Cambodia). She ate the first treat around noon on 3/4/2025 and she ate 3 on 3/5/2025. I don't normally feed her treats but got these as a birthday treat. I noticed she wasn't feeling well at 5 pm on 3/5/2025. She was drooling and looked nauseous. She refused to eat her dinner at 6pm and I couldn't get her to eat anything at all. She began vomiting bile at sundown and was up all night vomiting and having diarrhea. In the morning when I went outside with her I noticed there was a lot of blood in her diarrhea and she was becoming lethargic. She was very sick at this point so I took her to the vet for an emergency visit. The vet hospitalized her and put her on IV fluids and gave her antibiotics, pain relief, and anti-nausea meds. They did a blood chemistry analysis and x rays and she was kept at the vet until 7:30 pm. Her potassium level was really low. The next day she woke up feeling a little better but was still nauseous so the vet suggested we come back for a re-check which led to another round of pain meds, anti-nausea meds and antibiotics. The vet asked if there was anything new she had eaten and the jerky wraps was the only thing so I came home and looked into it and noticed several other reports of problems with this same duck and sweet potato flavor. I'm reporting to ask that you please look into this to potentially spare other dogs of having to go through this.	3	Years	Shepherd Dog - Australian	Dog	58	Pound

Still vomiting on day 3 she appeared still very tired and stopped drinking as much water. On day 4 she couldn't walk and we had to take her to the vet where we discovered her kidneys were failing and she had developed a light but noticeable gangrene within 72 hrs. We had to have her euthanized 4 days later dues to kidney failure. I am trying to get more tests but she was fighting an infection it looked like on her cbc. Her prior kidney tests were healthy and stable with no signs of kidney disease she did not have gangrene before this 4 day illness.	15	Years	Poodle - Miniature	Dog	7.5	Pound

All 6 became severely ill. Had to take one to the Vet because she was still puking and not eating 5 days later. Most of them stopped puking around 3-4 days. Their a mix of male and female as well as some fixed and others not. None were sick prior to the food consumption. The ones that didn't consume the food were not sick and 1 of the 3 that did not consume the food also has interactions with the ones that became ill. This one who interacted with the sick ones did not become sick either. Soon after consumption each one would puke up the food and some of the small pieces would be nearly intact. We realized it was the product due to multiple factors and removed the product as soon as we became aware that this was the issue. We are going to pay a laboratory to test the product. Vet ran some basic labs and provided anti nausea meds for one we took. We still have the rest of the product with the Lot number and all details. Also, contacted Blue Buffalo. EON-607408	3/5/2025 12:24	Redbarn Glazed beef cheek roll	My husband purchased a product for both of my dogs from Redbarn Pet Products. The next day my Bichon started with a little bit of diarrhea and continued on and off for a few days which progressively escalated into Tuesday where he began to have extreme vomiting & extreme diarrhea non stop which then turned into hemorrhagic diarrhea and bloody vomiting. I rushed him to an animal ER where they did much blood work & xrays and found out he was suffering from an acute pancreatitis and swelling of his GI tract. they gave him IV's for dehydration. antinausea & antidiarrhea meds along with an antibiotic. When we got home we was still vomiting and going diarrhea but less frequent but was also foaming at the mouth. his vomiting did subside within 8 hours but still was dry heaving with water & food intake each time. On Friday 2 days later I took him back to the same ER for a recheck and they did more test and his pancreatic numbers were to be found normal they stated whatever he had consumed got out of his system which caused the massive attack of pancreas & GI tract he was still dehydrated so they did give him for IV fluids. I did take him to his regular vet on 3/5/25 a few days later to have him checked one more time and his pancreas numbers were in normal range but still a bit dehydrated so they gave him more fluids and his BUN levels and a few other numbers were a bit out of range still. I do have a German Shepard who got sick as well from this product at the same time but did not get as sick as my little dog so he did not require ER care but did have about 4 vomiting episodes with repeated diarrhea and was acting a bit confused and still had slight diarrhea yesterday.	3	Months	Bichon Frise	Dog	16.1	Pound

We took him to the vet and they ran blood tests, stool samples, x rays, etc. and nothing else showed up on day 1, so they provided him with fluids and sent him home with anti nausea medicine. Day 3 he was taken back to the vet and they found elevated clostridium (which the vet said could've been stress induced). They also gave him more anti nausea medicine. We returned the dog food to Costco where we bought it and they filed a claim and refunded us the cost of the food, but they sent us home with the food and bag, which we still have. We've cooked him fresh food ever since and he's fully recovered now. I reported this to Purina, initiating Case #23841927. On January 29, Purina responded, apologizing and requesting a phone call to discuss further, which occurred by February 5, 2025, with a supervisor named ((b) (6)) (855-744-1216). During this call, Purina offered a one-year supply of cat food as compensation, which I rejected as inadequate given the severity of the contamination. I requested a five-year supply or equivalent value and a recording of the conversation for my records. On January 30, I emailed Purina, reiterating my dissatisfaction and compensation demand, warning of potential legal action and reputational damage if unresolved. On February 3, I followed up for an update, receiving a response on February 5 stating they had unsuccessfully tried to reach me by phone (despite my providing a number: (b) (6)). As requested, I sent the plastic piece to their lab for analysis on February 7, but have received no updates on the results since. My February 24 email demanded an immediate update on the lab analysis and further discussion, setting a deadline of February 28, 2025, and warning of escalation to the FDA if unmet. As of March 1, 2025, Purina has not responded, leaving the issue unresolved nearly a month after my last contact and over a month since the lab received the sample. This incident involves a serious product safety issue—foreign material in pet food—that remains unaddressed, prompting my decision to file a complaint with the FDA due to Purina's lack of communication and insufficient action. I have sent the plastic and food container to Purina and did not hear back. I have know found an additional piece of plastic in the dry food and did not tell them about it just yet.

Their registered address is: Poppy's Picnic Hound Quarters Sandridge Park Melksham SN12 7QU I am emailing as on two separate occasions now I have found plastic in my dog's food. The dog food is sold frozen, and can be fed to dogs raw or cooked. I have found 2 amounts of plastic in 2 separate trays of my dog's food. I have attached pictures here. I contacted Poppy's Picnic to raise this issue and was refunded for the 2 trays of food. However, I have been very dissatisfied by their response, which has not acknowledged the severity of the issue. I have many concerns that this might be impacting many other dogs or cats, and that people are unaware that this is happening. Two days after finishing treatment, her diarrhea returned. The puppy was placed on medicine and her diarrhea returned, after treatment, a total of 4 times (4 rounds of medication). After the 4th return of diarrhea the vet office sent off two stool samples. One to (b) (6) for bacterial analysis, one for parasitic analysis. Her stool came back negative for any parasites but positive for Clostridium Perfringens (food poisoning). During the time that I've had this puppy, she has been on the same food the whole time (from the same bag). This food has been stored in an air tight container. After her last vet visit, her food was changed and her stool improved the next day. I believe the food has been giving her food poisoning this whole time. The foster dog vomited the next night after receiving 100% of the food, 2 feedings. Nothing new was introduced into their diet except this food. Each dog did eat 2 pieces of cooked beef from a sandwich but I often give them small pieces of human food each day without any issues. I did noticed as I increased the transition of new dog food to old dog food, they started getting more sluggish and stop to eat grass at the park, which they have not done before. EON-606728	2/25/2025 0:40	Ol' Roy Natural Pork Femur Bone	Information requested: -Name of product and product description: Ol' Roy Natural Pork Femur Bone - Naturally smoked, provides long-lasting chewing enjoyment, chew for dogs -Type of container: Plastic wrapped -Product intended to be stored at: Room temperature -Lot number: unknown -Best buy/expiration date: unknown -UPC code: unknown -Net weight: 9.28 oz (263 g) -Purchase date and location: Tuesday, February 18th, 2025 at Walmart in (b) (6) -Results of laboratory testing: N/A -How the food was stored, prepared, and handled: Stored at room temperature and unwrapped from plastic before giving to dog. Description of the problem with the product: I gave my dog the "Ol' Roy Natural Pork Femur Bone" as a treat/chew on 02/20/25. I was supervising my dog as she was chewing on it. After only about 2-3 minutes of chewing I noticed that pieces of bone were splintering off. I picked up one of the pieces and they were very sharp, almost glass like. I took the bone and the pieces away from my dog as soon as I realized how dangerous it was, but my dog had already swallowed some of it. The next morning, 02/21/25, my dog was lethargic, vomiting and refusing to eat. I took her into the vet, and after an x-ray was performed, they determined that the bone shards were blocking her stomach and her colon. They kept her over night for observation and to determine if the bone shards were causing any damage to her digestive tract. With help from the vets and medication, she was able to pass the bone shards and she is home from the vet now, expected to recover. But this incident had us worried that we were going to lose our dog and it cost us over $1,500. This treat is very dangerous and I do not think it should be able to be advertised and sold for dogs.
			-Species: dog -Age, weight, breed, pregnant, spayed/neutered: 12 months, 66 pounds, German Shorthaired Pointer/Golden Retriever mix, not pregnant, spayed (female) -Previous health status of pet: No medical concerns prior to incident -Pre-existing conditions: None -Other foods/treats/drugs/dietary supplements: Just her daily food - Purina One and water -How much of the suspected product does you pet normally consume: None, the above incident was the first time my dog has consumed this product. -How much of the suspect product was consumed from the package: Approximately half -How much of the product do you still have: None, the rest was discarded -Clinical signs: lethargic, vomiting, refusing to eat -How soon after consumption did clinical signs appear: Approximately 12 hours later signs were noticed -Vet information: I was told by my vet that the bone shards were causing blockages in her digestive tract. (b) (6) -Results of diagnostic laboratory testing on pet: X-ray determined that shards from the bone consumed were causing blockages in her digestive tract. She passed the bone pieces with help from the vets and medications. -How many pets consuming the product exhibited clinical symptoms: 1. Only 1 pet in my household consumed the product. -Any pets that consumed the product were not affected: None, no other pets in my household consumed the product -Does the pet spend time outdoors unsupervised: No. We have no fence in our yard and we live in city limits, so any time spend outside is supervised on a leash. -Why I suspect the pet food caused the illness: The splinters of bone that broke off were incredibly sharp, the symptoms came shortly after consuming this product for the first time, and the vets that I took my dog to confirmed through x-rays and observation of feces that the bone shards were the cause of her symptoms.D565

Cabela's products are in clear violation of the American Association of Feed Control Officials (AAFCO) regulations adopted in January 2020, which stipulate that all uses of the term "buffalo" must be further qualified to avoid consumer confusion. They also appear to violate 9 CFR Part 352, which stipulates that products labeled "Buffalo" are to come from any animal from the genus Bison, which water buffalo are not. This is a longstanding issue that came to light in 2018 when the NBA found water buffalo to be substituted for bison and deceptively labeled due to labeling regulations as a nonamenable species, and regulated by FDA. The pet food issue was addressed in 2020 when AAFCO enacted the below rules regarding the use of bison and water buffalo in pet food products. The use of simply "Buffalo" on the Cabela's pet products appears to be a violation of current regulations, as well as 9 CFR Part 352, (refer to product example below and note term "buffalo" on front packaging, and "water buffalo" on ingredient panel, with no "bison" utilized for the product). AAFCO's 2023 Official Publication, Chapter 6, the most recent publicly available, stipulates bison and water buffalo labeling requirements per below, and available at https://apps.fass.org/FASS/survey/content/2023_OP_Chapter_6_enc.pdf#toolbar=0 Bison. EON-606635	2/23/2025 19:16	Churu Skin & Coat Tuna Recipe	I fed my 17-year-old cat (b) (6) who has no known history of allergies and has successfully eaten other versions of Churu before with no adverse effects, a full tube of Churu Skin & Coat Tuna Recipe. About half an hour later, she vomited at least 5 times. I did not feed her anymore for a few days to make sure it wasn't a medical issue. She seemed to do well on all her other food. Then I decided to give her about a fourth of another tube of the same package to see if she would tolerate it. She seemed fine at first, then again she vomited within an hour (once, as far as I know). I bought 3 whole cases of these, 2 tuna recipe and 1 chicken recipe, because she needs soft food as she is missing many teeth at her advanced age, and now it seems unsafe to give her any more. The box in question has the UPC 108 50006 71575 3 with the code USA 671. The specific bag whence these two tubes came that seemed to have caused illness in (b) (6) have the expiration date of 11/27/2025 and the letters TKSE, which I am assuming is the lot code.	17	Years	Mixed (Cat)	Cat	9	Pound

EON-606597	2/22/2025 13:12	Higgins Premium Pet Foods Sunburst Gourmet Blend Boca Nuts	I purchase a 20 pound bag of Boca nuts once a month for my birds. The bag runs about $140-$160 depending on amazon sales. I have never had an issue with this product in the years I've purchased from this brand. Back in September of 2024, I opened the bag and I was went to fill my birds bowls, I noticed thick cobb webs. Not your ordinary spider web. So I inspected the bag and noticed insects in the bag. I immediately closed the bag, processed a return and ordered another bag. The seller thankfully accepted the return and gave me a $5 coupon. since then, I have purchased October, November and December with no issues. In January, I inspected the bag and found no issues until I got to the bottom of the bag. I started to notice insects and some cobb webs. At this point it was too late. The bag was practically done. So i closed the bag and left whatever was in there so I ordered 2 more bags to be on the safe side. One bag came in with no issues. The second came in with cob webs and about 3 different types of insects in them, 4 if you include a potential for spiders that go with the webs. The second bag is still in my possession, sealed and unopened. I am not sure if my birds have been impacted in anyway but I did find the same insects in the grate at the bottom of the their cage. I had to remove my birds from their cages and clean their cages as well as completely disinfect their room and try to eliminate the possibility of these insect reproducing in my house.

EON-606582	2/22/2025 2:04	Pedigree chicken and vegetable	We bought a 44 pound bag of pedigree chicken and vegetable dog food from our local food city, short after feeding our two dogs (b) (6) and (b) (6) they became ill. (b) (6) then started throwing up with diarrhea. On the way to get him evaluated he went paralyzed then shortly after passed away. The next day (b) (6) was seen at a local vets office and had severe diarrhea with a fever of 102.8. They tested him for parvo, worms and parasites but all tests shown negative and we were told he had some type of stomach illness. This led to over 600$ in vet bills, and the loss of one of our pets. We then began to discuss how it happened right after consuming this dog food. The dogs have always eaten this dog food with zero issue, until we opened this bag. We have suspicions that it was possibly this dog food that made our pets sick and possibly the reason one resulted in death.

EON-606282	2/18/2025 12:16	Purina Pro Plan High Protein Shredded Blend Chicken & Rice Formula Puppy Food 34 lbs	We bought a 34 pound bag of Purina Pro Plan for Puppies on Jan. 29 via Autoship through Petco. When it was delivered it was in a cardboard box with the bag of food inside. There was a little bit of food in the box from a small tear in the side of the bag but not much so we weren't concerned. We poured it into our dog food container we keep in our pantry with a snap closing lid. We fed it to him for a week or two. I then found a small piece of cardboard and a piece of wood in his food when feeding him last week after pouring a scoop of food in his bowl. We kept the pieces and contacted Purina, but weren't super concerned about it harming our dog, but decided to be vigilant of the food when feeding him. When I contacted Purina after finding the first piece of cardboard and wood and they were responsive saying they would send me a label to return the packaging and foreign objects back to them and they would send me vouchers or issue a refund. I told them that was fine and to just send vouchers for a new bag. A few days later, my husband was feeding the dog and found a nail in the food. At that point, we knew it was definitely something wrong and so I went through the entire bag of food. We found a second nail head that appeared to have been cooked or processed into the food and another small piece of wood. I contacted Purina again a couple days ago after finding the nail, and they have not responded since then. I have saved the bag and all of the foreign objects that we have found. My dog (10 months old) does not to appear to have been affected by anything he may have eaten in the food, though we are keeping an eye on him. I just wanted to report this issue though in case ours is not the only bag with these kinds of objects in them. I feel like the nail could have really injured my dog. I also reported the issue to Petco, who is also looking into the issue.

I started adding the Farmers Dog vitamin mix to their food a couple years ago. back in November both my dogs had major GI issues. Both got sick at the same time. 4 fecal lab tests (one was a comprehensive fecal test) and visits to vet were inconclusive and tests came back negative for any known diseases or parasite. The vet put them on Hills prescription Biome diet. it took months and they finally felt good. I gradually stopped Biome and started with home cooked meals again over a week ago. They were both doing great and everything was back to normal. Yesterday I decided to add the vitamin mix back to their food. This morning one of my dogs started throwing up bile and both of them got very sick with diarrhea again. The only thing different to their diet was adding the vitamin back to their food. Opened new bag on Friday, Jan 31. About an hour after she ate, (b) (6) vomited her partially suggested meal. All of it. The next day the same thing happened after feeding her breakfast. Stopped the dry food, began feeding her rice, broth and pumpkin puree. On Monday, gave her small amount of Diamond Naturals dry food with broth and she held it down. Continued feeding her small amounts of the diamond naturals with Brutus bone broth. By Thursday she was back to her normal self. I tried giving her the Purina One Thursday evening, less than half of the amount I would normally give her. Friday morning I woke up to vomit. Again, partially digested Purina. I stopped giving her dry dog food altogether and she has been eating boiled chicken, rice and frozen green beans. She has been dry heaving since Friday, although the frequency has diminished considerably. Her stools are now normal, but the dry heaving is very concerning. EON-606230	2/17/2025 15:52	Acana - Light and Fit recipe	Our 7 year old (b) (6) (b) (6) started wheezing a little bit while out for a walk so we scheduled an appointment for her and our other dog, (13 year old Boxer/Pitbull) who was due for his annual check-up. During (b) (6) exam it was assumed that due to her weight that this was the likely cause of her wheezing so we were told to put her on a diet, but they also did a blood test to check for thyroid disease which came back normal. During the same visit, our older male dog, (Boxer/Pitbull) was x-rayed to check for a cough he had and he was diagnosed with an enlarged heart-DCM and they prescribed him medication he will need to continue to take for the rest of his life and we were told he may have 9-15 months to live. Even more shocking was a week later, (b) (6) wheezing turned to a cough so we brought her back for an emergency appointment and after x-rays, she was also diagnosed with DCM, however this was a far more severe case and her heart rate was extremely elevated so we were told to bring her to an urgent care facility. Prior to the 90 minute drive, the vet sedated her and gave her a diuretic injection to remove fluid from her lungs. She was admitted at the urgent care facility and monitored over night until she was able to be seen by a cardiologist the following morning. The result was confirmed to us to be a severe case of DCM with the suspected cause being their diet of Acana Grain Free - Light and Fit dry dog food. She was prescribed the same drug as our other dog as well as a Diuretic that she would need to take the rest of her life. We brought her home that night but she was extremely uncomfortable, was in obvious pain, and had signs of blood in her urine. We contacted the urgent care vet 3 times that evening and were told to bring her back in as her symptoms were not consistent with DCM. It turned out that unfortunately the Diuretic she was given at the vet, and prescribed for ongoing care had an immediate and major effect on her kidneys and caused kidney failure, which if treated correctly would not allow them to treat the heart disease correctly, and hence a vicious cycle that left us the only compassionate choice of having her euthanized.	7	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	100	Pound

EON-606114	2/15/2025 20:32	Grandma Lucy's Freeze Dried Pure Performance Fish Recipe	Shortly after consumption of the food my dog vomited for 2 days straight, I took her to the ER vet where they kept her overnight and ran various tests. Her bloodwork was good but did indicate a possible GI infection. She received fluids and antibiotics and went home. She then got progressively worse the next week and we returned to her primary vet. She was dehydrated and still vomiting, anti-nausea medication and IVs were given and she went home. She vomited that night and had to return. They ran more tests and could still not identify what was causing the excessive vomiting and dehydration. Even with the highest doses of anti-nausea medication and a cocktail of other medications, she continued to vomit. An exploratory surgery was performed where the vet found severe inflammation of the lymph nodes and GI tract indicating a GI infection. A biopsy was performed and showed it was indeed inflammation most likely caused by a viral or bacterial infection. Substantial doses of antibiotic IVs and pills were administered. Along with more anti-nausea and stomach-soothing medications. Prescription food was given and she is still only able to eat her prescription food and nothing else. She was sick for a total of 1 month. The surgery was very invasive and she took 2 weeks to recover. She is still on probiotics. The vet suspects the freeze-dried food to be the cause because it is not cooked before it is freeze-dried and can cause bacteria to be preserved along with the food. Other dogs have become very ill because of freeze-dried food. Reviews of the food also claimed similar issues and sickness in other dogs with the same symptoms. My dog still cannot eat anything other than the prescribed food, before this, she was able to eat treats, kibble, and vitamins.	5	Years	Terrier - Jack Russell	Dog	16	Pound

EON-606027	2/14/2025 12:52	Open Farm Puppy Chicken Salmon and Ancient Grains Recipe	I am reaching out regarding a serious concern regarding the safety and quality of my recent bag of Open Farm dog food that I purchased via Open Farm's online website and was delivered to me on 11/20/24. The screenshot below contains my order number (Order USA-17511611087), specifically the Chicken & Salmon Ancient Grains Puppy Kibble 22lb bag. Today, I discovered bone fragments inside the kibble, and after thoroughly checking the bag, I found a significant amount of them throughout. I have attached images of what I found for reference. Note that these images do not depict all of the bone fragments, there is much more inside the entire bag. What worries me the most is that my puppy has already consumed over 3/4 of the bag, and I recently noticed a change in his eating behavior. Normally, he is very food-motivated, but he has been reluctant to eat his meals—something that now makes sense given the sharp, hard bone fragments I discovered. I am deeply concerned that this could have harmed his health, as these fragments pose a serious choking hazard and could potentially cause internal injuries. I have been a long-time customer of Open Farm and have trusted this brand for years, believing it to be a high-quality and safe option for my dogs. However, after this experience, I am now questioning whether it is safe to continue feeding this brand at all. The presence of sharp, jagged bone fragments in kibble is completely unacceptable and a major failure in quality control. I wanted to submit this report to bring awareness regarding this issue, as well as receive clarity on how something like this could happen. I also want to know what steps Open Farm is taking to ensure the safety of its products moving forward. Pet owners should never have to worry about their dog's food being dangerous to consume.

EON-605925	2/12/2025 23:36	Purina pro plan puppy under one year shredded blend chicken & rice	We purchased Purina Pro Plan Puppy from PetSmart on Sunday, February 9th, 2025. After opening the bag, we noticed some thread-like substances at the bottom but ignored them. We then transferred the food into a clean storage container and fed our puppy about five meals over three days. However, on February 11th, 2025, after returning home from work at 3:20 PM, we opened the container to prepare our puppy's dinner and discovered a massive amount of maggots and mold growing inside. We immediately contacted PetSmart, but their customer service simply stated that it could be due to a warm home environment and offered a free replacement, which does not seem reasonable. This response makes it feel as if they were already aware that the dog food might contain maggot eggs from the manufacturing process. Now, our puppy is not experiencing diarrhea but has been passing soft stools, which is concerning. We have photos, videos, and the product itself as evidence.

EON-605921	2/12/2025 23:24	Go! Solutions. Carnivore Grain-Free Salmon + COD. Food for cats for all life stages.	On January 21, 2025, I placed my first order on Chewy and purchased GO! Solutions wet cat food. I chose this brand because my cat had recently recovered from an intestinal infection and had been on antibiotics. After his illness, he developed a very sensitive stomach, so I had to switch his food. I trusted the quality of the products on Chewy website and decided to try GO! Solutions. Unfortunately, I didn't notice right away that the food was two months expired. Since my cat was still recovering, I didn't suspect a problem and fed him the food. Soon after, he developed diarrhea, but I assumed it was a side effect of the antibiotics. A few days later, I discovered that the food had actually expired more than two months ago. Now, I am very concerned about whether this expired food could harm my cat's health. I kindly ask you to: Explain how expired food was sold. Issue a full refund for this purchase. Take measures to prevent this from happening again, as selling expired pet food can seriously harm animals. I'll provide any necessary proof, including photos of the packaging showing the expired date. I look forward to your prompt response.
EON-605920	2/12/2025 23:20	Blue Buffalo Life Protection Small Adult Breed Chicken and Brown Rice Recipe	My dog has been eating Blue Buffalo Small Adult Life Protection Chicken and Brown Rice since November 2024 without issues, until we bought this latest bag. Then out of nowhere, my dog started vomiting and having diarrhea after 2 weeks of eating from the new bag. We took him to the emergency vet and spent $2000 to run tests which include; ultrasound for blockages or foreign objects, blood draw for infection or disease, and fecal sample to check for parasites or microorganisms, all came back negative and healthy but our dog continued to vomit and poop blood. We also took him off the food per recommendation from the vet, and while eating a bland diet of boiled chicken or white fish and white rice, he has started showing slow improvement. The only medications we were given from the emergency vet were for nausea, diarrhea, and probiotics as they were unable to find the exact cause of illness to treat specifically.	5	Years	Terrier - Yorkshire	Dog	16	Pound

EON-605918	2/12/2025 23:08	Hills Prescription Diet	CVM, CERB received the following request from a consumer at (b) (6) Thank you so much for your time. It is not regarding food safety issues (at least I hope not) however Hills are deceiving the Consumer by their farcical "prescription diets". These prescription diets do not contain any medical additives and cannot be legally defined as Prescription. What Hills are merely doing is adding the prescription wording to said packaging and then utilising this as an excuse to only provide said food to vets. This is done for optimum profitisation. Both Hills and the vets overcharge for a food with no medical grade additives whatsoever and attempt to make it exclusive and available to vets only. Essentially forcing a pet parent with a pet whom possesses a disease of sorts to purchase from said vets. It is an abuse of the market and holds us pet parents to ransom. There are no noteworthy ingredients in said food to contribute to the exorbitant prices. It is merely a scam by labelling at being "prescription" when it possesses no medical grade ingredients and thus utilising the said "prescription" name to exclusively sell to vets and huge amounts of funds are made by all. It is basically a pet food kabal. Please advise.

This product is unsafe to be consumed by dogs and has the potential to cause serious issues if other owners do not realize the dangers of onion and garlic toxicity or if they do not inspect the ingredients list. EON-605911	2/12/2025 22:56	Purina Puppy Chow	I bought a new bag of Purina Puppy Chow (beef flavored) from PetSmart in (b) (6) and started feeding my puppy this dog food on January 27, 2025. On January 30, 2025, I noticed she had loose stool and the night of January 31, she was waking up every two hours needing to go to the bathroom. Her poop was very loose by this point, so I made an emergency appointment on February 1 to see a vet. Her bloodwork came back within normal limits and the vet mentioned it must have been something she ate. The only change in her diet was providing her food from that new bag of Purina Puppy Chow. She has been receiving Purina Puppy Chow, both chicken and beef flavored, for months with no issues until I purchased that bag from that particular PetSmart. The vet prescribed metronidazole and probiotics, and I continued to feed her rice and canned prescription diet until her stool went back to normal. I slowly reintroduced the same Purina Puppy Chow back into her regular diet after her stool had been normal for a few days. After reintroducing the Purina Puppy Chow back into her diet, her stool went from normal to soft stool to loose stool within 2-3 days. She is back on a rice and canned prescription food diet now (02/11/25) and I will be purchasing a new bag of Purina Puppy Chow from a different store with the hopes that it's from a different lot number. Unfortunately, I threw away the bag, so I'm unable to check the lot number of the problematic bag of dog food.			Mixed (Dog)	Dog

EON-605509	2/9/2025 13:56	NutriSource Small Bites Adult Chicken & Rice Recipe	I have three dogs that have recently suffered GI and other health issues, some very severe. The onset of symptoms coincided with opening a fresh bag of NutriSource kibble. I am reporting a potential adverse health event. BACKGROUND My three dogs are as follows: (b) (6) (14 year old Shitzu, female, 12 lbs, spayed) - consumes 0.5 cups per day (b) (6) (12 year old Poodle-Chihuahua-other mix, female, 15 lbs, spayed) - consumes 0.5 cups per day (b) (6) (2 year old Shitzu-Toy Poodle mix, female, 7 lbs, spayed) - consumes 0.25 cups per day (b) (6) has a history of GI issues from coprophagia (only her own feces, not other dogs' or animals') and minorly elevated kidney levels (typical of older dogs). Other than seasonal allergies (only during summer/fall, and currently asymptomatic/not medicated), (b) (6) has no pre-existing health issues at all. (b) (6) has no pre-existing health issues at all. They are entirely indoor dogs and are left unsupervised outside for 30-60 seconds at most. The winter has been unusually bitter, and they are not lingering outside in any way. They have not been eating outdoor animal feces (they have been frozen solid recently) or interacting with outdoor animals in any way (again, it's very cold, and the squirrels keep far away from them). We live in a thoroughly suburban area and do not have any unusual wildlife or agricultural land near us. PRODUCT The product in question ("NS kibble") is NutriSource Adult Chicken & Rice Small Bites kibble, 12 lbs. The UPC is 073893260066. It has a best-by date of JAN 14 26 and the lot code is 4G15 1135 2. We have gone through approximately half the bag in question. It has been stored in the original bag. I am a pet store employee and got the bag from my employer, an official retailer ((b) (6)). I say this to emphasize that I did NOT buy the product online or from an unofficial source.	12	Years	Poodle (unspecified)	Dog	15	Pound
			WHY I AM REPORTING (b) (6) (b) (6) and (b) (6) are all fed the same NS kibble. (b) (6) and (b) (6) are supplemented with a variety of canned wet dog foods (all of which are handled appropriately - since we go through about a third of a can at a time, the untouched remainder is refrigerated in a sealed container and used within 36 hours; served but uneaten portions are removed and discarded within 15 minutes, etc.). However, as we have gone through 7 different varieties (NutriSource Chicken & Rice, Purina ProPlan Beef & Rice, Purina ProPlan Chicken & Rice, Whole Earth Farms Red Meat, Fromm Chicken Pate, Hills Science Diet 7+ Beef Stew, Hills Science Diet 7+ Chicken & Barley Entree) and 10 different cans in 2 weeks and the symptoms have only persisted and worsened, the only common factor throughout this time has been the NS kibble, which is why I'm reporting this concern. All of these symptoms began about a week after opening the new bag of NS kibble described above. All three dogs eat this kibble, and all three dogs have become ill. I am concerned that these health issues may be connected with the kibble.

			SYMPTOMS/ADVERSE EVENTS The symptoms experienced were as follows: (b) (6) had persistent vomiting and bloody, uncontrolled diarrhea for five days, progressing until the diarrhea was every half-hour and she refused food. She was lethargic and disoriented. The diarrhea/vomiting was not resolved by OTC remedies (loperamide/lmodium, kaolin/pectin solution) and required vet intervention. There was a small amount of Clostridium bacteria in her feces, but not enough to explain the issues per my vet. (b) (6) had severe vomiting, to the point of dry-heaving, unusually yellow/mucousy stool, decreased appetite, and lethargy. The lethargy, unusual stool, and decreased appetite have lasted two weeks; the vomiting lasted for about a week, off-and-on, before all symptoms abruptly worsened. She was unable to sleep and was pacing/panting in pain with every breath. On the way to the vet the next day (first available appointment), she collapsed and soiled herself; upon reaching the vet, she was found to have a temperature of 105.4F. A blood test revealed all her liver values to be extremely elevated, despite having no prior history of liver disease or conditions. An insignificant amount of Clostridium bacteria was found in her stool, but not enough to explain the issues per my vet. Emergency veterinary care has lessened some of her symptoms, but she is still not eating, is lethargic, and has a high temperature until treated with carprofen daily. (b) (6) had persistent vomiting and unusually yellow/mucousy stool, and was acting unusual in a way that typically indicates pain for her (avoiding having her stomach touch, constant shivering/shaking, pacing). As I received this bag for free as a monthly benefit through my employer's free feed program, I do not need a refund; I only want to ensure these events are reported.

EON-605489	2/9/2025 0:04	The Farmers Dog Beef	The Farmers Dog food comes on a monthly basis. After a few days on the new delivery, (b) (6) started to drink excessive water on the hour and then have to go the bathroom. This became increasingly worse over 3 days. We took him to urgent care who identified elevated calcium levels. Upon returning home as we awaited additional testing, he refused to eat his food. After offering his food for several days, he refused to eat. The expanded panel came back negative for hormone issues. Upon researching The Farmers Dog Food, we identified that a main supplement is a chemically processed calcium. We believe this caused the issue. (b) (6) has been on a homemade diet for the last 2 weeks with no symptoms. We still have the batch of food frozen for possible testing to confirm. We encountered a $2600 vet bill due to this issue. We will be reaching out to Farmers Dog shortly as we wanted to confirm the elevated panel was negative. In addition, our other Havanese is on this diet and has started to show symptoms in the last day. We are going to take him off of this food immediately. His new batch arrived two days ago. EON-605396	2/7/2025 11:28	ROYAL CANIN RENAL SUPPORT E Prescription Food (Pate)	Foreign objects were found in the product. I've found a piece of red plastic and bone piece in my cat's canned wet food: ROYAL CANIN RENAL SUPPORT E Prescription Food (Pate). This is not the first time I find bigger pieces of prickly bones, but this time that plastic was way bigger and more dangerous. I attached pictures to support my claim. It is very disappointing, that RC foods are the most expensive ones, and has these kind of quality issues. My cat has chronic kidney disease, and he must eat this diet for many years now. It is very concerning, that he could eat these prickly bones and plastic pieces with the pate, thereby creating even more health risks for him. Upon opening the bag I found that it was infested with bugs. I saw several small beetles with bluish-green metallic coloring. There was white residue in the kibble. I also saw a brown larva that appeared to be about a quarter-inch long. I disposed of the food, cleaned the container, and contacted the Petco store I purchased it from as well as Merrick. I've provided the UPC and other package information to both of them.
EON-605392	2/7/2025 11:28	Kirkland Signature Adult Formula Chicken Rice and Vegetable Dog Food 40 lbs	We purchased a bag of Kirkland Adult Dog Chicken, Rice & Vegetable Formula dog food on January 24th and fed it to our dog on January 25th. We have been giving her this food for years. Beginning 1/26 our dog was throwing up all day, first food then bile and white chunks. The vomiting continued until 1/29 at which point our dog then refused to eat the food even if we put cheese, beef powder, etc. We switched to wet food for a few days and she still refused to eat the dry. We purchased another bag on 2/5/25 in which she has eaten with no issues. We must have received a bad bag and wanted to report it.	6	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	80	Pound

EON-605314	2/6/2025 11:20	Taste of the Wild High Prairie Grain-Free Dry Dog Food 28-lb bag, Zignature Lamb Limited Ingredient Formula Dry Dog Food 25-lb bag	(b) (6) is an 8-year old Sheepadoodle. She experienced unexplained weight loss. She weighs 52 pounds and her usual weight is between 68 and 72 pounds. After bloodwork and imaging, our veterinarian diagnosed her with Dilated Cardiomyopathy today. (b) (6) has eaten grain-free dog food since at least 2017. She ate the brand Zignature (various varieties, including Lamb, Catfish, Salmon, and Kangaroo) between 2017 and 2020. She ate the brand Taste of the Wild (only the High Prairie variety) from 2020 to present. Our veterinarian prescribed medication and recommended a diet change. His name is (b) (6) and he is at (b) (6). (b) (6) mentioned FDA's investigation and the state of the science on the potential association between a grain-free diet and DVM. EON-605261	2/5/2025 16:04	Instinct Ultimate Protein Cage-Free Chicken Recipe Grain-Free Dry Cat Food 10-lb bag	Approx. 4 weeks ago I started feeding the dry cat food Instinct Ultimate Protein (chicken) to my 4 indoor-only cats. This product has raw ingredient(s). Around Jan 29-30, 2 of my cats (b) (6) and (b) (6) came down very quickly with horrible nasal congestion, vomiting and lack of appetite. I took (b) (6) to my regular vet on Jan 30. He was started on Rx Veraflox. (b) (6) went for 5 days without eating. I again took him to the regular vet on Feb 3 where he was given IV fluids, an anti-nausea shot and was nebulized. On Feb 4, after 5 days of Veraflox, my cat (b) (6) started eating. Unfortunately (b) (6) nasal congestion was far worse, so I took her to an emergency vet on Feb 2. No temp and stable vital signs. (b) (6) was admitted and is still at the ER clinic as of Feb 5. An antibiotic was given; she was repeatedly nebulized and given IV fluids; given anti-nausea and appetite stimulant drugs; and finally a nasal feeding line was inserted Feb 3. On Feb 5, (b) (6) vet switched to antiviral medicine Famciclovir. I visited (b) (6) at the ER clinic on Feb 3, 4 and 5. During Feb 5's visit, (b) (6) was worse than when I took her to the ER clinic on Feb 2. (b) (6) was very depressed, barely acknowledged me, wouldn't eat and just wanted to be left alone so she could sleep. On Feb 5, I again talked with the vet. We decided to give (b) (6) another 24 hrs until Thurs Feb 6 pm. I am not optimistic (b) (6) will get any better. To date, I have spent approx. $750 on (b) (6) care at my regular vet clinic. For (b) (6) I have spent $6,000 but that doesn't include treatment costs for Feb 5 to Feb 6. I can't think of anything that has changed with my cats' care other than switching to Instinct Ultimate Protein dry cat food in chicken flavor; again, I did this about 4 wks ago. Sorry, I no longer have the bag, as I poured the dry food into an airtight storage container. On Feb 5, I emailed Instinct's customer service. I was told how careful Instinct's food is made, especially with the raw ingredients. I was also told that the raw ingredient(s) in the Ultimate Protein dry cat food is fish. I was simply told to contact Chewy.com, where I bought the dry food, and have them refund me the money; which I did and I was given a refund. I am nearly convinced the Instinct Ultimate Protein dry cat food in chicken flavor (10lb bag) caused the terrible illness in my cats (b) (6) and (b) (6). Which is why I am submitting this report/claim.	12	Years	Oriental	Cat	8	Pound

EON-604905	1/31/2025 16:56	Kirkland Signature Nature's Domain Canned Dog Food Turkey & Pea Stew	We transitioned our dog, (b) (6) to eating Kirkland's "Signature Nature's Domain Canned Dog Food, Turkey & Pea Stew" almost 2 days ago. Our dog has had an extremely severe reaction to this food, has been having liquid diarrhea with a LOT of blood (congealed and clots) as well as vomiting for over 24 hours. There is blood just falling out of her back side at this point. Our dog is currently at the animal hospital being treated and is severely dehydrated. We are SHOCKED that this happened, because our dog has always had a stomach of steel - has never had any gastrointestinal issues before. Her stool is typically extremely health and consistent. This is ALARMING. We believe this food must have been contaminated.	12	Years	Terrier (unspecified)	Dog	72	Pound

EON-604788	1/30/2025 11:48	Whole Hearted healthy benefits easy digestion chicken recipe	Hello, so I own a 7 year old shih tzu and a 3.11 year old shih tzu. So my 7 year old shih tzu was experiencing slight diarrhea normal color. So I purchased a whole hearted easy digestion chicken recipe can from petco in (b) (6) on January 18, 2025. Then, on January 19, 2025 around the evening I provided 1 cup of the can to my 7 year old shih tzu to see if it would help with her slight diarrhea. I also provided a cup can to my 3.11 year old shih tzu because she was hungry and thought that recipe would be healthy. The can did appear very watery the minute it was opened. The following day on January 20th, 2025 the youngest shih tzu around the evening started to experience vomiting and bloody diarrhea. We immediately took her to the pets hospital and was informed she was going to be hospitalized for hemorrhagic gastroenteritis. She had to be hospitalized for almost 6 days. We asked how the hemorrhagic gastroenteritis was caused and we were informed by a new diet, parasite, bacteria, or infection. We suspected immediately the whole hearted can chicken recipe because that was the last thing she had ate that was something new in her diet and we believe it maybe had a bacteria strain. Our 7 year old shih tzu few days after ingesting the whole hearted chickem recipe, started to experience severe diarrhea. We also believe it was a cause because when we did research we had seen that same type of dog food was reported by a stranger that made their dog vomit as well. We want to make everyone aware. We unfortunately threw away the can 1 day after it was given because it didn't smell good. We sadly spent so much money for pet being hospitalized.			Shih Tzu	Dog

The worst odor I have ever smelt. Once I inspected the food inside I noticed it was bubbling and hissing, releasing this terrible gas. I immediately disposed of the food. I placed the container from said food into another completely sealed container for testing. I suspect if my cats would have eaten this they would have died.

No illness or injury was reported. The pet owner explained she purchased 2 cases of the product from Amazon.com approximately 6-months ago and stored them in her cool basement. On or about 1/21/2025, she went to the basement to retrieve some of the cans an immediately detected putrid odor in the storage area. She began examining cans and noted they were swelling and leaking. She observed black scratches present on the rolled can seams. She described them as possible canning machine scratches. She explained she found only 3 cans in good condition between the two cases of the same lot. She retained the 3 cans and some of the damaged cans in her freezer. The pet owner called Blue Buffalo using the telephone number on the cans and explained the issue to an agent. She was encouraged to contact Amazon for a refund. EON-603963	1/23/2025 17:52	Earthborn Holistice Venture Limited Ingredient Turkey and Pumpkin dry dog food	Received my monthly shipment of dog food from Chewy, as my dog has been on this same exact food for 5 years. It had a rancid/chemical smell upon opening the bag . I removed it from the bag and put it in a dog food container thinking the smell would then dissipate. I contacted Chewy and told them of the smell and they sent out a new bag. I fed my dog it for 2 1/2 days because I had no other food. On the third day my dog started to vomit and was extremely bloated and seemed to be in pain. At the advice of her vet we took her to the ER. She was diagnosed with gastritis due to the food. This was a $2000 vet bill. She need to be given hydration, pain meds and antibiotics. I then received the replacement bag of dog food and it smelled exactly the same.	6	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	95	Pound

EON-603704	1/22/2025 17:16	Kirkland Signature Mature Dog Chicken Rice and Egg Formula	Ordered a bag of Kirkland Mature Adult food to be shipped due to low stock. Went to Costco and found it was in stock and bought a bag since the shipped bag would not arrive for several days. One the evening of Monday Jan 20, I gave (b) (6) his dinner from the bag purchased in store. Around three hours after dinner he came in from outside and seemed to be having issues walking and was disoriented, then seemed to be okay. I thought it was perhaps the cold/snow. Gave him breakfast from the same bag yesterday morning at 6:30 am. At 9:30 am he walked into the hallway and lost control of his legs, he could not stand and was flailing around and disoriented, then he seemed okay. Less than 5 min later it happened again, this time the episode lasted longer and shortly after he threw up his breakfast. I was able to capture the second one on video. The shipped bag of food arrived yesterday afternoon. I checked the lot number to confirm it was from a different lot than the bag purchased in store and took pictures of both labels. I fed him dinner from the "new" bag last night and for breakfast this morning, and so far today no episodes or vomiting.	6	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	98	Pound
EON-603703	1/22/2025 17:16	Purina Pro Plan Adult Weight Management Shredded Blend Chicken and Rice Formula	Purchased a bag of the same food I've been feeding my dog for at least the last year, but when I arrived home and opened it, I found that the bag was full of a stringy, cobweb-like substance and live insect larvae. From some cursory research, I assume they were meal moth larvae. I recorded the lot information from the bag, took a sample of the contaminated food to put in my freezer in case a sample is needed, and then resealed the original bag and disposed of it to prevent contamination of my home. None of the contaminated food was fed to my dog.
EON-603667	1/22/2025 13:56	Just Food For Dogs Turkey and Whole Wheat Macaroni Recipe Complete Meal	I purchased Just Food For Dogs Turkey and Whole Wheat Macaroni Recipe for my two rescues. This is a "shelf stable" product. This product was purchased in November, 2024. Shortly after receiving the product, I noticed that the individual packages seemed to be swelling. This was after having fed my dogs several servings. Both of my pets experienced diarrhea but I just felt it was related to a food change. I notified JFFD customer service regarding the swelling issue and provided photos of the swollen containers. Shortly afterwards, I was issued a refund. However, I contacted them regarding the status of their evaluation and if they planned to recall this product. I've been ghosted!!!! These containers have a Best By Date of 01 Oct 2026. EON-603663	1/22/2025 13:48	DreamBone Mini Sticks Wrapped with Real Chicken No Rawhide. "The Healthy Alternative to Rawhide"	I purchased DreamBone Mini Sticks Wrapped with Real Chicken No Rawhide, gave my dog one Monday Jan 20, 2025 and later that night he started whining and is having bloody diarrhea, he will not eat nor drink, I do not have the funds to take my dog to the vet. I researched after the fact and found this product has caused death in many dogs and severe sickness in many many more. People have reported it way back in 2020 and I'm so angry this product is still being sold. My dog most likely is going to die, he's now just laying on his side panting hard and squealing in pain. He lays and bloody diarrhea just floods the pad he's on. He is my emotional support animal and I failed him by not researching beforehand, being naive, I didn't think a product with as many complaints of the exact same issue as my dog is having would be on the market. After he got the chicken off he started to chew on the bone and I always monitor him, the bone literally broke into several sharp pieces. I was able to pick them all up before he ate any of them but apparently the bone isn't the issue, it's the chicken wrapped around it because that's all he ate. This started on the 20th and has not gotten better, only worse. I'm sitting here watching my best friend and emotional support animal die. I cannot pay a $2-3 thousand dollar vet bill on a fixed income. This should have never happened as this product should have been banned 5 years ago!	8	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	7.5	Pound

EON-603453	1/21/2025 14:12	Vital Pet Life Salmon Oil	I'm concerned that the product contains an extremely high level of Omega-9 and the manufacturer's "Feeding Directions" are suggesting a dangerous dosage of Omega-9. The ingredients list does not include any source of the Omega-9. The product is advertised as "Salmon Oil" but Omega-9 is a plant-sourced oil and the ingredients do not list the source. The dosage of Omega-9 is significant and it doesn't seem like it should be from the Vitamin E preservative in that amount. The omega-9 dosage is much higher than the recommended dosage in humans. The product's labeling as "Salmon Oil" is misleading. I contacted the manufacturer and they replied with a copy of the first Google search result, Verbatim, and did not address my question. I contacted the retailer, Amazon, which said the product is certified with the FDA and all they could do was submit a report but nothing will likely happen.

EON-603368	1/20/2025 18:24	Purina One Natural Adult Chicken & Rice Formula Dry Dog Food 40 lb bag I do not have the UPC- I discarded the bag.	We purchase Purina One Chicken and Rice 40 lb bags of dog food for all 4 of our dogs to eat. We started purchasing through Chewy 2/26/2024 through auto-ship- and beginning shortly after, one of our great Pyrenees began having seizures. EON-603288	1/18/2025 20:24	Meow Mix Original	I have been trying to figure out what was wrong with her. She has been sick for a few days. She threw up a yellow foamy liquid followed by a clear foamy liquid several times. My dog, miniature pinscher, threw up the same yellow foamy liquid last week and sometimes he will get into the cats food. That's what makes me think it's the food. I have been feeding (b) (6) the same food for years so I'm concerned that this may be a factory issue. (b) (6) has also had some diarrhea. I bought some sensitive stomach food so we will see what happens. She turns her head at the Meow mix, she didn't want it this morning. She ate the new I bought. EON-603286	1/18/2025 19:44	Purina Pro Plan Sensitive Skin and Stomach Adult Salmon and Rice dog food. (30 lbs)	I bought a 30 lb bag of Purina Pro Plan Sensitive Skin and Stomach, Salmon and Rice Adult food for my dog on 1/17/2025 at Pet Supplies Plus in (b) (6). The store had let me know that the shipment came in that day, so it had not been in their possession for very long. On 1/18/2025, I opened that bag of food and was met with an extreme chemical smell. The best way I can think to describe it is an intense, cheap plastic smell, but it wasn't anything that seemed safe to be around or even inhale. I had cut off a piece of the bag to open it, so I smelled that little piece of the bag away from the food, and it smelled totally fine. I then took a handful of the food, and smelled it away from the rest of the bag, and was again met with the chemical smell. This indicated to me that the smell came from the food, and not the bag it was packaged in.

We were looking for a replacement and saw the Rachel Ray adventure pack, and thought that it would be a suitable Alternative until they got more stock of our normal dog food. We purchased the nine portion adventure pack along with four of the 8 ounce. Rachael Ray, premium natural, wet, dog food tubs. The adventure pack contained 3-3 1/2 ounce containers in three flavors. We used the premium natural food tubs first and had no problems, But as soon as we started using the peak protein adventure pack, both of our dogs got terrible. Gas would stink up the house began a putrid uncontrollable diarrhea that contained blood after about seven or eight hours. At first, we believe that they possibly had gotten into something so we continued on after the second day we realize that it was the food we spoke to numerous animal specialist and veterinarians, as well as did our own research online and all signs we back to the Rachael Ray peak protein Food, quality, and ingredients. Thinking it could have been just a bad month of batches we decided to try it again - SAME thing. Extreme diarrhea and lethargic. I contacted Sheba AGAIN. Seems like they are not taking this serious. We completely stopped the Sheba wet food and she is starting to feel better. This company NEEDS to look into this issue. EON-602866	1/14/2025 9:04	Melody Select by Morning Song "Birdsnack Supreme"	(b) (6) a young healthy bully/boxer mix, was in the yard with me feeding the birds. Dogs we've had have eaten birdseed. Within hours or about a day or so, he started vomiting, showing signs of lethargy. I eventually checked the birdseed bag and verified that raisins were the 4th ingredient. Since I knew he had tried to eat birdseed off the ground, and I had just poured some out on the ground - I figured out that raisins were the culprit for the sudden change in symptoms. Our vets office recommended hospitalizing him immediately, getting him on IV, etc. One raisin is enough to kill a dog, according to the American Kennel Club. Thankfully, he survived the incident, but was obviously affected for many days following the toxic exposure. Costco changed their birdseed in April, our dog (b) (6) died (b) (6) suddenly/unexpectedly. We now suspect this birdseed to be the cause of his mysterious death.	3.5	Years	Bulldog - American	Dog	68	Pound

EON-602752	1/13/2025 11:12	Iams Proactive Health Urinary Tract Health - Dry	I have been feeding this food since 2020. All 3 cats were thriving on the food. Approximately 6-9 months ago, one of the cats began refusing the food. He lost a few pounds and was eating only enough to sustain his life. He became very lethargic, thin and depressed. I switched his food to another brand and he immediately began eating as if he were starving. The other 2 cats have been vomiting regularly within minutes after eating this food. Two weeks ago, the two remaining cats eating this food became violently ill at the same time. As soon as they ate the food, they would vomit it back up, plus some. I had them fast for half a day and fed a bland diet of plain chicken and bone broth while they recovered. Both cats are now acting afraid of this food. I mixed the food with another brand and they ate the pieces of the other brand leaving this food. They normally have healthy appetites and this is highly unusual for them to refuse food. After a few days of this, one of my cats has become very weak and lethargic and depressed and has lost weight, like the first cat. I swapped the food to a different brand and once again, this cat is eating like he has been starving. I understand cats can be picky, but mine are not and will eat any dry food you put in front of them. They happily ate this brand for a few years up until the last few months. Something has changed with the formula or there is something toxic in it making pets sick. Please investigate IAMS and the parent company Mars for any formula changes or toxic matter in the food. Other sites like Reddit are reporting similar issues as well as comments on popular sites like Chewy and Petco. I have contacted Iams through their customer service portal to report the issue. This has been multiple bags of food I have had the issue with, not just this specific bag. This has been going on for months in my household for a total of probably 5 bags of food - all purchased from Walmart.	10	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	13	Pound

I took her to vet around 11:30 am and they did labs and x-rays but found nothing. They sent us home with meds. She wouldn't eat or drink and had diarrhea that started looking like it had blood in it and her throw up was pink now as well. Around 5 pm she started moaning nonstop. At 10 pm she stood up and blood dripped out of her butt so I took her to the hospital and they said she was critical and admitted her. She had still been moaning nonstop since 5 pm. She stayed there for 2 days and I couldn't afford another day so I brought her home with meds. I gave her the meds and tried feeding her boiled chicken, rice, soft dog food, and hard dog food soaked in chicken broth. After about 2 weeks she started getting better. A couple of weeks ago, my mom asked me if she should start the glandex chews again. I hadn't even thought to look at those. Upon further inspection, I noticed they were sparkly so we bought another one to compare and they weren't. I did not mention the chews to the vet or hospital because I did not have a problem with them in the past. Every time my 2 dogs eat Natural Balance limited ingredient Beef and Brown rice kibble they get blood, liquid diarrhea which requires at least 1 visit to the veterinarian (has required emergency veterinarian visits). This has been happening since at least March of 2024 and continues today. They have required subcutaneous fluids, IV medications, numerous labs/fecal tests, xrays, ultrasounds, and multiple medications. One of my dogs is a senior and severe medical episodes can be life threatening. This has happened March 2024, September 2024, November 2024, and now twice in December 2024 to both of my dogs. The only common denominator is the Natural Balance Limited Ingredient Kibble. The kibble in the bags has had an unusual/stale odor at times, the kibble has been an usual color, and the texture of the kibble/crums has been different. Other individuals online, one example being consumer affairs (https://www.consumeraffairs.com/pets/natural_balan ce.html) have also reported complaints of dogs getting sick after eating Natural Balance Limited Ingredient Kibble, kibble with foul odor, kibble with foreign objects in the bag, and kibble with visible fungus growing. I do not know who to send this to for testing, but I have 3 bags of kibble that I would gladly send for testing. Affected individuals are dogs. 12 year old male and 7 year old female.
