EON-601637	12/30/2024 21:08	Purina pro plan chicken and rice adult large chunk dog food	We were told to introduce adult dog food to him and out of the 4 cups he gets at dinner we put one cup of purina pro plan adult chicken and rice large chunk dogfood in the 3 cups of purina pro plan chicken and rice puppy food. He ate his dinner and did not wake up for 5 to 6 hours which is not normal. I woke him up and tried to get him to go outside and he would not move. He looked like he did not know where he was or who I was he was shaking, and he was holding his legs up one at a time and not walking. I took him outside and he also stood there lethargic and looked like he had some kind of neurological issue. We then took him to the 24 hour vet and they didn't even do any testing but did a physical exam and said that it could not have been the dog food. They think he has hip dysplasia that just occurred within a few hours. Within 24 to 36 hours after he ate the food that was mixed in with his normal food he was 120% back to his usual self very energetic running playing. There was no issue with his hips	1.5	Years	Bulldog - American	Dog	110	Pound
EON-601629	12/30/2024 18:44	Purina Pro Plan Sport Performance 30/20 Chicken and Rice Formula High Protein Dog Food - 48 lb. Bag	We opened a new bag of Purina Pro Sport dog food, purchased from Amazon, on October 17th, 2024. On November 1, (b) (6) started acting lethargic, pacing at times, had diarrhea, was very bloated. We took him to our vet on November 5th where we had bloodwork done. His white blood cell count was very high. Our vet wanted to recheck in a week. On November 12th. we took him back in to our vet. They found fluid in the abdomen and sent us to (b) (6), where he spent 5 days in the ICU. At that point, we learned he had a septic abdomen. They were also very concerned with his albumin levels. They suspected a migrating foreign body but nothing was ever found during surgery. He was discharged and we started him on a new dog food, per the (b) (6). After 2 weeks of the new food (Royal Canin), we switched him back to Purina Pro Plan. He almost immediately started to show similar symptoms, i.e., lethargic, also started vomiting. After about 3 days on Purina, we suspected it was his food and stopped feeding him it. Within 24 hours, he stopped vomiting and started to have more normal energy.	6	Years	Brittany	Dog	50	Pound

Some even had blood in the vomit. We stopped the food and it cleared up. We gave it back to them in a week and immediately the same thing happened. So it was not a virus but the food. One of our cats is on a special diet an does not eat this food at all. He never got sick.	10	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	15	Pound

EON-601572	12/30/2024 9:48	Purina Pro Plan	My dog was having diarrhea, and I noticed worms and small beetles crawling around in her food.this is the 3rd time I've noticed this over the course of a few months. So it was in 3 different bags months apart. I initially thought they may have snuck in our food bin so I thoroughly cleaned it. But since this was the 3rd time I did some research and found many reports of complaints from other dog owners. I started feeding her other food and she seems to be improving.	4	Years	Shepherd Dog - German	Dog	95	Pound

EON-601532	12/29/2024 16:04	Purina One Chicken and Rice Formula.	My dog has developed a liver abscess that required surgical removal. It has impacted her organs, especially her kidneys. She has lost lots of blood and has had fluid develop in her heart, kidneys, and other organs. She started to go septic last night after surgery. The doctors think it could have been caused by switching her over to Purina One. This all started the day after she was fed Purina One. The abscess is now removed but she still has major complications and has been given a 50/50 chance of survival.	3	Years	Ridgeback - Rhodesian	Dog	95	Pound
EON-601524	12/29/2024 10:00	Members Mark Chicken and Brown Rice Recipe	Dog vomited within 5 minutes of eating the dog food. We held his food for the rest of the day thinking it was a stomach bug or he might have eaten something he shouldn't have. The next day we feed him again and within five minutes he threw up again. He became lethargic and had no interest in eating. Later that day he was begging for table scraps like he was hungry but was avoiding the dog food. We gave him a couple scraps and he seemed fine so I poured beef broth on his food and he scarfed it up. After about 30 minutes he became lethargic again and laid on the floor groaning for the rest of the night. I noticed his stool was extremely loose. The next day he seemed to be feeling better but avoided his food again. We let him go the whole day without food thinking whatever it was needed to run its course. The following day he seemed back to himself but still did not want his food so I put beef broth on his food again and he immediately ate it. Within 30 minutes he was on the floor grunting and his stomach was growling. At that Point I realized it had something to do with the food. We immediately took him off the food and feed him an alternative the next day. He has been fine ever since.	9	Years	Coonhound - Black and Tan	Dog	80	Pound

At his annual in August, his regular vet heard a heart gallop and referred us to a cardiologist. (b) (6) was diagnosed with diet-associated dilated cardiomyopathy, early congestive heart failure and mild mitral regurgitation on August 13, 2024 via echocardiogram by a cardiologist. He has been on various "grain free" foods since 2022 and his DCM is diet-associated. He has struggled with the medications needed for his heart and his health has been up and down and we've been in the ER because of the effects of these foods. He just had his 4 month follow up echocardiogram on 12/23/24 and his left atrium which was very enlarged upon diagnosis and causing heart failure in August 2024 has gone back to almost normal because he was put on nutritionally-balanced and tested Royal Canin food by his vet nutritionist at (b) (6) as well as heart supportive medications. His left ventricle is still enlarged and has not changed since his last echo in August 2024. He will likely be on expensive medications and will need expensive follow up testing and echocardiograms for the rest of his life. I was not able to attach any of his vet records at the end of this report- the file upload feature kept failing even with correct file types and short titles. They should be easy to request from his vets, and I can also send what I have if someone gets in touch with me, and if that is helpful. Thank you! - (b) (6)	11	Years	Unknown	Dog	68	Pound
EON-601503	12/28/2024 15:44	hill's Prescription Diet Gastrointestinal Biome	I have been purchasing this very expensive prescription dog food for my dog who has gastrointestinal issues. For the first few years, the food was fine. Then, about a month ago, I received 3 cases of the canned food that was 75% water with very little food. I complained to the manufacturer and send photos, who assured me that it was probably just a problem with that batch. They sent me replacement cases. I received them and SAME issue. 75% water.....at $65.00 per case of 12 cans. I went online and found many complaints about how HILLS is ripping us off and how our pets are now being fed God knows what. When I complained again, I was offered coupons. THIS IS NOT OK.

I've been told the product makes their intestines bleed it's happened to other dogs that took the supplement also. I know it was the supplement because nothing ever changes in their diet except the supplement and the 4 dogs that took the native pet reacted to it like that but the puppy who didn't take the supplement was fine. He did not eat or drink water for 3 days straight, he was shaking, lethargic, vomiting dark yellow bile for 2 days, poor coordination, isolated himself. I took him to the vet and after spending $700 on X-rays found out he is likely just having an adverse digestive event in reaction to the change in his food as this was the first time I've ever fed him turkey cat food when I normally just feed him turkey meat (which he has never had a reaction to). The vet gave him fluids and told me to bring him back if he didn't start to eat and he thankfully did start to eat the next day but refuses to even sniff the turkey wet cat food. EON-601224	12/23/2024 17:20	Acana Go Beyond the 1st Ingredient First Feast with free-run chicken and whole herring kitten	I bought the Acana kitten food for my cat for the first time. I bought three bags of 4 lbs each. The three bags had kibbles with some sort of spikes coming from the inside of the kibble. It reminds me of something from fish, and the food was made of chicken and herring. I touched my skin with the sharp parts of it and I could feel it was sharp. If the cat had eaten it, it could have caused serious problems in the GI tract since the mucosa is so sensitive. I checked the Chewy website for reviews on the product, and someone who bought the same type of food this month of Dec 2024 had the same issue. I saw the pictures she posted, and it was the same issue. In her case, her cats did eat the food because she did not notice the spikes and they started pooping blood and vomiting blood. It is probably a bad batch that quality control missed it. I think it must be recalled to avoid hurting other kittens out there. Please, do something about it if you can.

EON-601219	12/23/2024 17:04	Blue Buffalo Wilderness Chicken Recipe Grain-Free Dry Dog Food Adult	I bought my dog from a registered breeder with no history of heart defects or diseases in any of her dogs. We fed him blue buffalo grain free diet and around age 4/5, he started showing signs of DCM. At age 6 he was diagnosed with stage 4 heart failure and we were instructed to switch to another diet. Throughout all of his vet visits prior to being diagnosed with DCM and heart failure, he had no heart problems. Due to the inflammation in his heart, he progressed to the final stage 6 heart failure over the next 3 years. He started hemorrhaging from the heart failure and had to be put down at age 9. He was half Pomeranian and half Chihuahua. The vet does think the blue buffalo food was the cause of this disease to begin with.	9	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	14	Pound

EON-600922	12/19/2024 9:36	Farmina N&D Prime Chicken & Pomegranate Recipe Adult Cat Dry Foot 11-lb bag	We bought an 11 lb bag of Farmina's N&D chicken and pomegranate recipe adult cat dry food, and the food appeared to be too moist (and crumbly). This is a food that we had purchased before in the 3.3 lb bag, and I don't remember noting any issues with the smaller bag. I contacted Chewy (where we bought the food) to report the issue, and they sent us a second 11 lb bag as a replacement. The replacement bag had the same issue. Chewy wanted us to ship the first bag back to them (which they apparently do when the price is above a certain amount), and at that point our cats had started eating it, and we never got around to it (so never got a refund--not that the money is the issue). The cats didn't seem to have any ill effects, so we kept feeding it (the cats love Farmina's dry foods). However, we were at the vets recently and both cats are now having dental issues. They're Siamese mixes (so prone to this), but they're young cats and at their previous visits their teeth were perfect. It occurs to me that the fact that the Farmina is not crunchy enough is causing the dental issues.
EON-600919	12/19/2024 8:24	Purina Friskies Shreds	Opened a sealed can of cat food and saw a black object in the gravy. Fished it out and placed on paper towel. The black blob has legs. Obviously it is not beef? It is some sort of black bug.
EON-600918	12/19/2024 8:16	Nitro Chicken and Brown Rice Adult Dog Food	I bought a bag of Nutro Chicken and Brown Rice Adult Dog Food on Monday 12/16 from Target in (b) (6) and fed it to her that evening. Approximately 24-30hrs later she woke me up in the middle of the night because she had diarrhea. It was very soft, some greyish color, with mucus. Then she went ahead about 6hrs later and it wasn't much but there was what looked like a little blood in her stool. She has never had stool like this before so I am worried. And I just bought that brand new bag of dog food Monday night. She has eaten this same exact food since she was a puppy, so about 7yrs. I think the food could have been contaminated, and she could possibly have salmonella.	7.5	Years	Shepherd Dog - Australian	Dog	43	Pound

EON-600805	12/17/2024 16:48	Dogs ??Chicken Jerky Treats	My dog has eaten Dogs Love chicken treats for 2 years with no issues. A new bag from Costco appeared different color and texture. After 2 days of eating these treats she began vomiting and had bloody diarrhea. It is my 6th day of this. The vet put her on 3 different meds to help. I posted on a Costco Facebook page and many people are having issues now that they never had before. Online research shows they have started using Chinese products. The vet was aware of this. Clearly there is an issue where dogs are now getting sick from this jerky treat. The company has disconnected their phones and has not replied to my email.	5	Years	Poodle (unspecified)	Dog	24	Pound
EON-600759	12/17/2024 8:32	Purina Beneful Wet Dog Food Variety Pack Chopped Blends - (12) 10 oz. Tubs	We received two new boxes of dog food via dog food delivery service. Immediately after opening a container and distributing to both pets they immediately had digestive issues right away. After a few days of trying and alot of cleaning we took a break and fed them chicken and rice to calm their stomachs down. Once calm we tried to feed them normal food from the container again and almost instantly the dogs had digestive problems and could no longer control their bowels. We have been feeding them this brand for years and only occasionally have received a "bad batch" from the company and never really thought anything about it until we experimented this time and found out the food was truly the cause.	12	Years	Dachshund (unspecified)	Dog	14	Pound

EON-600731	12/16/2024 17:44	Dr. Marty Nature's Blend Active Vitality Premium Freeze-Dried Raw Dog Food For Dogs Ages 7 & Up	My (b) (6) who was a Yorkshire Terrier had heart murmur problem and that's why I was paying extra attention to what he was eating. His vet had said it was 3 out of 6. I'm a very health conscious person so I was giving him all the healthy food such as plain yogurt, omega 3, organic flax seed, hemp seed, banana and vitamins for heart. I was also giving him baby Aspirin once a week. He was feeling so good until I switched to Dr. Marty's dog food. I switched the bag type in every order such as the one for small breed, healthy digestion, essential wellness and few days before he died, I gave him active vitality product. He started drinking a lot of water after I switched to this food last year around March. I thought it was good that he started drinking more water. I never thought that it would cause him bloating problem. I realized he started having breathing and bloating problem but I thought it was probably due to his age. He died suddenly last week on (b) (6) in the morning. He started panting and breathing so fast. I got him to take him to the vet and his heart stopped on Lyft. I started giving him CPR in the car. By the time we got to (b) (6) which was 5-10 mins away from my home, his heart got back and they took him in. They didn't let me go in which made me very upset. Few minutes later, the vet came to the room and said he passed away. He said his oxygen level was low and they didn't do CPR which is mind boggling. They should have performed CPR. Unfortunately, it is very hard to find a good vet in the U.S. I am replaying about what happened that day and prior to that day and there is no other explanation that I can think of. Dr. Marty's food has something in it that makes dogs to drink more water and it causes bloating. Our babies die suddenly without any warning. Please test all Dr. Marty's dog food products. In my opinion, you will discover high sodium level and something toxic.	13	Years	Terrier - Yorkshire	Dog	10	Pound

EON-600730	12/16/2024 17:44	Canine Hydrolyzed Protein HP	My dog, (b) (6) was prescribed Royal Canin hydrolyzed protein more than 2 years ago by her vet because she has irritable bowl disorder and allergies. It worked great for those 2+ years. On October 31, 2024, she started having terrible flare ups and pooping blood. She couldn't keep any food in her system. I did not expect it was the food at first because she has been on it for so long, so I went to the vet and we ran blood tests, fecal tests, etc. and everything came back as normal. For 6 weeks she continued to have these flare ups and we couldn't get any answers. She grew more lethargic due to not being able to properly keep food in her system. So I started researching her food again and noticed she was not alone in her symptoms. In the last few months, Royal Canin HP diet has received dozens of reviews from all across North America explaining the same side effects my dog is experiencing:https://www.royalcanin.com/us/dogs/products/vet-products/hydrolyzed-protein-hp-3910? Many of the reviews complained about a formula change that I was not made aware of, so I contacted Royal Canin asking about this and what they plan to do after making all of these dogs sick who depended on this food. They informed me it was "unlikely that her symptoms were due to this food or the formula change." However, the reviews prove otherwise. Royal Canin stopped responding once I questioned their reviews and why they haven't done a recall after seeing these reviews. I have since changed my dog to a different HP diet from a different brand and her symptoms disappeared, once again proving it was due to the food.	4	Years	Poodle - Standard	Dog	52	Pound

EON-600725	12/16/2024 17:44	Tiny Tiger Indoor Cat Food	I have been feeding my 7 indoor cats Tiny Tiger kibble for 6 years. Last bag I bought, they started to eat and for over 2 weeks now, refuse to eat it. All 7 will not eat it at all. Typically, I have to refill the gravity feeder about every 1 and half weeks. The small bowl in another room I have to top off or refill every day. Neither have been touched beyond the second day I put the fresh food out. My cats are losing weight because of this. They do get wet twice a day, about 1/4 cup each bowl. Cats are finicky and I thought they were just going thru a phase of not eating this dry kibble. Recently my youngest dog, (b) (6) has started throwing up. We feed them around 3pm everyday and noticed that around 11pm she is throwing up. At first we thought it may have been a treat we gave her but it started happening every night, even after cutting out all treats. The only thing in her throw up is the food, which is well chewed up so it can't be like she is choking on it for not chewing it. Anyways, this is the 4th night now and it has happened again. We've pinpointed that it can't be anything but the food as we've taking everything into accountability and removed everything from her diet except for her food.	3	Years	Crossbred Canine/dog	Dog	40	Pound

EON-600611	12/14/2024 18:08	Fancy Feast Tender Beef Pate Gourmet Cat Food	(b) (6) all 14#, has devoured his mid-day snack of Fancy Feast Tender Beef Pate until now. Like clockwork, he shows up at around 3 PM begging for his treat. Five days ago he smelt the food, rejected it and walked away. I opened another can, same flavor, and he refused it as well. I took another can that I purchased earlier and he ate that right away. Sofar I have had 4 cans rejected, all were purchased the same day at the same store. I called Fancy Feast/Purina to report the problem. I provided the ID/date/Best By number on the can and was told the formula had not been changed. I said something has changed, my cat takes a sniff and looks at me like what's this? I provided the name and location of the store as requested. My cat has refused to eat other brands of wet food, as well as other flavors of Fancy Feast wet food. Other than dry kibble and Gerber baby food in the jar, Fancy Feast Tender Beef Pate is all he will eat. I gave him a dual name, (b) (6) for a reason; he loves to eat. So his rejection of his Fancy Feast after 4-years tells me there was something wrong with that particular flavor and production run. Purina is sending me some coupons for the cans I had to toss. I was at the same store 2 days ago and the shelf was empty. That happens occasionally and that's why I buy in volume, up to 10 at a time. What was unusual was there was more empty shelf space next to where the Beef Pate is stocked. Like maybe the stock had been removed? Never know.	3	Years	Mixed (Cat)	Cat	14	Pound

EON-600609	12/14/2024 18:04	Purina Pro Plan Hydrolyzed Protein - Vegetarian	^{(b) (6)} has been eating Purina Pro Plan Hydrolyzed Protein - Vegetarian for four years. He started eating it during an elimination diet to find his food sensitivities and allergies. He liked it so much, I kept him on it. He has never had an issue before. I opened a new bag for him around Wed, November 20th. He started to have liquid diarrhea that he could not manage on Sunday, November 24th. I did not suspect the food at first because of the days in between him starting a new bag and the GI issues. However, his 8x a day and night diarrhea continued through Wed when I switched him to rice and called his vet. As soon as he switched to rice and took prescription probiotics, the issue stopped. When I reintroduced the Purina gradually, the issue started again. When I switched him back to plain rice, the diarrhea stopped. Again, when I tried kibble, it started again. He saw the vet again because this had now been going on for 10 days. They suggested getting a new bag of the same dog food. I bought a new bag of Purina Pro Plan Hydrolyzed Protein - Vegetarian and the diarrhea immediately stopped. The batch of food in the original bag is bad or contaminated. It was so bad we had to take her to the vet ER. There she had multiple rounds of very bloody diarrhea. She was also throwing up. She had to get bloodwork and X-rays done which cost us $1,700. I contacted Friskies questioning what these particles were and was told that they were likely bone fragments. I had been purchasing the Seaford variety, separated some of these out, and took pictures of them. I didn't think that the particles were good for my cats and bought another brand and to my surprise, it too contained the same looking particles. This other brand was also seafood-based. I assumed that since fish have small bones, they were caught up in the grinding process. So I decided to switch to their poultry-based products thinking that would solve the bone problem but it didn't as the same looking particles were in these varieties as well. Over time the size of these particles has gotten bigger and bigger which keeps raising my concerns about the potential health effects on my cats. According to the internet, Your cat can eat bones, but that doesn't mean it should. Unfortunately, no, bones are not safe for your cat. Now I really don't know what these white particles are but whatever they are they can't be safe for cats to eat. This issue needs to be investigated as these particles shouldn't be in the cat food million of people are feeding to their cats

EON-600532	12/13/2024 11:44	Feline Renal Support + Hydrolyzed Protein	My cat has been on this food since August 2024. I received a batch with the expiration date January 2026 and the kibble was extremely dark in color, which is abnormal because the kibble is normally yellow. I didn't want to give it to her as I was nervous about this change but this food is so hard to find and the only food my cat can eat so I gave her some while I ordered a new bag and waited for that to arrive. She was eating a lot less of the food and was less interested in it (she LOVES the normal, yellow kibble, and when I still had some of the yellow kibble left I mixed the two batches together and she would pick out the yellow kibble and avoid the new batch). Four days after starting this batch she had excessive diarrhea and threw up three times that week. She had previously been stable in terms of her stools and vomiting. I immediately stopped giving her this food (thankfully the new bag arrived around the time her symptoms started). The new bag I received has an expiration date of February 2026 and while it is not back to the normal yellow color it is not the dark dark brown that the January 2026 exp. batch was. Her stools are still on the softer side but the vomiting and diarrhea have ceased. I looked online and other people had the same problem with the Jan 2026 exp. batch. I have heard the March 2026 exp. batch is back to normal and am trying to find that. I do not want this food discontinued my cat NEEDS it, it is all she can eat, but the batch with a Jan. 2026 exp. date needs to be recalled for the safety of these animals with dual chronic illnesses.	5	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	11	Pound

She did not want to eat the new bag of food. She would sniff it and refuse to eat it. Usually she would eat her food very fast and she loves eating. She did not love this bag of dog food. She would sniff it and eat it very reluctantly. We added parmesan cheese to the top to encourage her to eat. About half way through the bag she started having trouble walking and started developing what looked like neurological problems. We stopped feeding her this food and switched to Open Nature chicken and rice. (b) (6) is still having neurological issues that have been confirmed on an MRI. She has had multiple blood tests that don't show any reason for her to have problems. Her MRI indicates Brain swelling from encephalitis and meningitis. We don't know if it was caused by the dog food, but we think it could be related. The reason for her brain swelling has not been determined. She has started taking prednisone and we hope she will improve.	11	Months	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	51	Pound

EON-600450	12/12/2024 11:24	FreshPet Chicken	I had been feeding my dog fresh pet for about a year, I purchased it again like I normally do and when fed to her she began vomiting yellow bile. She dehydrated, had seizures and when taken to the vet they had said her liver enzymes were extremely high. She did not ingest anything poisonous, the cause was her food. She passed away shortly after due to liver failure. I've seen many reports online of FreshPet and high liver enzymes, and feel the need to report this finding to save other dogs out there who may be consuming this food.	4	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	8.5	Pound

EON-600449	12/12/2024 11:24	Royal Canin Cat Hydrolyzed Protein HP Diet Dry	Cat, who was being treated for IBD with metronidazole and newly-prescribed hydroxylated protein diet (x 3 days) Started on Royal Canin product- (b) (6) at 1/2 cup three times a day. On (b) (6), she subsequently developed unsteady gait, falls, worsening lethargy and progressive neurological decline. Taken to vet on (b) (6) for worsening symptoms. Basic lab tests (attached) were non-revealing and the vet suggested either transfer to a specialty ER for an urgent neurologist consultation or euthanasia. The vet could not rule of feline COVID. The cat (named (b) (6) for the records) was euthanized and had developed rapid clinical deterioration after only 36 hrs. EDITORIALIZATION Of note, although neurological toxicity is a KNOWN adverse reaction associated with metronidazole, the cat was previously treated with a 40 mg BID dose of compounded oral metronidazole solution for 7 days (from (b) (6)) without side effects. The medication was reintroduced one week later (after continued refrigeration and re-started (b) (6)) and only give 3 doses of 40 mg BID (along with the hydroxylated protein diet) before the neurological symptoms developed. In addition, the cat's neurological symptoms worsened with time, even 48 hrs after the last metronidazole dose (>4 half lives of metronidazole), which makes it a less likely culprit. Lastly, the vet- (b) (6) commented that the prescribed dose (40 mg BID) was "relatively low" to cause such extensive neurological symptoms.	7	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	8	Pound
EON-600448	12/12/2024 11:24	Hill's Prescription Diet Digestive Care i/d dry food	My personal cat, (b) (6) was a 17 year old, male neutered domestic long hair. I've checked his blood work q 6-12 months, most recently in May 2024 and he's consistently shown static low Stage 2 CKD for the past 2 years with presumptive IBD. He recently became hyporexic last week and after rechecking his blood work, he had end stage renal disease and was severely anemic. He was started on aggressive fluid therapy, K supplement, phosphate binders, but had a seizure on (b) (6) and was euthanized that day. I was unable to save him and I realize at 17, it could've been triggered by a number of other things; however, at the same time, my other healthy cat, a female spayed, 7 year old, DSH also became uninterested in food, as well as, another young cat belonging to a staff member at our clinic. My younger cat and staff cat were both eating i/d dry from the same shipment and after this episode, we switched them out to canned food and both started eating readily. (b) (6) was on S/O; however, would also get into his housemate's food occasionally. I haven't tested the other two cat's blood work as both are doing better now since switching food, but I can provide the blood work belonging to (b) (6) I've reserved a couple samples of food from my house.	17	Years	Domestic Longhair	Cat	7	Pound
EON-600447	12/12/2024 11:24	Purina ONE Plus Skin and Coat Dry Dog Food High Protein Natural Salmon	10 year old entirely healthy Australian Cattie Dog became exceedingly sick after consuming new bag of dog food. Symptoms include severe and rapid weigh loss, lethargy, vomiting. I noticed that, after consuming 1/3 - 1/2 of the bag over the course of a couple of weeks, our dog was avoiding eating. However, I also noticed that he was still interested in "scrounging" around the yard and kitchen as though he still had an appetite. We discontinued the food, stated an entirely new brand of dog food, and are seeing modest improvements. The missing weight and lethargy persists.

EON-600156	12/8/2024 18:28	Just food for dogs complete meal cooked fresh simply thaw and serve venison and squash recipe, JustFoodForDogs Complete meal cooked fresh simply thaw and serve Fish and sweet potato recipe	I've been feeding JustFoodForDogs venison and squash fresh frozen recipe to my dog for years. She loves it and we've never had a problem before. I picked up 4 bags of food at the Petco 8 minutes from my house and drove straight home to store it properly. Once defrosted, I fed her food like I always do. A couple hours later she had a soft stool. A few hours after that, she had diarrhea which got worse and worse for hours until she began defecating blood at which point I took her to the emergency veterinarian. They performed ultrasounds, x-rays, bloodwork, and other tests and found no obstructions or anything to explain the sudden, violent illness. They provided specialty prescription dog food that's supposed to be easy on the stomach. My dog ate that for a few days and got completely better. Then I slowly switched her back to her JFFD, and she became violently ill again in the same way. I contacted the manufacturer. They were very apologetic and sent me some new food. The food arrived a few weeks later. I started slowly switching her back to JFFD. Yesterday was the first day her meals were majority JFFD. She followed the same illness progression described above. The new food they sent was from a different lot number. Again, (b) (6) has been eating this food for years with no issue. I worry that their manufacturing facility may be contaminated since this adverse reaction occurred only with JFFD, only recently, and across different batches/lot numbers. (b) (6) is back on the Rx Hillspet i/d food and recovering quickly this time since I now know what the problem is. I have lots of documents, but the website won't let me upload them. EON-599988	12/6/2024 16:40	Grandma Lucy's Artisan Lamb Recipe freeze-dried dog food	Grandma Lucy's Artisan Lamb Recipe freeze-dried dog food is a food that I've been buying for years. The last two bags did not smell fresh like all the previous bags I have purchased. I returned the first 10lb bag because there was a tear/cut in the bag and I thought that exposure to air may have caused it to smell more like chemicals than fresh food. The store replaced it with a new bag, but upon opening it the 2nd (new) bag, it also smelled like chemicals, not fresh food like it always had in the past. I called the company, but never received a return call. My 1 yo German Shepherd developed pneumonia within a few weeks of feeding her from the 2nd (new) bag of food. I removed that food from her diet, mainly due to her reluctance to eat it, while she was treated with 2 antibiotics for 28 days. She recovered, stopped coughing, so I added the unused food back to her diet on December 1st 2024, and on DEC 3rd she started coughing again. We are going to the vet today for a diagnosis, but my fear is that there is mold or mold spores in this batch of food. Mold spores can cause pneumonia.

EON-599943	12/6/2024 9:00	Kirkland Signature Pate Cat Food Variety Pack 3.5 oz 45-count	I purchased "Kirkland Signature Pate Cat Food Variety Pack, 3.5 oz, 45-count" in October 2024 and began giving it to my cat. On (b) (6) approximately a month after eating this food (1/4 can per day, mixed with water to up his liquid intake) he began acting oddly. Overnight it became clear he was in pain. The next day I took him to the vet, who said he had a urinary obstruction and I had to have him put down. My children and I are absolutely devastated at the loss of our beloved (b) (6) He was completely healthy prior to eating this food - the only health issues he had prior were acute illnesses and some gastrointestinal issues if I switched his food brand too quickly. He was completely fine...and then suddenly wasn't and had to be put down. I offered the food up on a neighborhood "free stuff" swap group, and someone asked for confirmation the food was Kirkland brand from Costco. After I confirmed this, she told me her brother's cat had also died a couple months prior from sudden kidney issues shortly after starting the same food. That kitty was also healthy prior to eating the Kirkland wet pate. After doing some online research, I discovered multiple reports of pet owners stating their cats suddenly had issues with urinary system issues after eating this food. Some owners report feeding it to their cat with no issues successfully for years, while others stated that their cat ate it fine for years, then early this year started having reactions and had to be switched. Some believe the recipe changed...and obviously not for the better as it is now hurting cats. 			To be clear - my cat previously had zero issues related to his urinary tract. He always urinated just fine right where he was supposed to. After reading everything, it is very clear this food is likely why my cat suddenly had a urinary blockage that led to his death (I couldn't afford the surgery). My family is devastated. I will never use that food again and would love it to be investigated or SOMETHING so someone else doesn't lose their pet.

EON-599825	12/4/2024 13:52	Whole Hearted Smart Smiles	I have already reported the choking death of my dog (b) (6) from a Whole Hearted Smart Smile dental chew in a separate report. It ocured to me that there is a fatal flaw on the packaging/labeling. My dog was not over weight and I purchased the appropriate size treat for him that was recommended on the packaging. Petco corrolates choosing the right size based on weight which is supposed to prevent choking, but what if a dog is overweight? Let's say they should weigh 13lbs, but they weigh 16 lbs. so instead of buying the size for 5-15lb, they buy the bigger size for 15-25 lbs? The size of the dogs trachea would not change because they are overweight! The dog could then choke. This is a fatal flaw in the product and the pacaking. I have offered to collarborate with Petco about all of my concerns to prevent future deaths and they have declined. They need to talk to consumers. Please take these off the market as the sizing by weight could cause a choking fatality in an overweight dog and Petco is not interested in collaborating with me about my concerns. BTW my dog was a purebred Pomeranian and hard to believe, but there is no Pomeranian listed on your breed selection option so I had to choose. unknown. Also I found this information from AI and AI agrees with me and says I am absolutely right. ChatGPT said: You're absolutely right, and this is a valid concern. The claim that choosing the right size dental chew based on a dog's weight will prevent choking can indeed be misleading, especially when considering factors like jaw strength, chewing ability, and individual dog behavior. Here's why it could be misleading: Weight Doesn't Always Reflect Chewing Ability: While manufacturers suggest choosing chew sizes based on a dog's weight, it doesn't account for differences in chewing ability. Two dogs of the same weight might have very different jaw strengths, chewing habits, or even preferences for how they consume their treats. For instance, an overweight dog may not have the same ability to chew through a larger treat as a healthy dog of the same size, even though both dogs are technically in the same weight range.	6	Years	Unknown	Dog	5	Pound

			Choking Risk Depends on Chewing Habits: Choking risk is much more closely tied to the dog's behavior with the treat (such as swallowing large chunks without chewing properly) than their weight or even their size. If a dog tries to swallow a treat whole or doesn't break it down into smaller pieces, the size of the treat becomes a significant factor in choking, regardless of the dog's weight. Overweight Dogs and Size Mismatch: For overweight dogs, the guideline based on weight might lead to the selection of a chew that is too large for them to handle properly, which could increase the risk of choking or other issues, especially if they are less likely to chew thoroughly. What Manufacturers Could Do Differently: Clarify the Role of Jaw Strength and Chewing Habits: Manufacturers could provide more specific guidance on how to select the right chew size based on a dog's chewing style or strength rather than just weight. This could include advice about looking for signs that a dog is struggling with a larger chew (e.g., not breaking it down into smaller pieces, swallowing large chunks). Provide More Detailed Size Recommendations: Offering guidance based on the dog's breed, age, or individual health (such as dental health or jaw strength) could be more effective in ensuring the right chew size. Highlight Supervision: Clearly stressing the importance of always supervising dogs while they chew could help mitigate choking risks, as even the right-size treat could lead to choking if the dog is unsupervised or doesn't chew properly. In summary, while weight can serve as a general guideline, it doesn't account for all the factors that influence choking risk. It's important for pet owners to understand that choosing the right size chew also involves considering the dog's individual chewing habits, health status, and supervision while chewing.

			Regarding the advisory to supervise your dog while chewing on a dental chew: upervising a dog is crucial for preventing choking, but it doesn't always guarantee that a dog won't choke or that you'll be able to help if they do. Here are some reasons why supervision alone might not be enough: Speed of the Incident: Choking can happen very quickly, sometimes faster than we can react. A dog may inhale a small object or food piece in a fraction of a second, before the supervisor can even intervene. Severity of the Blockage: If something gets lodged in the airway very tightly, even if you're right there, it might be difficult to dislodge it quickly without knowing the right technique or being calm enough to act. Sometimes, even with proper first aid knowledge, it can still be difficult to help effectively. Inability to Recognize Symptoms: In some cases, a dog may not show immediate signs of choking. Dogs can struggle silently, or the symptoms (like coughing or gagging) may not be noticeable at first, making it harder to assess the situation in time. Type of Object: Some objects are harder to remove than others. For example, a smooth, round object might be harder to remove than something with sharp edges that can be grabbed or dislodged. Panic: If a person panics, it can hinder their ability to act quickly and decisively. The stress of the situation can delay responses or make it harder to use the right methods (like the Heimlich maneuver or back blows). Limited Knowledge of First Aid: Not everyone knows the proper steps to take if a dog is choking. Without knowing how to perform dog-specific first aid, even someone supervising might struggle to help effectively. Advising consumers to simply "be present" while their dogs are eating or playing with toys does not adequately address the potential risks of choking, and here's why:

Key	Created	Product Name	Description	Age	Age UOM	Breed	Species	Weight	Weight UOM
			It Underestimates the Speed of the Incident: Choking can occur in an instant, often too quickly for a human to react even if they are watching closely. The warning "be present" implies that the consumer has time to step in if something goes wrong, but in reality, many choking incidents happen so fast that even immediate supervision may not prevent it. It Doesn't Account for Severity: Not all choking incidents can be resolved just by observing. If the object lodged in the dog's airway is difficult to dislodge or causes complete obstruction, simply being present may not be enough to help. Immediate action—knowing how to perform first aid or the Heimlich maneuver for dogs—is necessary to avoid a fatal outcome. The warning "be present" does not equip consumers with the necessary knowledge or skill to act effectively in such emergencies. It Relies on the Assumption of Constant Awareness: Even when present, people may not always be fully aware of every action their dog is taking. Dogs often eat quickly or engage with toys in ways that may not immediately signal danger. The warning doesn't consider how difficult it can be to monitor a dog's every move, especially if distractions occur or if the dog is independent and moves out of sight. It Doesn't Provide Clear Action Steps: Simply advising presence doesn't prepare the consumer for what to do if choking occurs. Without specific instructions, like recognizing the signs of choking, performing back blows, or contacting a veterinarian immediately, consumers may be unsure about how to proceed in an emergency, which could lead to delay in critical response time. It Minimizes the Potential for Panic or Mistakes: Even the most diligent supervision can fail under the stress of an emergency. The "be present" warning doesn't take into account how panic or confusion can impair one's ability to respond effectively. Without a clear, actionable plan, the consumer may freeze or make mistakes in a high-pressure situation. In short, advising just to "be present" is insufficient because it assumes that simply being around will prevent the choking or lead to a successful rescue, when in reality, immediate intervention and knowledge of how to handle the situation are key to preventing harm. A more effective warning would include both the importance of supervision and the need for training in canine first aid.

EON-599808	12/4/2024 11:36	PetAG Esbilac® Puppy Milk Replacer Liquid	The following concerns PetAG's Esbilac® Puppy Milk Replacer Liquid. When our litter was born (b) (6)). 12 total puppies, all in extremely good health for the first 10 days of their lives. We used the powder version of Esbilac brand milk replacement. For the first 10 days, zero issues. We had to order more, and they had the Esbilac pre-mixed instead of the powder mix--yourself version. We mixed what we had left of the original powder formula with the new liquid, and weened them onto it for the first feeding. We then fed them 2 more times with the pre-made version. This is all on day 10 of their lives. On the 11th morning, every single puppy was vomiting uncontrollably. We attempted to swap back to the original formula as we had replenished our stock at home. Our assumption was the pups weren't used to premixed, and the vomiting may be a mild reaction. As I was holding one in my hands, it had a massive seizure and began vomiting. I sped off to the vet, and this innocent little puppy passed away in my hands in route. My fiancé called me and frantically said another was having a seizure. She speeds off to meet me. The pup flatlines, and she is able to resuscitate it. The vet quickly went to work upon her arrival. We made the decision to return home and rush the rest to the vet. From 12pm-8pm we lost 3 more, 4 total pups gone. The exact same symptoms occurred in this premixed formula in 2009-2010. Seizures, vomiting, pet passing away. The puppies are kept in a separate area, in groups of 4, in their own enclosures/bins. This jumped between bins, no single group was affected alone.	10	Days	Other Canine/dog	Dog
EON-599791	12/4/2024 9:40	Whole Hearted Smart Smiles	THIS IS A FOLLOW UP TO THE REPORT THAT I SUBMITTED ON (b) (6) which was the date of my beloved (b) (6) death from a Smart Smile Dental Chew. The Pomeranian breed is not listed, but (b) (6) was a purebred Pomeranian. I had to choose unknown. I was directed by Jim Delaney and tech support to handle it this way since I haVe more information and did not have my original report key. I also was so distraught when I filed t he report on the date of (b) (6) death that I just wanted to notifythe FDA so this would not happen to another dog. I assumed someone would call me for further details. No one did. I gave (b) (6) a Smart Smile Dental chew at approximately 2:45pm on (b) (6). At the time I did not know they were a generic brand of greenies, made by Petco or I never would purchased them and have given it to him as I know how bad greenies are. I know about the class action, mostly small dogs, and I wish someone could help me understand why the FDA allows these dangerous chews to be sold to pet parents still to this day. I sent an article to Jim Delaney written by a vet student which I hope he passed along. I was present continously after I gave the treat. I never leave my dogs when they are given any kind of chew. He took the treat and went to his bed. His bed is under my desk. I live in a small 1000 foot condo. I was back and forth between the kitchen and the living room (where my desk and his bed are). I was not on my phone, not watching tv, just straightening up. I would say approximately 10-15 minutes later I sat down at my desk and looked down at him in his bed. I noticed his head was not moving to chew the treat. I said "Hey (b) (6) you ok"? I reached down to pet him and he didn't move. I moved his body and it flopped over and he was dead, unresponsive. His eyes were wide open his tongue was blue and then turned black hanging out. It was HORRIFIC! I did not check for a pulse, I went immediately to my first aid training and tried to remove the obstruction. I turned him upside down and gently shook him, nothing came out. I got out pliers and I could feel something that felt like the smaller half of the chew, but it was under his throat trachea tissue. It was very strange. I could not get a grip on it even with the pliers. When I saw the xrays I knew what I had felt. (b) (6) never made a single sound, not a gagging sound or coughing sound that would have alerted me to his distress. In the past any dog I have had has done has always made a gagging or coughing sound. My understanding is that he was so blocked that no sound could be made.	6	Years	Unknown	Dog	5	Pound

			I have xrays so please let me know how to get them to you. They confirm the obstruction. What is very odd is that the radiologist says the entire lumen is blocked, but you can also see the other side of the treat in his throat plain as day and it is sideways!!!!!! I believe this is what I felt. As a lay person I can see it on the xray! Yet the radiologist does not mention it their report or point to it with the yellow arrows. Incompetence? How can they not even note it?? This is very troubling that these radiologists are sitting in some other country and won't talk to me and I paid for the xrays! They will only talk to my Vet and his tech was incapable of getting to the bottom of my question. I am not devastated I am DESTROYED. It has been almost 5 months and I still wake up at night screaming. I have been put on medication. I have terrible flashbacks and I will never be able to unsee that terrible image of him dead in his bed with his tongue hanging out and his eyes wide open. When my other dogs are sleepng deeply I now have to wake them up because I am afraid they are dead. The slightest sound and I come running in a panic. I always came running, but not in such a high state of panic. Whenever I go to the happy place that (b) (6) and I went to I call out for him hoping he will come running. He does not. Like I said this horror has destroyed me. (b) (6) was the happiest, most energetic little guy you could ever meet. He loved life and he had an incredible amount of training and worked in TV and film and has been on shows such as (b) (6) (b) (6) I believe that there is a lot of false advertising going on and mislabeling. Greenies and other similar generics should be taken off the market. They have gels now that remove tartar..we don't need dangerous treats. What scientific evidence do we have that they really remove tartar? Vets DO NOT recommend greenies or their generics for good reason. Why do you allow them to be sold? If choking in dogs is rare and 50 or so dogs have choked on greenies then something very dangerous is going on here. Please do not look at my report from the perspective that this is the first time you have heard of an adverse event for Smart Smiles. They have not been out that long and since they are just like greenies you need to add it to the greenie death count and other similar chews collectively and not count this event individually and wait for a "pattern".

Key	Created	Product Name	Description	Age	Age UOM	Breed	Species	Weight	Weight UOM
			People's pets today are like their children. You have to consider how deeply something like this affects the pet owners in addition to the poor dog being dead. If a child choked on something like this all hell would break lose with warnings etc. Why do we have to wait for more dogs to die? Can't we be proactive? I don't think anything should be sold that they can break off because if its too small they choke and if its too big they can choke. How do we find the perfect Goldilocks size treat? Even if the label has said, like most generics, compare to Greenies, I NEVER would have bought them. I had always seen Greenies in the shape of a bone not a toothbrush so that also fooled me. I feel tricked. I would also like to mention that after several months I went to my toolbox. I took out the pliers I had used to try and remove the obstruction and what do I find on it? Pieces of wood!!! Very small pieces. I can bag them and send them to you if you would like. I also did my own experiment and soaked one of these smart smiles in water for 5 days and it does not dissolve!!!! The outside slowly gets soft and the inside remains hard. I can certainly see why they would cause obstructions in addition to choking. I would like to work together with the FDA to ensure this type of unnecessary tragedy never happens to another beautiful little dog and destroys any other pet owner. Thank you for your consideration of my very grave concerns. This is a follow up to my report submitted on 12.16.23 Smart smiles are not flexible as they claim on the package. They are hard as a rock which is misleading consumers. Additionally according to the trials submitted to the veterinary oral health council on these types of dental chews (greenies and their ilk) they prevent or help prevent tartar build up on clean teeth but the trials don't indicate that they get rid of tartar that's already built up so this is very misleading for consumers since on the packaging they claim that they remove "tartar buildup". The trials were done on dogs that just had their teeth cleaned and said that in 2-3 weeks tartar did not build up. Tartar takes two to three weeks to build up anyway so this trial means absolutely nothing and the seal from the Veterinary council on oral health means nothing. Also the fact that they are again anesthetizing these animals to get a "tartar score" is abhorrent, but that is a separate issue.

			"Whole Hearted - Smart smiles The smart choice for your dog's dental health — a unique and flexible shape to help remove stubborn tartar combined with breath-freshening peppermint. The ingredients are completely natural, with no artificial colors or flavors, and contain probiotics to support healthy digestion." "Clean Tooth Model (from VCOH website) The teeth are to be scaled and polished on day zero so that the plaque and calculus scores are zero at the start of the trial. The animals are to be anesthetized and intubated during the scaling procedure, and a disclosing agent is to be applied to the teeth at the end of the scaling procedure to confirm that all plaque and tartar has been removed." https://vohc.org/trial-protocol-requirements/ There are gels that work perfectly now and they do remove lots of tartar buildup and I can attest to that because I have used them on all of my dogs. We don't need these dangerous chews on the market. If the CVM wants to do something you can because clearly they are misleading consumers as the trials are done on clean teeth!!!! I would venture to say that the VCOH should be investigated too since they are charging $10,000 to obtain the VCOH seal and then an ongoing annual fee. At this point if more dogs die that falls squarely on the CVM for not taking action. You have everything you need to stop these companies from selling these dangerous products and for misleading consumers and causing the death and suffering of many many dogs. I am sure they consider it a cost of doing business, but they are causing the death of dogs and destroying human lives in the process. My life is destroyed. I will never be the same. I would like to add the following information that I just obtained. This information would explain why (b) (6) never got out of his bed and was hunched over. This is even more horrific evidence of what can happen with these dental chews. . The moderate narrowing between C-2 and C-3, possibly caused by compression from the foreign object, could have indeed led to the symptoms you observed in your dog, such as inability to move and being hunched over. The narrowing in that area of the spine could have put pressure on the spinal cord or nerves, which are crucial for movement and coordination. When there's pressure on the spinal cord, it can disrupt the normal communication between the brain and the muscles, leading to paralysis or weakness. In your dog's case, the compression from the foreign object may have been enough to cause these issues, including difficulty moving and the hunched posture.

EON-599692	12/3/2024 9:08	Whole Hearted Smart Smiles, Greenies	The Veterinary Oral Health Council (VOHC) seal is designed to indicate that a product meets certain standards for controlling plaque and tartar in pets. However, its presence on a product could potentially be misleading if consumers interpret it as a blanket endorsement of the product's overall safety or efficacy in ways beyond the specific dental claims. Concerns About the VOHC Seal Perceived Assurance: Consumers might see the seal and assume the product is entirely safe and effective for their pets without fully understanding the specific scope of the VOHC certification. Lack of Context: If the seal appears prominently on packaging, and it is displayed prominently on the front of Greenies and Whole hearted Smart Smiles, it might overshadow other important information, such as potential risks, side effects, or limitations of use. Misinterpretation: Without clear labeling, pet owners might not realize the seal is specifically for dental efficacy and not an endorsement of the product's broader qualities. Therefore, while the seal indicates that a product has met specific standards for dental health effectiveness, it does not address the potential for choking or other safety concerns. This could potentially mislead some consumers into thinking that a product is entirely safe, even though it may still pose risks like choking, especially if the product is too small, hard, or not appropriately designed for a pet's size or chewing habits. is solely concerned with dental health benefits. To avoid misleading consumers: The VOHC seal should include clearer communication that it only verifies the effectiveness of a product for dental health, and that safety risks, such as choking hazards, must be evaluated separately. Pet owners should always consider the size, shape, and material of dental products, and consult with their veterinarian to ensure the product is safe for their specific pet. In summary, the VOHC seal is not intended to guarantee overall safety and can potentially mislead consumers if they rely on it without considering the possibility of choking hazards or other safety concerns. It's important for consumers to be aware of these limitations and use the seal as a guide for dental effectiveness, not as an assurance of complete safety. Addressing Misinterpretation To minimize the risk of consumers misunderstanding the VOHC seal:
			Clarify Scope: Packaging should include a brief, clear statement near the seal explaining its purpose (e.g., "VOHC Seal: Recognized for plaque and tartar control"). Educational Efforts: Consumers should be encouraged to read the entire package, including warnings, ingredients, and usage instructions. Transparency: Manufacturers should avoid placing the seal in a way that implies comprehensive product approval if it's only for specific dental benefits. While the seal itself is not inherently misleading, its placement and context on packaging could contribute to misconceptions. Responsible packaging and consumer education are key to ensuring accurate understanding.

EON-599610	12/2/2024 10:12	Whole Hearted Smart Smiles	I have already reported the choking death of my dog ^(b) ⁽⁶⁾ from a Whole Hearted Smart Smile dental chew in a separate report. It ocured to me that there is a fatal flaw on the packaging/labeling. My dog was not over weight and I purchased the appropriate size treat for him that was recommended on the packaging. Petco corrolates choosing the right size based on weight which is supposed to prevent choking, but what if a dog is overweight? Let's say they should weigh 13lbs, but they weigh 16 lbs. so instead of buying the size for 5-15lb, they buy the bigger size for 15-25 lbs? The size of the dogs trachea would not change because they are overweight! The dog could then choke. This is a fatal flaw in the product and the pacaking. I have offered to collarborate with Petco about all of my concerns to prevent future deaths and they have declined. They need to talk to consumers. Please take these off the market as the sizing by weight could cause a choking fatality in an overweight dog and Petco is not interested in collaborating with me about my concerns. BTW my dog was a purebred Pomeranian and hard to believe, but there is no Pomeranian listed on your breed selection option so I had to choose. unknown. Also I found this information from AI and AI agrees with me and says I am absolutely right. ChatGPT said: You're absolutely right, and this is a valid concern. The claim that choosing the right size dental chew based on a dog's weight will prevent choking can indeed be misleading, especially when considering factors like jaw strength, chewing ability, and individual dog behavior. Here's why it could be misleading: Weight Doesn't Always Reflect Chewing Ability: While manufacturers suggest choosing chew sizes based on a dog's weight, it doesn't account for differences in chewing ability. Two dogs of the same weight might have very different jaw strengths, chewing habits, or even preferences for how they consume their treats. For instance, an overweight dog may not have the same ability to chew through a larger treat as a healthy dog of the same size, even though both dogs are technically in the same weight range.	6	Years	Unknown	Dog	5	Pound

			Choking Risk Depends on Chewing Habits: Choking risk is much more closely tied to the dog's behavior with the treat (such as swallowing large chunks without chewing properly) than their weight or even their size. If a dog tries to swallow a treat whole or doesn't break it down into smaller pieces, the size of the treat becomes a significant factor in choking, regardless of the dog's weight. Overweight Dogs and Size Mismatch: For overweight dogs, the guideline based on weight might lead to the selection of a chew that is too large for them to handle properly, which could increase the risk of choking or other issues, especially if they are less likely to chew thoroughly. What Manufacturers Could Do Differently: Clarify the Role of Jaw Strength and Chewing Habits: Manufacturers could provide more specific guidance on how to select the right chew size based on a dog's chewing style or strength rather than just weight. This could include advice about looking for signs that a dog is struggling with a larger chew (e.g., not breaking it down into smaller pieces, swallowing large chunks). Provide More Detailed Size Recommendations: Offering guidance based on the dog's breed, age, or individual health (such as dental health or jaw strength) could be more effective in ensuring the right chew size. Highlight Supervision: Clearly stressing the importance of always supervising dogs while they chew could help mitigate choking risks, as even the right-size treat could lead to choking if the dog is unsupervised or doesn't chew properly. In summary, while weight can serve as a general guideline, it doesn't account for all the factors that influence choking risk. It's important for pet owners to understand that choosing the right size chew also involves considering the dog's individual chewing habits, health status, and supervision while chewing.

EON-599544	11/30/2024 21:40	Evolve Simply Six Limited Ingredient Dog Food. Chicken & Brown Rice Recipe.	Both of my dogs have been eating this food for over a year. I have been ordering it through Amazon for the past few months because my local store stopped carrying it. I received a new bag of food on Sunday, (b) (6). I immediately began feeding them this new bag of food as I had previously run out and was feeding a different brand. On Monday when I came home from work I noticed my dog had loose stool accidents all over the house, including bloody stools. He had previously had similar reactions when getting into cat food or food in the yard, so I was hoping that he would get over it. However, when I woke up Tuesday he was almost catatonic and ended up passing away within a few minutes after I woke up. I did not notice any reactions in my other dog ((b) (6) until the following day. On Wednesday, she began throwing up as well. Not bloody or anything serious, but it gave me cause for concern. I noticed that she hasn't really wanted to eat since then. I thought it might be due to being sad over losing the other pet. But tonight when I went to feed her I decided to take a good sniff in the bag to make sure it was okay. It smells like a very strong chemical. There is no "food" smell at all. I have decided it is better to be safe than sorry and switched her to a different food. I also reported the issue to Amazon. I thought I would write in here as well in case anyone else has reported issues.	13	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	22	Pound
EON-599531	11/30/2024 16:04	Purina One Lamb & Rice	Our regular veterinary told us we shouldn't be feeding (b) (6) grain free food since a recent study said it could be linked to heart problems. The vet gave us three recommended brands, two had chicken or eggs in them, so we selected Purina Pro Lamb & Rice which did not have either allergen. He had never eaten Purina brand before. We began giving (b) (6) half a cup of his grain free food and half a cup of the Purina on (b) (6). We continued this half-half until we noticed his symptoms appear on (b) (6). At 5:30am on (b) (6) he threw up all of his dinner from the night before. Then he began drinking a lot more water than normal, and more frequently throughout that day. Then he started almost immediately throwing up the water after drinking. By 5:00 am on (b) (6) he was pooping blood (see photo). We took him to the emergency vet and they admitted him for treatment (See all notes). He was discharged at 10:30 am on (b) (6) and returned home with us. We were unable to get him to eat or take his meds at home and return to the emergency vet around 10:30 am on (b) (6) for additional labs (see report) and they gave him fluids and another shot of Cerenia. He returned home with us on (b) (6) and we began feeding him white rice and low fat ground beef. He would eat enough of that to take his antibiotic. The next two days he appeared to be improving. He had his last Provable paste on (b) (6) at 8:30 pm, his last Provable pill at 8:00 am on (b) (6) and his last Cerenia pill on (b) (6) at 8:30 am. Twelve hours later at 8:30 pm on (b) (6) he was in the same condition as presented on (b) (6) vomiting and pooping blood. Additionally, he was trembling and his breathing was different, a gurgling sound. We took him to the emergency vet again and made the very difficult decision to euthanize him. We had already spent more than $3,500 on treatments and he was back in the same condition as a week prior. We did not want him to suffer anymore. The x-ray clearly shows he did not ingest a foreign object and he has never been the type of dog to eat things on walks or in the yard. Introduction of the Purina One Lamb & Rice is the only thing that changed for (b) (6) prior to his illness. We have since learned from an NBC News article that other owners have reported illness and death in their dogs after feeding Purina. We believe (b) (6) was also a casualty of Purina One and we don't want to see other dogs have to endure this pain. https://www.nbcnews.com/news/animal-news/purina-says-pet-food-safe-amid-allegations-sick-animals-rcna134275	6	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	41	Pound

EON-599406	11/27/2024 17:20	12 Cast Bull Sticks	Dear FDA Consumer Complaint Coordinator, I am writing to express my concern about a recent experience involving a bully stick product that appears to have caused serious health issues for my dog. I believe this warrants your attention to ensure the safety of other pet owners and their pets. I gave my Boston Terrier, a bully stick while he was in his kennel when I left the house. Upon returning, the entire room had a strong and unpleasant smell resembling a dairy farm or cow manure. A day or two later, ^{(b) (6)} developed severe diarrhea and exhibited a noticeable loss of appetite and reluctance to drink water. Concerned for his health, we took him to the veterinarian, where he underwent blood and stool tests to rule out common causes like parasites and pancreatitis. The tests came back negative, but my dog required subcutaneous fluids to address his dehydration and discomfort. Given these circumstances, I suspect the bully stick was contaminated or improperly processed, leading to ^{(b) (6)} illness. I am deeply concerned that other pets could suffer similar or worse effects if these products remain available without proper investigation. I kindly request that the FDA look into the safety and quality control of Cadet bully stick products, including potential contamination or mishandling during production and packaging. Please let me know if there is any further information or documentation I can provide to assist in your investigation. Thank you for addressing this serious issue. I look forward to your response regarding the steps being taken to ensure the safety of pet food products. Lot CLT20008 EXP date: 07/31/26 Cadet Bull Sticks	12	Years	Terrier - Boston	Dog	23	Pound

EON-599405	11/27/2024 17:16	Acana Wholesome Grains	My dog was dianosed with an enlarged heart on 11/26/2024 due to an x-ray of his chest due to coughing. This led the disnosis of bronchiotis and sending the x-rays to a radiologist to review. The results of the radiologists state as follows, "Left-sided congestive heart failure evidenced by left-sided cardiomegaly (likely mitral valve insufficiency associated with myxomatous mitral valve degeneration, though dilated cardiomyopathy is also possible), pulmonary vascular congestion, and cardiogenic pulmonary edema." I met with a cardiologist today who review the x-rays, ran additional test and consluded ^{(b) (6)} has congestive heart failure, casued by one of two things. Either the Acana food he has alwasy been fed or genetics. I have today changed his food to Royal K9 cardio kibble. This is what brings me to this report, first how, knowing that it is general knowledge in the Veterany community that Acana causes heart disease, how is this food allowed to be sold? This is a question I am asking, so please repond. I understand dog food is big business and Champion Pet Food Foods is a large company with deep pockets but that doesn't negate the the FDA is aware of this food having issues and the class action filed againts Champion back in 2018. I am also aware they sold the company to Mars in 2023 and Mars has taken some action to change the food. However, these actions do not oeoverride what I call lack of action by the FDA to perform it's proper safeguards. Unfortunatly for me, I did not learn of these facts until today and I can't change the past. However, how a food, know to causes health issues being legally sold I put soley on the FDA. If you guys are not able to safeguard the public, what purpose do you serve? This is my second question.	4.75	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	75.5	Pound

EON-599297	11/26/2024 9:12	Purina Puppy Chow Complete	I am about to get a lab puppy and I was alerted by the breeder that some of the puppies as well as some of the big dogs were experiencing some stomach issues and inflammation. She discovered that the Purina Puppy Chow Complete had sand embedded in the kibble which was getting stuck in the intestinal tract and causing the irritation. I bought a bag of the Purina Puppy Chow Complete in anticipation of getting my puppy so I tested the food I had at home too. I took 2 cups of kibble and soaked it in hot water then removed the large clumps of food and rinsed what was left to get down to just a little residuals left. Then I swirled the bowl like panning for gold to separate the dissolved kibble from the heavier particles and I discovered a significant amount of sand in my 2 cups sample as well. I no longer have the bag of the dog food as I transferred it to a different container and threw out the bag before I knew there was an issue, I still have almost all of the dog food though. I have also contacted Chewy where I ordered the dog food from as well as Purina about this issue as it can cause serious health problems.

My dog's been happily eating this same brand and flavor since 7/2020. For her 11/18/24 dinner I gave my dog one cup of this food, about 45 minutes later she ran into the house and I looked at her face and it was swelling, she had hives which quickly covered her entire body, her skin dark red. She was lethargic, shivering, & scratched at her face. I thought she was stung or a spider bit her in the mouth. I gave her 12 mg of Benadryl. Called (b) (6) (b) (6) said to give her another 25 mg of Benadryl, watch her, and to bring her in if things didn't improve. Four hours later, she vomited a little bile, The hives and swelling dissipated and we played. Tuesday morning, 11/19/24, I gave her one cup of this food, about two hours before I left for work. I came home 7 hours later. There were several piles of food vomit and bile. I thought she had a serious physical reaction to the Benadryl. For her 11/19/24 dinner, I gave her a 1/4 cup of this food, 45 minutes later her face swelled, had a handful of hives and the shivers. She scratched at her face & was lethargic. I then realized she has been having an reaction to this newly opened dog food. A couple hours later the swelling & hives reduced. The next morning 11/20/24, she was somewhat lethargic....took her to the vet on 11/20/24 and proved all the information I'm proving here; the vet said to dispose of her current dog food, continue giving her Benadryl, and to monitor her. Later that day I made my dog rice and chicken, she ate, and her health improved dramatically. That was the only thing different during her day. By 3:30 am, she was vomiting up all pieces of the treat. She vomited from then, until 9am where I rushed her to the vet due to her lethargy and continuing vomiting with no interest in water or food. She has not been able to eat normally since. The vet told me this was from the treat as it isn't the first time they've seen this with the brand. She was given medication after having tests ran. Vet also told me that though the bag says "rawhide free" the product actually does contain rawhide which is not good for dogs. I would never had purchased these had I known.	4.5	Months	Retriever - Golden	Dog	30	Pound

EON-599037	11/22/2024 9:44	Purina Pro Plan Large Breed Puppy Sensitive Skin & Stomach Salmon Flavored	Purina Pro Plan Large Breed Puppy.Sensitive Skin & Stomach Salmon Flavored purchased at Petsmart 16lb bag. Dog refused to eat it for 3 days. He ate 1/2 a medium size bowl and vomited within an hour. Vomiting all the dog food up. Refused to eat the food for another 2 days. Ate another entire bowl of PPP and 8 hours later started vomiting bile, couldn't keep water down, passing dark red blood when trying to defecate. After throwing up nonstop, took to the vet. Vet has drawn blood, gave IV anti nausea medicine, gave IV fluids for dehydration, sent with IV fluids to continue at home, antibiotics and anti nausea medicine. That was today. ^{(b) (6)} is a little over a year old with a clean bil of health. He hasn't been to any public dog areas or around any other dogs. My backyard has a wood fence, no other animals are in the home. These problems didn't start until I changed him to PPP dog food. I do not know the results of the blood work yet, that takes 24 hours. If he doesn't get any better or if he gets worse overnight, tonight, he will have to be hospitalized for IV fluids, antibiotics and anti nausea medicine. I honestly don't believe it's a coincidence that a perfectly healthy vibrant dog completely tanked after changing his food. The second time be ingested more of the PPP than the first and he actually digested the food, causing the blood out his rectum. There is no stool, just blood. We have not done xrays yet to rule out intestinal blockage, but his abdomen isn't distended and he doesn't have a fever. Please hold PPP responsible or at the very least, the facility that this food is made in should be under investigation. If they truly have nothing to hide then it should not be a big deal to at least ease the minds of thousands of dog owners. Especially the people who lost their beloved pet. Animals are like family to so many of us, like our children. Find time to send an agent to purina's manufacturing facility. If they aren't responsible, great...no big deal, but if they are you will be saving the lives of countless animals and helping so many with long needed closure. You guys let blue bell operate in horrid conditions, maybe purina is doing the exact same thing or worse. Just because they say that the food has been tested and they aren't at fault doesn't mean that is true. The company should at the very least take a look at the formula for some of the pro plan flavors and possibly alter or change the ingredients completely. Too many dogs have become ill, i understand not all of them are due to the food necessarily, but after this many complaints?! Wake up.	14	Months	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	161	Pound

The product is a canned good named Heritage Ranch by HEB With Beef and Vegetable Cuts in Gravy. I have purchased for my dog who has an allergy to chicken. I discovered that chicken is the first ingredient listed in small print. There is no other mention of chicken on the label. Pedigree Choice Cuts in Gravy is similarly labeled with beef when the main ingredient is chicken. Pet food manufacturers should follow labeling guidelines.

EON-599035	11/22/2024 9:32	Diamond Naturals Skin & Coat	When we purchased (b) (6) we went to a reputable breeder, and we knew the lineage of both the mother and the father for several generations. There were no reported instances of heart disease. He was on a different food earlier on in his life but did not tolerate it well. It caused gastrointestinal issues. We then switch to Diamond Naturals skin and coat which he had been eating for at least three years. We identified an issue with him earlier on this year but did not associate it with heart issues. My girlfriend had more of a keen eye than I did and started noticing significant changes in his demeanor, appetite and overall health around the September time frame. We took him to the veterinarian again this time she noticed a higher respiratory rate and he had a cough. Him being such a young dog we wanted to ensure it was nothing serious. During this exam he noticed an elevated heart rate. He then did an X-Ray and noted that the left side of his heart was enlarged. We then had an ultrasound of his heart performed. The doctor advised us that his heart utilization was at 18% compared to ~30% it should be. He was immediately started on several medications. Diuretics and heart medications with the hopes that it would give him a chance to recover from potential that the diet was the cause. Upon getting all this information my girlfriend and I did some research and found several articles that stated that Diamond Naturals was not labeled as grain free. They skated around a technicality of having Chia seed in there and from I could discern no other grains in the diet. We did not intend on feeding him a grain free diet nor did the bag specifically say it was grain free because the addition of Chia seed. I did take pictures of all areas of the bag for further review if needed. It is extremely sad that we cannot definitively say that it was the food for sure. As I stated before there was nothing indicated in any of the AKC records that I could find that identified any previous relatives of my dog had heart issues. It is rather difficult not to assume that it was not the food. I am sure the manufacturer would not agree with anything because they would not want to assume responsibility. It is hard for me to believe that there were no unreported incidents of heart disease in these blood lines because they are only bred with dogs that come from a specific pedigree. I'm certain that the manufacturer of	5	Years	Shepherd Dog - German	Dog	65	Pound the dog food will have a larger research team than a single person to potentially pinpoint something 50 generations ago. It is very frustrating and disheartening because we lost a member of our family (b) (6) and we can only find evidence of the root cause in the food. We researched breeders with quality dogs and this kennel was one of the best. They provided all documentation and information that was outside of AKC to ensure that the litters they received were the highest of quality. I understand anomalies but it is not an anomaly when you do a quick Google search and see that grain free diets are bad for dogs. It is very suspicious that it appears the manufacturer did the bare minimum to say this food was not grain free. There are several articles that can be found on Google saying the same thing. There are Reddit posts and a lot of supporting evidence to what I am reporting. I want to ensure that this is reported and looked in to so that nobody must experience the unexpected loss of a pet who only lived half of their expected life. (b) (6) was such a kind and gentle dog that was loved very much by more than just his family at home. It would be a shame if my dog was killed by unethical practices by the manufacturer. We are devastated by the loss, and this is something that no other pet owner should go through. I am not afraid to speak to anyone and give my honest opinion so if you need to contact me, please do so by any means possible.

I could not enter an earlier date than today for the problem. I tried to report Nature's Recipe Grain Free dog food possibly making one of my dogs, male dog, very sick, the Vet said he has four months to six months to live. The Vet said that she did not think it was diet related but breed specific. The dog food contains peas, pea protein and legumes, and two of my dog's breed types should not eat those. Within a few weeks, my dog collapsed at an off-leash dog park, and now the Vet said he has an irreversible extremely oversized heart. He is on medication. He is a watch dog also. EON-598941	11/21/2024 8:40	Royal Canin Selected Protein PR	We have bought two bags of Royal Canin Selected Protein PR that have been moldy. Some pieces of the kibble have white mold on them. When we received the first bag of moldy food, we didn't notice the mold at first and fed our dog. He didn't have adverse affects, but when we fed him again from the bag (still not seeing the mold) he sniffed the kibble and didn't want to eat the kibble. I looked at the kibble and saw the mold. We contacted Chewy, where we had bought the food, and they sent a replacement bag for free. We looked for mold in the bag and didn't see any. We fed our dog and then after the first feeding, saw pieces of moldy kibble further below in the bag. Our dog still doesn't have adverse affects, although he is itching more than usual. We bought this food because of his itching, as this type of food doesn't have many ingredients that cause allergies. This kibble--not the moldy bags of the kibble but the previous Royal Canin bags we have bought from Chewy--have helped with his itching in the past.

EON-598853	11/20/2024 8:24	Open Nature Grain-Free Formula Dog Food Chicken and Vegetable Dinner (Cuts in Gravy)	We tried a tin of Open Nature wet dog food ("Chicken and Vegetable Dinner Cuts in Gravy") for the first time on the night of Thursday November 14th. This was supplementary to his normal food and intended as a topper only. He is accustomed to the occasional supplementation of wet food to his hard food, and the ingredients in this brand have never caused issues before (e.g. he has no known food allergies). There was no sign of possible contamination and he received only approx. 2 tablespoons over his usual hard food. A few hours later, he began showing symptoms of severe abdominal distress, including pain, bloating and loss of appetite, though no diarrhea or vomiting. He is supervised 24/7 and this was the ONLY change in our routine. He did not pick up any foreign objects on walks and was not exposed to any chemicals in the household. After 2 visits to the vet, where he is now hospitalized, an ultrasound and Xray confirmed no foreign bodies, no tumors, no ruptures, no impaction, no heart failure, no canine bloat, etc. A test also ruled out pancreatitis. The Xray shows, however, severe inflammation and backlog in his intestines. Essentially, he appears to be so severely cramped, swollen and in pain in his abdomen that he is unable to eat, drink, or defecate, and can barely walk. He has gotten worse since this event and while stable thus far, has yet to show signs of improvement. He is now on an IV and an aggressive course of supportive care. Possible contamination of the food is the only thing we can think of as the cause.	10	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	11	Pound

EON-598600	11/17/2024 17:44	Hip + Joint Health joint supplement for cats with glucosamine green lipped mussel & manganese	Hello, I'm writing to let you know that the Pet Honesty Cat Hip & Joint Health Chews that I purchased on Amazon made my senior cat very sick. I gave him these chews only 1 time, the dose as directed, and later the same day he was projectile vomiting multiple times, which never happens, and he had runny, bloody stool multiple times, which also doesn't happen. Since this supplement was the only thing that changed in his diet, I decided to go back to the Amazon listing & look at only the 1 star reviews for this product. It was then that I saw SO many 1 star reviews (305 one-star reviews, to be exact!) reporting the same awful symptoms, prompting expensive vet visits, that their pets almost died, and no accountability in Pet Honesty's response. If you simply read through all of the reviews on the Amazon product page by scrolling down, you can get through 5 or 6 pages of reviews without seeing any 1 star reviews. The 1 star reviews for this product are hidden on Amazon, and you do not see them by simply going to the product page and scrolling down through the reviews that initially appear. You have to specifically click on the 1 star rating filter and only then do the 1 star reviews appear. It was only then that I read multiple 1 star reviews that said that when Pet Honesty responded, they said they'd never heard of such an issue. The data is now obviously pointing in a negative & dangerous enough direction to acknowledge that there is something in this product that SHOULD NOT be in it and is potentially toxic to cats & dogs. What they're selling is dangerous and irresponsible and needs to be reformulated or pulled from the shelves ASAP. The 1 star reviews are heartbreaking, and seeing my own senior cat in such a sick state was traumatizing.	15	Years	Bengal	Cat	16	Pound

EON-598359	11/13/2024 16:56	Purina One Chicken and Rice dog food	On Thursday October 31st, when feeding my Labrador retriever in the evening, I noticed bugs in her food (small black bugs and small worm like bugs-assuming Indian meal moth larvae). Her food is kept in an airtight container so I can only assume that the 40lb bag of Purina One Chicken and rice dog food was somehow contaminated from the manufacturer. This bag of food was purchased at a (b) (6). I immediately discarded the food and luckily there doesn't appear to be any harm to my pet.

She bloated, went toxic and had difficulty breathing. She had to be put down on (b) (6). The vet said the liver was severely diseased and looked like that of a much older dog. She described it as smaller than it should be and had cirrhosis. There were the formation of nodules within the liver tissue. The tissue was rubbery and very unhealthy. Vet pointed out that (b) (6) showed a lack of clotting and severe redness under the skin. She said it was shocking to see this extent of liver disease in such a young dog. Indoor dog with supervised access to a fenced backyard in the City and supervised walks around the neighborhood daily. No known risk factors. Fed on (b) (6) from a defrosted batch of Farmer's Dog turkey recipe prepared and shipped on 9/26/2024. Food arrived frozen and was kept in freezer then thawed ~ 12 hrs prior to being given to the animal. Dog is unlikely to have consumed anything other material due to supervision on walks and inaccessibility of backyard to others. Over next two days developed flatulence, diarrhea, regurgitation and lethargy. Taken family vet on Day 3 for X-rays, ultrasound and labworkup - no clear abnormal findings at that time, returned home. Continued to deteriorate, taken to animal ER on day 4 for further evaluation and supportive therapy. Maintained on IV fluids, antibiotics, antiemetics and GI stimulants for 2 days. On day 6 diagnosed with Canine Dysautonomia via ophthalmologic testing (pilocarpine) and euthanized due to poor condition. There is not verification that the dogfood was contaminated however the animal did not receive any other food and though I realize that CD is poorly understood this dog did not carry any of the risk factors thus far attributed to this condition (not an outdoor dog, lived in the city not suburban or rural area, no access to pastureland, not a younger animal, did not consume any carrion) and so the temporal association between the feeding and the rapid onset and decline of this dog is concerning.	4	Years	Cattle Dog - Australian (blue heeler, red heeler, Queensland cattledog)	Dog	50	Pound

I fed them 9 lives pate wet food as they were weaning from nursing. Shortly after, they started displaying lethargy, no appetite, unable to walk on back legs, they became hot and were shaking. I rushed them to an emergency vet. They had life-threatening fevers (105-107) but were to young to run tests. The vet gave them fluids and sent me with antibiotics since they weren't sure if it was a virus, fading kitten syndrome or something else. I had to feed them through a syringe to get them to even eat or drink. I had to take them back to the vet the following few days for more fluids. They got better and are active again. My older cats began eating the left over cans of 9 lives food during the time the kittens were sick and are now displaying the same symptoms. None of my cats go outside at all, none have ever had any illness so I didn't think it was a virus, and the kittens got better so it wasn't fading kitten syndrome. The only common denominator is the 9 lives cat food. The kittens ate it, became deathly ill. The cats ate it after and are now becoming sick as well.			Domestic Shorthair	Cat

Day 2 check blood sugar and was 136 and then day 2 refused to eat dog food when put in food bow for morning and night feeds. Looked lethargic and layed in bed most of day. Day 3, added water to dry dog food in morning, ate all food. Puked all food up in couple hours. Refused to eat evening dog food on day 3. Day 3 attempted to get blood sugar at home but couldn'tget enough blood volume. Day 4 dog seemed to feel better. Acted hungry, ate 3/4 of dry dog food for morning feeding. Visited vet on day 4. Vet didn't find any issues on physical exam. Took blood sugar and was 190. Vet gave SQ fluids and nausea med and bland dry canned dog food. Day 4 evening, gave canned dog food and some dry food mixed and dog ate all. Day 5 did fine with canned food and dry food. Day 6 dry dog food only in am and puked all by afternoon, refused evening dry food feeding. Stopped giving dog food from that bag and bought new dog food bag with different Lot and flavor.	9	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog	30	Pound

EON-597752	11/6/2024 10:16	Hill's Science Diet Adult Sensitive Stomach & Sensitive Skin Chicken & Vegetable Entree Canned Dog Food	I noticed what SEEMS possibly to be a maggot in a can of Hills Science Diet Dog food, for sensitive stomachs, chicken and vegetable entree. It looks like one and is sitting on top of the rest of the food when I opened the can. I notified Hills and they tell me it's just fat, just stir it in or throw it away etc. It doesn't look like fat - it's lying on top of the food and resembles a maggot or larva of some kind. they asked a bunch of questions, and asked for information about the can (which I gave them) - but they are confident it's just part of the food. From what I see, it definitely looks like a maggot. If it was IN the food, that would be one thing, but it's lying on top of it. They said it's just fat, like when you cook foot and the fat rises to the top - and my argument is that the rest of the food does have white bits of fat IN it, that's part of the food - but this item LOOKS like a maggot or larva and is sitting ON TOP of the food - completely separate.

EON-597658	11/5/2024 8:52	9 Lives Wet Kitten Food Meaty Paté With Real Ocean Whitefish & Tuna	One of my cats had a litter of 5 kittens. They were all healthy, active, and hadn't had any issues. I fed them 9 lives pate wet food as they were weaning from nursing. Shortly after, they started displaying lethargy, no appetite, unable to walk on back legs, they became hot and were shaking. I rushed them to an emergency vet. They had life-threatening fevers (105-107) but were too young to run tests. The vet gave them fluids and sent me with antibiotics since they weren't sure if it was a virus, fading kitten syndrome or something else. I had to feed them through a syringe to get them to even eat or drink. I had to take them back to the vet the following few days for more fluids. They got better and are active again. My older cats began eating the left over cans of 9 lives food during the time the kittens were sick and are now displaying the same symptoms. None of my cats go outside at all, none have ever had any illness so I didn't think it was a virus, and the kittens got better so it wasn't fading kitten syndrome. The only common denominator is the 9 lives cat food. The kittens ate it, became deathly ill. The cats ate it after and are now becoming sick as well.			Domestic Shorthair	Cat

EON-597565	11/4/2024 9:08	Retriever Choice Chops	Bought 50lb Retriever dog food at Tractor supply as my local feed store was closed. Began feeding animals as normal (1 AD male, 1 AD female, 2 two yr old males and 6 puppies). After 3 days of using this food, noticed one of the 6 puppies was lethargic and not eating. Removed puppy from pen to put in separate crate and administer supplements to boost energy. Was responding well, but noticed bloody diarrhea during transport . Returned to puppy within 2 hrs and puppy was dead at that time. Was stationed out of two for 2 days for military training and upon returning home, neighbors stated another puppy was lethargic during day of return. Went to feed animals this morning and found another puppy dead and two more in lethargic state with bloody diarrhea stool. Mother and remaining puppies refuse to eat. 1 of the 2yr old males that is very food aggressive will not touch his food. Symptoms are in line with salmonella infection. Awaiting contact from vet services to verify. Upon researching Retriever brand safety recalls, found repeated salmonella recalls for tractor supply and Retriever specifically.	5	Months	Catahoula Leopard Dog	Dog	10	Pound

I got home after work roughly 7 1/2 8 hours later I walked in my house to a foul odor and I went to go let my dogs out and have running time. I also went to check on my female his mother that I had taken to the urgent care for lerthagy, throwing up, and several other things listed in a previous report I filed. When I walked to (b) (6) crate I notice piles of puke of the dog food he was given the night before. I tried to wake him. He did not move and I checked his breathing and noticed he was dead. I took pictures of the him, the crate, and all the vomit. He was removed from the crate and placed outside for me to clean up. He was found in 2:30 am morning of Sunday (b) (6). I waited up and called the urgent care vet I previous talked to and told them about what happened. I asked them if they could preform a necropsy. They could not and do not do it under urgent care hours. I called the only other emergency vet and they could not preform one as well on sunday. I do not have a freezer or refrigerator or access to one to store his body. I called my normal vet and now that it has been 24 hours they can not do one.	5	Years	Siberian Husky	Dog

I woke up to her violently puking in her crate. When I opened the crate she was very lerthargic, weak, went to the water bowl and slowly sipping water not letting any other dog to the water. She could not walk far was very wobbly. I took her to the urgent care vet (b) (6). after a broad panel of blood work, exam, and xrays she had mutiple problems. Kidney, Liver, Sugar, Electrolites, Red Blood Count, and White blood count were out of range. Her xrays showed a fully extended stomach which was full of food. She had a bowl movement prior to going to the vet. She only ate 2 1/2 cups of food the night before. The vet gave me meds, gave her iv fluids and a shot.	8	Years	Siberian Husky	Dog	36	Pound

The label on the outside of the box had this information: FNCY FST PETI TrkyGrv, 41528333014157 Best Befoe: Nov 2025, Globe Id# 12578318, 0 00 50000 50433 6. Upon opening this box I immediately I saw magot like bugs moving over the 12 small containers in the box.and took some pics. I closed the box, taped it and wrapped it in plastic and still have it if I need to send it somewhere for examination. I took pictures that I can forward if desired. I am concerned about the safety of Fancy Feast's current processing and quality control methods. (As a side note, now I am finding large pieces of meat that my cat cannot eat mixed in with their chunked smaller pieces, as if the meat is slipping thru the machine that flakes the meat.) This box was in one of two orders I received, one on Sept 16 and one on Sept 19. The coding on the label would I believe identify which order. I will be sending a copy of this notice to Fancy Feast and Chewy. I have never received any manner of pet food such as this that has an infestation of live bugs and find it , again, very concerning, The carton that contained the 12 petit servings was in good shape, no damage to it. I thought you should be made aware of this issue.

EON-597519	11/3/2024 13:00	Lotus Grain Free Rabbit Pâté for Cats	I have noticed several cans of Lotus Grain Free Rabbit Pate for cats which have been improperly canned, and which are clearly spoiling in the cans. These cans have been purchased through Chewy over the course of several months, and are presumably from different lots. I believe that I have encountered a total of 6 cans so far, 5 of which were in the 96 cans I have purchased over the last two months. I do not know the exact date that I noticed the first can with this issue, but I know that it was before July, when I moved to a new apartment. The improperly processed cans are bulging, but do not appear compromised externally. Upon opening, cans have made a loud popping noise, or sprayed food into my face, or, more recently since I've begun opening the cans more carefully, let out a whoosh/hiss of gases upon opening. Inside, the food sometimes smells spoiled, but sometimes does not, and my biggest concern is that if someone doesn't think the food smells spoiled, they may feed botulism-contaminated food to a pet. I have left a review on Chewy, and have notified Lotus on the same day which I am filing this report.

EON-597508	11/3/2024 2:24	Taste of the Wild PREY Real Meat High Protein Trout Limited Ingredient Dry Dog Food	I had received my regular order of Taste of the Wild PREY Trout dog food from Chewy.com, a few days after opening it and feeding my dogs from it, my smaller of the two dogs had a really large vomiting episode where he threw up all the food in his stomach. The next day he did not want to eat the food at all, he would turn away from it. I tried adding toppers to it and that helped bit but then he started having diarrhea. At this point we did not think anything about the food due to the other dog seeming fine. We took our dog to the vet, they did blood work and an x-ray and couldn't find any signs of an issue. They gave us meds for him and we put him on a bland diet. He began eating fine on the bland diet, his stools starting getting more firm. We then started seeing that the larger of our dogs also now had diarrhea. I tried to feed the smaller dog again with the food but he immediately turned away from it. I had another bag of the same food so I opened that one and attempted to feed him that, he ate it immediately. I then did an experiment where I presented him with 2 bowls. one with the suspected bad food and one with the other opened bag. He went immediately for the other bag I opened and ignored the one that I suspect made him sick. The production code for the batch is: Best by 02/Oct/2025 4215 080 PDR0703-24 DV 01:14 This resulted in over $2000 in vet bills. I've sent a message to both Chewy and Diamond Pet Foods, Inc. We took her to the vet and they kept her for a whole day and watched over her. "probably some reaction to the flea medication. She should get better in 2 - 3 days. She kept shaking and getting a weird look likes he was not there. 4 days ago she looked like she was not going to make it through the day. After a week, I finally noticed that her reactions were after she ate and usually lasted about 2 hours. I stopped feeding her the Natural Balance dog food and gave her a different brand dog food. EON-597413	11/1/2024 9:36	Purina Fancy Feast Kitten Classic Pate Collection	On Monday (10/28) morning I discovered an unknown substance that seemed like tough gristle in a can of Fancy Feast Kitten, chicken flavor. Since it appeared to just be a meat byproduct, I flicked it out with a fork and fed the cat with it. On Wednesday, after feeding the cat another can (salmon flavor) from the same box, the cat developed severe diarrhea within approximately 10 minutes and remained sick for the rest of the day. Secondary symptoms included twitching fits mixed with bouts of lethargy, loss of appetite (for cat treats and dry kibble), and repeated rubbing of her anus on the floor in a scooting motion (itching?). After feeding her human-grade, organic baby food, she appeared to have no further incidents through the night.	8	Months	Domestic Mediumhair	Cat	9.6	Pound

On 10/19 I replaced 1/4 of pure balance mixed his usual food. On 10/20/24 I replaced 1/2 of pure balance to his usual food and on 10/21 I replaced 3/4 of pure balance. On 10/21, my dog was whining during the day and began dry heaving and at night he did vomit. I withheld food and limited water per my vet's instructions. On 10/22 after 24 hrs I provided bland boiled chicken and rice to reset. On 10/23, I resumed his full meal with only pure balance. My dog began to dry heave throughout the day. Later that night he whined all night and woke up to the sounds of vomit at 2am and his crate was covered in diarrhea as well. The urgent care vet asked me to withhold food again and slowly introduce food again after 24hrs. On 10/26 I served (b) (6) the pure balance food again and within a couple hours he had diarrhea again and vomiting. Vet advised me to stop feeding pure balance immediately. We switched to a different kibble and (b) (6) has not had diarrhea or vomiting since. No other conditions aside from the food association changed. EON-597095	10/28/2024 13:36	Kindfull Chicken Flavored Soft Chew Treat for Cats (3 oz) - UPC 085239361498 and Chicken and Brown Rice Recipe Adult Indoor Cat Food (3 lbs) UPC 085239214657	My husband had recently gone in-store to our local Target to pick up some items and had also purchased the dry food to add to our cats meals as a "meal topper" as they had had mostly a wet food diet (of a wet food that our previous vet had recommended) and a bag of cat treats from kindfull. Two of our cats did not particularly like either of these items and ate around it. (b) (6) however, ate it up along with his regular food as he is not often particularly picky and always enjoyed a little variety. I do not have a specific date that I can recall these items were picked up, as I said my husband grabbed them on a whim when he went to the store without me but we had not had them for too long. I do know it was not until after (b) (6) annual exam with a vet on (b) (6) where they indicated he was healthy, provided updated immunizations, and an updated prescription for the vet recommended food that our cats had been on. It was also very likely after the end of (b) (6) when I had a friend come to visit. On the morning of (b) (6) my husband paid to speak to a vet via online appointment while I was at work as our cat (b) (6) was having some straining issues while peeing for two days. The vet advised that while he could prescribe medications for a possible UTI, he would strongly recommend making the soonest appointment in to our local vet as it could be a blockage which is life threatening. My husband called and made an appointment in person the same day for early afternoon to take our cat in, while I stayed behind due to work (I work remotely for my company). At this first in-person vet an exam and various labs/tests were performed. Once that was done the vet informed my husband that our cat needed drainage via catheter as well as an emergency life saving surgery as our cat had not only crystals present in urine but also a complete urinary blockage that would not resolve on its own, their BUN and Creatinine levels were dangerously high, and the bladder was so full they could not perform everything they needed to under more typical circumstances. The vet also made note that if we had waited to bring him in even a couple hours longer, his bladder would have ruptured. We agreed to the recommended care which included: manual drainage, anesthesia and surgery to remove the obstruction, an overnight hospitalization stay, continuing on a Urinary SO / Urinary c/d food diet (which was no different than what we had been feeding with the exception of "treats" which is where the Kindfull had recently come in), and both in office and take home medications. At one point the vet also indicated that the amount of urine they drained was more in line with what they would expect to see from a canine as opposed to a feline, stressing the severity of the situation.	6	Years	Ragdoll	Cat	13	Pound

			The following day, (b) (6) we picked up (b) (6) in the afternoon and were provided after care instructions, told what to look out for, what was considered normal. As this was a Saturday, and the vet would be closed Sunday we were advised of an emergency care pet clinic should we need anything. By (b) (6) (b) (6) still had not had much success using the litter box and only had very small amounts of urine so we took him into the emergency care clinic the vet had recommended at about noon. Here they determined after examination and tests that (b) (6) had grit in his urine and had blocked again. They were able to drain a significant amount (160ml, which we were told was over 3x the high end of the amount a cat bladder can hold) of urine via catheter however advised their clinic is unable to perform the surgery to remove the obstruction but would keep him under their care with catheter in place under supervision with fluids until the following morning when we could pick him back up and take him to our vet to perform the procedure. (b) (6) - We picked up (b) (6) at about 6:30am and drove to our regular vet with the catheter still in place. They reviewed the notes from the emergency clinic the vet advised they would recommend a Perineal Urethrostomy surgery to surgically create a new, larger urethral exit and shorten the pathway preventing any future obstructions as opposed to just removing the blockage. My husband and I agreed as this seemed the better solution than to risk another blockage and allow (b) (6) to live a safer, healthier life. This meant another overnight hospitalization. (b) (6) We picked up (b) (6) at about 2:00pm and had another discussion with the vet who indicated (b) (6) numbers looked good and stable, regarding what to expect, and we set up a future appointment for two weeks to have sutures removed.

			(b) (6)In the morning we noticed that (b) (6) stomach felt stiff and hard in certain spots. He was also acting very agitated - he would go to the litter box and throw around litter only to then leave the litter box, and we also noticed red mucus on some of the pellets. This was concerning to us, so my husband took him back to our regular vet at the earliest they could see him at around noon, while I was working. Imaging and an exam was done and they advised he was extremely constipated despite being adequately hydrated. They discussed the xray results and indicated that his colon was enlarged due to the amount of feces that was stuck, but that his incision from the PU surgery was healing well. They indicated he would need to stay for monitoring and that they would provide a laxative via nasal tube to assist him in producing a bowel movement. Requiring another overnight hospitalization. We received a call later that day where they provided an update that so far there was no bowel movement. They advised the next steps if no progress would be enema, and last resort would be a manual deconstipation which they were trying to avoid due to the recent surgery. We received several updates in the coming days. We had progressed to the enema as the next step but still did not see any success. On (b) (6)In the early morning we received a text from the vet, indicating that they still had not seen a bowel movement and at this point (b) (6) would need a manual excavation and that she would call after the procedure. Upon the later call, they advised he would need to stay hospitalized for the night for monitoring as they wanted to see him show signs of improvement and that he had developed aspiration pneumonia following anesthesia. On (b) (6) we received a call from the vet and scheduled pickup at about 4:30 pm. At pickup, we were provided updated medication and feeding instructions and again, told what to look out for. (b) (6) (b) (6) showed small signs of improvement however at around 11:40pm he took a turn and we rushed out of the house to the emergency vet which was less than 13 minutes away. We got to the emergency vet and they took him back. At (b) (6) the vet came back to tell us he passed and they couldn't save him. They agreed to hold him overnight and transfer him to our vet in the morning to be prepared for cremation.

EON-596815	10/24/2024 12:36	IAMS Proactive Health Dog Food	(b) (6) purchased the iams dog food. My 3 year husky started running Radically but I didn't think it was the food. But than he ran out of our home. Ran to a bayou and got it. I finally get him out. The baby husky is not feeling well. She wakes me up at 9pm & 2:03 am she had begun having seizures. I still didn't think it was that food. But than the next day I feed her & (b) (6) the food they ate it but than fail sick She had seizures from 1:am tell 1030am I took her to the vet they asked what she go into I said nothing I keep next to me all the time the only thing that was new was the food. I'm upset with iams because they basically killed my dog. This food should not be on the market & they owe me another dog plus training due to all the money I invested into my beautiful dog (b) (6) who is no longer with us. Due to me believing it was good food from a vet. I'd like to add when I feed my 3 year husky he absolutely did not act normal he stayed in one position afte eating that food for 6hrs		Years	Siberian Husky	Dog

EON-596585	10/22/2024 8:44	Koha Pet - Nootie - Limited Ingredient Diet Rabbit au Jus for Cats	I am writing to report a quality issue with the "Limited Ingredient Diet" Rabbit Au Jus for cats. We have been using this product for several years without issue, but a recent batch contains pieces of bone, some as large as 1.7 cm, which poses a significant concern. After inspecting around 10 cans, we found this issue throughout the batch. The batch number on the cans is 83CRU2 - 0038, with a "best by" date of July 19, 2027. One of our cats vomited after consuming the food, and we are concerned this may be linked to the presence of bone fragments.

EON-596461	10/20/2024 20:36	Country Kitchen Chicken Jerky Tenders	I recently purchased Country Kitchen - Chicken Jerky Tenders on sale 2 for 1 and began feeding them sparingly to my 3 dogs as a special treat. I had noticed some coughing from all 3 dogs after eating the treats but I figured it was due to the fact that they eat them so fast. I noticed they would even spit up bits of the treat afterwards but again they were eating them so fast I attributed it to poor chewing. I began breaking up the treats into small pieces and spreading around on the floor to see if that would help slow them down and it did somewhat but one dog was still spitting up with yellow bile. Unfortunately, I still believed the spit up was due to eating the smaller jerky pieces too quickly. Yesterday I gave each of my 3 dogs half a jerky strip after breaking them up again. All three started coughing after eating them. One threw up some jerky bits while coughing but was fine. My oldest girl coughed a bit after eating them but seemed fine for a few hours afterwards. A few hours after eating the jerky my oldest dogs eyes became drowsy looking and she laid on her pillow and started coughing. My dog defecated and urinated in her bed as she was too week to stand up. She finally got energy to stand and she began to vomit. I was able to get her outside where she had diarrhea and vomited again before falling over and passing away. She was gone in 20-30 mins from symptom onset and I believe the jerky treats poisoned her somehow because she was in amazing health for a 12 yr old. Her vets always commented they could believe her age because she never slowed down or got sick. All of a sudden a few hours after eating this jerky which had caused some minor issues before she passes away.	12	Years	Pit Bull	Dog	47	Pound
EON-596427	10/19/2024 20:32	Pet Honesty Hemp Hip + Joint Health Senior Soft Chews for Dogs Count of 90 Chicken	We have been buying "Pet Honesty Hemp Hip+Joint Senior" for a little over a year and giving to our dog every day. A couple months ago we bought a jar and when we opened it, we noticed the constancy was very different. It was hard when usually is was very "chewable". We returned it and got another jar. This replacement jar also had this hard consistency so we assumed they just changed their formula. We gave it to our dog daily and we started noticing some odd symptoms pretty quickly but didn't associate it with the supplement but instead. She was panting a lot. Up multiple times a night to go outside. And Diarrhea for weeks. I noticed the jar smelled odd one day (like vinegar) so we stopped giving it to her. A couple days later all her symptoms were gone. EON-596414	10/19/2024 20:16	Nulo Frontrunner Ancient Grain Beef Barley & Lamb Adult Dry Dog Food	Bought their dog food they have been using but my dogs did not want to eat this freshly opened bag. They never had an issue before with eating until now. So I mixed up the food with some white rice to help them eat it. Both of them have had diarrhea for 3 days since that new bag of food. My dogs have diarrhea and now one them has blood coming from their rectal area as well. I stopped giving them that dog food and gave them a bland diet. EON-596332	10/18/2024 15:36	Royal Canin Feline Urinary SO/ Féline Urinaire SO	New bag of Royal Canin SO 7.7 lb purchased recently was opened and the first 3 servings fed my cat caused vomiting. The previous bags were fine, causing no problems. The bag I'm writing about has P470777E printed below the QR code and its best by date is "USA BBO (or BBD it's unclear) /MA/CAD (or CAO it's unclear) 07 FEB/FEB/FEB 2026 432E2RFT04 17:48 470777 " There is no malodor. He receives 1 serving per day. Over 3 consecutive days he vomited undigested kibble after each serving. No hair was observed, so no hairball. on last serving, he continued to vomit bile later in the day 2 more times. I read online about other cat owners' cats being sickened after eating Royal Canin SO , so i suspect this food as the cause of my cat's vomiting too. I bought another food and he ate/eats without vomiting that. Thus, I'm reporting this adverse event to you to prevent other cats from being sickened.			Domestic Mediumhair	Cat

EON-595959	10/15/2024 8:24	Purina Cat Chow Gentle Sensitive Stomach + Skin	I purchased a 13lb bag of Purina Cat Chow-Gentle formula. Immediately after buying these, as I have always done, I pour the whole bag into a air tight, sealed container for storage. It takes my cat about a month or so to go through the whole bag. With my most recent purchase, upon pouring the bag into my container, I noticed what I believe to be 'grain' bugs or 'flour' bugs. I do not know the scientific names of them, but from what I could try and compare them to with my research into this, was the 'flour' or 'grain' bugs. 2mm or so long, the larvae were all white, wiggled around like slugs, and were a bit longer than the adult ones. The adult ones were all brown, with the head section being more dark than the body section, non flying, elongated or oval shaped bugs. The bag was infested with them. Dozens upon dozens of these bugs were crawling around in the food. I don't know if these bugs are harmful if consumed or not, but even if they are not, it is still absolutely disgusting and shameful. No pet should be exposed to food that is riddled with bugs.

(b) (6) began slowing down and started having lose stools. He looked depressed and lay down a lot. I chalked it up to getting old. About 6 months ago, he started to itch. No fleas, ticks. I switched food .., switched treats.. no change. His itching got worse. He was also scratching his butt and pulling out hair from near his anus. I realized he was best early morning and got worse after the Glucosamine DS Plus with MSM and chondroitin. I stopped giving him this product and he recovered very quickly. His hair is now growing back, his itching is gone and his stools are perfect! EON-595677	10/12/2024 4:52	Heartland Farms Dog Food	We fed the food to 16 rescue dogs. All 16 came down with vomiting and diarrhea. One week later we lost the first victim showed signs named (b) (6). Symptoms was bloody vomit, bloody diarrhea, not wanting to eat, not wanting to drink, lethargic, and in pain/stomach pain, seizures, stiffness, etc. Then 5 other dog's experienced the same symptoms. We was pushing Pedialyte, antibiotics and everything we could think of. This wasn't parvo or anything we've seen before. We normally feed Purina Dog Chow and never had issues till we fed this food one time. All 6 dogs passed back to back not even enough time for a vet since we just got through hurricane issues and damage in our area. I previously filed a report but didn't include all information. Another lady was feeding her dog Heartland Farm too and her dog passed it was a Great Dane and she's local too. I'm hoping no other dogs show symptoms. It seems it took the smallest and weakest of the dogs. We switched back to Purina and no other issues so far.	16	Weeks	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	2	Pound

EON-595670	10/11/2024 22:32	Hill's Prescription Diet Metabolic Weight loss and maintenance Dry cat food	In September 2024, (b) (6) was prescribed Hill's Prescription Diet Metabolic dry cat food. We purchased a 4 pound bag directly from the vet. (b) (6) ate the entire bag with no issues. Within 1-2 feedings of the same food from a new 17.6 pound bag of food purchased from Amazon, (b) (6) began throwing up. He was fed around 9pm and began throwing up around midnight. He continued to throw up 3 or 4 more times that night. We took him to the vet in the morning where he was diagnosed and treated for nausea on Thursday, October 3rd. He did very well when we got home. We fed him a different brand of wet cat food beginning Thursday and through the weekend. He had no nausea symptoms. When offered the dry Hill's food, (b) (6) would smell it and walk away. He did not want to eat it, which is unusual for him. Typically he looks forward to feeding time each night. On Monday afternoon he ate a substantial amount of the dry food. He was hungry because we were reducing the amount of wet food he was given. Within a couple hours of eating the dry food, he began vomiting. We rushed hi. To the vet again on the afternoon of Monday, October 7th. Because of the sudden shift in status, we had x-rays done to ensure something was not blocking his system. The x-rays showed no blockage and the vet concluded something was wrong with the food. He advised us to stop feeding (b) (6) from the bag immediately. We followed the vet's orders. (b) (6) has not thrown up since the change in food and returned to his normal eating habits. Due to the sudden onset of symptoms after eating the food and immediate end in symptoms when the food changed, it is very likely something was in that particular bag of food causing an adverse reaction.	7	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	20	Pound

EON-595582	10/10/2024 21:36	Badlands Ranch Superfood Complete Beef Formula	Subject: Urgent Report on Potential Contaminated Dog Food: Badlands Ranch SuperBeef Complete Formula Dear FDA Team, I am writing to report a concerning incident involving two of my Old English Sheepdogs and potentially contaminated dog food. We have been feeding our dogs Badlands Ranch SuperBeef Complete Formula for the past two years without any issues. However, after opening a new batch with Lot Number 207B01, both of our dogs became violently ill within a short time. Their symptoms included: Uncontrollable diarrhea Severe lethargy Loss of appetite We immediately took them to the vet, and both were diagnosed with pancreatitis. The vet strongly indicated that the food could be the source of their illness. Our dogs are still very unwell and may require hospitalization if their condition worsens. Additionally, my daughter, who has a Golden Retriever, contacted me this morning to report similar symptoms in her dog, including: Violent vomiting Uncontrollable diarrhea Her dog is also fed the same Badlands Ranch SuperBeef Complete Formula, but her batch has Lot Number 201B-01. It is worth noting that both my daughter and I received refunds after contacting Badlands Ranch, but our concern now lies with the possibility of a pathogen or contamination in the food itself.	10	Years	Sheepdog - Old English	Dog	75	Pound
			Our veterinarian has advised us to report these symptoms to both the manufacturer and the FDA, given the severity of the situation. We are deeply concerned about the health risks posed to other pets who may have consumed food from these batches. We appreciate your prompt attention to this matter and are more than willing to provide any additional information or documentation necessary to assist with your investigation.
EON-595581	10/10/2024 21:24	Freshpet Homestyle Creations Beef Chicken & Turkey Recipe With Eggs Carrots Brown Rice Pumpkin & Green Beans	On October 10, 2024, I went to the (b) (6) Target to purchase a bag of Freshpet dog food. When I checked the expiration date, it said the food expired in June, 2024 - it was being sold four months past its expiration date. So I selected the next bag on the shelf and found that it too was being sold with an expiration date in June, 2024. When I tried to find someone to notify, there was no one available, so I went to Customer Service and spoke with Aileen and informed her of my experience. It's clear from this experience that no one at the store is pulling expired product off shelves. I believe this dog food if sold to someone not aware could make their dog very ill, possibly leading to death if they fed their dog this expired food. It also shows that for at least four months no one checked expiration dates of products they sold.

EON-595521	10/10/2024 8:52	Lotus Just Juicy Venison Stew for Cats 5.3oz	I am reporting a severe problem with the pet food, Lotus Just Juicy Venison Stew for Cats, 5.3oz. This is second time I have seen a huge issue with this product. The first time, a few weeks ago, we had received this product from an online store (K9 cuisine) and there were maggots that were crawling out of the cans. While very concerning, we trashed the cans and asked for a refund, hoping this was an isolated incident. The second time is when I recently received another package of Lotus Just Juicy Venison Stew for Cats, 5.3oz, 24 cans, from K9 cuisine. Two of the cans in the package were severely inflated (botulism). We are very concerned about the quality of this food and the potential for severe harm to the animals that may consume this food - as we have seen both maggots and signs of botulism in this product within weeks of each other. The information for the product that had the cans with sign of botulism is below: Lotus Just Juicy Venison Stew for Cats, 5.3oz, 24cans Lot #: 23207A3 Best By: 07/26/26 Bar code: 784815103683* *I am unsure about the last set of digits as it is difficult to see - it could also be 784815105685 (the last digit and the fourth to last digit could be 5s or 3s)
EON-595519	10/10/2024 8:48	Merrick Dog Food Wingaling	I purchased a case of Merrick Dog Canned Food, brand type "Wingaling". This dog food is like a chicken soup, containing broth, carrots, peas and two well cooked chicken wings. I have purchased before several times. I received my shipment from Merrick, via Amazon, and when I received it, I took two cans to open for both of my dogs. I notice the cans were "light" and didn't feel right, as if they were empty. I shook the can to see if I could hear the juice or broth inside. I did not. When I opened the can top, an EXTREME foul order came out and smelled like someone defecated in the can. I looked inside and it was nothing at all like the food that was supposed to be in it, but actually looked like someone tampered with it and put something else in it. To me, it looks like possible human excrement. the smell was so foul I had to put it outside and it made me gagged and have dry heaves. It is absolutely disgusting and I think it should be tested. No one from the Merrick company or Nestle Purian has returned my calls or addressed my complaint. I think this should be sent as a sample to be examined as to what it is.

EON-595314	10/8/2024 18:24	Paw Tree Dog and Cat Food	What happened is someone tried to recruit me as a distributor. When reading ingredients, the formulas for both cat and dog food are the same. Cats are obligate carnivores, dogs are scavengers, and there is no way a cat can survive on this food. She told me vets developed this. I find that difficult to believe, as a veterinarian will tell you in a heartbeat cats need more fat and more taurine. The amount of vegetables and others things in this food far outweighs the amount of meat, making it useless for a cat's body. How they can get away with this, assuming they got it past the FDA, is beyond me. Passed on the offer.

In recent months I've been finding flying bugs within a few days of placing them in a sealed container at home. I decided to look at one closely a few days ago and when I put a tooth pick in one of the cookie holes, I pulled out a live worm with web around the outside. In fact I found several worms in multiple cookies there after. I placed them back into a bag and returned them to the store. Petco manager Thomas gave me the refund no problem. I had him look at one of the cookies and he too pulled out a live worm from the cookie hole. He took pictures of these worms in the cookies to show his boss. He pulled these cookies from the bin and threw the ones I brought back in the trash. I am coming to you with hopes of making all Petco's remove these bulk cookies permanently because I noticed that when I go back, they are back on their shelf selling them. Who knows how many worms my dogs ate and hope they don't have an adverse reaction to them. Please do something about this before dogs get hurt or killed! My roommate went out of town for the weekend, and when I got home (b) (6) was acting a little sluggish. I didn't know about the treats. I took her outside and she peed and then pooped and it was abnormally runny. I took (b) (6) to the dog park to run around but after we got there she didn't have a whole lot of energy, so after 45 minutes I took her home. We usually stay for 2-3 hours. When we got home she peed again and had another runny stool. She wouldnt eat her dinner or drink and just laid on the couch with her head down. She's usually a very talkative husky, but seemed lethargic. I took her outside before going to bed, she dry heaved a few times, peed, and sluggishly walked back inside. She laid on my bed with me closer than she normally does and was breathing a little heavier than normal. I was worried about her all night, so I didn't get much sleep. In the morning I started boiling her some bland chicken and white rice and that's when I found the opened packages of treats. She ate her chicken and rice and is resting now, but still not very energetic. I can't afford to take her to the vet because I recently lost my primary job, so I'm just watching her now.	4	Years	Siberian Husky	Dog	61	Pound

The defects were not from exterior damage since the case and shrink wrap was intact, indicating issue during manufacturing and packaging. I noticed a few times that my dog was sick with episodes of vomiting and mucousy stool / diahrea. Since this occurred while she was consuming product from the case with dented can defects only, I did not think to link it to the food, but considering the condition of the cans in the case I just received, I am concerned that it was due to a product quality issue.	13	Years	Hairless Dog - Mexican	Dog	32	Pound

The problem is my cat is allergic to chicken and vomits when given chicken. She vomited for a while after I gave her the tainted Friskies with beef that was nothing but chicken. EON-593696	9/25/2024 8:32	Blue Buffalo Adult Dog Food Chicken and Brown Rice Life Protection Formula	On September 19th, I purchased Blue Buffalo Protection Formula Adult Dog Food from Costco. Shortly after introducing it to my dog's diet, he began experiencing extreme gastrointestinal distress, including severe diarrhea with blood clots and vomiting. Concerned for his health, I rushed him to the vet on September 23rd, resulting in a bill of $1,219 for treatments and care. The vet advised that we keep him overnight due to severe dehydration, which would have cost us an additional $4,400 that we were unable to pay at the time. They found that my dog was severely dehydrated, and his liver enzymes were abnormally high, which can be linked to lead poisoning in dog food. After taking my dog home the night of the 23rd and removing the blue buffalo dog food from his diet, he progressively got better and and was no longer experiencing the extreme symptoms. After doing more research, I have found several pet owners complaining online that their pets experienced the same symptoms as my dog after eating blue buffalo dog food. Additionally, Lead poisoning would cause elevated liver enzyme levels and can be linked to dog food. Additionally, on February 17th, 2023, I purchased the Blue Buffalo Nudges Grillers Natural Dog Treats, and upon opening the bag, I discovered it to be infested with mold—another significant health hazard.	1.5	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	60	Pound

EON-593501	9/23/2024 9:44	Kirkland Signature "Nature's Domain Turkey and Pea Stew for Dogs"	Dog suddenly and without explanation went lame in his hind legs and could barely walk. He was extremely lethargic and stopped eating and began refusing food. This had never happened before. Literally a week earlier, he ran off to some nearby condos and walked back home. Dog then started to exhibit a significant altered mental status, began losing weight extremely fast, and we were unsure as to the cause. We treated at (b) (6) who claimed all his symptoms were neuro related, other than a tick panel no significant testing was done. X-rays were normal. Dog was then constipated for 5 days, during that time 2 enemas were given to no effect by an emergency vet nearby. Again, dog's CBC and Blood Chem was normal. Xrays showed a possible enlarged prostate-- maybe interfering. Miralax was administered and dog began diahrrea for another 5 days. Went to a larger emergency vet, recommended by the prior vet and was given metroniazadole and diahrrea cleared up after 4 days. Dog was terrifyingly altered mental status, he was frothing at the mouth and running room to room and yapping/crying constantly. Again returned to the large emergency vet and further testing was done that was unrevealing (good bloodwork) and he calmed down very much overnight. At this point i suspected toxic exposure. I was essentially gaslit by the Vet to believe that couldn't happen unless he was constantly exposed. Well, we took the dog off the Costco Kirkland food as soon as we got home as I couldn't imagine what else he would be exposed to and his lab results were unremarkable together with contradictory xrays. My Wife and I started feeding a basic bland diet of meat and rice (chicken and rice with egg, or chicken, albacore and egg w/rice) and he immediately started pooping much more normal again, and his altered mental status and constant drooling/frothing has stopped along with the yapping and crying. I think this Kirkland Signature "Nature's Domain" Turkey & Pea Stew for Dogs is a bad batch, and/or has ingredients that have been poisoning our dog.	10	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	25	Kilogram

Cups (Case of 12)	My cat is on a strict diet of rabbit food because of her food allergy to chicken and fish confirmed by her vetenarian. I had been buying Instinct Grain-Free Minced Recipe with Real Rabbit Natural Wet Cat Food, 3.5 oz. Cups (Case of 12) for a while now on amazon. With no issues for a while. However, recently (last month or so) I realized symptoms of her allergy came back, and has begun itching her ears and crying again and her butt is itchy. This made me look at the packaging on her food and I see that the top packaging still says rabbit but the label says it is chicken food for puppies. She cannot eat these ingredients and we have an emergency vet appointment today. I reached out to the company today and waiting for their response. I still have the physical cup of food unopened and one that I fed my cat this morning with a misprint as well.	4	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	10	Pound
EON-593141	9/18/2024 10:56	Purina sensitive skin and stomach for cat turkey and oats	So I wanted to say that my cat at Purina one sensitive skin and stomach and Sheba her whole life ... I don't want to keep silent so I'm documenting my situation back on Mother's Day last year my cat got extremely sick from these products and I had to take her to the vet and I have record of that! I will never feed purina or Sheba ever again in my life!!!! They are poison!!! Now fast forward of me trying new foods I started feeding wholehearted chicken and egg grain free and wellness wet food and it went great until it didn't a few weeks ago I had to go to the vet for the same thing vomitting and diarrhea for 7 days... the vet put my cat on hills and she didn't like it something is wrong with hills bc I feel like they are putting a drug into there food to calm cats down bc of the horrible ingredients because all my cats were no energy and lifeless on hills... soo what made my cat sick currently was either wholehearted dry food bc of the extreme amount of peas or wellness minced turkey cans or lotus chicken shredded cans... I don't know so I stopped feeding all of that!!! Now I'm feeding her new food ... what is wrong with the pet food industry... extreme amount of peas and potatoes in everything needs to stop and purina is a joke and hills and Royal canin is a joke too .. why can't anyone make a solid cat food with good ingredients? Why is that so hard?	8	Years	Domestic Mediumhair	Cat	10	Pound

EON-592784	9/13/2024 21:08	freshpet slice and serve roll	On 8/11/24 I purchased the two of the 6 pound rolls of chicken flavored FreshPet. I made my purchase around noon, while getting some other grocery items. The freshpet may have been out of the refrigerated case for about 20 minutes, enough time to check out and return home. Later that afternoon when I went to feed my dogs, the 2 rolls I had purchased earlier that day, were now visibly expanding and swollen in the unopened package. I immediately returned them to the store (Giant, (b) (6)). I went back to the refrigerated case to with the intent to buy 2 more rolls; however, when I returned to the case, nearly all of the FreshPet 6 pound rolls were swollen and expanding in the wrapper. I told the customer service desk and they said they would have the dog food looked at and removed. I then went to Weis ((b) (6)) to purchase the dog food, and their rolls were swollen, expanding, and some the packaging was starting to curve. I then went to the last closest store, PetSmart ((b) (6)) and their rolls were expanding, swollen, or curving. Customer service desks were notified at all the stores. I then contacted FreshPet, since three out of 3 stores had dog food that appears compromised. They said they would look into it. That was 8/11/24. This week, I have visited all three stores, and nearly a month later, and some of the FreshPet rolls being sold are swollen, expanding, or curving. I emailed FreshPet to follow-up and they claim to be looking into it, but a nearly a month later, and the dog food is still being sold? Looking at the date codes on the rolls, the date codes are the same on rolls that appear fine as well as the ones that are visibly compromised.

We noticed that he had been itching and had dry skin and took him to the vet for it. We had been recommended by a veterinarian to give (b) (6) a limited ingredient diet to help with his dry, itchy skin. The worker at the (b) (6) recommended we use a food called Taste of the Wild for his limited ingredient diet. We fed it to (b) (6) for about three years. We took him to our vet who suspected acid reflux so we changed (b) (6) diet accordingly. However, his symptoms continued to get worse and a couple days later we had to take him to the ER because he couldn't go up the stairs to bed and was barely able to breath. He was having trouble standing on his own but wouldn't lay down. At the ER, he was diagnosed with dilated cardiomyopathy (DCM) that had been causing pneumonia. The ER vet told us she had never seen a heart that big and (b) (6) had a maximum of 6 more months to live. We wanted to give him the best chance we could at living, so we followed through with keeping him in the ER for a few days to receive treatment until he was able to come home and be on medication with little exercise and regular visits to the veterinarian and animal cardiologist ((b) (6)). He was put on several medications. Treatment at home kept him alive, but his quality of life was terrible. Eventually the medications were no longer helping and his condition continued to get worse. One night (b) (6) couldn't get comfortable, wouldn't lay down, and couldn't climb the stairs. He was having difficulty breathing and was trying not to collapse form exhaustion. We decided to put him down that day ((b) (6)).	4	Years	Weimaraner	Dog	75	Pound

EON-592539	9/12/2024 21:00	Purina Pro	On 09/10/2024 my cat (b) (6) threw up three times, and I had a gut feeling there was something wrong with his food because I've heard so many issues going on with the company Purina. After checking his Purina One dry food, I was appalled to discover little maggots wiggling around at the bottom of his bowl. I then went to check the bin in which we stored his food; hundreds were at the bottom. It is to be known that my mother feeds him at 5:00 a.m. before she leaves for work, so we didn't notice until there was daylight. Why was my cat's food infested with these eggs, and why are so many people having the same issue? I threw it all away before they infested my house any more than they already had. As someone who has taken forensics, I know the life stages of the blowfly and that they go after rotten and decaying meat. So this begs the question, why is there rotten and decaying meat in my poor cat's food? It is evident that Purina does not care about the quality of its ingredients, so why isn't a recall in place even when mass amounts of people have had the same issue? Even if I had kept anything for a sample, the company (Purina) has been known not to complete testing and just say common problems that a lot of pet owners are having, with their food, are just "rumors" (Purina, 2024). It's insane that so many pets have died and nobody is doing anything about this. FACT CHECK: Purina Response to Online Rumor. EON-592505	9/12/2024 14:20	Wellness Core Grain Free Reduced Fat 26lb bags	To whom it may concern, I am writing to report health concerns related to Wellness Core Grain Free Reduced Fat dog food, which affected both of my dogs: ^{(b) (6)} an 11- year-old Pit Terrier mix [49lbs] and ^{(b) (6)} a 5-year-old Pit Shar Pei mix [65 lbs]. BACKGROUND: - Dog Food: Wellness Core Grain Free Reduced Fat 26lb bags, ordered through Chewy. - Storage: The food is stored inside a food-grade, airtight container that is washed and dried before each new bag, even though the food does not come into direct contact with the container. All bags are stored in an air-conditioned home, free from pests. The expiration dates are always verified, and they have consistently been more than 8 months to over a year from expiring prior to feeding. - Health Status: Both dogs are healthy, spayed, vaccinated, and have no known allergies. They are on monthly heart-worm and flea/tick chewable preventatives [with no side effects], get tested annually, and are not on any other medications. They are indoor dogs with a large fenced backyard, and have no contact with other dogs. They consume only filtered water, their dog food, Nutramax Cosequin for Hip & Joints, and occasional homemade organic treats; all vet approved or recommended. Both dogs are well cared for, trained, surrounded by our loving family and live in a healthy environment. CONCERNS: ^{(b) (6)} has been on Wellness Core dog foods her entire life and transitioned to the Reduce Fat version approximately 3 years ago without issue - until 7 months ago. One bag of food appeared different; lighter in color and different in shape. This led to symptoms of nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea. After discarding that bag and starting a new one, she returned to normal health.	11.5	Years	Pit Bull	Dog	49.65	Pound

			Shortly after, (b) (6) began on the same Wellness Reduced Fat food following a gradual 14 day transition period without any side affects. However, since the first change in kibble appearance, all subsequent bags have maintained this lighter in color and different shape. In July 2024, both (b) (6) and (b) (6) began experiencing similar symptoms: nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, and blood in stool after consuming food from a new bag. Over the next week, we attempted to feed them from two additional new, unopened bags but the symptoms persisted and worsened. After consulting the vet and undergoing blood work, stool samples, and physical exams, it was confirmed that the symptoms were food-related. The dogs were otherwise healthy and had no parasites or other health issues. Once switched to a different brand of food and placed on temporary medications, both dogs recovered fully and are thriving. Earlier this year, I noticed a change to the appearance of their food. In July 2024, (b) (6) began refusing to eat the food and exhibiting gastro issues. I took him to our veterinarian and had blood tests taken. He was given fluids and monitored, but no firm diagnosis was determined. Since then, he has had additional episodes where he suddenly refused to eat. On September 11 he vomited the food up and in cleaning up the food, looked to determine if there was blood in the vomit, but it was tinted pink as though from dye, which appears to be dye used in the food to give it a more meat appearing color. My younger cat, (b) (6) has also been refusing to eat Fancy Feast suddenly, but has no problem eating other brands of food despite having eaten Fancy Feast on a regular basis for years. Per this Reddit thread, other cat owners report similar issues linked to Fancy Feast Food. EON-592256	9/10/2024 16:16	Honest Kitchen Whole Grain Turkey Recipe	Upon feeding the food in the evenings, ^{(b) (6)} displayed symptoms of general unease: excessive panting, inability to settle, full-body trembling, lack of appetite. This lasted for several hours before resolving, upon which he would then eat the remaining food. He had to be coaxed to eat the food, and would generally seem to ignore it until he was extremely hungry, which is highly atypical of him. When offered a different brand of food right next to the Honest Kitchen, he would refuse the HK and eat the other brand without issues. The distress displayed was sufficiently severe to make me consider taking him to emergency vet care, but just about when I would decide he needed to go in to the vet, the situation would abruptly resolve. This would then recur the next day.	6.5	Years	Terrier - Rat	Dog	22	Pound

EON-592107	9/9/2024 8:52	Purina senestive skin dog food salmon and rice	Submitted as RFR EON-592034. CVM resubmitting as PFR. Original complaint: I bought purina dog food sensitive skin salmon flavor from Pet smart in (b) (6) on 9/1. On 9/6 I saw worms crawling in my dogs food. I went into the container where I store my dogs food and found multiple worms crawling on top of the food and in the food. I have pictures and videos to prove. EON-592084	9/8/2024 18:56	Merrick Purrfect Bistro Rabbit Recipe Pate	On 8/12/24 I purchased 16 cans of Merrick Purrfect Bistro Rabbit Recipe Pate from PetSmart in (b) (6). I began feeding my cats this food the next day, (b) (6). The next morning, (b) (6) all of the cats began vomiting repeatedly throughout the day. I have given them this food in the past, so did not connect that it might be the problem. The following day, on (b) (6) I tried the giving them the food again. They ate it, and again began vomiting, but this time my 3 week old kittens that were nursing off the sick mother also began vomiting. At that point, I tried making phone calls to get the sickest cats into the vet. I wasn't able to get them an appointment until (b) (6), however for one cat named (b) (6) I ended up taking him the the vet ER on (b) (6) for extreme vomiting and lethargy. I ended up going to the vet 3 separate times within a few days. Fecal exams/labs were done, as well as blood work and urine work (lab). All exams/labwork came back negative for any parasites, worms, viruses, bacteria. 2 different vets suggested at that point it was the food, since it was sudden onset with everyone, lasted a week, then stopped. One of the nursing kittens began to decline after this, not eating much and lethargic, and was euthanized at the Vet ER after having a big seizure on (b) (6) at 5 weeks old. The kittens were previously ok with no problems before their mother got sick. I would like to have the remaining 8 cans of this cat food I have left tested for contamination.	2	Years	British cat	Cat	10	Pound

EON-592080	9/8/2024 17:44	Friskies Gravy Swirlers	Whomever this email concerns, I am utterly devastated to even be writing this email. (b) (6) , my cat (b) (6) who was only 5 years old had to be put to rest. She was still a baby. This is 100% unexpected, months prior she had gone to the vet and they announced she was perfectly healthy and she has always been up to date with rabies, flea treatment,etc. Within a week before her passing she had rapidly declined. Some of the many symptoms she displayed were red under the eyes, her teeth were crumbling into little pieces, drooling, swollen and blood from her mouth, temperature dropped, refusal of food, she couldn't use the bathroom properly and was having accidents on herself, massive weight loss, she could not move or hold herself up all in the matter of days. Unfortunately there was no time left to help her, she was too far gone and the vet suggested the best option was euthansia . I have another cat, his name is (b) (6) and he has been showing the same symptoms as (b) (6) was. After doing further research I have come to the conclusion that it is the food, it is the common denominator. I immediately stopped giving the food "Friskies Gravy Swirlers" and started giving my cat a natural detox herb and no longer feeding him friskies and he is slowly improving but he is still in need of going to the vet. I am currently fighting for disability so funds are nonexistent at this moment. I barely was able to afford to be able to put my cat down to rest. At this point I am very angry, heartbroken, all of the above. I trusted Purina to be safe for my animals, but with what I have experienced and hearing the many stories of others, I will never be able to again. I lost my daughter (b) (6) and I still can't wrap my head around it and now I'm worried that it's too late for my other cat (b) (6) I want something to change, I've done my research and I am having the food that I have saved from the bags and they are going to be tested. I know there is something very wrong with it, I also feed outdoor strays and not even they would touch it, and they eat anything I leave outside for them.. I won't stop until I get the peace I need and the justice for my cats. I am demanding something to be done about this matter. I have no problem also showing my vet bills. I will go above and beyond for my babies. -(b) (6)	5	Years	Siamese	Cat	4	Pound

EON-592064	9/8/2024 10:56	Vitakraft Nibble Rings	I purchased four bags of Vitakraft Nibble treats for my pet rabbit. They all came from the same lot number: 432215 and expire may 2026. The smell and look of the treats was very different from what we've been feeding the last five years. The color of the treats is usually more green, but appeared more brown in all four bags from this lot, and they smelled overwhelmingly like dog food/treats. I bought another bag to do a side by side comparison from another store, lot number: 434337 expiration June 2026 and these treats appeared and smelled like what we are used to feeding our pet. I contacted the manufacturer and shared a photo that showed the difference in appearance and described the overwhelming odor. They offered to replace the bags but did not acknowledge the significant difference. From Vitakraft: "Our Quality department was able to pull retained samples and there is a slight difference in color and smell between the two batches but not like what you mentioned below. These treats are made with natural hay products fresh from the field and are not treated with any chemicals so product variation is possible. There may also be something that your rabbit may detect that we do not notice." I appreciate the manufacturer offering to make it right for me, but I also am genuinely unsure if these treats are safe to feed to a rabbit and since the manufacturer will not take further action based on my direct report I felt it was worth reporting here.

EON-591935	9/6/2024 13:24	Milo's Kitchen Homestyle Dog Treats	I have been feeding my dog Milo's Kitchen Chicken Meatballs for years. I finally read the ingredients. They use Onion Extract and Garlic Powder in the treat - which is toxic to dogs. There is a chart indicating weight/treats per day. However, there is no warning that because of the Onion and Garlic ingredients - that the treats could actually be toxic. I Googled what levels of Onion and Garlic ingredients are safe for dogs and no levels are safe for dogs. I had once given her Milo's Kitchen Chicken Jerky and she threw up so I stopped giving those to her. I did find that there had been a class action lawsuit against Milo's Kitchen for the Jerky - but they are still selling it. My dog was diagnosed with an autoimmune condition two years ago (she is fifteen now). I highly doubt that the treats triggered it; however, it did get me to look a bit closer at her foods. I am very confused. How is it okay for a dog treat to contain ingredients that are harmful to dogs even in small amounts? Thank you, (b) (6)

When this product is manufactured, the meat is ground through one-fourth to one-half inch plate, depending on the product. Small pieces are expected as they may pass through the plate and are not harmful in any way. Many pets find these meat pieces very appealing. EON-591377	8/30/2024 8:44	McKenzie Organic Cat Grass	On Friday, August 2nd 2024, I gave my 3 kittens and one senior cat the McKenzie Cat Grass Kit that I had grown. The grass looked fresh and my cats thoroughly enjoyed the treat. I typically purchase my grass at PetSmart and never had any issues. The following day all the cats showed signs of distress, became lethargic, and wouldn't eat, drink or play. I was greatly concerned and thought carefully about what they could have got into. The only new thing I gave them was that cat grass. I monitored their behaviour and as my smallest kitten was really struggling I brought her to the emergency vet clinic. I was told that it was likely a toxin from the cat grass that could have been contaminated. My vet bill was $256.00 for her to receive fluids and medications. This situation, I was told could have been lethal as there was projectile vomit, diarrhea and a decline in their health that happened very quickly. It took them 2 weeks to fully recover with close monitoring and waking up in the night. After reviewing the safety of my home that is catered to my cats, and discussing it with the vet we were able to pin point the grass as being the issue. This cat grass was purchased at a (b) (6).

I opened a new can of Blue Wilderness Wolf Creek Stew with Savory Salmon to give him some in the morning. Within 2-3 hours he started vomiting. As the day went on the vomiting worsened and he started experiencing severe diarrhea and bloody stool. I took him to the vet and they couldn't find anything specifically wrong. He was okay for a day, but this the vomiting and diarrhea returned. A day or two after that his kidney function declined and he is currently hospitalized.	17	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	10	Pound
EON-591291	8/29/2024 10:48	Blue Homestyle Recipe Senior Chicken Dinner	The Blue Buffalo Homestyle Recipe Senior Chicken Dinner dog food that I have been purchasing contains foreign bits of what appears to be tiny pieces of black plastic. I have found these in every can of this product no matter when or where I purchased it from. I have been collecting these foreign bits on a piece of white tissue. I purchased the product from both Chewy and from Meijer grocery. I notified Blue Buffalo via email about the problem. They replied that they would file the information with their "Quality Assurance Team" and thanked me for being a "loyal Blue pet parent". They offered to send me a bag of free treats. I felt like my dog must feel when he does something good and I pat him on his head and give him a treat. I was livid at their response and total lack of concern. I sent Blue a reply expressing my ire and explaining that I expected them to find out what these black contaminants are and whether my dogs have been harmed.

EON-591286	8/29/2024 10:24	NutriSource PureVita Limited Ingredient Duck & Green Lentils Entrée	I have been feeding my dogs PureVita Grain Free for almost 10 years. I have always loved the product and not previously had any issues. I typically purchase 2 bags at a time, rotating the protein with each bag. I recently purchased a bag of Pork and one of Duck. I started my 2 dogs on the Pork. One (7 year old beagle) started to seem uninterested in the pork and the other (2 year old Labrador) started to have loose stools. I immediately switched the Labrador pup to the Duck, thinking that perhaps the pork was upsetting her stomach. 2 days later, after the Beagle was still uninterested in the pork, I switched her to the Duck as well. On Thursday, August 8th, exactly 4 days after switching from the Pork to the Duck, my Labrador became ill. We began a "wait and see" approach. She grew more ill and at 1am the that night/next morning I rushed her to the emergency vet due to vomiting. She was diagnosed with pancreatitis. On Saturday, August 10th, exactly 4 days after switching from the Pork to the Duck, my beagle started to show signs of lethargy. I took her to her normal veterinarian in hopes of avoiding her getting any worse. She spent the night at the hospital due to dehydration. Her CPL was within the normal range at that time. Her doctor suspected we were able to get her treatment before it progressed. However, the next day she began having the same gastrointestinal issues.		2 Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	66	Pound

I have him a singular treat earlier in morning before we left to go out on the boat for the day. When we came home there was puke all over the floor and he seemed naseous. To get him to eat I put 3 more treats in his kibble and he ate them. The next morning we woke up to pure liquid diarrhea sprayed on our living room wall, pee on the rug and 3 different piles of puke. He has not eaten since and has worsened. He pukes about every hour and bloody diarrhea that leaks out of his bum. We had to rush him to the vet where they said they also think these treats are the cause of this reaction		6 Years	Pit Bull	Dog	97	Pound

We smoothly transitioned our dog from Organix, a company that no longer makes the food to Tender and True. He seemed to be doing well at first, but as time went on, the food developed a fishy smell. The canned food Turkey, had black spots, in which we thought it was organs. He started having diarrhea and throwing up, and the vet found that he had food poisoning. By then we still didn't know it was the food or the food was bad. We gave him back the kibbles after treating him and then again, few days later, same thing diarrhea. We then searched reviews, and had to dig deep, and found that the 1 stars have the same exact issue. A woman on facebook posted the cans came with black worms, which then we found out this is far from food, this food is infected and no one has been taken seriously against this company. We are taking legal measures if this is not addressed immediately. Now we don't know what this food has caused to his stomach area, and we will find out. True and tender has much great paid REVIEW marketing HIDING the overall real and actual bad reviewers.	8	Weeks	Shepherd Dog - Anatolian	Dog

Food was so hard that it took a hammer to break any of it. Taste was totally different than usual (yes I tasted it). Contacted Smucker (the parent company) immediately as well as Chewy (the distributor). The first time, all Smuckers wanted was to refund my money...I requested that they might want to check out facility 819 and test the food and did they change the formula? No response accept a refund. I contacted Chewy then and they informed me that many customers were calling with the same problem. They assured me they would contact the company. The second shipment on 7/17 was the close to right shape but still black and smelly. Contacted Smuckers AGAIN and again all they wanted to do was throw money at me. I new shipment is coming in a few days....the problem is at facility 819 where the dog food is made. If the new shipment is the same, I will have to begin the arduous task of changing brands. EON-590905	8/24/2024 22:56	IAMS PROACTIVE HEALTH URINARY TRACT HEALTH	I have two cats that have been eating IAMS Proactive Health Urinary Tract Health kibble for years, and have enjoyed it. Two weeks ago, both began refusing to eat it. I was not very smart about it, and continued feeding it to them regardless. The were constantly begging for different food, but I did not change it out. This had never happened to me before, and they always seem to complain about wanting more food. After two weeks eating this food, one of the two cats, who had a previous issue with his urinary tract his kidney, began really acting sick. Actually, they had both been throwing up occasionally over the two weeks, and I had on my list of things to do to check on the food. I was not fast enough, and the male cat had to be rushed to the emergency animal clinic (b) (6), (b) (6), the other cat was also brought in, as she had showed the same sort of behavior, but doesn't eat nearly as much, and was not in a dire state as far as we could tell. The initial diagnosis was another blocked urinary tract, as he had that before. The staff was concerned that he wouldn't even last 12 minutes while I was in route to meeting them there. We were faced with the choice of human euthanasia or admitting him. He had recovered from what we thought was a similar condition before, so we thought it was at least worth a try to help him. With fluids they were able to get his heart rate back up and he began recovering. The veterinarian did not observe a blockage in the urinary tract, and began suspected something wrong with his GI. He remained at the hospital overnight on pain medications and fluids. The next evening they had to remove his catheter for one reason or another, and rather than put in a new one, they thought he might be more comfortable at home the next day. But that was too soon to celebrate as he continued to spiral into worsening health. I brought him back to the vet the next day, and he has been admitted again. I mentioned my suspicion of the tainted cat food to the staff, and I think they have kind of dismissed that as a possibility, but I still strongly suspect that. I was able to get a sample of his diarrhea that has since been submitted for testing, but won't be back for several days. As the cats were throwing up, particularly the one in terrible condition, our dog would find the opportunity to eat the piles of partially digested food. That evening, the dog also began having severe diarrhea, although that is not necessary unusal I suppose, even if there is not a problem with the food.	15	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	15	Pound

EON-590718	8/22/2024 13:04	Purina Pro Plan Puppy Chicken & Rice Formula	On August 2nd, I noticed my puppy, (b) (6) was not eating his food and I could not figure out why. After I did more inspection, I found bugs, maggots, and larvae inside of the Purina Pro Plan (chicken formula) dog food that I gave him. Because this was a brand new bag (I bought it 3 days prior), I knew it was not a storage issue and reported this to PetCo directly. PetCo told me that they have received numerous complaints about bugs in Purina Pro Plan specifically and have had multiple people return it. PetCo also told me that they have brought this issue up directly with Purina at vendor meetings and they continue to "gloss over" the issue. PetCo is insistent that it is an issue with Purina as they only get complaints about this brand specifically and have had other PetCo's in the (b) (6) area call them to say they have a similar issue. I then alerted my vet of the issue as I was worried for my puppy's health - again, my Vet also told me I was not the first person to have this issue with Purina Pro Plan dog food, specifically. My Vet ((b) (6)) had other patients that found bugs inside of their Purina Pro Plan dog food. Because I knew this was a larger issue, I did some research and connected with others online who also found bugs and larvae in their Purina Pro Plan dog food. I called Purina directly and made a complaint and was told that I was the first person that had called them with a complaint about bugs in the Purina Pro dog food - at this point, I knew this statement was not true. I sent pictures showing the bugs as well as the larvae in the dog food to Purina and was told they would be doing an internal investigation. I have not heard an update on the status of the investigation. Overall, I was extremely distraught about this issue and have become even more distraught to know this food has not been recalled given the amount of other people with the same issue. This is why I am reporting Purina directly to the FDA. I beg you to please investigate the amount of complaints Purina has received about the Purina Pro dog food having bugs in it, as I do not think they have appropriately recorded these complaints to the FDA. As a pet owner, it is extremely difficult to find reputable dog food brands to feed our puppies and this issue has further limited our options. Thank you so much for your assistance. (b) (6)

EON-590692	8/22/2024 8:20	NutriBites Freeze Dried Salmon	I gave my dog the Nutri Bites Freeze Dried Salmon treats and he started vomiting about 6 hours later. No other new foods were introduced into his diet prior to this incident. At the time, we had no idea what was causing the issue and thought maybe he had ingested a part of a toy. He was vomiting every hour for about 12 hours and then started having bloody diarrhea. He was lethargic, his stomach was distended, he was having trouble falling asleep due to stomach pain, and could not keep any food or water down. He was up every hour for 48 hours with bloody diarrhea and had to be taken to the emergency vet for care. The vet performed an x-ray, ultrasound, fecal test, and bloodwork to rule out any gastrointestinal obstructions, bacterial infections, or any other issues that could be causing the bloody stool. No obstruction was found, no bacteria was found in his fecal test or in his bloodwork. He was provided subdermal fluids for hydration, an anti-nausea injection, and a vitamin injection to help boost his immune system and was sent home. He did not improve overnight and continued with diarrhea every hour. The next day I called our vet and they recommended I take him to an animal hospital that had more resources to help treat this as they had run out of options for treatment. I then took him to an animal hospital where they gave him more fluids, antibiotics in case of infection, and sent us with Endosorb which is an anti-diarrheal. He finally started responding to the Endosorb and his diarrhea ceased. It took 5 days after that for him to fully recover and get back to normal. After about 3 days of him back to normal, I gave him another Nutri Bite Treat not realizing that this was what had caused the issue and he started vomiting 6-8 hours later and started having diarrhea again. After it happened a second time, we immediately knew it was something we had given him to eat and ceased giving him the treats.	3	Years	Poodle (unspecified)	Dog	52	Pound

EON-590609	8/21/2024 8:28	Fancy Feast Classic Chicken	P has been feed Fancy Feast Classic Chicken Pate for her entire life. She has never been fed any other food, no table food, no dry food, and never any variation in flavors. Early this year she developed feline hyperesthesia which was well controlled on phenobarbital and gabapentin. Bloodwork was done 6 weeks after starting the medications and was completely normal. About 3 weeks after the bloodwork, she became polyuric and polydipsic and started gaining weight despite being fed the 1 can twice daily (no extras, not getting into the other cat's food). This occurred for another 3 weeks before she was presented to me. Bloodwork revealed low protein (albumin 1.9) but otherwise unremarkable. An abdominal ultrasound was performed and ascites and pleural effusion was found. Due to severity of clinical signs, she was euthanized and necropsy was performed. Samples of lung, liver, kidneys, spleen, pancreas, lymph node, and omentum were submitted. The only abnormalities found were nephritis and steatitis. I do think that steatitis is a large piece of the puzzle but I also am not convinced that it is the whole picture. The reason why I am reporting this is while steatitis can be idiopathic, it can also be related to nutrition and I would like to ensure that this product is in fact safe and is complete and balanced, even if only one flavor is ever provided.	2	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	10	Pound

EON-590461	8/19/2024 15:12	SmartBones The Healthy Alternative to Rawhide Mini Sticks Wrapped with Real Chicken	The current batch of the Smart Bones mini Sticks wrapped with real chicken treats I gave my dog caused severe diarrhea where she was up and out every couple of hours all night. It took me a while to pinpoint the issue to these treats, but I gave her a bland diet to reset her system until she was fine. And then slowly introduced the treats and food she was eating. So I did identify this was the issue. Note she had been eating other bags of these for the prior 3 months with no issues, so I do think there was definitely something inherent in the treat this time that was causing the sickness. Note the batch on the bag is VB23282 best by 10/9/2026. Purchase was made at a local pet store, same place I have been buying all along. After the event, I also googled the item and saw other people mentioned the same issues with their dogs, where they would be fine and then all of a sudden a new bag would cause these issues.	5	Months	Terrier - Boston	Dog	14	Pound
EON-590455	8/19/2024 14:32	Diamond Naturals	Received two 20# bags of dog food and opened one bag, stored the other inside the house. Upon feeding from new bag noticed bloating. After day and half noticed some loose stool. After three days of feeding blood in feces. After four/five days two started to have accidents in crate overnight and stool was watery mixed with blood. One vomited in his crate. On day seven all four were having loose bloody stool and my bitch lost her litter. I checked the internet and saw that many, many people were having the same problems after feeding Diamond Naturals so I switched dog foods and after one day on a new food the stool no longer had blood. They are 5 days into new dog food and stool is formed, no vomiting no bloating.	2	Years	Schnauzer - Miniature	Dog	15	Pound

See Pet Safety Report (b) (6) . Following a workup by (b) (6) (b) (6) was diagnosed with acquired fanconi syndrome, elevated liver enzymes, liver hepatopathy and severe anemia. She was brought home and received supportive care without patient labs until she showed clinical signs of illness in june attributed to prolonged side effects of the suspected toxin by (b) (6) . She was released from the hospital and on recheck was hospitalized again due to low platelets. (b) (6) recommended she have a liver biopsy performed to isolate the toxin. They improperly submitted the request to the surgical department and failed to contact toxicology and it was never performed. By the time they got around to addressing the issue they theorized the toxin had cleared her system. She was released and on subsequent rechecks by (b) (6) (her PCP) her liver enzyme elevations have resolved along with her acquired fanconi syndrome symptoms and anemia. Toxicology is pending at (b) (6) but one of the varieties of answers pet food she was on did show nicotine, caffeine and theobromine on mass spectrometry. The caffeine and theobromine can be attributed to a manufacturing error in the cultivation of the green tea kombucha used to ferment the food as they are both present in green tea leaves used to make the kombucha referenced on the answers pet food website. (b) (6) does not do quantitative analysis and has hoped the FDA would step in and do additional testing. Calls have been being made to the regional manager for the FDA for three months time with no follow up. I will be doing additional independent testing once preliminary results are in from (b) (6) All dogs in these cases are suspected to have been progressively poisoned by their pet food over a long duration but I am listing each dog's problem start date as the date of diagnosis for suspected toxin ingestion.	2	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	4.5	Pound

EON-589828	8/11/2024 21:04	Nutribite Freeze Dried Chicken Treat, Nutribite Freeze Dried Liver Treat	Beginning in December, both my dogs started showing signs of illness (symptoms were originally more severe in our border collie). It began with my border collie. Both dogs experienced vomiting and diarrhea. These bouts of illness had them profusely vomiting and having diarrhea every 45 minutes for days on end. My border collie experienced bouts lasting 7-10 days where he was experiencing diarrhea and vomiting every 45 minutes for days on end. He experienced vomiting, diarrhea, lethargy, internal bleeding, and dehydration (the same symptoms my my malinois was experiencing). Our vets were stumped stating it was likely Gastroenteritis as they ruled out all other causes. They had no "cure," only symptom management. After 6 months, we finally realized it was the Nutribite Freeze-Dried Chicken from Costco. They have not experienced symptoms since throwing out those treats. They were last given those treats in May of 2024 and symptoms completely subsided. Recently, I bought freeze-dried liver at Costco and immediately, both dogs have been ill again. This time, symptoms are more severe in my malinois this time. I only just realized, it's the same brand. After doing online research, I'm beginning to find others that are experiencing mystery illness with the same symptoms after giving their dogs different forms of these treats (Nutribite freeze-dried LIVER/ SALMON, and CHICKEN). I'm most concerned because it took us six months to weed out all other possible causes for example, illness from the dog park, their food, the winter, toys/ blockages, etc. and I'm concerned that not everyone experiencing symptoms is recognizing it's coming from the treats.We've spent well over $2,000 in emergency vet visits and only for symptom management. We've since learned that symptoms tended to come on 2-3 days AFTER treats were given to our dogs, making it difficult to recognize where the symptoms were stemming. It's taken them anywhere from 7-17 days to recover after a bout of illness. We are currently waiting for this bout to pass. To be clear, my dog has not yet recovered despite this form asking for a recovery date. We experienced this each month- December, January, February, March, April, May, and August.	3	Years	Collie - Border	Dog	45	Pound

EON-589825	8/11/2024 20:32	NutriBites Freeze Dried Chicken Dog and Cat Treat, NutriBites Freeze Dried Beef Liver Dog and Cat Treat	Beginning in December, both my dogs started showing signs of illness (symptoms were originally more severe in our border collie). It began with my border collie. Both dogs experienced vomiting and diarrhea. These bouts of illness had them profusely vomiting and having diarrhea every 45 minutes for days on end. My malinois was affected most in April 2024 when he experienced about a 14 day bout of illness. He experienced vomiting, diarrhea, lethargy, internal bleeding, and dehydration (the same symptoms my border collie was experiencing). Our vets were stumped stating it was likely Gastroenteritis as they ruled out all other causes. They had no "cure," only symptom management. After 6 months, we finally realized it was the Nutribite Freeze-Dried Chicken from Costco. They have not experienced symptoms since throwing out those treats. They were last given those treats in May of 2024 and symptoms completely subsided. Recently, I bought freeze-dried liver at Costco and immediately, both dogs have been ill. This time, symptoms are more severe in my malinois. I only just realized, it's the same brand. EON-589789	8/11/2024 2:36	Cesar Gourmet wet dog food	Fed my dogs the same food they eat everyday. This entire week, they were having stomach issues like diarrhea, squirts, and lots of gas, which does normally happen after they have eaten something bad. We usually dismiss as an outside thing, and it is better the next day. This however, was not the case. They have continued to have diarrhea, and they both threw up today at different times. My youngest dog, who usually has a weaker stomach, threw up his breakfast almost immediately while my other dog threw up later that night. their vomiting patterns were the exact same. It started with their full food for the first dog. It was their breakfast and for the second dog it was for their dinner. I do want to preface that I fed my dogs, grilled chicken and plain white rice for dinner and it was not a lot to try and get their stomach settled, so my first dog threw up his breakfast, which was the food that I think is expired and my second dog threw up his rice later that night once they both threw up their meals it then proceeded with a white foamy saliva type of vomit both dogs, vomit reeked of feces, but there was no fecal matter to be found in their vomit then proceeded to look at their food and I noticed each individual pack of wet dog food from the brand Caesars different on the grilled chicken flavor packet, which is what I fed them this morning. It ranges from years starting at 2019 all the way up to 2023. I also noticed that the box comes in had a shipping label on it from target that said the box was to be purged by 4/15 2024. We also had another box that our dogs ate previous to the box, they are eating out of now and it said to be purged by 7/10 2024, I fully believe that my dogs ate expired food from over four years ago and that is why they are severely sick this week.	5	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	17	Pound
EON-589779	8/10/2024 19:24	All pet food products of the seller	I purchased pet food products from a pet food seller who claimed to be a FDA certified pet food facility. When I asked them to prove that the company is FDA certified, the owner provided me with a FDA registration certificate. However, when I googled the signer on the certificate, I could not find the signer, in addition, because pet food facility registration information is confidential, I could not determine if it's a FDA certified facility. So far, I have received many complaints from the consumers who purchased products from this seller. Therefore, I would like to verify with FDA if this seller is indeed a FDA certified facility.

I have fed my dogs this food before and it has never been like this. EON-589281	8/5/2024 9:40	Evanger's Limited Ingredient Diet Super Premium Lamb & Rice Dinner	I purchased two varieties of wet dog food the lamb, and beef versions of Evanger's Limited Ingredient Super Premium wet dog food. Two of the beef, and two of the lamb as (b) (6) has tolerated the difference of flavor in the past. He began eating this food potentially on July 24th. I know for certain however that I ceased feeding him this food on the 30th. During this time, he was also fed his normal 4Health Salmon and Potato dry food during this time. Post dinner he turned completely red, and began frantically chewing at his skin. His butt became a focus point to where I had to put him in his cone due to how red and inflamed it was. Simply touching him had him react, begging to be scratched and groom. He was causing small sores to appear on his body. Eyes watery, ears inflamed, and horrific gas. At first I did not suspect the food because of how close we are from his surgery, and I have previously fed (b) (6) both varieties of this wet food. During this time we were trying to keep everything controlled with 75 mg of Benadryl twice a day while trying to locate the potential source of the problem. No fleas, no accidental eating of the cat's food, nothing fed over the fence by the neighbors, and no incidents with the garbage. On the night of the 29th, (b) (6) had such a severe reaction that I considered taking him to (b) (6) ; his stomach was so bloated, he had red patches, and was actively whining to be scratched. Thankfully, I had a remaining dose of Prednisone that I was able to give him along with the Benadryl to make him more comfortable. This worked, making (b) (6) much more comfortable, and he was finally able to settle down and rest. I was able to connect the dots with the timing and with one last serving of the food left, I refused to feed it to him as a test. The next day with his normal kibble he was fed a can of tuna in water, a go to when his stomach is upset. That night he did not have a reaction, and has not since.	7	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	70	Pound
EON-589280	8/5/2024 9:40	Dr. Elsey's clean protein Rabbit & Turkey Recipe Pate	(b) (6) (the cat affected) is a picky eater and she like a sample we tried of the Dr. Elsey's dry food. We ordered the wet food from Chewy. Upon opening the can the food was very dry for a wet food and had a thick gel on top. It did not smell bad. The cat ate a few bites and then walked away. We encouraged her to try it by putting her normal kibble on top. She attempted to eat just the kibble and avoid the rest of the wet food. Our other cat ((b) (6) who normally eats anything refused to eat and avoided trying to steal this food - which was very abnormal. Within hours (b) (6) had vomiting 7/30/24. She then had explosive diarrhea overnight and the next day. We got her to the vet on 7/31/24, they administered a B12 shot, IV, and appetite stimulant. Her weight had dropped by 3 ounces. The took a fecal sample and blood sample. 8/1/24 the vet called back to let us know the stool sample was negative for parasites and her blood work was normal. She had not have a BM yet and we had to follow-up. 8/1/24 in the evening the first stool was very mushy and loose. Then four more rounds of explosive puddles. We called the vet back on 8/2/24 and they think it was E.Coli bacteria and have prescribed her appetite stimulant, antibiotic with anti-diarrhea, pro-biotic, and pre-biotic fiber stool firming paste. We are hoping these medications help, at this time the cat is lethargic and not eating.	8	Hours	Domestic Longhair	Cat	8	Pound

EON-589279	8/5/2024 9:40	Fancy feast flaked tuna	I received cans of fancy feast flaked tuna that had black hard shell bugs . I contacted Purina this was their initial response : Our product is processed at very high temperatures that do not permit any living organisms to survive in the sealed can. If at any time during distribution, there is damage to the seal of the can or pouch, the situation you described may occur. This could result in a tiny, even microscopic, opening that exposes the food to the outside environment. If a fly were attracted to the food and deposited eggs on the exposed product, these eggs would incubate, hatch, and mature into worms within 24 hours. Such a tiny opening may not be readily visible. I immediately received another email saying . We sincerely apologize for the confusion in our initial response. From your description and photo you provided, it sounds like the material you found was a piece of poultry, meat part, or fish that was not ground as finely as it should have been. While we grind our ingredients in their natural state, occasionally larger pieces may get through the production process. I didn't appreciate them not taking accountability, or taking back their accountability I should say.

EON-589237	8/4/2024 13:36	Hill's Prescription Diet Z/D	(b) (6) has had 4 E. coli infections since I started feeding her the prescribed Hill's Science Diet Z/D. Now, E. coli still exists in her urine, but there are no white blood cells. I noticed issues with the cans and contacted Hill's many times. 1) Every can is buckled on the top. The picture on their website and everywhere else shows up a perfect can lid, but that is not what I received from my local vet, (b) (6) or Chewy. 2) Most recently, 12 of the 24 cans purchased at (b) (6) had a black material around the edges near the bent/buckled lid. It was not a lot of black stuff, but it made me start to question whether I should be feeding this food to my cat, hence why I stopped. I thought it could be grease from the manufacturing line on only those 12 cans, but the manufacturing code on the cans I think show different lines and different dates. 3) Hill's sent me a refund check. I have never been allowed to discuss the situation with their quality control department, never got satisfaction. Their answers have been 1) Do not use it, call the place I purchased it from and have them send me a replacement case. That did no good because every can I got has the same lid buckling issue. 2) It must have been a problem during shipping. 3) The cans are fine to use. I reported to them that all of the cans I purchased have the exact same problem, whether I purchased them at my local vet, (b) (6) or Chewy, and regardless of the manufacturing code on the cans. I switched to the Blue Buffalo hydrolyze protein diet a few weeks ago (very few options on the market). Those lids look normal and I have had no lid buckling problem with them or any of the other canned cat food I feed my other cat.	15	Years	Domestic Mediumhair	Cat	8	Pound

EON-589218	8/4/2024 5:40	Orijen Small Breed Dog Food	I have always purchased this dog food (Orijen Small Breed) directly from Petco and fed it to my dog without any issues. However, after purchasing a new bag from the store on Thursday of this last week (08/01/2024), my dog got extremely sick. She vomited three times and had diarrhea seven times within the span of 24-48 hours after consuming the food. She did not consume anything else to the best of my knowledge, and I am certain that there was no food or table scraps she could have gotten into. She only started feeling better once she stopped eating for about 12 hours and then had some dog food at my mother in law's house (who feeds her dogs Costco brand food). I was pretty sure that it was the dog food that caused my dog to get sick, but I wasn't so certain until she accidentally ate a little bit of it again today that was left over in her bowl from Friday and kept acting like she was going to vomit. I was able to get her stomach to settle after a while but hopefully she won't get sick again tonight... I also saw online that many other individuals have had dogs suffer the same symptoms as mine in the last six months after buying the same food.	3	Years	Bichon Frise	Dog	18	Pound

EON-589092	8/2/2024 8:20	Purina One True Instinct - tender cuts in gravy / with real chicken and duck and other with real turkey and venison.	Dogs would not eat their food after smelling it. They eventually would eat reluctantly, but then had loose stools, lethargic and very thirsty. Recently when serving them the second 1/2 of a refrigerated can (feed 1/2 in AM and other at night) I noticed black and rust color at bottom of the can and food had pungent sell. The protective gold coating was clearly scraped off in spots and left exposed raw metal that had a black mold / rust looking substance. I.tossed out.the food, opened two more fresh cans but found.same issue at bottom of each. It appears that during can assembly there is something going wrong that is mechanically scraping off (scratching) the protective gold coating - leaving raw metal to rust.or allow fungal or bacterial growth. I have photos of the can and lot # - which was also sent to Chewy for complaint.

She now refuses to eat any of the food (including other flavors) despite loving this exact food for the last 3 years. This correlates directly to food poisoning to a bad batch of wet food. EON-589039	8/1/2024 14:24	Purina Pro Plan Adult Sensitive Skin and Stomach Salmon and Rice Formula	On July 17th my first dog was taken to ER vet due to heavy volumes of blood coming from his rectum, vomiting, and no appetite. He spent 4 days in ICU on IV meds to get him thru the gastroenteritis episode. Upon returning home he was on a pure wet food diet and was symptom free before being reintroduced to his dry food. On the first day he resumed his dry food diet he vomited it all up. We immediately switched him to a different food and he's had no further vomiting or diarrhea on it. I assumed it may be an allergy he developed but now my senior dog has also been having extreme diarrhea, so all dogs have been pulled off the Purina Pro Plan Sensitive Skin and Stomach Salmon and Rice food and the senior dog's issues are resolving as well. I did notice this bag of food poured out with several large stuck together clumps which I'd never seen before when feeding this as primary food for years now, but they broke apart easily and I assumed it was fine at the time - now I'm not sure and concerned other pets may be being affected whose parents can afford 4 days of ICU care to get them thru it.	7	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog	26	Pound

When I opened bag and started to pour in to the Rubbermaid cereal containers I saw this soft cotton like stuff on few pieces but continued to put in containers. Every time I would scoop food into dogs bowls I would look at food. Picking out the weird pieces then eventually the weird pieces got more frequent. Finally I look one piece and slide it against an edge and a brown worm popped out of the white stuff attached to food. I about threw up. We spent $95 on a 40 lbs bag. I still had half the bag and the food in containers. I pored back in bag and returned to petsmart. They asked if I noticed any holes or rips in bag and I said no, I do believe it came from manufacturer that way. They asked if I wanted to buy anything else and I said no I was so grossed out and concerned my dogs could have gotten very sick. They returned the food and kept my receipt cause they said they had to notify someone about the bag being infested.

EON-588907	7/31/2024 10:40	Green Juju Pork Recipe	Reviewing Green JuJu diet that is currently being fed to a puppy (https://greenjuju.com/products/pork-recipe). This diet claims an AAFCO statement: "Pork Recipe is formulated to meet the nutritional levels established by AAFCO Dog Food Nutrient Profiles for All Life Stages". I do not think this is a truthful statement with these being the only ingredients - or they have left out ingredients on the bag?: "Ingredients: pork heart, pork, pork liver, pork bone, organic collard greens, organic kelp, Vitamin E supplement". They make the following claim on the bag: "Why Organ Meat?: Because it is incredibly nutrient-dense and packed with essential vitamins. That means we never need to add synthetic vitamins and minerals. Our humanely sources, high-quality proteins help your pet look and feel their best". But on simple review of this diet: is kelp really a high enough source for meeting puppy requirements for EPA/DHA, where is the source for vitamin D, iodine, ALA, choline, calcium? Is the calcium:phosphorus ratio appropriate for growth with this ingredient list? I would also like to verify that Vitamin A levels are in safe parameters. I do not see how this AAFCO claim can be substantiated. The information on Green Juju claims that they have worked with a "canine nutrition specialist", holistic and conventional veterinarians. There are Veterinary Nutrition Specialists as a legal title but I am wondering if the claim of "canine nutrition specialist" is also a concern - especially if the "canine nutrition specialist" is the advertised Billy Hoekman (https://greenjuju.com/pages/about-us#:~:text=Green Juju was created by,cancer diagnosis the previous fall). Looking for his credentials, I am not seeing that he is a veterinarian or a Veterinary Nutrition Specialist, but I do see claims that he "specializes in developing diets that pertain to specific disease conditions" (https://rawandnaturaldogsummit.com/billy-hoekman/). I will put today's date as "when the problem started" but this puppy has been on/off this food for a good portion of her life. I just don't want to pass this by, if this company is truly not following AAFCO guidelines.
EON-588906	7/31/2024 10:40	Reveal Limited Ingredient Cat Food - all varieties.	Reveal brand of "cat food" has misleading labeling of their canned products. The packaging and cans themselves advertises the product as "cat food" while on the adequacy statement notes their canned products are only labeled for intermittent or supplemental feeding. This goes against AAFCO regulations that the labeling shall not be "false or misleading in any particular", and that "pet treats [are not required to] meet standard nutritional adequacy requirements, provided the product's packaging conspicuously displays the terms 'snack' or 'treat' on its principal display panel." Given the lack of any additional vitamins or minerals to the diets advertising their canned products as "food" is dangerous in that there are a number of disorders that could occur if a pet was only fed Reveal brand "canned food". I have not experienced adverse effect in my own pet, nor in a patient yet [I am also a DVM] but I have had clients that were unaware this is not complete balanced cat food. I have contacted the manufacturer regarding this issue to raise their awareness via the contact form on their US website but I have not received any sort of acknowledgement.

EON-588694	7/29/2024 11:04	Earthborn Holistic Cat Catciattori (wet cat food). I purchased 3 boxes from chewy.com. Each box contained 24 cans (3.3 oz each). Cans from two boxes made.my cats sick - same lot number.	We'd been feeding both cats Earthborn Holistic Car Catcciatorri since we adopted them 3 years ago. Overnight between Tuesday 7/23/24 through Wednesday 7/24/24, there was a disturbing amount of diarrhea found in (b) (6) litter pan, and outside of it. She continued to have the worst case of diarrhea I'd ever seen into Thursday. Huge quantities of diarrhea - the output was very voluminous. In each "round", the diarrhea was very bulbous and bloated looking, though they were loosely shaped. The diarrhea occurred several times a day. I rotate between wet cat foods, and feed our cats 2x a day. She didn't eat very much of her Wednesday dinner or Thursday brunch, yet still continued to experience several.bouts of diarrhea. Despite not eating well, there was a disturbing amount of diarrhea over this time period - way too much considering she hadn't eaten much at all. Since I'd been giving her this same food for years, I didn't think twice to give it to her again on Thursday evening, as this was her favorite wet cat food. On Thursday night, I witnessed her smacking her lips and drinking a lot of water. On Friday morning, I noticed she'd thrown up a lot of water (we have hard floors so I could see where it happened, and how much water there was). On Friday evening, she was declining rapidly and we took her into the emergency vet, where they gave her an anti-nausea injection,, and Sub-q injections for hydration. At that point, we still had no idea how a healthy cat could get so sick out of the blue. On Friday evening, I gave our other cat the same food.	4	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	7	Pound

			On Saturday morning, he started experiencing diarrhea. That's when we knew it had to be a direct correlation to Earthborn Holistic Cat Catcciatori wet cat food. There no other other common overlying factors between the two cats. Here are the other factors we ruled out: -They have no access to toxic plants/flowers. -Their bowls are washed very thoroughly after each use with very mild, fragrance-free soap. -We have no fragrance diffusers in our house. -We don't use toxic chemicals, nor was there an opportunity for them to be exposed to any soap/cleaning agent in the house. -They were not exposed to any other cats or animals during this timeframe. -My husband and I also do not come into contact with other pets/animals. -We don't work in environments with toxic chemicals. -We always wash our hands with mild soap when we come back from the store, work, etc. -Our cats do not get into our garbage, and we keep their areas clean. There was no opportunity for them to be sick from raw chicken, etc. We didn't even cook any raw meat during this time period. These are both HEALTHY cats with NO pre-existing health conditions. If vet records are needed for this investigation, I'd be happy to provide documentation. In retrospect, the only time they got sick was from eating this.wet cat food. I am happy to report that (b) (6) appears to be now.stable and recovered - no diarrhea since Saturday morning. (b) (6) diarrhea appears to have been resolved (knock on wood). He had 4 bouts of diarrhea on Sunday, but thankfully we haven't seen it since then. NOTE: The food that made them sick came from two different boxes, but have the same numbers at the bottom of the box, so I'm assuming they're from the same lot.
EON-588654	7/28/2024 16:36	Diamond Naturals Senior Dog chicken egg & oatmeal formula	We started using the Diamond Senior food (a new bag) on (approx.) Saturday 20th of July. The first dog started having diarrhea the following morning. We continued feeding it for another couple days. While we were away for a few hours, one of the dogs had a diarrhea accident. We assumed it was the first one, but noticed #2 (b) (6) having trouble outside . . . squatting for a long time, liquid poop. They both got put on a rice and chicken diet then. We just thought they got into something -- they are in a fenced-in yard, but wild critters are still abundant. When the third dog (b) (6) showed signs of diarrhea, we knew it must be the food. She is rarely out of sight for more than a few seconds -- she has cancer, so we keep a close eye on her. They are all on a rice and boiled chicken diet now. The other two, who have been on rice and chicken for over 24 hours now are improving -- soft ice cream consistency rather than complete liquid.	6	Years	Hound (unspecified)	Dog	60	Pound

Before this year he had been in excellent health. Since we've had him as a puppy, I have always given him grain-free food. With his exam this year, the vet found he had a heart murmur for the first time, and with doing x-rays his heart is enlarged and is in the beginning stages of congestive heart failure my vet told me. We have now had to switch his food to including grain, started the heart medication Vetmedin, as well as a daily omega 3 supplement.	7	Years	Schnauzer (unspecified)	Dog	30	Pound

EON-588476	7/25/2024 22:24	Bully Max Pro	I have been feeding this specific food for over a year to our dogs with zero issues until around Jan 2024, all my dogs would get really sick at the same time , bloody mucus diarrhea. and it correlated with opening a new bag of Bullymax on two different occasions. Both times the kibble seemed different and smelled fishier than usual. I contacted the manufacturer and they said they had changed the manufacturing plant and process but all ingredients are the same and it wasn't their food. The second time it happened I emailed them again and they just said it wasn't the food. I am on a Facebook group for dog breeders and I am not the only one who has had the exact problem. Bullymax also has its own Facebook group and they delete anyone who asks if others dogs are getting sick when opening new bags of food. Primary vet was contacted immediately (in addition to emergency vet)--dog was seen by primary vet that afternoon to submit fecal sample for testing and at least confirm he was stable to await treatment steps. Dog was put on bland diet to calm GI tract and avoid ingesting more of potentially harmful dog food product. Fecal sample results took several days and dog had same bloody diarrhea/discharge symptoms with no improvements until proper diagnosis was made and medication prescribed. Dog has been on a very specific rotation of food for a long time, and has never had such a severe issue before. The primary vet noted it could potentially have been the Instinct Raw Lamb Bites or Bully Stick treats. Though in effort to narrow-down the contaminated product, I realized my other dog ((b) (6)) was still fed the Instinct Raw Lamb Bites and Buppy Pets treats (not Bully Sticks) while ((b) (6)) was showing symptoms, and ((b) (6)) got sick soon after too. Also noting that I found a new piece of Buppy Pets treat on the floor that looked like it had mold in it (kept), which made me wonder if the fruit used in the product was bad. A separate report will be submitted for ((b) (6)) as the same symptoms occurred and they ate the exact same foods/treats. All potentially contaminated food options will also be reported in effort to identify source (Instinct Raw Lamb Bites, Bully Sticks, Buppy Pets).	2	Years	Pug	Dog	16.5	Pound

(I have photos) The food is Hills Science Diet Prescription Food Biome, Chicken stew, in 12.5 oz cans, for dogs. They were ordered through Amazon and reported. This food requires a prescription from my vet, is necessary for my dog's health and is very expensive. There are three issues I wish the FDA to investigate: Is this deliberately done by Hills to cheat consumers out of the expensive food they have no choice but to purchase, from down to only one or two possible suppliers currently? Are these cans indicative of a production and potential food safety problems that present a danger to my pet? Is this part of a widespread practice by food producers of all different types to deliberately underfill food and supplement casings- cans, bags, bottles, boxes - and stealing from consumers?

All have exceptional health with no conditions. They do not have any food allergies. We introduced them slowly to the new food and didn't have any issues with the first bag. We went on to the second bag and they all had explosive diarrhea and lethargy. We contacted our vet who advised trying to switch to another brand of food if the issue persisted. We finished that bag and the next bag didn't have any issues. The next few bags of food that we had remaining, it was the same thing some were fine and others gave them diarrhea. We contacted Bully Max and was advised they believe our dogs are allergic to chicken to try the lamb recipe. We have confirmed our dogs do not have any allergies to chicken. We have since switched to another brand of chicken based food and have not had any issues. We confronted the business publicly and others had commented that they had quality issues and experienced the same symptoms in their dogs and were also told that their dogs had allergies(which they don't). The business removed our post regarding the digestive issues in an attempt to prevent the public from knowing.			Shepherd Dog - Belgian Groenendael	Dog

I have continually found black hard plastic type pieces in all 3 cases I bought. The barcode number on the packet is 813778018715. Best by date Jan. 19th. 2027. The box case that held the 12 pouches bar code number us 813778018630. Best by date same Jan. 19 2027. I called Chewy to let them know. They said they can send a replacement but couldn't guarantee it wouldn't be from the same lot number. The 2 replacement cases that Chewy sent me I opened 3 pouches and found the same black hard plastic pieces in the pouches. They ended up refunding me for my order. I also called Weruva and told them the problem. I sent them pictures and explained this was a problem with 3 cases not just a one off. They said they would look into it. On July 13th I went to Petco (b) (6) and purchased 12 2.8oz Weruva Meal of Fotune Chicken Breast Dinner with Chicken Liver Slide N' Serve pate. I thought maybe a different lot number and size might be better. I opened 3 pouches and more hard black pieces of plastic. Bar code 813778018951 Best by date Sept. 29 2025. I bought 8 with the same bar code and best by date from Petco (b) (6) . Plastic pieces were in that also. I called the Manager at Petco (b) (6) on July 14th 2024 to let him know I found black hard plastic type pieces in the pouches I bought there gave him the bar code number and best by date and told him he might want to remove these from his warehouse if he had anymore of this stock. I also bought 8 from (b) (6) Petco with Barcode 813778018951 Best by date Sept. 29 2025. I did not contact them yet. I also want to clarify that unless a person mashes up the food and waters it down they will not 98% of the time find these black hard pieces of plastic in the food. My cat has a certain health issue to where I have to mash her food and add water. That is how I find all types of sizes of the black hard plastic type stuff. I have been buying Weruva for years this is the first time I have ever had a problem. Or at least noticed this.
EON-587833	7/18/2024 8:36	Beloved Pets HERBAL CLEANSE DEWO with probiotics. Please note DEWO stands for dewormer.	Chewy.com is false advertising two products by BELOVED PETS. Chewy representatives were made aware in July 2024 via online chat and via phone. The two products are by BELOVED PETS, product DEWO Herbal Cleanses. One has blue on the bottle, the other has red. Blue says herbal dewormer with probiotic...Red says herbal dewormer and worm treatment....The ingredient list on the blue bottle I received ended up matching the ingredient list advertised online for the red bottle on chewy.com. I verified the blue bottle ingredients on BELOVED PETS website, chewy.com is wrong. I spent a long time communicating the issue to chewy employees, returning the product, only to have them send the same wrongly advertised product again. I speculate the red bottle ingredients will match the blue bottle online ingredient list, but I'm not ordering from chewy again and they refuse to send the red one in place of the one I returned. The other concern is the GRAPE INGREDIENT- while certain extracts may not be toxic to dogs, there are components in grapes TOXIC to canines and therefore this ingredient should be prohibited in dog products. TOXICITY is difficult to predict. The manufacturing processes are not regulated to ensure safety. Thank you for your time.
EON-587831	7/18/2024 8:36	Wellness Complete Health Petite Entrees Lamb Casserole	On July 4, 2024 I placed an order with Chewy for 3 12-pack cases of Wellness Petite Lamb Casserole entrees for dogs, order #1517774491, and paid $74.17 via credit card. I received the order a few days later only to discover that all 36 items were EXPIRED. I contacted Chewy via their 800 number and they promised to send replacements. A few days later I received TWO (not three) 12-packs, also entirely EXPIRED. I called AGAIN. They promised AGAIN and stated that they would put explicit instructions on the order to check the expiration dates before shipping. Today I received three more 12-packs ALL ENTIRELY EXPIRED. I have been feeding my dog this food from other suppliers for 10 years, and know for a fact that items with a May 30, 2024 expiration were manufactured at least 15 months ago. Someone should stop Chewy from their clear pattern and practice of shipping expired food to customers, hoping that those customers won't notice, before someone's cat or dog gets very sick, or worse...!

My dog has since been put on a bland diet of beef and rice to help ease his stomach. EON-587663	7/16/2024 12:04	Costco Premium Diamond Chicken Vegetable and Rice	Dog 1 (b) (6) developed diarrhea with blood and mucus on 7/12 and also vomited daily through 7/14. There are 3 dogs in the home, one is a puppy who eats different food and she is not sick. Dog 1, (b) (6) started diarrhea on 7/12 and the other dog 2, (b) (6) started diarrhea on 7/13. I stopped feeding (b) (6) dog food and switched to chicken and rice on 7/12, and (b) (6) started chicken and rice on 7/14. I brought a fecal sample from (b) (6) to my regular vet 7/12, results were negative 7/14. I brought (b) (6) to the emergency vet on 7/14 because I couldn't get into my vet. Blood panel and exam were completed. Blood tests were not conclusive as to cause of illness and were within normal range for items tested. Fecal tests also did not determine cause of illness. Probiotics and metranazole (sp) were prescribed. I gave both dogs the probiotics starting 7/15. (b) (6) has not been to the vet yet, she has not vomited only diarrhea. Both adult dogs that ate the Costco Diamond Premium chicken vegetable and rice product got sick. I don't have the bag with the lot numbers but I've tossed the food since both dogs got sick. Can't confirm the illness is due to the food, however fecal and blood tests did not determine any cause for the illness. The puppy continues to be healthy and she eats a different food. Cat in the home is also not sick. The humans exposed to the dogs (one age 50, one age 8) also got gastroenteritis on 7/13 for 24 hours, can't confirm that the illnesses are related.	6	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	60	Pound

It is supposed to be "real food" at least so I thought. My dog hasn't thrown up or had diarrhea once since I got here, and my 13 year cat rarely throws up or has diarrhea. They both got those two symptoms, diarrhea and throwing up. Two perfectly healthy animals and not even days after they have to deal with these affects.. from a food that is marketed being "natural".. this dog food company has had multiple recalls.. they think having Megan Trainer advertise it it would make them more popular, but not caring about the animals.. as they say they do.. Fresh Pet should no longer be a dog food brand, multiple recalls and my animals are having the same affects as they were back in 2022 when they had a recall of a salmonella out break in their food.. I believe that's still the case and someone needs to just cancel them before they kill or keep getting animals sick. Waste of money and now just have to wait for them to feel better. I will stick to Wellness because that top notch animal food.			Retriever - Labrador	Dog

EON-587258	7/10/2024 23:40	Natural Balance Limited Ingredient Grain-Free Duck & Green Pea Recipe Dry Cat Food 10-lb bag	On March 7, 2024 we took (b) (6) in to (b) (6) Vet Hospital in (b) (6) for his bi-annual comprehensive exam that he gets on (b) (6) Wellness Plan. He had a CBC and Urinalysis as part of that exam. His CBC results were all normal, as was his urinalysis. There was no indication of any liver disease. (His ALT liver value was 89, within normal range). On April 30, 2024 we took him in for a possible allergic reaction to his food, knowing it was chicken based and that chicken was a common allergen. His right eye was red and swollen, his left eye not so bad. The hair around both of his eyes was missing. His ears lost hair on the outside of both of his ears. He was scratching and itching all over his body. My experience indicated that he was having an allergic reaction to his food. I have a science background (BA in Science and (b) (6) Teaching Credentials in Physical and Life Science) so I am savvy with regards to my animals and their health issues. The doctor treated his eyes and ears (they were infected) with an antibiotic shot and a steroid shot, and gave me meds to put in his eyes and ears. He changed his food to Natural Balance Grain Free Duck & Pea Feline Dry Cat food. We started feeding him this food on May 1, 2024. On May 30, 2024 (being on the new Duck and Pea food for exactly one month) we took him back to the vet because we were about to go on vacation for a week and I was worried about him. He didn't seem to be peeing as much, he was eating the Duck and Pea food, he liked it and wasn't refusing to eat it. I was worried about a possible urinary blockage. Since I was leaving town, I didn't want my pet sitter to have to deal with an emergency, and I was worried about leaving him. The vet did a CBC and Urinalysis on May 30,2024. The CBC showed ELEVATED liver values (ALT = 238) indicating liver disease. His urinalysis showed some crystals forming. This was a huge change in his liver values and urinalysis from March 7, 2024, less than 2 months prior. The ONLY change between 3/7/24 and 5/30/24 was that we started feeding him a new food: Natural Balance Grain free Duck & Pea Feline dry cat food. The vet wanted us to put him on a daily dose of meds for liver disease. Because he is hard to give a pill, and we were having a cat sitter come in while we were gone for a week, we decided instead to put him back on his old food: Science Diet Indoor Feline Adult dry food. The thought was: itching wouldn't kill him but liver disease would, esp. if he stopped eating while we were gone. We decided to keep him on his old food for a month (June, 2024) and repeat a liver panel a month later.	2.5	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	15.7	Pound

			July 10, 2024 we took him in to perform a new liver panel and he was again itching and his eyes and ears were infected again because he was eating his old food. However, his liver values were NORMAL (ALT = 54). The ONLY CHANGE in the month between May, 30, 2024 and July 10, 2024 was changing his food to Natural Balance Grain Free Duck & Pea Adult Feline dry cat food. No other variables were different. He never goes outdoors and nothing else in his environment changed, except his diet. This left me to deduce that the Natural Balance Duck & Pea food caused the problem with his liver and elevated his liver enzymes. The vet agreed with me that it was a logical deduction, although he had not heard of any problems with this food prior. We both felt it was important to report this finding in case it had was of any significance. It's possible that no one else has reported this issue, but not many people are as informed, educated, and as in-tune to their animals health as I am. Today, 7-10-24, we are switching his food to Royal Canin Hydrolyzed Protein Feline dry food. We will go in for a check up in about a month. I may request another liver panel just to see if his liver values remain normal. It's costly, but I think it would be justified to do so. I felt you should be made aware of the possible correlation between this cat food and possible liver disease. If you need to contact my vet, I give my permission. (b) (6) Sincerely, (b) (6)
EQN-587253	7/10/2024 20:44	Blue Ridge Beef Raw Pet Food Chicken with Bone	I have been feeding my dog a reputable raw brand of dog food for 4 months. I recently purchased 2 chicken logs and 1 venison log of dog food from a store in (b) (6) . For the last few days, my mini Dalmatian has been pooping nonstop but my great concern is how her poop looks and wines when she poops. It is dry and crumbly. When it drops from her bottom, the poop will separate and looks like sand.....dry crusty sand!!!! She drinks plenty of water so that's not the issue. Also, when I was reviewing the ingredients, it only said chicken.....not bones, organ meat, etc. It wasn't until I read on your website that you put organ meat and bones in your logs. This is very misleading and concerning that you wouldn't list the ingredients out. My other raw dog food, listed the breakdown of ingredients for in the food.	6	Months	Dalmatian	Dog	22	Pound

EON-587221	7/10/2024 15:44	Blue Buffalo Natural Veterinary Diet GI Gastrointestinal Support Dry Dog Food	Since my four dogs are getting older I decided to switch them to a more easily digestive dry dog food . I know you should not just switch abruptly so I decided to give all four dogs 10 kibbles each of the new food as an evening treat . Over night all four had bowel movements that were very soft and looked like reddish jelly . This went on for several days and our two oldest 16 year old dogs got so sick they could hardly move and one had to be put down that day and the other the next day . They were just too old to handle it . The 12 year old and 14 year old had issues but pulled thru it by feeding them fresh cooked chicken, moistened original dog food, and wet canned food . Both are back to normal after about 3 weeks . I have a large bag of the Blue Buffalo with only 40 kibbles missing and I would love to know if its bad cuz I spent $92 for the bag . EON-587196	7/10/2024 12:28	Fancy Feast	Both cats (11 and 6 years) refused their fancy feast canned food on the same weekend at the same time. Just ate a bit and then walked away from their bowls. I tried multiple flavors and types (pate, shreds, flaked). They both would at most take a few bites, sometimes running away from the bowls. They were lethargic, laying around, no energy. Then that same weekend my 6 year old cat lost control of her back legs and fell over crumpled in pain like a seizure. I took her to the vet and they gave her fluids, bloodwork, and a checkup. The other cat also needed fluids and bloodwork on a later date but she had been eating half fancy feast and half of another brand (NOT made by Purina) so she recovered quicker. I researched and switched them to new brands of foods and they recovered. I have 27 cases of various types of fancy feast food that I am scared to return to the store as they would probably resell and make other animals sick/die and there has been no recall or word from Purina other than their statement saying any reports of bad food are rumors or false. There are hundreds of reports of these symptoms and illness/deaths that I discovered from other people when searching for answers. It's hard to pick a "date of recovery" as it's been ongoing. They've been to the vet multiple times and ended up with dental surgeries as the vet couldn't figure out why they wouldn't eat. When I changed foods/brands, they improved. I haven't given fancy feast since and never will again. Why has there been no recall???	11	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	12	Pound

I came home after leaving for a couple hours to the kitten on the floor, paralyzed hind legs, drooling profusely and exhibiting distress and crying. The vet stated she became blind and the paralysis was due to ingesting something since X-rays ruled out trauma. They administered sebaceous fluids. That vet wasn't giving the care and attention I would have liked so when she was stable I brought her home to take her to her regular vet in the morning. Got to pet emergency center at 8 pm and left around midnight; then got kitten to her vet at 7:30 am where she received IV fluids until 4 pm, and more labs. Kitten would have died without veterinary care that day. On (b) (6) I noticed significant seizures that persisted through the holiday weekend, on (b) (6) it was determined they would not be treatment suited for the severity of her symptoms and on (b) (6) I had to euthanize her someone that had an early availability so she didn't continue to suffer. EON-586896	7/6/2024 7:52	Purina Pro Plan High Protein Dog Food With Probiotics for Dogs Shredded Blend Chicken & Rice Formula	About a month ago I purchased the Purina ProPlan chicken recipe from the (b) (6) base location. About 3 days ago (b) (6) began throwing up randomly throughout the day and I couldn't figure out why. Today he threw up more than usual and as I was looking at his food I saw something moving and when I inspected his food container closer, I saw a ton of larvae looking bugs crawling around, burrowing in the chicken bits. I did some investigating and found that a ton of people have noticed the same thing with this companies dog food. I have to take him to the vet now to make sure he does not die because some pets have died from this! Please take this company off the shelves!	1	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	30	Pound
EON-586868	7/5/2024 15:28	Purina Pro Plan High Protein Digestive Health Large Breed Dog Food Chicken & Rice Formula	(b) (6) became ill with gastrointestinal symptoms starting December 2023. His whole life he ate Purina dog food but in December there was a specific bag that he did not tolerate or even want to eat. From December 2023 there was a spiral of symptoms which included a massive infection in his colon practically making him one step shy from sepsis. My lab was 6 years old. His mother, father and grandfather are still alive without cancer. There is no cancer in his bloodline. On (b) (6) he was diagnosed with lymphoma by x-rays which showed metastasis. The same x-rays were done (b) (6) and no cancer was detected. On (b) (6) (b) (6) was euthanized due to early respiratory distress secondary to underlying lymphoma. Purina was contacted early in this process before lymphoma was even diagnosed and denied that the food was a problem. They would not reimburse for vet bills at that time. They referred me to a company called Sedgwick to review veterinary bills and notes to determine if they would reimburse. I was contacted the day after Sedgwick received the notes and informed that it was not Purina's fault and no reimbursement would be made. We have spent $2850.37. I spoke with a manager today ((b) (6)) who stated that the only way to get an appeal or reimbursement was to have my vet compose a letter stating Purina Dog Food caused my dog's lymphoma. I am a medical provider myself. I know that as a medical provider there has to be discrete evidence/ testing to prove one event leads to another such as a certain food causing cancer. My vet could lose her license to practice as well as risk her office being sued.	6	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	108	Pound

EON-586814	7/4/2024 23:36	VetriScience Composure	I gave her a calming treat manufactured by VetriScience. I have given her the treat three other times with no AE, but also the treat didn't affect her. I did give her one prior to fireworks starting tonight and she started pacing and whining about 15 minutes later. It then escalated to her trying to dig on my bed and she started trying to vomit. This went on for about an hour. When she did vomit it was white foam coming up.she was also vomiting so hard she was making guttural sounds and farting loudly from how much force she was using to get sick. She was so worked up she got in the cat litter box to dig and vomit. She did throw up the treat. Twice when she was vomiting I inspected the vomit and saw brown parts in it. That would be the treat. EON-586803	7/4/2024 17:28	Feline Greenies Dental Treats	To whom it may concern, I emailed the Greenies Dental Treat company to ask what the fruit juice color is made of in their product. I looked on the internet and read HUITO is used as a tea which contains caffeine and tannins. "Dye plants- Dec 29, 2007 — Huito is rich in manitol, genipin, tannins, and caffeine; the tannins give the juice an astringent effect. The juice of the immature fruit ..." HUITO contains CAFFEINE and TANNINS which are known to be TOXIC to cats and dogs. TANNINS CAN CAUSE VOMITING, DIARRHEA, AND LIVER AND KIDNEY FAILURE. I looked at many Greenie reviews on Amazon under one star and typed in vomiting and diarrhea individually. I saw many complaints of both vomiting and diarrhea. From "Can Cats And Dogs Drink Tea?" - Agria Pet Insurance UK '...Plus they aren't able to process caffeine like we can. This can be toxic to them, leading to symptoms like vomiting, restlessness and elevated heart rate. In more severe cases, it could even lead to coma and death. What about decaffeinated tea? So, what about giving them decaffeinated tea? Well... no. Decaf tea also contains TANNINS, which are also toxic to cats and dogs, and can lead to LIVER and KIDNEY FAILURE.'

			I found this article that discusses tannins. From "Can Dogs Or Cats Eat Acorns", many pets - 'Tannins interfere with digestion as they bind proteins together and make them difficult to absorb. This can lead to a condition known as gastroenteritis, which causes VOMITING, DIARRHEA, abdominal pain, and dehydration.' Please recall the Greenie products that contain Huito to prevent further harm to cats and dogs. Please make a public announcement of the conditions that can be caused - vomiting, diarrhea, liver and kidney failure - so that pets currently made ill can receive appropriate treatment. Thank you. please note - this form asks if I have a label. I did not understand what is meant as a label, so I chose the unknown option. Sincerely, (b) (6)

Then (b) (6) before I went to work I noticed that the other rabbit had looked very tired almost the same as the first one that passed as I was worried about that I made sure to have all food and water full but when I got home from work the rabbit's condition worsened with the rabbit being very tired and unable to move its body at all I had also noticed diarrhea all over the cage. This rabbit also had 4-5 episodes of seizures as well that rabbit passed today (b) (6) at approximately (b) (6) I didn't think anything of the food until I started looking up the food and that a different kind by the same brand had a recall. I believe that the food could've contributed to both rabbit's death as that was the only thing that changed. I still have some left that can be sampled if needed.	4	Months		Rabbit	1.5	Pound

EON-586576	7/1/2024 16:24	Whole Paws by Whole Foods Market Grain Free Salmon & Pea Recipe	I am alerting a possible safety issue in regards to a package of dog food I purchased 02/01/24. I am addressing this due to similar symptoms arising each time after consumption of such dog food (from the same bag) and only at those times. Such symptoms were: inability to walk well, loss of appetite, foaming at mouth, mucus in eyes, mucus in vomit, vomiting after each meal, drastic loss of weight, agitation, tilted head, vestibular issues, lethargy, swollen leg, inability to see. The first time of consumption escalated those symptoms and the second time I stopped feeding immediately after noticing inability to walk and see properly, foaming at mouth, vomiting, vestibular issue and agitation. The symptoms did not escalate the second time and cleared up without veterinary care after 2 weeks of stopping feeding from that bag of kibble. The first time of consumption i feed from that kibble for one week and after i stopped (b) (6) required 2 months of vet care and multiple medications that took 2 months of care to clear up. EON-586571	7/1/2024 15:56	Purina Pro Plan Puppy Shredded Blend Chicken & Rice Formula dry food	I purchased a 34 lb bag of Purina Pro Plan puppy shredded blend chicken and rice around April 19, 2024. I just went to give my puppy some and there were 2 small black alive worms in the scoop that I picked up. My bags are stored air tight in a dry clean area. There is no way any bugs could have gotten into this bag while it was in my possession. Upon further research I discovered this is a known issue for Purina! This needs to be investigated on how this is happening. This could potentially lead to very sick animals and it is very careless on Purina's end. UPC on the bag purchased is 38100-14289 best by June 2025.
EON-586554	7/1/2024 14:12	4-Health Grain Free	I started feeding the 4-Health grain free dog food to (b) (6) at about 10 months old. At about 2 1/2 yrs old she started having grand mall type seizures and after a year I found that vegetable glycerine was causing her to have the seizures. She was never put on medication as we were able to usually keep her away from the glycerine. When she was about 5-6 yrs old I heard on the radio about the heart condition with the dog food so I took them off the grain free version. At 8 yr and 3 mos old, (in Feb 2022), she woke up to one seizure after another and I dont believe that she had eaten any glycerine. Upon taking her to emergency they said she had a heart condition that would cause part of her heart to stop beating long enough for the lack of oxygen to the brain to cause the seizures, and then I found that the heart condition was there awhile and the glycerine was disrupting the damaged heart, thus causing the seizures. The heart was so bad now that they couldnt get it under control and even with meds she would probably only live a few months. The 2nd dog, (b) (6) was on the food from 12 weeks old until she was about 4-5 yrs when we took her off it. She too had little seizures concentrated to the mouth/head area. She was also 8 yrs and about 3 months old when we were on a hike (in April 2023) when she stopped walking and we could tell she was in distress. We took her to a vet close by and they started tests. They said she had and enlarged heart and was crashing on the table so we had her put to sleep. Both dogs died of horrible heart health conditions that should have never been. They were not blood related in any way. I am so upset and bothered that these 2 amazing members of our family were stripped from us way before their times. I have developed a PTSD from watching them go through this battle and dying like they did and knowing that this was a man made condition. It has taken me over a year to be able to even write this report because it hurts so bad. And it really upsets me that Tractor Supply still sells this dog food, it should be removed from the shelves until they can prove that is doesn't cause heart conditions. Possible Fanconi Syndrome, which is abridged in part as follows: The consumer writes that she is concerned with a potential safety issue with animal treats being sold at the supermarket Sprouts Farmers Market. The consumers dog has pancreatitis, diagnosed in early March and the vet said I needed to change her treats to be a certain % of fat, which the sprouts brand dog treats met so I started buying an assortment of the below: ? Sprouts, Salmon Bites, Dog Treats ? Sprouts, Organic, Chicken Flavor Jerky Strips, Dog Treats ? Sprouts, Chicken & Sweet Potato Fries, Dog Treats ? Sprouts, Chicken Jerky Strips, Dog Treats The consumer noticed in July, her dog was drinking excessive water, getting extremely hungry and was losing a lot of weight quickly. So, she took the dog to the vet, they ran a full blood panel, an ultrasound and nothing was coming up, based on the dog?s symptoms. The internist recommended testing for Fanconi Syndrome, but that must be done through a specialized lab. So, I sent in the urine test and received the results today. The vet said I should report the information to the FDA, since the Fanconi Syndrome this was the likely caused by the treats. The dog only gets these treats, outside her food, which is a homemade recipe approved by her vet and that has not changed in her 8 years of living. I hope you can help me to get these off the shelves, as it got her sick quickly and the vet bills have been astronomical, to even figure out what was happening.

The product was purchased from Tractor Supply in early (b) (6) . The complainant is an attorney representing the dog breeder where this incident occurred. They had been using this product for a long time. On (b) (6) , a new bag of kibble was opened and all the dogs were fed dinner as usual. That night, about 20 dogs died. Five dogs that survived the night were bleeding from the mouth and anus and died within 3 days. About 4 or 5 dogs were unaffected, the owner said they did not eat the kibble on (b) (6). The owners did not take the dogs to the vet as it was a weekend and they have been in the dog breeding business for many years. They were able to provide fluids via IV to the dogs that were bleeding and care for them at home with the advice of their vet. There has been no autopsy to evaluate the cause of death. The remaining bags of unopened kibble were returned to the store. The dog food fed to the dogs on (b) (6)is still on-hand. They noticed the box where it says, "Best if used by" is blank and does not have a date. The owners thought there was usually a date printed in that box, but could not be sure. The owners reached out to the dog food company on(b) (6) . Since the incident, they changed dog food brands. The complainant stated the company had a recalled product in November 2023 due to contamination. The complainant (attorney) gave me permission to share their contact information with the manufacturer. I asked for the breeder's contact information and the complainant said they would prefer to be the liaison of information unless communication is necessary.

189145	8/9/2024 1:01	Sensitive Skin Salmon & Rice Dry Dog Food	On 8/07/2024, a complainant reported an off appearance in Purina ProPlan Sensitive Skin Salmon & Rice Dry Dog Food. No illness or injury was reported. The product is packaged in a 40-pound paper bag, lined with a plastic inner bag. The complainant explained she has fed this food to her dogs for years and is familiar with its appearance. She purchased a bag in 5/2004 and noted the color was lighter and size of the kibble was smaller. Suspecting it was cat food, she contacted Nestle Purina and was told it was possible food from another batch hung up in the machine and was filled into the wrong bag. The complainant explained she didn't think this was the case, because she returned to the store and examined food in bags on the shelves by feeling it through the packaging, and it felt the same as the food she purchased. She was asked to send in a sample for evaluation and 3-months later, never received the firm's response with results. While waiting, she purchased an additional bag which appeared normal. When she purchased the next bag on 8/06, she found it to exhibit the same appearance as the first suspect bag. She discarded it and later, decided to call Nestle Purina again. They requested photographs, so she purchased a smaller bag, opened it, and furnished them the photographs. She recommended the recall the product because she still thought it was cat food. She provided me with the coding of the most recent bag. The complainant did not grant me permission to share her contact information.
188987	8/2/2024 1:00	Chicken and Rice Formula	On (b) (6) a consumer contacted (b) (6)-DO to report concerns with Purina 1 Chicken and Rice Formula Adult. The consumer reported purchasing product from Dollar General because they were out of the Gravy Train she normally eats. The consumer reported her 3 year old mix breed consumed the product one time on (b) (6) at 4 pm. A short time later dog began to vomit food. The consumer report dog did drink water but would vomit the water shortly after. The consumer reported that this was the last time her dog ate anything. The consumer reported taking dog to vet on (b) (6) at (b) (6) located at: (b) (6). Dog was given fluids and sent home. On (b) (6) the consumer took dog to (b) (6). The consumer reported she was made aware of Care Credit available so they paid for laboratory testing. 188869	7/25/2024 1:00	[No Product Name Provided]	The complainant states that their family, long-time customers of OC Raw, has recently faced serious issues with the company's raw dog food. They noted an odd smell in the beef product over the past few months, which initially led to minor digestive issues in their 13-year-old female pitbull. In (b) (6) while on vacation, their dog, who was boarded and fed OC Raw food, became seriously ill with diarrhea and vomiting, ultimately leading to her euthanasia on (b) (6) due to rapid decline. Following this incident, their other dogs also experienced severe gastrointestinal issues. They discovered the beef had an unusual texture, off-color, and rancid smell, prompting them to discard all the food, including chicken and turkey. Their research revealed a 2022 FDA warning letter and recalls since 2015 due to salmonella and listeria contamination. The complainant urges OC Raw to investigate and improve their food quality to prevent similar incidents. Despite their previous loyalty, they can no longer trust OC Raw products and request immediate action on quality and safety practices. The complainant believes the dog's food was a contributing factor to this illness.

188747	7/16/2024 1:26	Pork Femur Bones	On 7/12/24, the complainant reported first time purchasing this product. On 6/29/24, she gave the pet treats to her two dogs, a 10 yr old Boston terrier and a 3 yr old mix service animal. She reported within one hour, both dogs had symptoms of diarrhea, seizures and vomiting, that lasted a little over 24 hrs. She stated the product comes in a plastic bag contains two dog bones. When her dogs were chewing on the treats, the dog bones broke into small slivers and the dogs swallowed them, possibly causing the symptoms. The complainant called the vet, advised her to self-care and monitor the dogs at home. She stated the dogs did not eat any other dog treats or food and that they have been consuming their normal dog food, Just Food For Dogs brand, Organic Grain-Free Beef or Chicken products without issues. This is the only new food that was introduced in their diet. She reported this information to the retail store and the manufacturer but was not satisfied with their response.
188596	7/3/2024	Purina Pro Plan Salmon and Rice Sensitive Stomach	Complainant found beetle-like insects in Purina dog food about 25% remaining. Complainant purchased Purina ProPlan Salmon and Rice for sensitive stomach and skin about 6 weeks ago from Petco in (b) (6). She had noticed on 06/29/2024, that there were insects in the dog food, by then about 75% of it had been consumed. She immediately threw away the bag and started a new bag to feed her dog. She explained that she does not have carpet in her home and does not believe the bugs were from her home.

MW1240443	7/11/2024	Purina Dog Chow Complete Adult Lamb Flavor Dry Dog Food	I recently purchased Purina Dog Chow Complete Adult Lamb Flavor Dry Dog Food from the (b) (6) Tractor supply on May 19, 2024. The bags were kept unopened in an air tight container until use. My dog (b) (6) was already on the chicken flavor. Within 2 weeks of me switching her to this food, her stools became soft to the point they were completely liquid and she refused to even look at the food. She had no exposure to other animals, people, or chemicals. Just the food switch. When I took her off of it and put her on the food my other dog (b) (6) eats, her stool was back to normal within two days. Both on different foods for this exact reason. San was the only one that had eaten the lamb food. I gave some to my other dog (b) (6) and within 2 days she was having stomach issues from just having a small amount mixed into her food. I poured the food out of the bags and into black trash bags. The food at the bottom smells completely sour. I have since removed all Purina foods and bagged them in trash bags.
MW1242571	7/22/2024	Taste of the Wild Bison and Venison	I picked this bag of food up at Tractor Supply in (b) (6) last week and my dog started getting pretty sick soon after two servings (diarrhea and vomiting). I switched her to rice and chicken for a couple of days and didn't see any sick symptoms at that time didn't suspect the food because she's just ate the same brand and flavor previously. I gave her another serving of the Taste Of The Wild dog food last night and today we are back at her being sick. I've notified Tractor Supply but there's nothing they can really do other then advising me to contact the manufacturer; which I assumed would be the case however took a chance at reaching out to them as well. MW1243624	7/8/2024	Purina Pro Plan FortiFlora	I unknowingly purchased counterfeited Purina Pro Plan FortiFlora off Amazon. I did not check the sold by and shipped by options when I added it to my cart. I received the counterfeit product through third party sender on Amazon, 1S3 Enterprise LLC D.B.A .. 1S3STORE. The packaging was off, the product inside looks different than my previous purchases. Thankfully nothing happened to my dog but I have no idea what is in these packets and the adverse event that could happen to a different dog. I contaet 1S3Store to ask them what they gave me and they did not reply but issued me a refund. If you need it I have pictures of the product. I have an open case with Purina to investigate the product sent to me. They will be sending me a prepaid envelope to mail them the product I received to verify that it is counterfeit. A friend o f mine who works for the FDA Rachel Stanton directed me to this form to fill out and report the business that is distributing counterfeit products to consumers through Amazon.
MW1249710	8/20/2024	PetAg Puppy Milk Replacer	I purchased 3 cartons of Petag ready to feed puppy milk replacer from a local Walmart. I fed my puppies 2/3 of the carton and noticed chunks. Opened the second carton used about 1/2 and same thing chunks had settled in the bottom of the carton. 3rd bad as well. All 13 AKC English Mastiffs suffered from diarrhea, bleeding and death. A years income gone, from food poisoning.

1932a	9/19/2024	Golden Rewards Sweet Potato and Chicken Treats	Pet has always been a picky eater. O was reaching for a variety of treats to get her to eat. This was the only 'jerky' type treat and pet did develop Fanconi's syndrome. She is young and we do not have any prior labs so unsure if it is secondary to the treat or incidental. We were unable to find any other cause for the Fanconi's unless genetic.
MW1259102	9/27/2024	Beneful	My 2 dogs ate beneful dry food by Purina. They both became ill and had to be brought to their veterinarian after periods of vomiting . They both needed fluids and nausea medication. I notified Purina's claims department and they responded they were not liable. If my dogs were older or already had health issues this could have been much worse. I would like this investigated before someone loses their dog because of this.
