Docket No. 00N-1396 & Docket No. 00D-1598.

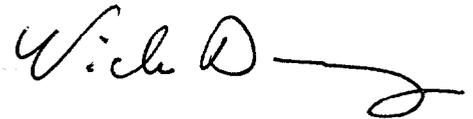

To Whom It May Concern:

Okay, please. Enough is enough. Most people in the United States want to know if their food contains genetically modified organisms, including the three people in my family.

Let the market decide. Do not skew the market by preventing consumers from making a free choice, based on full disclosure of what is done to our food. If Monsanto's business suffers, that's just tough. They are making money on a risky business that could affect the health of all Americans and end up with disastrous environmental results. No matter what the scientists say now about the safety of this process, it may not be what they say in twenty years. We all know that. Let's make them accountable.

Listen to the people of this country. We are saying we want products containing GMOs labeled!

Yours truly,

Vicki Dunaway
