CAUTION!

Check for these signs that a prescription drug may be unsafe, ineffective, or fake:

- The label is not in English.
- The packaging looks slightly different from the FDA-approved product.
- The product name differs from the name of the FDA-approved drug.
- The dosing recommendations are unfamiliar.
- Safety information or warnings are missing.
- The dosage form or administration is different.

For more information: www.fda.gov/KnowYourSource